PRES. GILES SPEEDS COUNCIL IN ACTION

President Giles steered the august City Council through one of the snappiest meetings in its history last night, well proving the claim of his friends that he would make an ideal presiding officer. There were no discordant notes at the Council last night on the issue of another city election and the business before the house was quickly despatched.

Mayor Donnell sent in no communications, although one was looked for in the fire underwriters' decision dealing with the threatened increase in insurance rates. The chief communication was from Engineer Emerson, whose figures showed that Spring pond is six feet below the high water mark and Suntaug a little over five feet below.

Once more the Council refused to be governed by the opinion of Chief Grady, who was quoted as being opposed to a Sunday license being granted at 48 Walnut st. Councillor Hogan favored granting the license, taking exceptions to the statement of the chief that the place in question was the worst place in the city. Further time was voted on the application.

On motion of Councillor Reed, Mayor Donnell was authorized to turn over the old court room to the use of the police.

Chairman Brown of the finance committee reported favorably on the supplementary budget submitted by the

PEABODY IN NEW DISTRICT

Re-districting of the Seventh Congressional District is slated in 1922, which if carried out according to the best laid plans of the astute leaders will make the new district overwhelmingly Republican. The plan as now under contemplation cuts off Lawrence and the Andovers from the present Seventh District and places the mill city and its bedroom towns in the so-called Merrimac River District, which will extend to Cape Ann.

Peabody will be included in the proposed new district which will take in Hamilton on the north shore, Beverly, Salem, Lynn, Swampscott, Marblehead, and Nahant. Such a re-districting will obviously become a strong Republican force.

The Seventh Congressional District was set apart in 1912 with a 10-year tenure which will expire in 1922.

It is said that Congressman Phelan whose domicile is in Lynn, where his father was one of the pioneer shoe manufacturers, is not at all perturbed over the report going the rounds of the county leaders.

Charles E. Smiley, one of the four candidates for trustee of the Peabody Institute, is being picked as one of the winners at the election. He is superintendent at the Densten Hair Co., is a member of several fraternal organizations and has a wide circle of friends who are boosting his candidacy.

Lynn Looking For Teachers

Lynn school officials were in Peabody yesterday, making an effort to hire Peabody grade teachers. The maximum salary paid the local grade teachers is $900, while in Lynn it is $1200. The school committee is a unit for making the pay here equal that in Lynn. Capt. Louis P. P. Osborne of the committee will make the increase of pay for teachers his chief campaign slogan for re-election. He declares Peabody must come to the relief of the teachers.

Many Gifts For Hospital

Donations literally poured in on the J. B. Thomas Hospital yesterday, the occasion being the annual gift day to the institution under the auspices of the Visiting Nurse Association. So generous was the response that both accident rooms were filled and the supplies had to be stored in the hall pending their being assorted. It was by far and large the most successful donation day ever experienced at the hospital.

The gifts numbered everything that

Searle Doped Coolidge Win By Over 100,000

William F. Searle, one of Essex County's best known newspapermen and the man who had much to do with putting across Mayor Donnell, the new district attorney-elect, "doped"

Governor Coolidge to win by at least 100,000. Documentary evidence to support this is in Washington in possession of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Some days prior to the historic election when the great majority of Bay State voters regardless of party went on record for law and order, Senator Lodge wired the Peabody man for information as to Coolidge's chances of beating by 50,000. Mr. Searle sent back word that the Governor would be re-elected by at least 100,000.

Salem Normal Girls of '86 In Happy Reunion

On Saturday, Nov. 8, there was an annual gathering in Boston of Salem Normal School "girls," known as "The Class of '86."

Last year, owing to the epidemic, the meeting was omitted. This year there was a record attendance of 34 members, including a few guests.

Luncheon was served at the Women's City Club of Boston, arrangements having been made by a member of the class, who is also a member of the club.

Some of the members had not met for 30 years and while the years have made many changes, yet the pleasing feature was the avidity with which each called the other by her maiden name, if married, although the idea seemed to be common that the married name didn't count, if only the plain "Mary Brown" of school days, called off the tip of the tongue.

As each member responded to the roll call, modesty was quite apparent, more than one having to be prodded by her friends to tell of some incident that was considered to be worth while to all present. To those not present will go forth a letter telling the things that will be of most interest to the absentees.

One member's perplexity is in trying to divide one pound of sugar among 100 customers. She runs a grocery store.

Some are still teaching and all such who have not had wealth thrust upon them are solving the same problems of trying to make both ends meet.

It was very noticeable that those who have acquired wealth are the married ones, who have had, as husbands, successful business men.

One of the pleasing features about these gatherings is the total lack of snobbishness on the part of the ladies upon whom the God of Prosperity has indeed smiled.

A sad feature of the meeting which may be of interest to some who know the family of the late Dr. Elliot was the report of the death of Miss Blanche Elliott at Seattle, where she made her home. Upon her death her sister, Susie, endowed a bed in a hospital there to her sister's memory.

These annual gatherings are due to the enthusiasm of the live wire of the class, Mrs. Mabel Bennett Davis, now of Roslindale, Mass., and it is of more than passing moment to note what can be done in bringing together year by year members of the Normal School who separated a little over 30 years ago, only to make a record in 1919, through the leadership of one woman bound to hold the class together. Her words, "This is wonderful!" made everyone doubly pleased to be present.

The cities and towns represented were Boston, Cambridge, Arlington, Winchester, West Roxbury, Roslindale, Somerville, Lowell, Nahant, No. Easton, Manchester-by-the-Sea, Andover, Gloucester, Provincetown, a Maine city and Peabody. The latter city was represented by Mrs. Clara Munroe and Miss Ida B. Farnum. A former Peabody girl, Miss Henrietta Winchester, now of North Easton, was likewise present.

An opportunity to follow the Enterprise's slogan to "Boost Peabody" was not allowed to lag.

'HOME RUN KING' BECOMES PARTNER OF UNCLE SAM

Popular Red Sox Star Presented With Six $100 Treasury Savings Certificates

BABE RUTH, "THE HOME RUN KING," IS PRESENTED WITH SIX HUNDRED DOLLAR TREASURY SAVINGS CERTIFICATES—THE WOMAN IS RUTH'S WIFE—YES, HE TURNED THEM OVER TO HER.

Babe Ruth, the home run king, and the hardest hitting baseball player in the game today, became a stock holder in the United States Government recently, when, in the presence of thousands of admiring fans he was presented with six $100 United States Treasury Savings Certificates.

Babe Picks Winners.

The presentation was made the last game of the season in Boston between the Chicago White Sox and the Boston Red Sox.

A special "Babe Ruth Day" was held at Fenway Park and the certificates were presented between the games of a double header. They were the gift of the Pere Marquette Council, Knights of Columbus, South Boston.

In becoming a stock holder in the United States Government, Babe Ruth becomes a brother stock holder with Jack Dempsey, the pugilistic champion who recently invested $1000 in these securities. The cash value of the six Treasury Savings Certificates when presented to Babe Ruth was $504. In 1924 at maturity they will be worth $600.

Babe Ruth is a strong believer in investing his money in safe securities such as Treasury Savings Certificates and War Savings Stamps. He has no leanings toward the "get-rich-quick" schemes, and salve oily-tongued peddlers of securities of doubtful value.

PING WONG WINS PERSHING MEDAL.

Little Miss Ping Wong of Columbus, Ohio, does not wear the trousseau of the native Chinese girl's costume, but none of her trousseaued school competitors in the sale of War Savings Stamps was able to surpass her in business acumen and perseverance.

Miss Ping, who is 13 years old and daughter of a wealthy Chinese merchant has been awarded a "General Pershing" medal for having sold more than $25,000 in War Savings Stamps this year. Miss Ping explained that she had sold War Savings Stamps because her father had told her she must do her very best for America because this country had given him a home, comfort and prosperity.

THRIFT AND SUCCESS

Views of Famous Men

Some of our greatest industrial organizations have learned their A-B-C's in waste elimination and have found themselves well repaid. The time is coming when every man will lay claim to business ability will keep the question of waste before him constantly.

"Waste is worse than loss. The time is coming when every person who lays claim to ability will keep the question of waste before him constantly. The scope of Thrift is limitless."—Thomas A. Edison.

BEE WISE

BURNING MONEY By Walt Mason

Life is gay and blithe and sunny since the peace dove hit the breeze; everyone is burning money just as though it grew on trees. I insist on thrift and savings, but there's none to heed my words: johnnies say that I am raving; and throw money to the birds. Men are drawing princely wages and their breasts are filled with mirth, and they jeer foreboding sages who predict a day of dearth; but that day will come as surely as tomorrow's sun will rise; things will then be going poorly with the giddy spending guys. Things won't boom along forever as they're booming now, my friends; and the man who's truly clever saves as ably as he spends. It is patent to the knowing in expensive times like these, that the kopecks won't be growing always on the shrubs and trees. There will come a day of trouble, when this boom is left behind, and the kopeck and the rouble will be mighty hard to find; happy then the lads whose wages have been safely placed in brine, who obeyed the seers and sages, when the saving graft was fine. And how sick will be the mortals who like spendthrifts now behave, who reply with jeers and chortles when we call on them to save.

PRIZES FOR BEST DRESSED WINDOW

The merchants' committee, which has charge of the arrangements for the window display contest which will be held December 13, held a very interesting meeting in the Chamber of Commerce offices Thursday afternoon and decided to offer cash prizes of $15 for the most attractive window; second prize, $10, and third prize, $5.

In addition to the above mentioned prizes a tournament prize of some suitable cup or shield will be given and the winner of this prize must first win first prize two successive years in order to retain ownership. It was agreed that no professional window trimmers be employed for this contest and that all displays be made by the persons now doing the window decorating for the store they represent.

Leather Men View Exhibit

The French leather loaned to the local Chamber by the Tanners' Council has been put on display in the Chamber windows and is creating considerable interest among the local manufacturers, as comparisons are being made of the quality of leather turned out by the French tanners.

The annual meeting of the Mass. State Chamber will be held Friday, Nov. 21, at the Vendome Hotel in Boston. The local Chamber will be represented by the following delegates: W. A. Shea, George E. Hayes, Harry Whidden, President Woods and the secretary.

The Chamber is entering a protest to the American Railway Express Co. against their putting in effect rule No. 20 to official classification No. 26, supplement No. 5, which provides that all shipments weighing 25 pounds or more must be boxed either in wooden, fibre board, corrugated board, pulp board boxes of a certified strength. This ruling is of vital importance to every shipper of leather and the Chamber urges all manufacturers to enter their protests to the American Railway Express Co. of New York. While this question was practically closed, the local Chamber has been successful in having it reopened, and it is now being reconsidered as to allowing leather to be shipped in bundles as heretofore.

GRANGE NOTES.

At the next meeting of Peabody Grange, Thursday, Nov. 20, the election of officers will take place, followed by an entertainment.

The ladies' degree team visited Marblehead grange last evening and worked the third degree on several candidates. The work was very nicely done. Tableaux were used to illustrate the lessons of the degree, and were in charge of Mr. Albert Balnaves.

Lucky Months.

According to Dr. Marcello Boldini, one of Italy's greatest scientists, men born between January 1 and March 31 are stronger, taller and superior in intelligence to those whose birthdays fall in other months. This view is borne out by the researches of another Italian scientist, Deola Rovere.

MAYOR SAYS CITIES TO BE GROUPED IN TWO CLASSES

Mayor Donnell in his recent speeches in Newburyport and Gloucester recommended Peabody's plan B charter as the best form of government. In part he said:

"With the salaries and wages of city employees amounting to thousands of dollars per year in an endeavor to keep pace with the remuneration of people in private employ and with the tremendous increase in the cost of material of every kind, the problem of municipal government has reached a crisis and demands that every municipality be conducted in the most efficient manner possible and strictly upon a business basis.

"Within five years the cities of this Commonwealth will be divided in two classes, one group comprising those cities which through an efficient administration are able to prevent the raising of the tax rate to such a point that the city will expand and grow through building operations and will be able to attract outside capital, and the other group comprising those cities, which through inefficient administration of business affairs year after year stagger under the load of exorbitant tax rate which if long continued spells stagnation and slow death for any city.

"Any city that is to maintain its place in group 1 must have the aid of the most efficient instrumentalities for government itself yet devised, and must abolish at once old fashioned charters if one it has.

"Speaking plainly, in my opinion Newburyport must at once divest itself of the cumbersome form of charter under which it is now operating.

Plan B is the most advanced type of city charter yet devised in the Eastern States. It places the executive power absolutely in the hands of the Mayor and grants to the City Council only the right to pass the laws and ordinances."

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Compound meters which register every bit of water that flows into the factory connection are being installed in a number of the local factories. These meters pay for themselves in a short time and incidentally help the consumer to cut off all waste. City Engineer Emerson is proving to the large consumers that the installation of the compound meter is good business.

Councillor Cotton does not believe the millennium has yet arrived to govern political strategy and in answer to an amusing suggestion by a candidate in Ward 3 he declared he saw no reason to depart from methods of a twice victorious campaign. Every now and then a freak vote helps, but boy mayors are the exception.

Councillor Sullivan has let it be known that he was convinced the Allis-Chalmers pump was purchased some time ago and that there was a lot of camouflage about the mayor's request for speedy action looking to the purchase of the new pump. He uses rather harsh language in defining his attitude and insinuations.

Peabody is lucky and the word should be spelled in capital letters, which it comes to fire for the low water pressure would prove a serious handicap in case of a bad blaze. The wisdom of another pipe line from the reservoir, as proposed along Cedar Grove cemetery entrance, is likely to see action.

Councillor Hogan was said not to be so much opposed to the Allis-Chalmers pump as he was in favor of an electrical driven instrument.

There has been a story going the rounds that the threat of the fire underwriters to boost rates in Peabody was merely to get quick action by the city in purchasing a pump. There was no foundation for the yarn, however, and local insurance agents are the authority for the statement that the threatened rates were hinted in good faith.

Among the list of candidates for the City Council in Lynn is Albert A. Hartshorn, former resident of Overlea, who is running at large. He was put forth as a candidate for selection in Peabody back in 1910 and polled 302 votes. He is said to have a banking for politics.

Councillor John J. Joyce of Lynn, who is a summer resident of West Peabody, is stepping down from office in City Hall. He failed to heed the requests of his friends this year and become a candidate for mayor. But keep your eyes on Joyce in 1921.

Councillors Hogan and Duggan staged a verbal tilt at the close of the special meeting last Thursday night that attracted quite a bit of attention.

Report had it last week that the nomination papers filed by a candidate for the council were to be protested on the ground that they lacked one signature. No action was taken and the candidate went on the primary ballot. He got less than 20 votes and now the contest in Ward 3 will be interesting.

John J. Gallagher, trustee of the Peabody Institute, on which board he serves as treasurer, did not decide to go before the voters again this coming election, believing that there were other men who would like to essay the contest at the polls. Some of his colleagues on the board and other friends decided they would get his name on the ballot for the city election.

"But, good as was the old-fashioned kind," remarked our hostess "it was so extremely rich that the heavy taste lingered long after eating."

"Well," said Betsy, "there's nothing like that about the shortbread we have at our house—Lorna Doone Biscuit."

"I was talking to mother about them only the other day," remarked Betsy. "She told me that it was so long ago when the kitchen says that Lorna Doone got a chance to all the appetizing and really fashionable."

Peabody is facing the disgrace of having fallen down on the campaign for membership in the Red Cross. With the canvass officially concluded Tuesday, but extended until tomorrow, there is room for reflection and grave concern as to the outcome of the drive in this city. The show of disregard for the wonderful and important relief work the society does is one of the astounding features of the local canvass, perhaps not alone true in this city. The war is over, yes, but the work of this society in aid of mankind must go on to a greater degree than ever before, and the dollar asked is small aid indeed from any person. Peabody cannot afford to fail in this drive, but fail we will unless every man and woman takes home the lesson of the great relief work the dollars help the society to perform. If you haven't already joined, do so today by going to the Warren National Bank and getting your 1920 button. Don't put it off. Do it now!

OUR HONOR VETS

What is the city doing to welcome home the Peabody war veterans of the famous First and Second Divisions, the two divisions that went far to win the war? Nearly 100 of these brave men, some of whom have brought home war decorations, are numbered in the two first divisions, and all of them have arrived home since last June, the time of the monster welcome home given to veterans then back from service.

There has been talk that the city would pay tribute to these men at a special banquet. It would seem high time that the men who represented Peabody in the thickest of the war—over there should be paid as good a tribute as was given to the veterans who arrived home earlier this year. These surely is excellent reason why these First and Second Division heroes should be specially honored.

TIME TO QUIT?

If the "High Cost of Living" is ever to be brought back to earth it cannot be accomplished by the means that radical organized labor is using today. This perpetual chase of wages after prices and prices after wages only adds to the burden of the big middle class, who, unorganized, are caught between the devil and the deep sea, and also gets nowhere for anybody else. The time for walkouts and strikes for more wages is over until themselves. What is the remedy conditions have a chance to adjust then for these inflated prices? The answer is one of simple economics—more production. If a workman has been producing 50 pairs of shoes for $25.00, and instead of asking for $30.00 for the same amount of work will instead endeavor to produce 60 or more pairs for the old rate, he will have done more to make both ends meet than if he had won his extra money in wages. For the more goods that are made per dollar of cost, the cheaper they can be sold, and the high price bugaboo is beaten. All must cooperate in meeting this issue, if the prosperity and commercial standing of the country is to be maintained. Over in defeated Germany workmen are working eight hours for themselves and three for the government. That is, three hours of the eleven they are not accepting wages for their labor. What does this mean? It means that German goods are low priced and will be put on the market to compete with goods of American manufacture made under opposite conditions. If everyone would look ahead and see the folly of continuing to attempt to catch up by rising prices by raising them still higher, and bend their efforts to bringing down prices by producing more, it would not be long before the old H. C. L. would be a thing of the past.

G. O. P. THANKS ENTERPRISE.

Nov. 10, 1919.

Frank W. Penniman,
Peabody Enterprise,
Peabody, Mass.

Dear Sir—I desire to express, on behalf of myself and the State Committee, our sincere thanks for the kind way you treated the candidacy of Governor Coolidge during the campaign, both editorially and in the news columns.

I know of but three daily newspapers and very few weeklies that did not openly take a stand on the side of law and order. From time to time our publicity man, T. P. Harrison, sent matter for use in the paper and he tells me that clippings coming in from all over Massachusetts show that it was printed extensively and was of great benefit to the party.

Great is the power of the press.

Sincerely

FRANK B. HALL,
Chairman.

ROUND ABOUT

Joseph P. Tomassano, road builder and contractor, who has made many friends in Peabody, is planning to visit Havana, Cuba, early in the coming year. He will go with two well known contractors of Boston, the trio being accompanied by their wives. They plan a several weeks visit in the Antilles at a time when the city across the big gulf is in its carnival season.

Unmistakable signs of water from Brown's pond being drained are found on the shores of the South Peabody pond, so I observed one day this week in passing. Despite the rainfall, the pond which should be well up to the top mark is showing signs of shallowness along the shores.

I observe that the American Glue Co. has completed the work of razing the old glue sheds at the corner of Allen's lane and Washington st. This corporation has spent thousands of dollars to improve its property on Washington st. and the razing of the above mentioned building will make room for growth.

I have heard many compliments expressed for the yeoman work done for the Red Cross drive by Archibald A. MacKinnon, captain of Ward 6 team. Not only did he supervise the work in his home ward, but took his team through part of Ward 6, Lowell street, on the holiday and found many homes which had not been canvassed. Mr. MacKinnon has proved his mettle in every one of the war drives and has always been a leader in results. The local branch owes him a debt of gratitude.

The fame of Peabody is known down in Norfolk, Va., where up to some days ago a large quantity of Pocahontas coal consigned to the City of Peabody was tied up at the docks. When the supply seemed seeping at the pumping station, Mayor Donnell and city engineer Emerson took up the matter with the government officials and dictators with the result that the embargo was lifted and the coal started on its pilgrimage northward. Five tons are needed every day at the pumping station.

Gen. Francis H. Appleton has closed his summer home at Proctor's Crossing and is back at his Back Bay residence for the winter, eagerly looking forward to his return in the spring. He expects to cast his vote at the city election.

I observe that Dr. J. W. P. Murphy has been elevated to the rank of grand knight of Leo Council, K. of C., of this city. His selection adds another strong official to head this rapidly growing organization and under his direction it is safe to remark that the order will maintain its prosperity. Dr. Murphy has made many friends in Peabody since he came here only a few years ago, and these will wish him success in his latest honors.

Harry Knight, well known citizen of Peabody, has been entertaining his sister, Mrs. William Miller of Nova Scotia, the occasion being a reunion of the two for the first time since they were children. Another brother is Walter Knight of Lynnfield st.

The three, when children, saw their home broken up on the tragic death of their father, who was killed on the railroad. Their mother had died before and the brothers and sister became separated, the sister being sent to Nova Scotia. Nothing was ever heard from her until quite recently when, acting on a clue, Harry got in touch with the sister, who came to Peabody to greet her two brothers. She returned to her home in the Provinces last week after a three weeks' visit here at the home of her brother on Lynn st.

Measuring Rainfall.

The quantity of rain which falls is measured by rain-gauges or pluviometers, which are variously constructed. One of the best is that known as Symon's rain-gauge, consisting of a funnel-shaped receiving vessel to catch the rain, and a glass measure of much smaller diameter to measure it. To simplify calculation, the internal area of the measure is usually one tenth that of the mouth of the funnel.

Didn't Seem Funny to Him.

Little Augusta had never seen a bald-headed man closely until one day a friend of the family came to dinner. When we were all seated at the table Augusta looked very intently at his bald head for several minutes, then whispered in mother's ear: "Mother, hasn't Mr. Reid funny, shiny, pink hair?"—Exchange.

AT WHAT POINT DOES HOPE DIE?

Terrible Experiences of Jews in Europe Raises Question of Limit of Human Endurance.

SUFFERING IS UNSURPASSED.

There is a Tenacious Clinging to Life and Faithful Observance of All Religious Dictates.

By NEAL McNEAL.

Has human endurance any limit? At just what level of poverty, suffering, hunger and disease does the last flicker of hope fade out in the human breast and merciful Death bring welcome oblivion?

Certain it is that human beings have in the past survived days, weeks, even months, of unbelievable physical torture and mental anguish and, surviving, have returned again to normal. It is equally certain that all previous records of what human beings can endure and yet live have been broken by the experiences of the 6,000,000 Jewish men, women and children in Eastern Europe during the four years just past.

Now that relief workers have penetrated into the affected portions of the Old World, the full story of European Jewry's four years of horror is coming to light. The majority of the Jews abroad, according to reports now in the possession of the American Jewish Relief Committee, have lost their homes, their possessions, their health, one or more members of their families—have been bereft, in fact, of everything that makes life worth the living. In hundreds of thousands of cases these unfortunates are so debilitated by their endless misery that they have all but lost the desire for life itself. The Jewish population of whole districts has not known a full meal in years, while there are almost 1,000,000 children alone who have either forgotten or have never known what milk tastes like. As a result all the diseases attendant upon starvation and lowered vitality are raging.

"It is difficult to believe," writes Dr. Boris D. Bogen, executive director of Jewish relief work in Poland, "that humanity can endure suffering to such an extent as is found here. The situation is so depressing that I think it miraculous people still continue to live. The number of homeless children seen on the streets is appalling."

"The amount of food is very limited, and, practically speaking, none is to be bought in the open market. It is remarkable that the people still continue their schools for educating the children according to ancient Jewish custom, and in this respect do not lose heart."

The above is typical of the accounts of the plight of the Jews in Europe that are received at the American Jewish Relief Committee headquarters at 15 East Fortieth street, New York.

These reports furnish the answer to the question as to how much human beings can suffer and still live. The present condition of the Jewish people abroad, according to all the information available, is the last word in human suffering and the utter limit of human endurance.

RELIEF WORK MUST GO ON, SAYS HOOVER

Head of American Relief Administration in Interview Endorses Efforts of Private Agencies.

New York.—Private charitable and relief organizations must now take over the work of feeding and succoring the poor of Eastern Europe, which was formerly done by the American Relief Administration, Herbert Hoover asserted in Paris just before his return to this country, according to a dispatch from the New York Times' foreign correspondent. Outside help is imperative, he stated, especially in feeding and clothing the 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 children in Europe whose health and strength are being dangerously undermined by long malnutrition.

The work of feeding these children Mr. Hoover considers the most important single thing yet to be done. Of the total number of children affected about 1,000,000 are Jewish. Of this number at least 100,000 are orphans, according to information in the hands of the American Jewish Relief Committee, and most of these youngsters have no home save the streets of Polish cities. A late report from Dr. Boris Bogen, executive director for the Joint Distribution Committee of Jewish relief funds in Poland, states that 375,000 Jewish children in that country are now being fed daily by his agency. Careful estimates based on a partial census show that more than twice this number of Jewish children must be cared for. It is for purposes of expanding this work to care for all these needy youngsters that the American Jewish Relief Committee is seeking a fund of $35,000,000 this year.

Without widespread and adequate help from charitable and relief organizations, according to Mr. Hoover's information, literally tens of thousands of these lads and lassies will not survive the coming winter.

ONE-PIECE STREET DRESS

One of those "all-day dresses" which, by way of variety, take the place of a suit in autumn and are worn under a long coat in winter, is shown here. It is made of checked wool goods and many small round buttons, covered with this material, appear on the body and skirt.

GRACEFUL TAILORED SUIT

If you aspire to look slender, select a suit with a coat that has artful lines and long, narrow panels at the back, like this one. Its cuffs, collar and pants are bound with silk braid and it is a marvel of fine tailoring.

Pathetic Query.

The nurse had been entertaining her patient by singing some of his favorite songs to him. There was one song in particular that the little boy liked much, and he never failed to ask his nurse to sing it to him every time she came into the room. She had already sung it a dozen times or more that morning, when on coming into the room after a few minutes' absence she heard a little voice from the other end of the room: "Say, nurse, do you think you have enough tone left to sing that song again?"

WELLS AND MANNING ARE SLATED FOR GOOD BERTHS

DIST. ATTY. WELLS

ASST. DIST. ATTY. MANNING

District Attorney Wells, who was defeated for re-election by Mayor Donnell, is slated for an appointment to one of the new consolidated boards at the State House. Which one of the new commissions is not known, but the report which comes from a reliable source has the Haverhill man already picked for a worth while berth.

Post-election reports also hint that an appointment is coming to Assistant District Attorney Daniel C. Manning, who has been a bulwark of strength in the office for the last three years. This report has it that he is slated to be given a judgeship not far from Peabody, this being contingent upon the appointment of Judge Benjamin G. Hall to a higher judgeship in Essex County.

The report going the rounds makes it certain that a vacancy may occur in a judicial office by appointment of a prominent Essex County man to a State commission which fact, accomplished, will leave the vacancy open for the appointment for Judge Hall. Inference has it that the presiding judgeship of the Peabody District Court is to fall on the shoulders of Asst. District Atty. Manning. No one whose name is being used in the report appears to be talking and the only hint given out is to wait and see what the Governor has to say in the near future concerning plans for Essex County officials.

MOOSE LODGE WELCOME FOR VETERANS that have proved their mettle in every past affair held under the auspices of the lodge.

Plans for this welcome night have been under way for months and particular attention has been paid to the small details which go in large part to make any similar entertainment a success. Nothing has been left undone that should have been perfected for the big night, and the boys who stood ready to sacrifice their lives if need be will find a welcome home they will not soon forget.

Wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts of the fighting men and lodge members will be present at the banquet and will pay homage to the veterans. The sale of tickets for the event has been unusually large, showing the interest that centres in the affair.

The personnel of the officers of the Moose Lodge is as follows: Past Dictator John F. Young, Dictator Patrick
T. Langan, Vice Dictator Patrick H.
McDonald, Prelate William F. Robinson, Secretary A. E. Durkee and treasurer John H. Thomas.

The lodge has a membership today of nearly 400 with new members being added at every meeting. The Mooseheart Legion which comprises the wives, mothers and sisters of the Moose Lodge members, has been a large factor in the upbuilding of the lodge.

"3 WISE FOOLS" IS CLEVER SHOW

Boston has endorsed the verdict of New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit in proclaiming "Three Wise Fools" the best comedy of the year.
Monday night at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, a capacity audience attested to the reputation which preceded the offering, and nothing but the highest commendation greeted the play and players.

"Three Wise Fools" by Austin Strong, which John Golden presents at the Tremont Theatre for a limited engagement, is a play with a thrill. The three wise fools are three old cronies who live together in a fashionable house in Washington square, New York, once the residential section of Gotham's most exclusive set.
These three old chaps, one a retired financier, one a physician and one a lawyer, live by rote. They have a regular time and a routine way for doing everything; they drink a glass of hot milk at a stipulated hour each night; they eat an apple at a certain minute each evening; they play solitaire at a regular time each day, and they have certain dishes served at each meal during each day of week. They simply live in the past, holding sacred the memory of one girl who was wooed and lost by each when they were lads.

The arrival of a young ward, bequeathed them by a dying mother, their old sweetheart, completely revolutionizes their mode of living and transforms their lives.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE STATUE OF LIBERTY.

THE colossal statue of Liberty enlightening the world, the gift of the people of France to the people of the United States, in commemoration of the centennial of their national independence, stands on Bedloe's or Liberty Island in New York harbor and was dedicated October 28, 1886. It has welcomed millions of people to our shores, and it bade farewell to our brave soldier boys when they sailed away to save the land from whence it came.

This statue is of bronze, 151 feet high, and rests upon a stone pedestal, approximately 100 feet high, making the total height of the entire structure over 200 feet above the waters of New York bay. Its estimated weight is 225 tons and the cost, including erection, was about $600,000.

The index finger of this gigantic figure is 8 feet long and 7½ feet in circumference at the second joint;
the head is ten feet thick; the nose 4½ feet long and the mouth 3½ feet wide. Forty persons can stand in the head and the torch will accommodate 12 more. There are 154 steps in the statue from the pedestal to the head, and the ladder in the raised right arm contains 54 rounds. The light in the torch is maintained by the United States lighthouse service and is visible for many miles at sea.

The view that meets the eye from the top is one of the most marvelous in all the world.

South Peabody

Last Tuesday morning, Nov. 11, So.
Peabody was awakened very early by some youthful patriots who called on the janitor of the Second Congregational Church to sound the bell. At the first stroke every boy was at the rope. Wright Gregson, who always responds to each and every call so splendidly, was quickly on the scene with his cornet and played the Star Spangled Banner and other beautiful selections, which sent a deep thrill of patriotism to each and every heart.
He also did this one year ago. He then led this young procession of boys and girls through all our streets, each with a bell, drum or pan, but the beautiful strains of the cornet was distinctly heard above them all.

Peabody Witnessing Its Banner Production In All Leather Factories

(By Energy.)

After listening to Everit B. Terhune of Swampscott at the Peabody club last Saturday evening on conditions in Europe last winter or after the armistice was signed, I have come to the conclusion we are well off in America. I presume that conditions are better now than a year ago, but if 500,000 people are to starve or be frozen to death this winter, they are certainly not rosy. We who kick at not having plenty of sugar, paying high prices for the necessities of life, including shoes, are getting away cheap compared with our European neighbors. Mr. Terhune will visit Europe again in a short time. He will travel in eastern Europe and Russia, seeking conditions in that war-stricken territory. His business is on the leather end, and he will no doubt bring back valuable information for the tanners and shoe manufacturers. Naturally we are interested in the leather business in Europe.

We wish to get a large share of that business in shoes and leather, but Germany must be dealt with. They will soon send their stocks into every country in Europe, and America will have German merchandise to reckon with. During the war, everything German was tabooed. But when their manufacturers are offered us for less money than we can produce them, it is fair to presume they will be purchased, for lower prices of all commodities will be welcomed by everybody, no matter where they come from. So at a period facing us in the near future, competition will serve to knock down prices, as it always has in the past. They tell us these people elect to work 10 hours daily, and when one stops to consider their condition, and reason out the situation, it is logical that by thrift their troubles will be eliminated. The whole secret today is production. Everybody must produce, and one of the representatives of J. P. Morgan Company tells us, if every person in this country would save 20 cents daily, a mere $4,000,000,000 would be the outcome in a year. Belgium will need but one-half of that sum to replace property destroyed in the war. Food for thought.

Production in the leather trade has been little hampered. Strikes have been settled without seriously stopping the machinery. The employees have enjoyed a period of prosperity never dreamed of in the past. During the war Peabody produced their quota of war supplies, and today they are sending into the markets of the world leather to help tide over the shortage. I say shortage for the demand is far greater than can be supplied. By giving the buyers enough to keep them in line, it has been possible to keep them going, so to speak. I have often wondered what will happen when Germany gets her leather in these markets? That time is fast approaching, no matter what others will tell you about our supremacy. We must not make the fatal mistake of thinking that we have foreign trade bottled up. The war has placed us tion and so wrote in his name at the primary. Mr. Gannagher has proven a most capable trustee and as treasurer has given a most efficient administration, and there is excellent reasons why he should be re-elected. As a former member of the town finance committee, Mr. Gannagher demonstrated his ability to deal with affairs municipal. Those who know him can vouch for his being one of the best read men in the city and in all of his tenure of office has never failed to keep abreast of the times. Peabody has produced few writers who have possessed a more versatile pen than trustee Gannagher, whose editorials in the A. C. L. magazine show now well he follows the world events. Mr. Gannagher's presence on the Board of Trustees of the local library is a thing to be desired and his re-election is already anticipated.

The primary vote given to Arthur Lynn in Ward 4 does not surprise his friends, who predict that he will succeed Councilor Hogan, who has held the office three years. Mr. Hogan, however, is still in the fight and from this on will conduct a relentless campaign to hold his seat.

In Ward 3, where Councilor Cotton has been spokesman for that district, another hard fought battle will be staged in the few weeks that cover the interim to the election on Dec. 2. The fact that Egan nosed out Cotton by one vote shows that this ward is apt to witness another heart-breaking contest. Mr. Egan was one of the stalwart campaigners for Charles P. Cooney in both of the latter's great fights to defeat Cotton.

Supt. Fred Wyman of the highway department is probably the first man on the city payroll to receive a 1919 gift from Santa Claus. It comes to him in the shape of an insurance policy protecting him against automobile accident. His car got a bad bump this week that would have cost him a couple weeks' pay, but as luck would have it he took out his policy only last week through Wm. F. Carlin's agency, and of course the bill is paid for him.

Propos of the councilor fight much interest centres in the reported plot to change the complexion of the council next year. It is said that forces unfriendly to President Giles are working behind closed doors.

Action looking to the laying of another pipe line from the pumping station to Lynn st. must be taken inside of 30 days to comply with the mandate of the fire underwriters. With this voted by the council, Peabody is not likely to see any increase in insurance rates.

SEES OLD WORLD JEWRY IN PERIL

Dr. Cyrus Adler, Jewish Representative at the Peace Conference, Reviews Eastern European Situation.

ECONOMIC RUIN COMPLETE.

Food, Clothing, Medicines and Other of Life's Necessities Must Be Provided by America at Once.

New York.—"The Jews who lived in the zone of war suffered greater hardships, sustained greater losses and have been left in a worse economic condition than any other people of Europe with the possible exception of the Armenians. In some of the regions where the Jews live as many as five armies marched through, each bearing away with it such property as it desired or needed; and finally the Bolsheviks in their wave of power completed the economic ruin of the Jews."

That is the Jewish situation abroad, as seen by Dr. Cyrus Adler, of Philadelphia, one of the most prominent Jewish educators in the country, who was in Europe as a member of the American Jewish delegation to the Peace Conference. He believes that there must be a great deal of economic rehabilitation among his people before they can begin to enjoy the new rights of religious, political and legal equality won for them at Versailles.

"East European Jewry will soon be in a position to help itself, due to the results of the Peace Conference," states Dr. Adler, "but in the critical period that it is passing through now as a result of the European economic and political upheaval, it must receive aid from this country. Food, clothing, medicines—these are the fundamental needs that come before anything else."

"Food must be hurried to the European Jews. I have seen bread that these people were eating, when they could get it, that looked more like a dung cake than like food. It was composed of ten per cent rye, ten per cent wheat and 80 per cent tree bark for filler."

"Another great need is for the facilitating of individual remittances. In many regions no communications have been possible for five years and fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters have lost all track of their relatives in this country."

"In view of all this situation, the coming Jewish relief campaign is a movement that is worthy of every dollar's worth of support that America can give to it. Withholding of aid by America will spell certain disaster to millions of Jewish men, women and children in Eastern Europe."

DWELL UNDERGROUND IN BREST-LITOVSK

Jewish Relief Worker Finds His People Living in Holes in Polish Town.

New York.—Typical of the condition of Jewish communities throughout Poland and adjacent countries is the story of Brest-Litovsk, as recounted by Dr. Boris D. Bogen, executive director of Jewish relief work in Poland, in a report received recently at the headquarters of the American Jewish Relief Committee, 15 East Fortieth street, here.

The population of the town where a couple of years ago the Germans tried to dictate a "peace of violence" to the Russians is now reduced to about 25,000. Of this number 18,000 are Jews, writes Dr. Bogen. So complete was the war time destruction of the town that most of the people are forced to live in mere holes in the ground. There is a semblance of a hospital without windows, doors or means of heating, but so prevalent are typhus, tuberculosis and other diseases brought on by malnutrition that this institution, like all other Jewish hospitals in eastern Europe, is overwhelmed.

"The Jews of America," writes Dr. Bogen, "must take immediate steps to provide for the housing, clothing and feeding of the thousands of destitute Jews in eastern Europe. It will require considerable additional funds to re-equip the hospitals, old folks' homes and orphanages that the Jews have maintained throughout Poland to care for their sick and poor, but these institutions must be gotten into shape for the coming severe winter."

"The people are in a terrible condition everywhere, and in great need of the very necessities. Homes throughout this region are entirely destroyed for the most part. Refugees who months or years ago were evacuated from the cities are now returning. There is practically no work for them, however, and they are in direst need."

To provide the funds for remedying these terrible conditions, the American Jewish Relief Committee, under the chairmanship of Louis Marshall and the directorship of Henry H. Rosenfeld, is now engaged in conducting a series of state campaigns throughout the Union. The total amount estimated as necessary to finance the essential relief work for another year is $35,000,000.

GREAT FIRE SCENE FEATURES VIVIAN MARTIN FILM TODAY

In a new Paramount-Artercraft picture starring delightful and lovable Vivian Martin, which will be shown at the Strand today and Saturday, a novel plot is presented. The picture is entitled "The Third Kiss," which is said to be an appropriate name, because it is upon a certain third kiss that the climax of the picture hinges.

Missy, the heroine of the picture, portrayed by Miss Martin, is an heiress, who is keeping that fact a secret from the persons among whom she lives and works. She is devoting her life to settlement work to atone in a measure for a sin of her uncle, through whose negligence several persons were burned to death in a factory fire.

She is shocked and astonished when Rupert Bawlf, a young married man with whom she has been co-operating in this work, makes a rash proposal to her, that they elope. Oliver Coyne, a friend of Rupert's, asks her to marry him, in order to save Rupert's good name. She makes this sacrifice, but there is no love in their union. One night Coyne impetuously kisses her twice. When she repulses him, he warns her that when he kisses her a third time that he will not let her leave him, as he loves her. And when he finally kisses her for the third time it is after he has heroically rescued her from a burning building. Harrison Ford plays opposite Miss Martin. The fire scene in this picture is considered one of the most realistic ever screened. William Duncan in the popular serial "Smashing Barriers" and a funny Fox-Sunshine comedy, entitled "His Naughty Wife," will be the other attractions for today.

Madge Kennedy in the Goldwyn picture "Daughter of Mine" will be the feature attraction for Sunday evening. Zena Keefe, of stage fame, will be presented in a snappy little comedy drama entitled "An Amateur Widow," as the second photoplay feature. Mr. Chet Potter in a new program of cylophone solos will also be presented in addition.

Arlita Stewart in her seven-act special "Mary Regan" will be the big attraction the Strand will offer on Monday and Tuesday. "Mary Regan" is adapted from Leroy Scott's sensational novel of big business and big pleasure in New York. This production has been produced in the same lavish manner which marked "Virtuous Wives" and "A Midnight Romanet," the first two of Miss Stewart's releases, both of which scored a tremendous hit when shown here at the local playhouse. This production comes with the reputation of being even better than any of Anita's previous pictures. On the same bill will be shown a Larry Semon comedy, "The Simple Life." Mr. Semon is the comedian who appeared in "Between the Acts," one of the finest comedies ever shown.

Dorothy Dalton in "The Market of Souls" will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday. This picture has been a positive sensation wherever it has been played. The opening cabaret scene in this picture is declared by critics to be the most elaborately staged revel ever shown on the screen. Manager Chet Bent is enthusiastic over it, and claims it one of the nicest pictures he has ever seen.

Mayor which sought transfers of money to departments that are a bit shy of drawing accounts.

City Engineer Emerson was requested to file with the Council an estimate of the cost of laying additional water mains as recommended by the fire underwriters. He was also reminded of several dangerous sidewalks in urgent need of repair.

On motion of Councillor McKeen, a claim of $75 for damages to a truck owned by Dullea's Express was voted paid. This was for an accident due to a defect in Peabody square before the new paving was laid.

Councillor Ryan, the nemesis of auto speed maniacs, who traverse Peabody square, urged upon the committee the necessity of drawing up an ordinance which would put a stop to the evil practice. Mr. Ryan declared that traffic conditions in the square were going from bad to worse every day.

The building inspector was requested to number Elaine and Overlea avenues.

HOSPITAL DAY

a truck garden farm raise; apples, potatoes, vegetables of every kind and even sugar in pound packages and some in five and 10 were found numbered among the gifts. Canned goods, preserves, cereals and Uneda biscuits were stocked high as a result of the donation day. Had some benevolent citizen sent an X-ray machine to take the place of the obsolete pattern now essaying duty at the hospital, the 1919 donation day would have been complete.

One little girl pupil of St. John's School sent a box of candy to the hospital. Numerous children called with packages of edibles or fruit and while the stormy weather kept down the number of callers for the afternoon inspection, a constant arrival of trucks loaded to the hubs brought in supplies of every description.

Receiving the gifts were Mrs. Jessie Barrett, Mrs. Harry Whidden and Miss Annie Little. Mrs. William Harvie brought two loads of supplies donated by children of the South and Brown Schools in South Peabody. Mrs. Louis Osborne and Mrs. William Lambert brought the supplies contributed by pupils of the Center School. A truck with gifts from the pupils of St.

John's School brought a large assortment of supplies.

The Campfire Girls under the direction of Mrs. Ernest Porter and Mrs. Frank Taylor poured tea for the guests.

Tanners Play
Swampscott
Tomorrow

Swampscott High invades Peabody tomorrow to try their mettle against the smashing Tanners and Capt. Hubby Lawrence and his gridiron stars already accredited the Essex County champs are on edge ready for the fray. Peabody has an unbroken string of victories and by its work at Fitchburg last Saturday is picked to land the championship. Swampscott will send a strong team here that played Lynn Classical to a tie last week.

About three more policemen are needed at Emerson Park to keep the crowd off the playing field, so as to permit of everyone following the line of play. Two policemen are not enough and the advisory board is being criticized for not seeing to it that adequate police are employed.

Captain Lawrence proved one of the best football players ever to visit Fitchburg, according to the News of that city. His all around work was a big feature of the victory for the Tanners, who defeated the upstate boys 21 to 0. Haverhill was scored on by Fitchburg, the final count being 20 to 6.

In the Fitchburg game Hennessey put up a great day as roving center, recovering two fumbles and a punt. Eddie O'Connor's tackling was a big feature.

frontage of 45 feet on the street with a depth of 146 feet to the corner of his lot. The contract calls for a building of six stories and an outside boiler house.

With the opening of his new plant some time in the early spring, Mr. O'Shea will be the only Peabody leather manufacturer to burn oil for power and heating.

Two large storage tanks will be buried near the plant from which the supply of oil will be obtained.

Starlight Rebekah Lodge will entertain the Charter Members at the regular meeting next Monday evening.

Peabody Man For Hub Postmaster

Roland Baker, who was formerly with the Morrill Leather Co. plant in this city, is slated to be the next postmaster of Boston, according to reliable information. He is now a resident of Norwood. He stands at the head of the list of men who took the civil service examination for the position. One of the qualifications that automatically threw out numerous aspirants was the condition the candidate must have had at least eight years business experience.

Phil Hunt, delegate from the Peabody Post to the national convention in Minneapolis, leaves today for the Middle West.

DONNELL EAGER TO COMPLETE 1920 WORK

Mayor Donnell, who becomes district attorney of Essex County in January for a term of three years, will not relinquish his duties as Mayor of Peabody until July 15, 1920. He declares that he is anxious to complete work of improvements for the city that he had mapped out to be accomplished during his four years in office.

This announcement will cause a shock to certain aspirants for the mayoralty robes and, of course, precludes a special election during 1920.

Mayor Donnell declares he will be able to handle the county berth and perform his duties as Mayor of Peabody without conflict. He is desirous of getting the brunt of his 1920 program for street, water and sewer improvements well under way before he steps down and out of the Mayor's chair.

He will draw both salaries and declares he will earn both of them and most people acquainted with his dynamic force will agree that he will probably make good this assertion.

UNDERWRITERS ACT TODAY ON INSURANCE BOOST--- COUNCIL VOTES PUMP

Five underwriters hold a meeting in Boston today to take action on the question of boosting the rates of insurance in Peabody. The meeting was called for 10 o'clock and before that hour word was telephoned that the City Council at a special meeting last night voted 8 to 3 to authorize Mayor Donnell to purchase an Allis-Chalmers pump at a cost of $40,000. The order for the new pump will be sent today.

Councillor Ryan who months ago made the motion that the Mayor be authorized to buy the pump again made the motion last night. An amendment by Councillor Hogan to request the Mayor to seek new bids for an electrical driven pump was lost. Councillors Sullivan and Jones were the only two to support the Hogan amendment.

It will require several months to get the new pump into operation.

In the short debate which ensued last night Councillor McKeen had his facts and figures to support his claim that the Allis-Chalmers pump would net a saving of $12,000 in maintenance.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

It must be admitted that employees of the municipal garage have qualified as election workers and the eight votes that may go down in history were in part, some of the men who have been the goal of some frequent wanings in the Council.

A falsehood nailed at City Hall the day after election was the report that City Engineer Frank Emerson had voted for "Dutchy" Duggan.

T. Hadley Sawyer, Senator of weights, voted the straight republican ticket, it is opined, which of course, was his own business.

Unless the city finds a suitable place where the ash collection can be dumped, no one is likely to bid for the job next March. Here is another wee problem added to the many new ones ahead of our District Attorney-Mayor.

It is reported that the next school budget will include a sum for the purchase of an automobile for the use of the school superintendent and truant officer.

A raise of $200 is in the air for the Peabody school teachers, who ought not to feel satisfied until their services are rewarded with as much wages as the street department employees.

Permanent Driver Dan Hammon of headquarters qualified in the State election as a successful campaigner. He led the fight to put the two-platoon over by the comfortable majority of 400 upwards. Hammon was assisted by an energetic band of workers.

According to report Water Commissioner Newsum of Lynn refused to qualify as an expert on what kind of a pump Peabody should install at the pumping station. He came over last Sunday and inspected the plant over which Engineer Patrick Conroy presides. Conroy could have told him what kind of a pump was needed.

Eight votes majority gave Gloucester a Plan B charter last Tuesday, and Mayor Donnell helped to count up the eight votes since he extolled the virtues of the new charter to citizens of Gloucester before election.

Some misguided person telephoned Engineer Conroy at the pumping station grounds the other day, a request for a story on his pet eels.

Lucien G. Lewis of the George H. Jacobs Co. is counted one of the coming Trustees of the Peabody Institute, his nomination papers having been generously endorsed. He is making his debut into politics.

It looks as if the Long campaign fund paid dearly for the four vote majority given the Framingham shoe-maker. And the promise was a majority sure of at least 300. The alleged promise to deliver Peabody's labor vote met the same default as it did elsewhere throughout the State, Tuesday.

Insurance rates in Peabody are going up, despite the Mayor's protest, and largely because the majority of the Council have delayed too long, the operation looking to combatting the jump.

According to the permanent firemen, only six more regular men are needed to put the two-platoon system into operation in Peabody. This will cost $9360.

PRaises RED CROSS FOR OVERSEAS DUTY

Editor Enterprise: I would like to add my testimony to the thousands of others in regard to the work of the Red Cross overseas. Its tender ministrations are endelibly written upon the minds of those of us who saw everywhere a light upon the terrible shadows of war. I feel sure that it has a no less noble contribution to make, as one of the organizations that ministered in times of peace to the demands for self expression on our rapidly awakening community life.

High School

This is "Better English Week" in America, and every pupil is urgently requested to avoid the use of slang and bad grammar, both in school and out. Purity in speech is a qualification much to be desired, and although not always easily acquired, it is at least worth striving for. The object of such a movement is to set a better standard for the millions of foreigners in this country who are trying to learn our language.

The High School teachers entertained the teachers of the Peabody grammar schools at a Halloween party last week. The party was held in the basement of the Peabody High School building. Mrs. Beechey and Mrs. Blaney were fortune tellers.

A meeting of the Junior Class was held last week in room two. It was decided that the regular Junior dance should take place November 28 at Moose hall. The Seniors will, according to custom, hold their dance after Christmas.

Miss Paulman has arranged for a course in the reading of various historical novels for her different classes in history. The lists of books to be read this year are posted in the Peabody library.

LATEST MACHINERY TO BOOM LEATHER TRADE

(By Energy.)

I have harped many times on what I do not think any leather inventor could be done in the improvement of machinery. I am informed that many new ideas are appearing and some of them appear to be real improvements. Handling of skins and supplies in beam and storehouse can be made a money saver.

The Barnet Leather Company at Wyoma have completed a new storehouse, where trucks can drive in and unload their freight by means of cranes in short order. The traveling crane has become a feature for handling heavy pieces. It picks them up as though human, and places them where wanted with little effort. So in the beam house. Pits full of skins are raised in one operation, and with the help of an electric truck are carried to their destination in short order. The electric truck saves the labor of eight men. It appears like a phantom, wending its way about the storehouse or yard, and has proved itself a labor and time saver. At the Waters River Plant of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Company, several of these trucks are operated, bringing skins in and out of the yard, where it took scores of men, and much more time. When patent leather is placed in the yard to sun, in the summer a shower threatens. A hustle by all men available rushes the leather to cover, now the trucks do it. In every large factory, scores of men are employed carrying skins here and there. It is a part of the work. Some factories are so arranged as to do away with much of this work, but still have some of it. Trucks can carry half a ton and by the cranes picking up the load and placing it on the truck, it is easy to see what can be accomplished.

A new seasoning machine, a boarding machine, new ideas in putting out leather, have been introduced of late, and are doing improved work. It is only the beginning of a new era in leather machinery, I believe. There have been a few men who have invented these machines. Of that few, none shine as do inventors of shoe machinery, no doubt due to the fact that their services would not bring the price paid by the U. S. M. Co. Just so long as the tanner would accept the ever-ready made machine, there was no urgent need of improving them. The measuring machine has been improved over the old Sawyer and pin machine, but those who improved them stuck to the same fundamental principles, when something on other lines might have brought out something better. As I see the machinery game, there has been no originality in new machines. It was always copy the old one, make a few improvements and let it go at that. They call the room where inventors work at the U. S. M. Co., the bug house, for the reason those men who stay for weeks, yes months to accomplish what they are after, become second class bugs.

What do you think of the election? Candidate Long makes shoes, and Peabody sells him leather. But shoes or shoes, but a small minority would vote for him as a candidate for Governor. The labor vote did not respond to the appeals of their leaders. They separated the union from politics, and placed Americanism above all else. Otherwise, our city would have given Mr. Long a handsome majority which did not happen.

Another new building at the A. C. L. plant. This time it is a carpenter's shop. The building which has been demolished, stood out as a has been beside most of the others. I wonder how the factories are fixed for coal? Last year thousands of tons were piled up, but this year it is another story. Well, with one darn thing after another, what is the use.

"These crackers," continued Alice "are one of the rare articles of food that fit the menu at any time. They lend attractiveness to all portions of the meal. They satisfy the most capricious appetite."

"Among all the food products I have ever heard of, I have never found one so good as these Premium Soda Crackers. We enjoy them with relish."

There's a four-fold distinctiveness to PREMIUM SODA CRACKERS: their convenient size, their mealy texture, their different flavor and their slight saltiness. There's all 'round enjoyment of their goodness at every meal, whether they're eaten by themselves or with other foods.

The name PREMIUM is on every cracker. Sold by the pound and in the famous In-er-seal Trade Mark package.

"They do, in all seriousness. Your appetite is always ready to welcome whatever anything good to eat is served. Bobby and Agnes declare the National Biscuit Company had been positively right when they said Premium Soda Crackers. They always look for the name 'Premium' on the crackers."

"They are an able champion," said Alice, "and another cracker from goodness can't be so good and filling her."

REP. McVANN.

Fourteen hundred and twenty-four voters of Peabody vindicated the stand of the Enterprise in advocating the re-election of Rep. James F. McVann for the customary second term on Beacon Hill. Eight more voters who gave the majority by that mocking number to Rep. McVann's opponent, kept their promise, presumably in answer to the personal plea put up for their vote. The recount may tell a different story. Had Rep. McVann held up the individual voter with a request for a vote, as did his opponent, it is fair to assume that there would have been a victory for this splendid young man, who is first and last a gentleman, and whose personal attributes well fitted him to hold the office. The scant margin of eight votes, that to date, spells defeat for Rep. McVann, must be a bitter pill for his opponent, who had counted his victory by at least a couple of hundred of votes. The eight votes must also cause a bit of thinking and new reckoning of boasted political strength. With the vote upheld on a recount, Peabody is spared the spectacle of a poor loser. Rep. McVann emerged from this contest, still a gentleman and an exponent of law and order, with a due regard for decency and integrity.

OUR CHAMBER.

Peabody's Chamber of Commerce is daily coming more and more into the public eye through its many and varied activities, and is filling a long felt want in several ways. Its first big campaign to advertise the city and its manufactures met with a huge success, and received publicity all over this country and Europe. Photographs of the different window displays were reproduced in trade papers which went to all corners of the world's markets. This was Peabody publicity of the best kind. The largest single industry in the city, the leather business, is being served by the Chamber's foresight in capturing the show of French leathers which was brought to this country for a short time, and which the Chamber was quick to invite to Peabody, where it is to be shown in the near future. This exhibit will be of great interest, not only to the manufacturers, but to the merchants and townspeople, as well. On Monday evening there was organized by the Chamber, a class in American citizenship, which promises to grow and be of inestimable value to the city. This field of activity is of tremendous proportions in Peabody, with its large alien population, and the Chamber will need the assistance of the public in carrying this part of the program through to a successful termination. The monthly meetings of the Chamber had a good start this week, when the subject of street railway conditions was discussed. These meetings should be well attended, as they promise to be of considerable interest this winter. The real "Chamber" idea comes into being at these meetings, when the manufacturers, merchants and citizens gather together to discuss matters of common interest. The local merchants are to benefit by the Chamber this winter, as plans call for a window display contest, which will stimulate good window advertising, a necessity in these days of catering to the eye of the public. Other plans call for classes in store management, under direction of experts in this line. These are a few of the many advantages that the city is deriving from its Chamber of Commerce. There are innumerable others. Peabody has made enormous strides since it became a city. The citizens of Peabody, through its Chamber of Commerce, can do a great deal to keep Peabody in its present enviable position on the map.

A Mystery.

One of the great mysteries of life is why the wise who admit they know so much seem always to own so little.

Inflamed Eyes.

Nothing brings surer relief to inflamed eyes than a wash with boracic acid water. And one thing that its user must remember is to have the preparation free from any foreign particles, however minute, or they will cause irritation. The boracic acid should be thoroughly dissolved in water that has been boiled and cooled.

Making Improvement Sure.

We can all do good work, for all that is required is to follow directions laid down by other people who have done good work before us. It may be that we can improve on what other people have done, and after a while it may be that we can strike out a line for ourselves. Most of us will find that if we do the best we can, even in the most plodding way, we shall find ourselves improving and rising, step by step, in our chosen task.—New York Evening Telegraph.

ROUND ABOUT

Miss Esther M. Power, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Power, is the honor student at Colby college, according to the report issued for the last semester. She is a member of the Class 1920 at the Maine college, and is held in popular esteem. She received the grade of A in the largest number of hours each week, recording 18 hours' work. Miss Power is a graduate of Peabody High.

While Peabody is justly famous for its choice variety of smells, "fresh every morning and revived every evening," the city has never before been known to set a price on them, but has been only too willing to scatter them freely to the four winds.

Peabody Elks belonging to the Salem lodge had a hand in presenting a handsome bag to Ernest H. Horstmann, their Exalted Ruler, this week, the occasion being the silver anniversary of his wedding.

I am told that the Peabody Woman's Club gave a pleasing reception to Chaplain Rollins of the 26th Division Y. D. at their meeting last Friday. His war experience has given him a fund of stories and his manner of presenting them is giving him much praise. As a fighting parson, sharing the hardships of the soldiers, Chaplain Rollins won his war decorations for valor.

Among the earnest women workers who have helped to put over the recent drives for relief funds is Mrs. Felix Carr of Ayer street, wife of the well known leather manufacturer. Mrs. Carr has supplied the press with the publicity stories and in addition has added in the campaign for funds. She is now giving time to aiding in the hospital donation day, which falls next Thursday.

Two salesmen having the same name are listed in the Salem directory, as living on Proctor street, that city. Some days ago, one of the salesmen filed his application for a marriage license at the Salem city clerk's office. The announcement of the marriage intention caused no end of comment and brought congratulations to both salesmen, one of whom has been kept busy ever since giving his alibi. Both salesmen do business in Peabody, one, the avowed benedict, being in the employ of a Peabody firm.

Attorney James J. Sheehan, President of the local Red Cross chapter, was the speaker at the Strand last Monday night in opening the drive for new memberships in this great organization. He gave a pithy outline of the humanitarian work the society is doing in time of peace.

I observe that General Manager Charles P. Kelley of the A. C. Lawrence Co., has been finding a much needed rest from his duties on a visit to Canada this week. His friends hope that he will return with a real benefit derived from his short holiday.

Under the caption "Smells of Peabody," the Shoe and Leather Reporter had this item in its last issue:

"The following sign was recently observed painted on a store window on Walnut street, the foreign section of Peabody, the Massachusetts tanning city. 'Fresh Smells (smelts) 26 cents a pound.'"

CHINESE BECOME SOCIAL PIONEERS

Men and Women Form Good Fellowship Club Together Under Y. W. C. A. Leadership.

The Good Fellowship Club has made its appearance in society in Hangchow, China.

It began with the desire of a progressive young Chinese doctor to give his compatriots, especially the Christians, some healthful form of social intercourse.

Channels for a good, clean, social life among Chinese people are very limited. Until recently becoming a Christian often meant cutting oneself off from one's friends and relatives, also from feast days and festivals. As for joint meetings of men and women—well, such a thing was never heard of in recent society.

The young doctor's plan of having a club where men and their wives might come together to enjoy a good time with each other was discouraged and snuffed at. However, a few people agreed to be pioneers in the cause of social intercourse, and Y. W. C. A. secretaries agreed to help make the club a success.

At first the meetings of the club were laughed at by outsiders and the whole affair considered a joke. However, the members kept on meeting, first at one house and then at another. Soon the men got over the feeling of strangeness at starting out with their wives on Tuesday evening for a friend's home. The women began to enjoy the outing and to take part in the discussions—an intelligent part, too—much to the surprise of their husbands.

The membership grew. The club's fame began to spread. At first the discussions of the club were conducted in English. Soon it became necessary for them to be carried on in Chinese so that more of the women could understand and take part. Many of the scoffers began to apply for admission. The members began indulging in much friendly chaffing and occasionally forgot their dignity to play jokes on one another. Finally it became so large that it had to be divided into two sections, which met separately three Tuesday evenings in the month and on the fourth Tuesday met together for a joint session, with a special program.

Students just returned from American and German colleges, an old Buddhist scholar who is particularly interested in the discussion on Buddhism and Christianity, merchants, railroad and government officials compose the men's side of the room. The women are still a bit shy about talking in front of so many people, but many of them show signs of great executive ability and power of leadership. They are all well poised, clear thinking individuals, who will have a great influence on China's future. They discuss among themselves group meetings in their various churches, the lack of amusements for Chinese women, social service work, subscription lists for the orphanage, cake making, types of stoves, baby diets, the latest engagement and other topics such as one would hear discussed by a group of women gathered together any place in America.

The social part of the evening is given over to games, which at first astounded the sober Chinese gentlemen, but which they take up with great zest after the first evening. And their wives enjoy it just as greatly.

Real American picnics are the latest thing which the club has tried, and they are a great success. A Christmas play is being planned now.

ENGLISH IS COMMON TONGUE.

Chinese Girls Learn It to Talk to One Another.

Chinese women students in the Tung Fu College, Peking, China, are obliged to learn English in order to talk with one another because of the different dialects used by the student body.

Girls from the extreme western provinces of China, who attend the school, must remain in Peking during all of the eight years required for their high school and college training, because to return each summer would require six weeks for the trip one way and would cost more than a trip to America and return.

Girls from each of the western provinces speak a different language and they cannot understand one another any more than they can the girls from northern, southern, eastern or central provinces. Hence, they have adopted English as a common tongue.

NEW SCHOOL FOR CHINA.

Y. W. C. A. Secures New Site for Girls' Physical Training School.

A new home has been found for the Physical Training School which the Young Women's Christian Association has opened for native girls in Shanghai, China.

The school, while in the country, is not far distant from the National Headquarters of the Y. W. C. A. in Shanghai nor far from the local Y. W. C. A. The grounds cover eighteen "mow," which means approximately six acres, and are divided by a private road. A foreign residence already on the grounds will be used by the American teachers, while native buildings on the other side will furnish living quarters and classrooms for the 35 students.

The grounds boast a garden, tennis courts and an athletic field.

West Peabody

Beginning with this issue, West Peabody column for this newspaper is to be handled by Henry H. White, a West Peabody boy, who has been away in school and on the foreign mission field. All items for the column should be sent to him.

Emil Portance and family have just moved from their former home on Newbury St., the old MacKenzie place, to the former Walcott house on Lowell St.

Because of the illness of his twin daughters at Newport, Vt., Arthur E. Belville, a flagman at the Lowell division crossing on Newbury St., has been at Newport for two weeks. He has just returned, reporting the recovery of the daughters. Mr. Belville is planning to bring his family here if he can find a suitable location.

William A. Southwick and wife of 216 Ashland Ave., River Forest, Ill., announce the birth of a daughter, Bertha Eunice, on Oct. 27. Mr. Southwick is achieving success in his work as an electrical engineer in the Western Electric Company. He is a well known West Peabody young man, but his wife came from Attleboro.

Neil Clafferty, best known by the name of "Brusher," has re-entered the employ of Frank L. Stickney, after spending 11 weeks with his two sisters in Woburn.

Joseph Brooks and Robert Fisher are taking a several days' auto tour in the White Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Munroe of Lowell street have returned from a visit to Cliftondale, the visit being protracted by Mrs. Munroe's illness while there. Mrs. Robertson of their household has returned from Hyde Park.

John E. Martin of the Merrill Business College, Port Chester, N. Y., and his wife were in New York City at the time of the visit of the King and Queen of Belgium, and caught a glimpse of Their Majesties. Mr. Martin is at the head of the business college, and his wife is now on the teaching staff.

William Twist and family have moved to Danvers.

Warren J. Hall, flagman at the Lowell Division Crossing, Newbury St., is still keeping his home in Pembroke, N. H., but may soon be joined by his wife.

At the Grange this evening the third and fourth degrees will be worked, and there will be a supper served.

The husband of Mildred Thurell (Mrs. J. Edgar) Kennedy is serving in the State Guard in Boston.

Grafton Thurell has left the hotel in which he has worked in Bangor, Me., and is now the cook at a logging camp, where his address is in care of the Barber Farm, American Realty Co., Camp No. 2, East Winn, Me. He expects to have two weeks at home at Christmas.

Mrs. Lewis Durkee has been ill at her home on Newbury St. with a bronchial cold. She is reported as convalescing.

Patrick Metz and family, who have lived in a house on the Mrs. J. B. Pierce estate in the rear of Lake St., for about six years, have moved to East Dedham.

Because of the scarcity of trains and busses between Peabody and West Peabody, one sometimes has recourse to traveling around by the way of Danvers. It makes the fare between these two parts of our city 25 cents. Miss Nellie Taylor has made the practical suggestion that the way to save a nickel on the trip is to walk the 10 minutes' walk from the fare limit at the end of Collins St. over a good sidewalk to the Collins St. station, or vice versa. The railroad fare from Collins street, (Danvers) station, is the same as from Danvers, as there are now no fares less than 10 cents, which is the fare between West Peabody and Danvers.

Frank Gelott has bought the house on Pine St., near Newbury St., which was once occupied by Mrs. Daley.

Joseph Nowak, who has lived in West Peabody for 21 years, is planning to move to Danvers in the very near future.

With all modern improvements on it is rumored that some of our local hunters took a New York man pheasanting, and expected to show him how shooting is done. He gave the surprise, however, and got pheasants for each of the party.

Miss Esther Leach held a masquerade Halloween party at her home on Pine St. last Friday evening, a motley crew of witches, hobos and ghosts being in attendance. The disguises were quite complete in most cases, and there were many pretty costumes. Beside the regular Halloween games there were the innovations of fortune telling in a dark room and a ghost dance on the lawn, the dance music being furnished by Lillian Rankin. The ghostly guests later proved themselves mortal when they partook of the generous refreshments.

The Halloween party of the Christian Endeavor Society, which was postponed from last Saturday evening is to be held at the same hour on this Saturday, the 8th.

Mrs. Ralph Berry of Lake St., near Pine, is working in the nurses' and doctors' registration room at the State House.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Minna Needham Brooks to the marriage of her daughter, Julia, to Mr. Robert Oscar Fischer on Saturday, Nov. 22, at the Needham Homestead, West Peabody.

A number of people came to Schoolhouse Hall on Wednesday evening to hear Mr. Stimson, Manager of the Essex County Cooperative Farming Association, home work demonstration, Gladys Stratton, and other speakers, but, though the speakers were on hand, the storm prevented the audience being large enough to make it worth while carrying out the program. The postponed meeting is set for Dec. 1.

At the regular Sunday evening meeting of the C. E. Society, eight pictures of the Boy Christ will be exhibited and explained. Some of the subjects are: Hofmann's "Christ in the Temple;" Holman-Hunt's "Christ in the Temple;" Murillo's "The Holy Family;" Mengelberg's "Jesus' First View of Jerusalem;" Ittenbach's "The Christ Child."

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that Book No. 32,721, Warren Five Cents Savings Bank, Peabody, is lost, and application for payment made. Chap. 171, Acts 1912.

ATTRACTIVE STREET SUITS

Here is one of the most attractive suits for winter. Its plain skirt is ankle length and wide enough for comfort. The shapely coat has a shawl collar which may be of fur, or not, and a fashionable restraint in the use of trimmings is apparent in the few buttons placed as a finish.

PERSONAL

Little William Grady, Jr., the six months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Grady of Holden St., is recovering from a serious operation on his ear.

George E. Farnham, son of City Solicitor Horace P. Farnham, entered Amherst College this week to pursue a course in chemistry.

James L. McCarthy, Supervisor of Census for the Fifth District, announces that examinations for enumerators in Peabody for the 1920 census will be held at the Salem High school, Highland avenue, Salem, today at 2 P.M., and tomorrow at 1 P.M.

TREMONT THEATRE.

"3 WISE FOOLS."

The comedy triumph of 333 nights in New York City, "3 Wise Fools" will be the attraction at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, commencing Monday evening, Nov. 10, with matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and a special holiday matinee on Tuesday (Armistice Day), the 11th.

On the opening night at the Criterion Theatre the curtain had only been up a few moments until the capricious critics realized that the "3 Wise Fools" referred to three staid old bachelors, prosperous and distinguished—a Judge, a Physician and a Financier, who share one residence, an old-fashioned home in Washington Square, the stronghold once of New York's ultra-conservative blue stock aristocracy, and who, like the "Three Guardsmen" of Dumas, were "one for all and all for one."

These three old codgers live in the old conventional rut, each having made love to the same girl when they were in "the budspring of youth."

At her death, a daughter is bequeathed for adoption to these three old chaps, and her advent into their home revolutionizes their lives. There is a delightful mixture of humor, sentiment and romance interwoven in a story that is wholesome, unique and extremely interesting.

"3 Wise Fools" has three potential elements to indorse it. It is written by Austin Strong, who has a number of meritorious and important plays to his credit; it is produced by the Right, "Lightnin'" and other eminently successful productions, and it has received the unanimous approval of the New York Reviewers—three props which ought to sustain any dramatic contribution.

PERSONAL

Miss Nora McCarthy of Granite St. entertained about 30 of her friends at a Halloween party last Friday evening. The house was effectively decorated with Halloween colors and symbols. Dancing was enjoyed, and a very fine musical program carried out.

WALLACE REID TODAY'S HEADLINER AT STRAND--BIG BILL NEXT WEEK

It is confidently asserted that "The Valley of the Giants," which is Wallace Reid's new Paramount-Artcraft picture and which will head an all-star bill at the Strand today and Saturday, is a photoplay that will transport the spectator into the land of the big redwoods in northern California. The story, which is one of Capt. Peter B. Kyne's most charming and masterful creations, deals with life in the big tree country. There are found great and noble specimens of manhood, strong in mind and body, as invincible to hatred, greed and dishonesty as the big trees themselves.

Mr. Reid plays the role of a young man who has promised his father to protect, at all personal risks, a beautiful forest glade known as the Valley of the Giants, in which his mother had been tenderly laid away after her long sickness. On his return from college he finds his father nearly blind and an unscrupulous Colonel Pennington trying to steal the rights to this beautiful forest glade.

How the property is almost lost and then finally recovered after a number of thrilling incidents which include a terrific fight between Wally and Pennington's work-boss is graphically depicted. A pretty love story runs through the picture and it is considered the finest offering Mr. Reid has given this year.

William Duncan in "Smashing Barriers" and Larry Semon in "Between the Acts" are the other features the Strand will show today and Saturday. Manager Bent claims that "Between the Acts" is as funny a comedy as the local playhouse has ever had.

"Three Green Eyes," a World production with a splendid all-star cast which includes Carlyle Blackwell, June Elvidge, Johnnie Hines and Evelyn Greely will be the main attraction for Sunday evening. Bessie Barriscale in "Patriotism" and Peter Rooney in popular songs will be the other attractive features. Mr. Rooney made a big hit at the Strand a few weeks ago and he is being presented again at the urgent request of a number of patrons.

Viola Dana in "Please Get Married," the third of the Metro specials, will be presented Monday and Tuesday. "Lombardi Ltd." and "The Brat," both of which were hits all over the country, were the first two of these Metro specials, all of which are seven or more acts in length. "Please Get Married" is described as a peek-a-bouddier comedy of innocents on a honeymoon. Miss Dana plays the part of an almost kissless bride on a most embarrassing honeymoon. The plot is so clever and so ingeniously filled with comedy surprises, that it seems unfair to divulge it, lest the enjoyment of the spectator by a foreknowledge of what it is all about. House Peters, an old favorite who has not appeared in a picture for some time, will also be shown in a western play, "The Forfeit."

Elsie Ferguson in "The Witness For the Defense" will be the photoplay feature for Wednesday and Thursday along with "Elmo, the Mighty."

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE GREAT ORGAN OF THE MORMONS.

MUSIC and song long have played a prominent part in the expression of religion. The Latter-Day Saints are no exception to the rule. President Brigham Young believed it impossible to preach the gospel without good music.

In the early sixties plans were laid for the building of a suitable organ for their great tabernacle in Salt Lake City. The forests of the state were searched for the most satisfactory woods. Proper tools had to be devised and made. Glue had to be obtained. There were no railroads in Utah in those days. The problem was not an easy one. It developed that the best wood grew three hundred miles or more south of the city. It was hauled the entire distance, over rough roads and through the wilderness, by ox teams. Glue was made by boiling strips of cow hide over fire-pots. About one hundred men were employed. Some of the immense pipes of the great instrument were 32 feet long. But music was what they wanted and have it they did. The organ is said to be the sweetest-toned and the largest save one, in the world. The original organ has been rebuilt and enlarged until it now has seven divisions, the main organ being 90 feet wide, 26 feet deep and 55 feet high, having over 7,000 pipes. The mechanism is electrically driven, nearly two thousand magnets being employed in the control of the vast tonal resources of the instrument.

It hasn't a rival in America. It's music is beyond description. You must hear it for yourself.

Any serious minded person can very readily perceive that the prices in the other cities must exceed the local prices, due to the high rentage, taxation, etc., and, above all, the proprietor of a local store wishes to retain his local customers, and gives them good value for their money.

When you have thought this over, come in and let me prove it.

NIGHT BEFORE ARMISTICE OPENS BIG ANNIVERSARY

With a band concert followed by a street parade, Peabody war veterans will begin the night before celebration of Armistice Day Monday evening. The parade will be followed by a special program of entertainment in City Hall with speaking by United States Marshal John J. Mitchell, former congressman from Marlboro, and Mayor Donnell.

President Giles and members of the City Council will be seated on the platform during the speaking. The entertainment insures some pleasing numbers for the audience which will pack the big auditorium. Chairman William F. Carlin has been assisted by a hustling committee and the stage is all set for a monster celebration. Dancing will be until 1 o'clock.

The holiday attraction will be the Army and Navy football game at Emerson Park.

Stores to Close.

At the meeting of the Peabody retail merchants it was decided to cooperate with the Peabody Post of the American Legion in making the first celebration of Armistice Day one that would be remembered by the citizens of Peabody.

To insure success the merchants have pledged their support to the American Legion by closing their stores Nov. 11 and have raised a sum of money sufficient to engage one band for the celebration.

At the Mat's Thanksgiving eve minstrel show, James Harris, a local young man, will sing "You'll Be Surprised." It will be his initial appearance before the footlights, and present indications are that his work will be one of the many bright spots of the performance.

The King Marshall Musical Entertainers will be the attraction Monday night at the free Lyceum course at the Institute.

Also, other entertainment will no doubt be secured by the merchants from the fund that they have raised.

This money is being raised by a committee consisting of A. P. Sillars, M. Halpern and B. Levin, and any person desiring to contribute to this fund can do so by seeing any member of the above committee or by leaving their contribution at the Chamber of Commerce office.

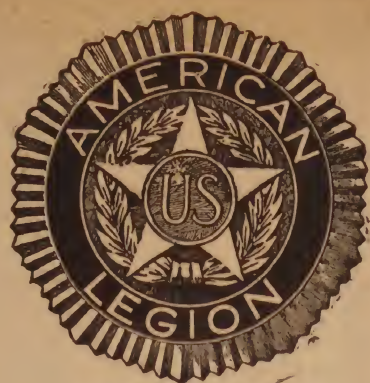

Barbers to Boost Haircut To 50c

Haircuts jump to 50 cents in Peabody next Monday, and the cost of a clean shave will be 20 cents. Increase in wages paid to the journeymen barbers is given as the cause of the boost in facial adornment. The raise in prices becomes effective in all of the union shops.

Mrs. Demetria Kouris, mother of Thomas Kouris, owner of the candy kitchen on Lowell st., sails tomorrow from New York for Sparta, Greece, where she will spend the winter. She will return to Peabody in the spring, accompanied by her husband and daughter. Mrs. Kouris has been in America for the past nine years.

Ingenuous Plea.

Little Dickie was visiting his grandma, and after lunch she spoke to him about taking his afternoon nap. He looked shyly at her and did not speak. After a short pause she again mentioned his nap, and he said: "Why, grandma, you wouldn't put your company to bed, would you?"

PEABODY POST, 153.

The Legion has secured quarters in the O'Shea building over the post-office.

Beginning Nov. 12 it will cost all war veterans $2 to join the Legion. The fee at present is but one dollar.

Election of officers for the post will be held in January.

At the meeting of the post next week the committee will make a report on the question of holding another carnival. The committee consists of Leo Murphy, Joseph Sweeney, James Walsh, Joseph Beggs and Leo Cassidy. A supply of buttons were received last night by Commander Osborn Palmer and may be had by any war veteran by applying to Harry Partridge at the Warren National Bank.

C. of C. Trying To End Strike At Bleachery

Peabody Chamber of Commerce will try to bring about a settlement of the strike at the Danvers Bleachery, which has been in progress for several weeks now.

A committee designated to arrange for a conference with the representatives of the strikers and the Naumkeag Cotton Co., owners of the Danvers Bleachery, and this conference is set for next week. The Salem Chamber of Commerce will also send a committee to the conference. It is hinted that a settlement can be reached, and the strike brought to a close.

over the electrical driven pump proposed by Counsellor Hogan. Engineed Barbour recommended buying the Allis-Chalmers pump.

Officials of the fire underwriters have let it be known that had the Council voted for the new pump last July when the Mayor first asked them to that an increase in insurance rates for Peabody would not be under discussion today.

A hallowe'en party was enjoyed by the eighth grade of the South School Friday afternoon. The pupils gathered in their room at 3.45. The committee had the room attractively trimmed. A short musical program was given followed by games and refreshments. The acting committee consisted of Mary Doyle, Milton Hory, Doris Larrabee, John Treighery.

DANCING PARTY.

The Young People of St. Paul's church held a very successful dancing party at the Masonic hall, Tuesday evening. About 75 couples were present and enjoyed the dancing, with music by Potter's Orchestra. Solos were rendered by Roy and Miss Elizabeth Gourley, which added much to the affair. The next of the series will be held early in December.

RE-ELECT REP. McVANN

Representative James E. McVann, the citizens' choice last year for the office he has held in Beacon Hill with becoming dignity and ability, is asking the customary second term at the State election to be held next Tuesday. His friends are confident that the voters will accede to his request and return him to the office for another year as has long been the custom. Party lines can well be laid aside again this year to send this worthy candidate back to the Legislature.

Representative McVann received the Republican nomination last year without contest and that party honored him again this year in a like manner. Had he proved derelict in his duties he would not have been given or deserved this honor and the attempts to besmirch his record are not likely to avail. Despite the press agent's stories in favor of another candidate to the contrary. Democratic workers are openly aiding in the campaign of Representative McVann, who by education, refinement and integrity is fitted to represent Peabody on Beacon Hill.

Vote for a square deal for McVann next Tuesday.

MAYOR'S PLEA FAILS TO SPUR COUNCIL ACTION DUGGAN DUCKS ISSUE

Mayor Donnell made an eloquent appeal to the City Council last night at a special meeting to take action toward the purchase of a pump for the pumping station so as to forestall an increase in insurance rates in this city.

Despite his plea five members of the council opposed action and adjourned without setting any date for another vote. On the motion of Councillor Ryan to empower the Mayor to buy a pump, Councillors McKeen, Cotton, Brown and President Giles concurred, but the fact that Councillor Duggan was absent caused a deadlock. Duggan has been knocking Rep. McVann for missing unimportant roll calls on the Constitutional Convention measures and today finds himself having ducked the most important meeting the council has held in many months.

Mayor Donnell believed the councillors should accept the word of an expert on what kind of a pump was best suited for the local plant.

Councillor Hogan amended the Ryan motion to defer action until Monday night to give Water Commissioner Newson of Lynn a chance to visit the local plant Sunday and give his opinion as to the best kind of a pump. Mr.

Newson is just back from his honeymoon. He is a young man with no great experience as an expert.

If the fire underwriters keep their threat, Peabody manufacturers, businessmen and householders will be compelled to pay thousands of dollars in the aggregate to maintain insurance on their property. A change in classification for Peabody would be a blow to the local leather business, it is freely asserted by

"Do all you can to prevent idleness. It is a sin in this emergency.

"Put your shoulder to the wheel. Increased production and decreased demand will lower the cost of living.

"Set your faces against reckless extravagance.

"Prices in America will come down when we produce more and demand less.

School Of Citizenship Will Open Here Next Wednesday

The committee on Americanization work has been holding several meetings and has decided on Monday evening, November 3, for enrollment of those who desire to take up the study of citizenship, and arrangements will be made at this meeting to start classes immediately. This work is being done in co-operation with the Board of Education who defrays the expenses of the Instructor and Chamber of Commerce is furnishing the room for conducting these classes. These classes are open for any person who desires to become an American citizen and no expense is attached except probably a nominal cost for textbooks. From the reports that the committee now has this promise to be a well-attended session and the classes will be arranged so that all can attend at least one evening a week. The Americanization committee consists of Albert Robinson, Chairman; E. W. Weaver, E. A. Hershenson, Frank H. Sanger and P. H. O'Connor.

A display of French leather will soon be made by Chamber of Commerce. This leather is part of the display made by the Tanners' Council at the Chicago meeting which was of interest to all manufacturers attending the council. A "Get Together" meeting of the retail merchants will be held this afternoon at 4.30 in the offices of the Chamber for the purpose of discussing several contemplated activities for the retail merchants during the coming winter. Among the most conducting a series of classes on store management which if deemed advisable, will be started immediately after the holidays.

Petroleum's Discovery.
In 1859, on the 28th of August, petroleum was discovered at Watson's Flats, Pa., near the head of the Allegheny river. Edwin Drake bored the first oil well, and before the end of the year Drake, under the firm name of Drake & Bowditch, bored through the rock at Titusville to a depth of 70 feet and struck an oil well that yielded 1,000 gallons a day. This discovery started the enormous oil industry in northwestern Pennsylvania.

Community House Notes

A gymnasium class for business men is being organized and the first meeting will be held Wednesday, Nov. 5, at 7.30 P.M. Here is a chance for all men to obtain regular exercise and physical recreation right here in Peabody, going to the Salem Y. M. C. A. or out of town. A physical examination will be given to entering the class.

Recent copies of boys' and girls' magazines are much desired for each man entering the class.

CONCERNING FALL SUITS

In the new suits, coats are longer than they have been and skirts are wider and shorter, but not as short as was predicted. In this one particular America proves entirely independent of Paris and goes its own way with several additional inches added to the very short French models. When attractiveness is the deciding factor in a contention about this difference, the longer skirt must win out; it looks better with the longer coats.

Velours, gabardine, serge, jersey and some less familiar weaves share popular favor, and the new styles reveal wonderful tailoring and elegant lines. Folds, or plaits and tucks in the materials, account for much of the decoration, aided by small buttons of bone, or covered with the goods, as in the suit shown here. The high collar of fur is a dominant note in fall styles.

library at Community House, and will be greatly appreciated. Anyone wishing to donate such magazines can send them to the House or call one of the directors, telephone 665. Subscriptions for popular magazines for boys and girls would be a valuable means of increasing interest in this community center.

The Carpentry class starts Tuesday, Nov. 4, at 7.30 P.M. Mr. Harry G. Bagley is the instructor.

A class in cooking for boys will begin Thursday, Nov. 6, at 4 P.M. Miss Elizabeth Brown of Salem, a student at the Essex Agricultural college, is the teacher.

The Boys' Gymnastic classes are now running according to regular schedule and great interest is shown.

The eighth grade of the Center school is to have a Halloween party in gymnasium, Friday evening.

The entertainment will include old-time Halloween guesses, fortune tellers, etc., and dancing the last hour.

Among the Peabody war veterans still in France is Irving Pitman of Home st. He has been on special duty for some months. His last letter home stated that he had no knowledge of when he would be sent back to the States.

Miss Mabel Wiles Ballentine of 43 Emerson st., a recent graduate of the Peabody High School, has entered the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Delay on the part of the majority of the City Council to seriously grasp the recommendation of the underwriters and equip the pumping station with at least a pump of seven and a half million gallon capacity has caused much diverse criticism this week.

Mayor O'Donnell asked the council back in July to authorize him to sign a contract for a pump which meets the approval of the fire underwriters, and failure on the part of the council so far to act is going to delay the city in the necessary installing of an extra pump.

It was believed that the statement of the fire underwriters agents last week would spur the council on to action and there are those who say that at least one of the councilors lost a chance to gather in some political support. There are unmistakable signs that the delay in this matter is most likely to see insurance rates raised in Peabody.

Mayor O'Donnell and City Engineer Emerson cannot be blamed if this contingency arises. Neither can Councilors Ryan and McKeen of the water committee. These last two councilors have long since recommended buying the pump recommended for the station by Engineer Frank Barbour who is an accepted authority. Consequently, whatever increase in insurance rates the manufacturers may have to face must be laid to the failure of the City Council to act.

The underwriters control the insurance rates and Peabody must pay whatever they determine. Engineer Caldwell of the fire underwriters used simple language in telling the council what was likely to happen if something wasn't done in a hurry to increase the water pressure in Peabody.

Nomination papers for Mrs. Mary C. Harrington and Louis P. P. Osborne, present members of the school committee, are being signed. Both have proved highly efficient members of the school board and their friends will confidently expect to see them returned to the office at the city election.

Who is furnishing the fire stations with egg coal, and why was no bid asked in the regular way, asks a reader of the Enterprise. This citizen says further, the coal is not being weighed by the city weigher. He contends that the 60 tons cost somewhere around $675. On all contracts in excess of $200 competitive bids are required.

Mayor O'Donnell has found that under the statutes of 1914, cities and towns may regulate the hours of work to be required of fire department permanent men. He is not so much opposed to a two platoon system, as he is in doubt whether the city will derive a more efficient department. The item of expense is also his concern.

The good points of Plan B charter have been elaborated on by the Mayor in several of Essex county cities. He spoke at Newburyport before an open meeting.

Both Engineer Emerson and Superintendent of Streets Wyman are in a quandary over the petition of Edward Cowan, a former employee of the department, for back pay amounting to $112. They affirm that he was not a regular employee.

THE HUMPHREY RADIANTFIRE

Brings a new era in heating practice and is truly a wonderful achievement

TOMORROW is the Last Day of the Demonstration of the RADIANTFIRE in Peabody

See For Yourself

It will pay you to make a special journey to see this wonderful heater, which is being demonstrated at Curtis' Drug Store, Main St., Peabody, every afternoon this week.

RADIANT HEAT is different from so-called "convected heat," which merely warms the air surrounding it.

An incandescent mass sends out radiant energy waves through the air but the air is not warmed by them.

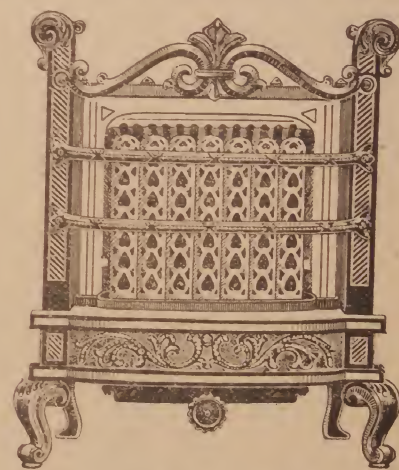

Radiant energy is not converted into radiant heat until these waves strike some solid body.

The heat from the sun is sent out as Radiant energy and travels through a frigid temperature for 95,000,000 miles but is not converted into radiant heat until it strikes the earth. It is radiant heat you enjoy when seated in a sunny window on a winter's morning.

It is radiant energy that is sent out from the Radiantfire; it passes through the air, like the sun's rays, without heating it, and carries its warmth direct to that body on which it falls. This body may be the walls of the room, the furniture or yourself.

Radiant heat is beyond comparison the most healthful, satisfying type of heat because it warms the body, yet leaves the air in the room both cool and fresh for breathing. The room that is heated by the Radiantfire will never feel "close" and "stuffy."

THE RED CROSS

Starting Monday the Peabody branch of the Red Cross will conduct its third annual drive for memberships at a dollar each, and as in all of the war drives, this city may be relied on to "go over the top" for this wonderful organization. It is probably true that the great majority of citizens are familiar with the work of the Red Cross Society in Peabody and for that reason it might be argued that there is no especial need of publicity. It strikes us, however, that if the people of Peabody could have human interest stories of what this organization does in this city to alleviate the sufferings of countless worthy people that the coming campaign would receive greater support. It may be held enough by officials of the society to let the citizens have a financial statement in the abstract as appears every so often in the daily press, but there are contributing members who would be interested to know how many families the society has reached, how many of the splendid women of the city are workers and what in more detail their tasks consists of. The Enterprise has always been eager to lend its columns to readable matter of the local society because of long and intimate knowledge of the work. It would be interesting to the readers of the Enterprise to know who the women are that give their time to helping along this far reaching society which succeeded the Allied cause in setting the world right only a short year ago. When the solicitor comes to your door next week have your dollar ready.

AIDING ALIENS

A movement that deserves the hearty support and co-operation of every public spirited citizen is that inaugurated by the Chamber of Commerce, who have entered into the work of aiding men to become citizens of the United States. As the first step in the process, classes in citizenship are to be opened on next Monday evening at the rooms of the Chamber, and further call for thorough assistance in all the steps necessary for the foreign-born to take before he may become naturalized.

There are probably hundreds of men of voting age in Peabody who are at heart real Americans but who have not taken all the "papers" required of them before they may legally be recognized as Americans, either because of the difficulty of obtaining the information concerning the process or because the "final papers" with the examination that goes with them entailed much effort in a great many cases.

The idea of the Chamber is to make as easy as possible the way toward citizenship by serving as a real center of information in naturalization by actually making out the first and second papers for these who wish them, and by establishing classes in citizenship which will teach the fundamentals of the American form of government, as every declarant must pass an examination on this subject before he becomes naturalized.

The community can co-operate by lending its wholehearted support to the good work, through offering help to the Chamber, and by passing the word along to all those who might benefit by the plan. It should be possible to add one thousand new citizens to Peabody's population this winter. It can be done if the community as a whole takes hold of it. The Enterprise heartily endorses the entire plan, as should every society, church, industry and profession in the city.

STAND BY COOLIDGE

It is the duty of every law-abiding citizen, regardless of party affiliation, to go to the polls next Tuesday and cast his ballot for Governor Calvin Coolidge and the men associated with him on the Republican ticket. Not because they are the nominees of the Republican party, but because they are bound by a solemn pledge to uphold the constituted government of the State of Massachusetts and to the preservation of law and order.

Governor Coolidge proved himself to be the man of the hour in the recent police crisis in Boston. When the striking policemen of the city of Boston deserted their posts of duty, creating a situation that brought on a reign of terror by lawless mobs, he proved his fitness for the position of chief executive of the Commonwealth by rising to the occasion in a manner which left no doubt as to where he stood on the question of maintaining an orderly government. He acted promptly and vigorously and needed the full forces at his call to the maintenance of law and order, and by virtue of his prompt and efficient action an orderly state of affairs was speedily restored and has since been maintained.

He has fearlessly backed the police commissioner of Boston in the discharge of the men who deserted their posts of duty, firm in the belief that had he not done so he would not have performed the duties he assumed upon taking the oath of office as Governor. His Democratic opponent, Richard

H. Long, has publicly declared that one of his first official acts, if elected, would be to restore the discharged police officers to their old positions.

There is the issue of next Tuesday's election. Aside from that, the outcome matters little to the average voter, especially the independent, but that means everything. Protection of life and property is more important than anything else and such protection can only be guaranteed through a government pledged to the maintenance of law and order.

The eyes of the nation are upon Massachusetts. If the maintenance of law and order is not overwhelmingly endorsed at the polls next Tuesday by the re-election of Governor Coolidge, it will be construed as proof positive that the voters of Massachusetts are against an orderly government.

Loyalty to government, respect for constituted authority and recognition of fearlessness and merit demand the endorsement of Governor Coolidge's course, and we urge every qualified voter of Peabody to remember these facts and do his manifest duty to his government and to his home and family next Tuesday.

ROUND ABOUT

A copy of the Quincy Labor Leader came into my hands this week and I observed that Samuel B. Folsom, a well known Peabody man, is managing editor of the newsy paper which is dedicated to the union labor movement. Editor Folsom began his newspaper work as a special writer on the Enterprise and from the first manifested an aptitude for the profession. He wields a versatile pen and is bound to have success.

I am told that a Central st. young man is likely to long remember Sunday evening, Oct. 26. He was standing at the gate saying good night when the irate brother of the young lady in the case threw out a number 9 shoe, aiming the improvised grenade with true first line trench marksmanship.

I hear that Harold Farrington has recently received his papers as third mate on a big trans-Atlantic steamer and is now at an Italian port. He enlisted in the U. S. shipping board service during the war and braved the U-boats on several trips overseas. He joined the service while living at the Panama Canal zone where his parents reside.

Chairman George A. Clifford of the league committee of the Peabody Institute takes exceptions to a criticism which appeared recently in this column in effect that the citizens did not best appreciate the free entertainment course. The paragraph was from the pen of a reporter of the Enterprise who attended the entertainment on Oct. 14 when but a small audience greeted the performance. Chairman Clifford says that a wrong announcement in another newspaper coupled by the fact that the evening witnessed a severe rainstorm went far to make the audience small. He declares that the record of the past four years shows the entertainments have seen increased attendance. Some of the best entertainments are secured for this free course and I have heard much praise for Chairman Clifford and the committee responsible for bringing the talent here.

Here's proof of the scarcity of tenements in Peabody. T. A. Sweeney, one of the leading merchants of the East end had 33 applicants for a vacant tenement of his within a week. The tenement in question was let before it was vacated.

I observed a big out-of-town truck bowl into Peabody Square one day this week that ignored the traffic post and went to the left, cutting into Foster st. at a sharp angle. The traffic post by a policeman and some day Peabody is likely to have one.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Rogers, who has closed her summer home off Andover st. and returned to her winter domicile in Boston, will be missed by many of her Peabody friends who wish her a pleasant winter and who will look forward to her return to Peabody in the Spring.

An insurance policy dated 1845 in favor of a Peabody tannery was a contrast to the ones issued by the companies today. It used a couple of hundred words describing what the policy insured against a policy issued today having about 600 words telling what the policy doesn't insure.

CENTURY OF THOUGHT AIDS WOMEN WORKERS

National Women's Trade Union League Will Present Its Purposes at International Congress at Washington.

The National Women's Trade Union League of America has had nearly one hundred years' preparation for the part which it will play both on the floor and as hostess to the first International Congress of Working Women which is being called by that organization in Washington on October 23.

Women in the United States were first organized to secure better working conditions in 1821. This organization continued to grow until the time of the Civil war, when all labor organizations broke down. Sometime after the war women again organized, and in 1903 the National Women's Trade Union League, as it now operates, became a living thing.

The present organization has a membership of 600,000 women and affiliated membership of over a million, which includes men who are backing the program of the league and are in industries where women are employed. It is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The National Women's Trade Union League tries, through its organization, to teach women to help themselves to get better working conditions. Its purpose is "to protect the women workers of America from inadequate wage and extreme working hours through the organization of the workers, and through such legislation as the minimum wage and the eight-hour day; to increase co-operative action among them; to create a public opinion that really understands the labor movement; to secure definite and accurate information concerning conditions among women and child wage earners leading to legislative action; to supply at all times to all wage earners assistance in working out their industrial difficulties."

Mrs. Raymond Robins is president of the league and chairman of its committee on international relationships, which is in charge of arrangements for the International Congress of Working Women. Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the women's bureau of the United States department of labor, is secretary to this committee.

The congress is being called at the official request of the standing committee on Women's Industrial Organizations of Great Britain and at the informal request of women's labor organizations in France and Italy. Problems and conditions affecting the work of women and children will be discussed and remedies for these ills considered so that practical suggestions can be taken back by the delegates to their own countries.

WOMEN POOL PROBLEMS

Meet for First International Industrial Congress in History.

Chief of Women's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, Says Women Must Consider Own Problems.

Washington, Oct. — "The International Congress of Working Women, to be held in Washington on October 23d at the call of the National Women's Trade Union League of America, affords the first opportunity in the history of the world for working women to get together to discuss their common problems and different phases of employment to the end that they may inaugurate higher industrial standards the world over," says Mary Anderson, chief of the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

Miss Anderson is secretary to the committee on International Relationships of the Trade Union League and in charge of arrangements for the conference.

Miss Anderson continued to say: "The United States can no longer be isolated as a nation. We have taken our place in the family of nations and stand in danger of either going up or down with the rest of the world in regard to industrial standards. To this end we must never forget that by raising standards of employment for the 12,000,000 women in gainful occupations in the United States, by guarding against child labor and giving proper protection and care to women and babies, we are helping to raise the standards, and that just as soon as we fail to make our standards as high as they should be we will cause suffering and hardship among women and children either in our own country or in some distant, unthought of part of the world."

"The Trade Union principle recognizes the fact that working women shall participate in the conditions governing their employment, that they shall use their own initiative to the end that they may have control over conditions under which they work. They all agree that because of this women must have their own part in the organizations that consider the conditions of women's work, whether these be local, national or international."

Thirty-four countries have been asked to send women delegates from accredited labor organizations to attend the Congress. Each country will have ten votes on the floor of the Congress, and is entitled to ten delegates.

on the subject of shortbread, so popular with Scotch and English folk.

"But, good as was the old-fashioned kind," remarked our hostess, "it was so extremely rich that the heavy taste lingered long after eating."

"I was talking to mother about them only the other day," remarked Betsy. "She told me that it was so long ago when she had a chance to get a really good one."

"No other country ever offered such shortbread excellence as is found in LORNA DOONE Biscuit. The reason you eat so many of them is that they are not over-rich, while their superb flavor is a constant inducement to eat more. The name LORNA DOONE is on every biscuit."

Sold by the pound and in the famous In-er-seal Trade Mark package.

"A. J. Uneda Biscuit"

"Yes, that's the beauty of all National Biscuit Company products—they are always ready—night and day—and always fresh. Their readiness and freshness, however, are not the only features that recommend them. A still greater consideration is the fact that National Biscuit Company products obviate the necessity for mixing and baking at home. And any woman who has spent a little of her time in the kitchen, baking even for a small family, knows the comfort, efficiency and economy of buying these uniformly good, ready-to-serve products."

"That's just what mother was saying to me last week," remarked Betsy. "She told me that it was so long ago when she had a chance to get a really good one."

PEABODY LEATHER SHOPS ARE GOING FULL BLAST

By "ENERGY"

There has never been a time during my knowledge of the leather business in Peabody, and that knowledge covers more than 40 years, when all factories were doing so much and have turned away, as one manufacturer put it, enough business to keep him going in ordinary times. It matters not, side leather, sheep skins, patent leather, calf skins, pieces, goat skins and specialties, all are wanted at attractive prices. Pickled sheep are purchased eagerly, and everybody connected with the leather game today is smiling the smile that bodes prosperity. The working man is in the same proposition, and South Peabody looks to have a big future. There would be many more factories busy were they in sight, but the problem of building factories to day at the prices makes every one hesitate. The future is what is worrying the business man. He sees or thinks he does, rumblings of lower prices, which means losses large and small, according to the amount of business. He cannot bring himself to think but what this drop is coming, but he is still doing a limit business ready to accept the inevitable when it comes. I am an optimist today.

Unless the Bolsheviks run this country and such chances are 1000 to one, we are facing a period of good business for years to come. I have doped out this situation from my humble standpoint and can see nothing else in sight. The pessimist may tell you of the world's unrest, and all the rest, but I have faith enough in the American workman to believe if Germany works 10 hours a day and can undersell us, we will adopt ourselves to circumstances. We helped trim the Germans in the war game, and I am of the unqualified opinion we can repeat in the commercial game should the occasion require. A tariff wall which keeps out cheaper goods was a part of our system when the Republicans were in power, and can be put in force again if necessary. I will say that we must produce, and we can produce as much in eight hours as can the Germans in 10 hours. So why worry about it.

There is one comeback, if our leather costs more than does other leather of foreign manufacture.

Billie Burke Will Bow To Eager Strand Patrons

"Sahara," an eight-act special, starring Louise Glaum, is the big attraction the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. "Sahara" tells the story of a spoiled darling of the Parisian stage. Her young husband, who is an American, civil engineer, goes broke entertaining, and to cap the climax is ordered by his company to construct a railroad into the heart of Africa. His wife goes with him and here in the desert this woman, who has suddenly been snatched from the environment of the gayest city in the world, suffers intolerably from loneliness. Just at this time a caravan makes its appearance and brings Baron Alexfs, Russian nobleman, to beguile her with the temptations of luxurious Cairo.

Yielding to the allurements of the sensuous city, the wife deserts her engineer husband and child and flees in the night to Cairo, where she rules in the magnificent Palace of Dawn. Into this setting are introduced the luxurious extravagances that the titled Russian charmer devises to drown the conscience of a weak-willed woman. It is during this period that Miss Glaum appears in a number of beautiful gowns, each of which is a wonderful creation and calculated to arouse envy in the heart of every woman. Later the wife meets her husband and child face to face and what ensues is one of the strongest dramatic moments yet recorded on the screen. William Duncan in "Smashing Barriers" and a Fox-Sunshine comedy, "Dabbling in Society," are the other attractions on today's big bill which Mgr. Chet Bent claims is on a par with any program the Strand has offered in months.

Frank Keenan in "Todd of the Times" will head the bill for Sunday evening. Mr. Keenan is recognized as one of the screen's greatest actors and in this funny story of newspaper life he has an ideal part. Ruth Clifford in "The Lure of Luxury" and Chet Potter in a new program of xylophone solos are the other attractions listed for Sunday evening.

Billie Burke in "The Misleading Widow" and Tom Moore in "The City of Comrades" will be presented on Monday and Tuesday, and as both stars are great favorites the mere announcement of their appearance should be sufficient to pack the local playhouse to the doors.

Miss Burke's picture is the first of the Paramount-Artcraft releases this year. The Strand has contracted for one hundred and thirty of this company's pictures which includes the following stars: Charles Ray, Marguerite Clark, Wallace Reid, Dorothy Dalton, William S. Hart, Elsie Ferguson, Robert Warwick, Vivian Martin, Bryant Washburn and all the big specials bearing the Paramount-Artcraft trade mark. All of these pictures with the above mentioned stars will be shown during the coming season together with the pick of all the other producers releases. The cost of this season's pictures practically doubles that of last year, but the Ware Brothers are out to give the people of Peabody the best the market affords, at all times, regardless of cost.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE NEW YORK STATE BARGE CANAL.

TO open the western country and provide safe and cheap transportation for market-bound products, the improvement of the waterways was an absolute necessity. Governor DeWitt Clinton dreamed of a state-owned canal. The route was inspected and approved by President George Washington, engineer and surveyor. The Erie canal, opened in 1825, four feet deep, 42 feet wide and floating boats carrying 30 tons, was the result. Many laughed at it, calling it "Clinton's Big Ditch." In conjunction with the Niagara river, it connected Lake Erie and the Hudson river.

Prior to its opening, Philadelphia was America's greatest seaport. After its completion, the shipping naturally went to New York and the splendid chain of prosperous cities which won for New York the title of Empire State, sprang up along the route. The canal did such an enormous business that in 1903, the people of the state decided to make it a barge canal, hence the name.

The present main canal is 12 feet deep, 75 to 200 feet wide, 339 miles long and has three branches aggregating 100 miles in length. It is one of the world's greatest engineering feats and is ten times as long as the Panama canal. It contains 57 locks, each 328 feet long and 45 feet wide. Five at Waterford have a combined lift of 169 feet and are the greatest series of high-lift locks in the world. Three hundred or more bridges, carrying railroads and public highways, cross this canal. The total cost approximated $150,000,000, and is being paid by the people of the Empire state.

Fred G. Walker, formerly of this city, was a visitor here this week. He is now a resident of Long Island, N. Y.

A Cough on the Lungs

CANNOT BE CURED BY COUGH SYRUPS OR BALSAMS

You have wondered why the cough remedy that has always helped you had no effect this time. Simply this, your present cough is on your lungs, out of reach of such remedies. Ordinarily a remedy that helps a cough in the throat has no effect on the lungs. Why? Because its action is local and it does not come in contact with the lungs.

Allen's Lung Healer

Cures the lung cough because its specific action is on the lungs. Its action is entirely different from all other remedies. It first impregnates the blood, which carries it to every part of the lungs, healing, invigorating and restoring them to a healthy condition. It builds up the tissues and fortifies them against disease. Restores lost appetite and strengthens the body. It is purely vegetable, being composed entirely of oils and extracts from trees and plants. Contains no narcotics or dope of any kind. Sold on a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

Whales That Walked.

Whales used to walk. That is the statement of Prof. d'Arcy Thompson, authority on fishes of the sea, in a lecture on that subject at the Royal Institution, London. High School

Open air meetings are held regularly each week behind the High School building. Cheers are practiced for the Saturday games, thus awakening school spirit among the pupils.

Two cars were not sufficient to accommodate the large crowd that attended the game in Lynn last Saturday. Peabody High pupils are showing more enthusiasm over the games than they have for years, doubtless because of the splendid work of the football players.

Members of the senior class substituted during the different periods, for Mr. Gilmore, in the High School annex last Monday.

The officers of the senior class held a meeting in room 1 Tuesday noon. Plans for raising money this winter were discussed, in all probability some sort of an entertainment will be given in the near future.

Bowling Sees Fair Sex Real Alley Champs

Michael J. Desmond leads Peabody bowlers with the highest total for 10 strings at Manning's alleys, having scored 1083. Frank Chinery is second with 1056, Charles Raymond has 1032 and Frank Kiernan 1021. Wally O'Connor has leaped into the limelight with 742 for a seven-string total and John Nelson, the champion bowler, has put up 668 for a six-string roll.

The A. C. L. bowling champs open their season at the local alleys this coming week and have planned a busy winter's season with the pinboys.

Manager Chuck Burns, himself no mean flinger, is putting all of his overseas hustle into the work of keeping the fans on edge. It looks like a big season at the alleys.

That the sport is sure to be embraced more extensively by the fair sex is shown by the fact that applications for alleys are continually being made by the women bowlers. The school teachers' league has gotten under way with a snap that bodes well for a brisk season. How evenly the teachers are matched is shown by their first scores of the season, as follows: Miss Helen McElroy, 260; Miss Arline Goodwin, 258; Miss Agnes Cody, 258; Miss Gertrude Healey, 256; Miss Katherine Logan, 248; Miss Katherine O'Keefe, 247; Mrs. Elizabeth Waterhouse, 246; Miss Anna Lynch, 243, and Miss Mary Ward, 242. The teachers' bowling league organized this week with Miss Celia Gilmore, president; Miss Margaret Cody, vice president; Miss Arline Goodwin, secretary and treasurer, and this executive committee: Miss Agnes Cody, Miss Katherine Logan and Miss Katherine O'Keefe.

IS IS THE RED CROSS CHRISTMAS SEALS GIRL

BEVERLY HAYES

Beverly Hayes says: "Buy Red Cross Christmas Seals. They protect little children from the ravages of tuberculosis. They build a barrier of health about the workers of the nation. They protect homes—your home. They spell hope, assurance and physical and economic rehabilitation to more than one million people in the United States who have tuberculosis. If you purchase enough Red Cross Christmas Seals, the death rate of this dread plague will be materially reduced."

"Last year 150,000 people fell victims of the disease. Twelve thousand of these were little children. Think of it! This death toll is needless. If we all do our part in the sale this year, next year's death rate will be smaller. It will be reduced year by year until eventually tuberculosis has passed into the oblivion which has already engulfed smallpox, leprosy and typhoid fever."

RED CROSS SEALS ARE HEALTH AGENTS

Idea Was Originated In This Country in 1908 by Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Del.

FIRST SALE YIELDED $3,000

National Tuberculosis Association, Which Sponsors Sale, Will Place 650,000,000 Seals on Sale to Finance the Fight Against Tuberculosis.

The Red Cross Seal—as millions of Americans know it to day, is an agent of happiness and health. It was originated in 1907 by Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Delaware, who learned through Jacob Rits of somewhat similar seals that were sold in Norway for the purpose of raising funds with which to fight tuberculosis.

Miss Bissell persuaded the American Red Cross to take up the idea with the result that seals were sold in a limited number of communities in 1908. The sale yielded a revenue of approximately $3,000. The Red Cross then decided to issue the seals each year and to turn the proceeds over to the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated societies for the purpose of financing the campaign against tuberculosis. The number of seals sold in America increased by leaps and bounds until in 1917 the total reached 180,000,000.

This year the seals are again on sale beginning December 1. More than half a billion seals have been printed for distribution to state and local agents. In addition to the seals "Health Bonds" in denominations ranging from $5.00 to $100.00 are to be sold in lieu of seals to large contributors, who do not send out a sufficient quantity of mail in December to make use of all the seals they would like to purchase. The combined quotas of all the state organizations call for more than $6,500,000 to carry out the intensive educational campaign being conducted by the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1,000 affiliated societies.

The intensive sale of these seals represents a practical demonstration of every lesson that has been learned regarding scientific distribution. Experts of the highest standing in sales management have co-operated to the extent of assuring those interested that every resident of the United States will have an opportunity to buy Red Cross Christmas Seals.

WORKERS NEEDED TO FIGHT WHITE PLAGUE

National Tuberculosis Association, Which Sponsors Red Cross Seal Sale, Is Conducting Intensive Educational Campaign.

A call for volunteers to fight under the standard of the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1000 affiliated bodies throughout the country against tuberculosis—humanity's most vicious foe—has been sounded.

A recent health survey, made by the experts of the National Tuberculosis Association, brought to light some startling statistics with regard to the prevalence of the disease. The findings of this survey have revealed a national menace, which must be eradicated. The figures show that each year 150,000 persons die of the disease and that there are approximately 2,000,000 cases of tuberculosis in the United States today.

The untold consumptive—one who does not know the rules of health, is an indefatigable spreader of the disease. Wherever he goes, he leaves behind him a trail of the deadly germs.

The National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated bodies have entered upon an intensive nation-wide educational campaign. The campaign will be localized and within a short time there will be ample work for many thousands of volunteers.

The National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated bodies are financed largely by the annual sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals. To make possible the carrying out of this campaign, more than 650,000,000 seals will be offered for sale during the holidays. State and local tuberculosis associations have at hand valuable local data regarding the disease and actual conditions in the communities where they are located. The officers of these bodies eagerly welcome inquiries.

DOUBLE BARRED CROSS ADOPTED 17 YEARS AGO

The double barred Red Cross is seventeen years old this month. In October, 1902, the International Anti-Tuberculosis Association, then meeting in Berlin, adopted the cross as the emblem of the world-wide fight against tuberculosis. It was proposed by Dr. G. Sersiron, of Paris. It is a combination of the Croix de Lorraine and the cross of the Greek Catholic church. Both crosses are symbolic of charity and help to humanity. Their combined features were selected and adopted as the symbol of the hope of civilization. Four years later, in 1906, the double barred Red Cross was carried into this country. It was in 1908 the National Tuberculosis Association was formed, and for the three intervening years the cross has been carried over the United States by the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated bodies, which now number one thousand.

The work of these organizations is financed chiefly by the Red Cross Christmas Seal sale.

BLUE BIRDS IN HALLOWE'EN

The Blue Birds will meet on Monday instead of Tuesday next week.

The Camp Fire Girls will start on a hike at 4 o'clock from the church.

At their meeting, October 22, they elected the following officers; Assistant Guardian, Esther Reid; Secretary, Ruth Bradstreet; Treasurer, Hilma Cooke; Hike Committee: Lavinia Ingalls, May Simmons, Cora Frost; Program Committee, Mary Little, Elizabeth MacDonald, Theresa Hayes; Entertainment Committee, Ida Keniston, Marion Bradstreet, Laura Hicks. They also voted to have a hike the first Wednesday in each month, a meeting for sewing, the second Wednesday, a meeting to earn honors as a group, the third Wednesday, and a ceremonial meeting the fourth Wednesday of each month.

Preparatory Members' Class, Friday at 4 o'clock.

The girls from 15 to 30 years of age will meet on Wednesday evening from 7.30 to 9. At this time, they will organize as a club choosing a name, adopting a constitution and electing officers.

Wednesday afternoon Blue Birds dressed in all sorts of Halloween gowns were carried in automobiles by Mr. John and Mr. Joel Ballentine, to Mr. Lewis' camp in South Peabody, where they enjoyed themselves for three hours. The camp was decorated prettily with corn stalks, autumn leaves, Jack-o-Lanterns and Halloween paper.

The children tried all kinds of Halloween contests and some of them won prizes. After the contests, refreshments of cocoa and cookies, ice cream and cake, and candy were served. At 8 o'clock the automobiles returned and carried the children to their homes. The plans and preparations for this good time were made by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morton and their daughter, Pearl; Mr. and Mrs. Morton's daughter, Doris, is a member of the Blue Birds.

St Johns Hold Alumni Party

St. John's School Alumni held a very successful halloween party in A. O. H. hall Tuesday evening. A very interesting program was carried out. Miss Reid, the local Red Cross nurse, recently returned from France, related her experiences while with the American forces in France. Miss Bessie Sheehan gave several humorous readings in a very effective manner and made quite a hit. The musical end of the program was upheld by the Misses Althea Wilson and Mary Rackliff in violin and piano selections. Miss Lena Armstrong also gave some lively piano solos, and Elinore McHugh did a very graceful solo dance. Refreshments were served and general dancing was enjoyed. The hall was appropriately decorated with orange and black crepe paper and leaves.

Origin of "Eleventh Hour."

The "eleventh hour" means figuratively the last minute, or, as we sometimes express it, "just in the nick of time." The expression now in general use, comes from the parable narrated in the gospel according to St. Matthew of the laborers hired for the harvest.

Canadian Expeditionary Forces.

A meeting of Camp Parker, American Volunteers in the Canadian Forces, was held at Carpenters' hall, Lynn, Wednesday evening, which was presided over by Vice President G. Andrews. A committee was appointed to secure a hall for the meetings to report at the next meeting. Comrade G. Smart was appointed Treasurer and Paymaster, during the absence of Treasurer Ralph J. Coty, who is undergoing an operation at the Lynn Hospital. Comrade Spruce is at the Beverly Hospital, and it is requested that all comrades who can, will visit both Comrades Coty and Spruce. The next meeting will be held on Friday, Nov. 7, at Carpenters' hall, at 7.30.

A very successful tag day was held in Lynn on Saturday, when over $200 was netted for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the comrades.

The number of Peabody members is increasing with each meeting, and it is hoped that every American Volunteer in the Canadian forces will attend the meetings in Lynn.

Peabody Historical Society.

The rooms of the Peabody Historical Society, 35 Washington street, will be open from 2.15 to 5 o'clock, until further notice.

On the first opening day next Wednesday afternoon, tea will be served and members will be present to act as guides to the various rooms and exhibits.

The public is cordially invited.

On the petition of ANNIE F. DUANE of Peabody in the County of Essex, the wife of Daniel W. Duane, of unknown residence, representing that she has been deserted by and is living apart from her said husband for justifiable cause, and praying that said Court will make a decree establishing the fact of such desertion and that she is so living apart from her said husband.

It is ordered that the petitioner give notice to the said Daniel W. Duane to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Lawrence in the County of Essex, on the tenth day of November, A. D. 1919, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, by delivering to him a copy of this order fourteen days at least before said Court, if he may be found within this Commonwealth, that he may then and there show cause, if any he has why the prayer of said petition should not be granted; or if he shall not be so found, by either leaving such copy at his usual place of abode, or by mailing such copy to him at his last known post-office address; and also, unless it shall be made to appear to the Court by affidavit that he has had actual notice of the proceedings, by publishing the same once in each of three successive weeks in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper published in Peabody, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twentieth day of October in the year one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

All of the ward councillors have filed their papers. Among those passed in yesterday was that of George H. Hammond of 69 Tracey st. for School Committee. Atty. Louis F. O'Keefe will file papers for the School Board. George H. Eagan of 66 Aborn st. has filed his papers as candidate for councillor from Ward 3.

The Peabody Post of World's War Veterans have an important business meeting Monday night next and every member is asked to attend. A discussion of the motion to not allow any political office holder to hold an office in the Legion will be discussed. Plans for the night before armistice dance will also be completed.

The Legion adopted the name of the Peabody Post at its meeting this week. There were 400 members present at the cabaret show last Tuesday evening.

There is talk of the Post holding a bazar this winter.

I shall not be surprised to see the Peabody War Veterans' Legion adopt some resolutions in support of the Boy Scouts of whom Peabody has several troops, each one a splendid organization of young boys. The First Pennsylvania State Cantonment of the American Legion recently adopted resolutions and pledged its most hearty cooperation in any way whatever. Peabody Boy Scouts helped to put this city over the top in every war drive.

WOMEN WORKERS FROM 34 NATIONS ASKED TO CONGRESS

First International Conference in History of World Opens at Washington, D. C., October 23.

NEW RESPONSIBILITIES TO BE DISCUSSED

National Women's Trade Union League of America to Act as Hostess—Belgium and Great Britain Send Distinguished Women as Advisors.

Working women from all parts of the globe will gather in Washington on October 23 at the invitation of the National Women's Trade Union League of America to take part in the first International Congress of Working Women ever held in the history of the world.

An official call to the conference has been sent to labor organizations in thirty-four countries asking that they send delegates to the conference. Each country is entitled to ten delegates and to ten votes on the floor of the congress; also to one member on the executive committee. So far Finland, Czechoslovakia, Poland, France, Japan, Belgium, England, the Argentine and Canada have announced delegates for the congress, Belgium being the first to announce that Mme. Victoire Cappe, who had been chosen to serve as an advisor at the international labor conference called for October 29, would arrive in the United States in time to serve as one of the two Belgian delegates at the women's congress. Margaret Bondfield, secretary of the National Federation of Women Workers in Great Britain, who will also serve as an advisor to the British delegation at the labor conference, is coming to take her place on the floor of the Congress of Working Women.

It was Miss Bondfield who, during her visit to the United States in the spring and early summer, presented to the Women's Trade Union League, assembled in the seventh biennial convention of that organization in Philadelphia in June, the resolution of the standing committee of the Women's Industrial Organizations of England that the American League be asked to call an International Congress of Working Women to meet in the United States in the autumn. Such a conference had been previously discussed by women's labor organizations of various countries and would have been held in a European city probably had not the League of Nations society decided upon Washington as the meeting place for an international labor conference.

The committee on international relations of the Women's Trade Union League, which is in charge of the congress, has as its chairman Mrs. Raymond Robins, president of the league; Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the women's bureau of the United States department of labor; Miss Agnes Nestor, vice president of the International Glove Workers' union; Miss Julia O'Connor, president of the Telephone Operators' union, and Miss Rose Schneidermann, president of the New York Women's Trade Union League.

In discussing the congress, Mrs. Robins says: "Women must come forward now and accept their responsibilities. They can no longer have their affairs attended to by proxy. Men cannot bear the entire responsibility for the world. They must be assisted by women, and the women should come forth willingly, prepared to take up their share of the burden of seeing that things go right with the world. At the Congress of Working Women we will discuss problems affecting women which we, as women workers, are particularly able to consider, that we may recommend how conditions of the labor of women and children can be improved."

CZECHO-SLOVAKS TO ATTEND CONGRESS

Two Women Delegates Will Represent Poland at International Gathering on October 23.

Two industrial women workers are on their way from Czechoslovakia and four on their way from Poland to attend the International Congress of Working Women in Washington, October 23d, according to cables received by Miss Mary Anderson, secretary of the committee on International Relationships of the National Women's Trade Union League of America, who is in charge of arrangements.

Miss Anderson has also been advised that the Telephone Operators' Association of the Argentine will send a representative to the Congress at the earliest possible moment that transportation facilities will permit. Two delegates are also en route from Belgium, and others from England, Switzerland, Japan and Italy.

West Peabody

West Peabody women are to be addressed next Wednesday evening by Mrs. S.N. Stimson, manager of the Essex County Cooperative Farming Association. Home work will be demonstrated by Miss Gladys Stratton and R. H. Gaskill and E. A. Howard will be among the speakers. The meeting will be divided into sections for the men and women.

Any serious minded person can very readily perceive that the prices in the other cities must exceed the local prices, due to the high rentage, taxation, etc., and, above all, the proprietor of a local store wishes to retain his local customers, and gives them good value for their money.

COUNCIL IN DEADLOCK

manufacturers, two of whom so expressed themselves openly at City Hall last night after the council deadlock.

2-Platoon Works Well

Peabody permanent firemen who are asking the voters to adopt the two-platoon system for this city point to Chelsea, Cambridge, Revere and Milton as places where the system is proving the wisdom of its adoption. Letters from the chiefs of the departments in the above cities and town extol the system. The Milton chief declares that the home life thus given the firemen makes them more efficient. The chiefs are in accord as to the benefits of the system and declare they would not want to go back to the old plan.

Under the two-platoon system the firemen have no day off, but so arrange their schedule as to give the department its full complement. The proponents of the system declare that it is absurd to say firemen would quit fires when their time came for a layoff.

The cost to the city of Peabody to adopt the system would call for six more permanent men at a yearly cost of $7500. It has been wrongly stated that the cost would be $30,000. Daniel J. Hannon, driver at headquarters, has been directing the work of the local campaign. Fire alarm cards are being distributed with the compliments of the firemen.

Elect Dadmun P.H.S. Coach

Harrie Dadmun, former Har-

Councillor Horrigan said he would vote for the proposed $40,000 pump if that was going to be the cheapest in the end, but he first wanted to know what the Lynn water engineer had to say about it.

Mayor Donnell will confer with the fire underwriters to plead with them not to increase the rate of insurance in this city.

It is not believed that another meeting of the council will be called before Wednesday of next week.

who was one of the G. O. P. speakers here this week, pooh-poohed the criticism that failure to answer roll calls on the cut and dried agreement for a roll call on every Constitutional Convention measure. On no important matter before the House was Rep. McVann missing at roll call.

He has been given a fine reception everywhere he has been able to speak this week. He was kept off the stump last night through illness of his wife, remaining at her bedside in preference to going before the voters. Mrs. McVann's condition is still serious today.

Rep. McVann held rallies at the River Works and the main A. C. Lawrence plant yesterday, accompanied by Asst. Dist. Atty. D. C. Manning, who urged Mr. McVann's re-election, saying that no representative had ever been refused a second term who had conscientiously done his work. He commended Mr. McVann's efforts in working his way to an education and to political success and said that his career had been that of a typical American who had worked hard and deserved commendation.

vard varsity player and now with the A. C. L. Co., was yesterday chosen coach for Peabody High for the balance of the year owing to the illness of Coach Gilmore.

Charles P. Kelley, Superintendent of the A. C. L. plants in this city, is enjoying a trip through Canada.

Mrs. Ella C. Barris, bookkeeper at the N. H. Poor Lea Co., will return tomorrow from a two weeks' visit with her sister in New York.

Albert C. Talbot, the popular real estate man, received his commission as Justice of the Peace this week from the office of Governor Coolidge.

Roswell Enos of Bowditch street, son of Charles Enos, chief engineer at the Electric Light Plant, returned home last Saturday from the J. B. Thomas Hospital, where he was under treatment for four weeks, with a fractured knee cap, the result of a motorcycle accident.

Howard Cowdrey of Central street is confined at the Thomas Hospital, where he will undergo an operation.

Miss Rebecca Richardson of Andover street, who recently returned from Rutland, Vt., where she was ill in the hospital for several weeks with typhoid fever, is visiting in Concord, N. H., with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Spence of High street are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son, weighing 11 pounds; born Saturday.

Antonio Cardoza, the popular barber, who was savagely attacked unawares last week, by a thug on Caller street, is slowly recovering, and hopes to resume his position at Randall's barber shop in a short time.

James Gilmore of the High school faculty is confined to his home on Endicott street with pneumonia.

Timothy F. Dorgan is having a building erected, to be used in his leather business on Tremont street.

Nomination papers have been taken out in the interest of Louis F. O'Keefe, the well known attorney, for school committee.

Mathew E. Dowdall, who recently sold his baker shop on Foster street, will open a shop at Wilson Square, next week.

James Henderson, son of Angus Henderson, formerly of this city, was killed by an auto in Malden Wednesday. He was crossing the street when he was knocked down. The lad was seven years old.

Woman's Club

Rev. Lyman Rollins of Marblehead chaplain in the 101st regiment, Y. D., will be speaker at the Woman's club today, and despite the bad weather, a large attendance is assured. His subject will be "Joan d'Arc," and his experience in France should make his address very interesting.

City Council Turns Down Chief Grady

Chief Grady asked the Council last night to refuse Sunday licenses to stores selling "jakey" liquors. He also protested against the granting of a coffee house license to 27 Walnut st., declaring that the place in question was the worst gambling den in the city. Councillor Cotton charged that the pressure brought to bear on the Council to revoke the license in this case was due to spite on the part of some Walnut st. residents. The Council voted down the motion of Councillor McKee to revoke and referred the matter back to the license committee.

PROTEST WAR VETS' NAMES ON OLD STREETS

Protests against changing the names of various Peabody streets to that of some war veteran who made the supreme sacrifice were filed with the City Council last night by the Peabody Woman's Club and Walter C. Merrill. The Woman's Club asked that new streets be named in honor of the war heroes rather than the present well known streets. No action was taken on the matter of changing the names last night.

Firemen See Victory For Two Platoon

Peabody firemen are confident that the two platoon system for fire department will be carried in this city at the State election. They have had assurances of support from many citizens. The local committee of firemen declare that the Boston Finance Commission is in error when it stated this week that under the two platoon system firemen engaged in fighting fires could quit duty. They point to the act of the Legislature this year in which specifically provides that the officer or board having charge of the fire fighting force may keep on duty any or all of the members of the force while the conflagration continues.

MAY SETTLE JUNIOR HIGH THIS EVENING

Plans for the proposed Junior High School for Peabody will be pushed along at a meeting of the school committee this evening, when a conference with Architect Frank Cooper of Boston will be held at City Hall. It is expected that tentative plans for the proposed new school will be submitted. Plans from the city engineers office showing the proposed land which the city may take by right of eminent domain will be laid before the conference. S. A. Arnold, an expert on stadiums, will also attend the conference this evening.

ASK CHARTER TO OPEN NEW PEABODY BANK

Talk of a new bank in Peabody takes shape this week by an announcement elsewhere in the Enterprise of a public hearing before the Board of Bank Incorporation at the State House on Wednesday, Nov. 12. A number of prominent Peabody business men have banded together and have made application for a charter to establish the Leather City Trust Company. The incorporators are the Wetan Leather Co., Pearse Leather Co., Ernest A. Woelfel, William J. Dodge, J. J. Donovan, Roger M. Crehore, Louis Verza, Paul Harsfeld, D. R. Bennisson, Alfred M. Lightbody, William V. Hayden, Walter M. Wilcox, M. Steinharter, Joseph Ryan, John S. Webber, William F. Cass, H. T. Smith, Fred Eric G. Cann, William V. Hayden and Frank D. Tuttle. Walter H. Wilcox, named among the petitioners, is a prominent insurance man of Woburn and is a director in the Leather National Bank of that city.

LOW WATER PRESSURE MAY BOOST INSURANCE

Unless the city of Peabody takes immediate steps to increase its water supply by installing a new pump at the pumping station, the fire underwriters association officials hinted to the Council last night that a change in insurance rates was most probable for this city. John C. Caldwell, one of the engineers of the fire underwriters, declared he believed a pump yielding 7 1/2 million gallons of water would go far to increase the water pressure. He also pointed out the need of the city enlarging its water mains and laying another pipe line from the reservoir. He declared the water pressure in Peabody was not much over 35 pounds during the busy hours and that this condition was responsible for the recommendations made by his association. He said the city was justified in doing away with the half million gallon tank on Buxton's hill. Mayor Donnell asked the Council back in July to authorize him to contract for a new pump. The Council has yet to take definite action and last night referred the matter back to the committee on water for a conference with the Mayor to see if a 10-million gallon pump was not what should be installed. Engineer Caldwell said that at certain times of the day the water pressure was so low that in case of fire at the A. C. L., the sprinkler system on the upper floors of the big buildings would have no water supply. The pressure has been going lower for some time, he said, due to the increased consumption of water and the fact that the pumping station is not properly equipped to increase the water service. Councillor Horrigan, who is unrivalled as the wit of the City Council, declared last night that the whole city was in the dark about the light department and called on Manager King to explain why his department cannot furnish needed lights about the city. He further declared that women residents of Holden st. were afraid to go out after dark because of the lack of lights on that street. He waxed a bit warm on the subject following a request of Councillor Jones for lights (Continued on page 8)

Thunder and Lightning.

Thunder is caused by electric discharge of lightning. This discharge, in forcing its way through the atmosphere, heats the air and vapor lying in its path to a high temperature, causing a violent expansion along the whole length of the flash. The result is a deep compression wave, or what is the same, a noise. Lightning is the flash of the electric explosion.

To Hold Exams For West Point

Peabody young men will probably avail themselves of the opportunity to take examinations for appointment to West Point. Congressman Phelan has arranged with the civil service commission to hold an examination in Boston, Nov. 22 and the contest is open to any young man from the ages of 17 to 22 who is a bonafide resident of the Seventh Congressional District. The final examinations will be taken some time in February. A principal and two alternates will be picked for the final examinations.

PEABODY POST, 153.

Great interest is aroused over the coming "Night Before Party" to be held by the local post of the American Legion on the evening of November 10.

It is planned to have the affair in City Hall every year on the eve of Armistice Day, and to make that eventful day as memorable as the "Night Before the Fourth."

A very pleasing entertainment has been arranged for, which will meet the fancy of the old as well as the young folks.

Senator Walsh and Mayor Donnell are invited to impress upon us the significance of the day. Hicks' Jazz Band of Boston, rated as the best band for dancing this side of New York, has been engaged.

The committee on the big dance is: William F. Carlen, chairman; Leonard B. Cassidy, secretary (publicity); William G. Walsh, transportation and publicity; James T. Waters, refreshments; James H. Murphy, refreshments; John Cotton, decoration and hall; Richard B. O'Rourke, entertainment; Harold G. Dunne, entertainment; Maurice F. Dullea, transportation; Harold G. Childs, printing and checking.

A representative of the War Risk Insurance Dept. will be present at the meeting next Tuesday night and will answer any questions regarding the insurance or back pay, etc.

The finance committee of the Peabody post consists of Francis L. Poor, James Murphy and John Cooley.

The post has voted to hold its meetings on the first and third Mondays in each month.

It also voted to defray the expenses of Delegate Philip L. Hunt to the national convention at Minneapolis, November 12, 13 and 14.

An order has been placed for 500 Legion buttons which will probably be here by the next meeting. Buttons will cost each member 25 cents.

The next meeting will be Tuesday evening when the name of the post will be voted on. There will be a cabaret show after the meeting.

OFFICE, CITY HALL

CITY HALL

Peabody assessors make no bones about an increase in the tax rate coming for 1920. How much depends they will tell you on the size of the next budget submitted by the Mayor. It is claimed by the assessors that there is not a single piece of real estate in the city that could not be given an added valuation, and those familiar with the lack of homes, tenements and houses, will admit that valuations on realty holdings in Peabody could be easily increased and no property owner imposed on in view of the great demand and by the same token, the scarcity of available domiciles.

The Assessors lean, however, to a higher tax rate rather than increased valuations which many would argue is a fairer thing for the small property owner. If Peabody is to build any great amount of new permanent streets in 1920, a jump in the tax rate is likely to see from $3 to $5 more added. The new high school will make for an increase in the tax rate, and the needed extensions of water and sewer supplies to take care of new business are other items which must be reckoned with, say those in a position to talk. If anyone was foolish enough to think that the job of being the second Mayor of Peabody was to be a sinecure, on the assumption that the great amount of street and sidewalk work done would preclude much more expenditures in these directions than the time has long since come when another line of reckoning should be seized.

It is true, and it doesn't permit of any contradiction by anyone. Mayor Donnell put Peabody on the map. It is true also from the unmistakable signs on new streets and new sidewalks, that these cost money. They were bound to for Peabody was in dire need and had too long been obliged to hear the scoffs of neighboring cities and towns. Streets were among the first big things confronting the first Mayor of Peabody.

Some other man besides Mayor Donnell could have done this with probably equal credit, but the fact that Donnell did the work gives him the everlasting credit. The Assessors have done their work these past three years in a manner that has reflected credit on their wisdom and zeal and the absence of any striking claim for abatement is proof that the assessed valuations were equitable and fair. They must have been to allow the Assessors now to declare that not a single piece of real estate exists in Peabody which could not be given another boost in valuation.

The Assessors are familiar with the real estate values and the banking situation, as regards realty transactions. Their work has not been an easy task and there's still work ahead for their office to keep the wheels of the municipal machinery well oiled to operate for results. Now salaries at City Hall can be boosted and not make a dent in the tax rate is beyond the writer's comprehension. The increase in salary was in order.

Peabody's city solicitors, Judges Farnham and Ray are mightily interested in the outcome of the representative contest, and each has his choice.

It is unfortunate for City Hall that the Mayor does not start something. During the first two years of his administration his voice could be often heard laying down law and order to those who needed it. There has been no Mayor hereabouts who could and would argue to the point better than has Mayor Donnell in the past. But alas, now all is still. We are of the opinion that this pent up energy is being held back for his new job as District Attorney. There will be merry times in the Superior Court next year, and those lawyers who were out to defeat him in the primaries will have to fight if they wish to win their cases. It will take all the skill they can muster, and it is a good bet but few of them have enough to cope with our hustling Mayor. It looks to us as though the going would be rocky for some of the bar members.

City Solicitor Horace P. Farnham is on the job looking himself again. No one but a man of his fighting proclivities could have so successfully coped with the serious illness he recently passed through. Welcome back Horrie.

Some one about the new court house had one handed them this week. A drunk was given 30 days, and after the sentence he calmly walked out the back door to freedom. Eagle eye Tim O'Connor arrested the gent the following afternoon and he passed another night in celdum. The unfortunate was like a lame horse, he would not run far.

DARK BROWN SHADE HAS CALL FOR SHOE LEATHER

By "ENERGY"

There have been several articles in newspapers recently dwelling on the high cost of shoes, and as usual, the writers are wondering what will happen as to prices in the future. The McElwain Company, who are rated as one of the largest concerns in the shoe industry, predict a drop in shoe prices, and their opinion created a mild flurry among others in the trade. The sentiment seemed to be that there was no drop in sight, only that when some high class retailers in Boston put the price at $25.00 a pair, it was beyond reason. But one must take some stock in the opinion of the McElwain people, for they must know whereof they speak.

The trouble, as I see it, is that profits are climbed on percentages, and as prices climb the profits climb if figured that way. A retail shoe man formerly made at least 25 per cent. on his purchases. They may tell you this was not the case, and I will admit there were exceptions to this rule. Such exceptions came because of the fact that shoes left over had to be sacrificed rather than carry them over another season and become out of style.

The left overs make the retail shoe business an uncertain one. These times to have many shoes on hand, makes an uncertainty which might lead to serious results when the drop comes. But to do business there must be a stock to select from, so what shall we do. Shoes at $12 are now accepted as ordinary. I find that many people hesitate to pay over this sum, so the tendency now among the retailers is to offer shoes from $9 upwards.

I know of no article of wear that can be manufactured and cover up the cheapening process as can a shoe. By having a good looking vamp quarter and top, most people will accept such a shoe without regard to the lining, sole and heel. When the wear comes, the sole need replacing in a short time, the lining wear so as to make the shoe disagreeable to the foot, and so on. Then it occurs to the purchaser that the shoe he bought for less money is not so cheap after all. But with prices of everything on the same plane, why complain about shoes. They are plentier than sugar.

The housing problem in Peabody has been, will be and should be threshed out. If it costs $1000 a room to erect a house today, and they are needed, why not erect them. Moneyed men do not hesitate to buy autos at any old price, and do not figure a return for their money, for they would not have them. They contribute money to everything that is popular without figuring results. Then why not help our city in the most lasting manner, by taking a chance on dwelling houses with more than an even chance that they will get a fair percentage on their investment? If employees are to stay here, they must be housed or they will go elsewhere. It seems to me to be the best protection to the manufacturer conceivable, to offer inducements of a comfortable home for employee and family. If the proposition is figured as an investment such figures will not justify the attempt. But if figured from the harvest that will come afterward, because of the employee having an added interest, then it looks good. Cooperation is going to solve the labor problem. Proctor and Gamble of Ivory Soap fame, have practiced co-operation for 20 odd years, with the result that strikes are not known in their immense plants. It might be practiced here by first building homes for the workmen.

I read in a leather paper that black, white and brown will constitute the colors for leather this season. From all I can glean, the dark brown shade is the most popular shade that has appeared for many years. It is dark enough so as not to show spotted, and it is far enough away from the black to appear more dressy. Some manufacturers will try to get away from this color, but I am of the opinion that a large percentage of the public care little whether the color matches any part of their clothing, just so long as the color is dark enough to stand the wear.

Tanning property in Peabody today is at a premium. There are few places now available, every one having been purchased at prices which would put your eye out. It would seem ridiculous to compare the taxed value with what such property has been sold for recently, and the question arises, Are they worth such prices, or are the values inflated as on everything else? Not only factory property, but dwelling houses. It seems to me that higher prices for real estate in Peabody will continue to soar just so long as the business stays here. And who will say it will not stay here? It matters not why our city is chosen as a leather center, for some claim there is no legitimate reason. There is a reason if not legitimate or logical, because they continue to come and would come more, if the cities were available. So why spend our time trying to figure out the reason when it is an assured fact?

I am told that the Chamber of Commerce are pushing a scheme to connect the city with wires from the Eastern Massachusetts Company, so that extra juice can be obtained, which is needed. Power can be furnished at attractive rates by so doing and it particularly is attractive to leather manufacturers who anticipate the wants of more power. I understand the cost to connect with this corporation would be much less than additions to the local municipal lighting plant.

GOV. COOLIDGE

(From the Boston Herald.)

If you don't know yourself, ask the man who knows Calvin Coolidge by experience in his work as city solicitor of Northampton, as mayor of Northampton, as member of the House of Representatives, as senator, as president of the Senate, as Lieutenant-Governor of the state and as Governor of the state.

Ask him if he has ever been present when a lengthy discussion was going on as to some important matter of state administration? Who said the quiet word that brought the right decision? Ask him who knows most about the institutions of the state? Ask him who has the best grasp of the finances of the state? Ask him who brings order out of confusion? Ask him whose advice is asked by men whose sole work is to conduct the various departments—the department of education, the department for the insane?

You will find you are asked to elect a man Governor of your state who has spent his whole life in patient, persistent toil to familiarize himself with the duties of each office to which he has been chosen.

You will learn from the man who knows that underneath that quiet, modest exterior there is working one of the most powerful minds that Massachusetts has ever called to high office.

You will find that you are asked to elect a man Governor who never tries, for his own advantage, to create a situation, but when that situation comes in the form of a crisis, he is ready, and because he is ready and because, as few men, he is able to keep his mind and action applied to the real point and not to side issues, he meets the crisis.

It is for reasons like these that some Democrats and all Republicans are determined that Calvin Coolidge shall succeed himself as Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

DANGEROUS PRACTICE

With the coming of smooth pavements came the natural temptation for the children to utilize the fine surfaces for coasting in carts and for indulging to their heart's content in the exhilarating sport of roller skating. During the past summer hundreds of fond parents have been besieged with requests from "Young America" for skates, and in many cases have surrendered, with the result that the youngsters have been having the time of their lives on the streets and sidewalks. There was little danger in the practice until the coming of the short days, when darkness comes before the children are ready to quit their outdoor play. But with the advent of darkness at an early hour in the evening, the danger increases alarmingly. It is almost impossible for the motorist to guard against hitting the darting little figures in the uncertain light, and parents should not allow their children out with their skates after sundown from now on. While we are on the subject, some of the older people need to be warned of the danger of riding bicycles after dark without a light, for in case of an accident they would fare very poorly if it should appear that they had not complied with the State laws on the subject. Of course the same law applies as well to horse-drawn vehicles, the drivers of many of them not thinking it necessary to light up.

DISTRICT NURSE.

Commencing Wednesday and continuing through Saturday of this week the people of Peabody are asked to contribute to the fund to assist the District Nurse in her duties for suffering humanity. Charity begins at home. If there are any who are skeptical as to the doings of this benevolent institution it must be because they never came in contact with it. Those that have and they number in the thousands, can give only praise for the help woman, yes and women who have worked hard to give comfort to the sick and unfortunate. Miss Noonan on whom most of the burden has fallen, is the ideal of what a nurse can do in time of sickness. She brings cheer, and knowledge of her duties no one can question. During the terrible epidemic of one year ago, she worked with no less energy than did the brave women on the firing line in France and Belgium. She braved the dangers of influenza which were as dangerous as is shot and shell. Without her and her assistants the dreaded disease would have done more damage. And so as a year passes, and we are called upon to assist this most worthy institution, let us not falter, let us give, give, and see to it that those less thoughtful give also. To our mind, the Visiting Nurse Association is one of the most essential institutions in our midst. Those who have occasion to call upon them have nothing but praise for their accomplishments. It has become a part of the community, and those who pass it by, without giving something to further its interests, have no interest in the well being of our city. We appeal to all in this drive, and we are confident it will be answered by a generous response from those who love American institutions and believe that our country, state and city, should thrive in the first principle of life, the health of the community.

ROUND ABOUT

I understand that Harry Dadmun, former Harvard football captain who is now working in Peabody, is giving considerable time to helping out the Peabody High School team. His blackboard talks, based on his wide experience, should be of tremendous help to Jack Gilmore's fine team.

Some of the merchants on Walnut st. are rapidly coming into limelight and if the sugar shortage keeps up they will soon be well established. They seem to have an unlimited supply of this scarce commodity which, nowever, they do not deal out very promiscuously.

A great deal of local interest is being shown by Peabody citizens in the work of Jim Fitzpatrick and Louie Urban, the two Boston College lads who played baseball in Peabody this summer. These two star athletes are even more prominent in football than they were in the national sport, Fitzpatrick by his wonderful punting and drop kicking, and Urban by his clever work in handling forward passes and by his fierce tackling.

Donald P. Brown, a Danvers High graduate and son of Assistant Register of Probate, Clarence R. Brown, is college pal of Theodore Roosevelt Jeffers of this city at Brown, so I am told, and the two boys are finding a great deal of pleasure in their friendship. They are freshmen at the University of Providence. Young Brown was the star catcher for Danvers High.

Miss Evelyn Pyne, teacher of the kindergarten at the Community House has had full measure of success in her new work this week and finds herself entertaining a large number of young hopefuls.

I hear that Gus Erickson, the musician and composer of A. C. L. plant, is about to publish a new number. This latest gem from the pen of the composer of the "A. C. L. March" is a jazz fox trot and is said to be a dandy.

The heavy black frost of Monday night put the winter's blight on most gardens, carrying off the cosmos and other more hardy plants. It was the goodbye to 1919 gardens. Flocks of geese trailing south tell the story of approaching winter, so farmers tell me, and they are preparing their land accordingly.

RED CROSS GIVES FULL ACCOUNTING

War Council Tells How Millions Contributed by Public Were Used For Relief.

BIG TASK IS DESCRIBED

In Twenty Months $154,000,000 Was Spent Overseas and $119,000,000 In the United States.

Washington, (Special).—Through a complete report of the work of the American Red Cross in the war by Chairman Henry P. Davison, on behalf of the war council, the organization on the eve of its annual enrollment of members during the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2 to 11, has rendered an accounting of the many millions given it by the American people to help our fighting men and our allies. The statement is, in part, as follows:

"The war council of the American Red Cross is now prepared to make a complete accounting to the American people of money contributed and expended, as well as the work done by the American Red Cross during the period in which the war council was in control of its affairs. The war council was appointed May 19, 1919, and went out of existence February 28, 1919.

"It was the practice of the war council to give complete publicity to its policies and finances, but it is only now that a picture of the war period as a whole can be presented. It is the feeling of the war council that a report in this summarized form should be made directly to the public which provided the money and gave the effort which made the American Red Cross a success.

"A statement of the American Red Cross effort and finances since the war council relinquished its control will be made to the public through the executive committee, and it is important, therefore, that the fact that this report covers the period only until March 1, should be carefully noted."

Following are certain round figures covering American Red Cross participation in the war, as revealed by the war council's report:

A pretty custom is followed at baptisms in Helgoland. While a psalm is being sung, a procession of little boys and girls troop in, passing in front of the altar. Each child carries a pannikin of water, the contents of which are poured into the baptismal font.

Appleton Escaped 3 U-Boats

Edward E. Appleton of 12 Brown st. is home on a 30-day furlough from the navy in which he enlisted in Jan., 1917, before the United States entered the war. He has completed 27 round trips to Liverpool and Brest and is the only Peabody boy to experience combat with submarines on three occasions. That many times his transport was fired on by the sneaking undersea boats which preyed in vain on American shipping.

On all three occasions the Huh U-boat quickly dove out of sight when it saw that its torpedo had failed to wound the Yankee vessel. One shot from the Gerfiansubmarine came within 15 feet of the Appleton's transport. The submarine that sunk the Dixie is believed to have fired a shot at the Harrisburg, the transport on which young Appleton was gun captain with the rating of second class bowsman's mate. He received the order to fire on the sub and his shot hurried the U-boat on its way to safety.

Appleton will rejoin the navy on the expiration of his leave reporting to the receiving ship at Boston. A year ago he was home on a short leave. He likes the service.

High School

By Marjory Taylor

Peabody High School pupils might do well to attend some of the Shakespearean plays that are now going on in Boston. Why not arrange for a theatre party and participate in an enjoyable as well as instructive trip?

Miss Florence Bailey confenced her duties Monday morning, as new teacher of history, Latin and mathematics. She takes place of Miss Griffin, who for the past four years has held that position, and whose resignation has been greatly deplored by her many pupils.

The new order of filing to the lunch counter at recess proves popular at last for the pupils of the second and third floors. Heretofore the first floor has filed first and the third last, while under the new arrangement, the order is reversed.

A good crowd witnessed the game between Winthrop and Peabody High School last Saturday. The former had a well organized cheering squad, and certainly made more noise than our own people. Perhaps if all Peabody rooters assembled together in one part of the field instead of scattering among the crowd of spectators, better results might be obtained at the next game.

All pupils are anxiously awaiting report cards, which are expected in about a week.

Miss Paulman has suggested to her American history class that a trip to Boston be made this winter. Several historic places of which class seems hopelessly ignorant, will be visited.

Misses Elizabeth Mackintosh and Doris P. Allen were the two girls selected from the senior class this year as new members of the Woman's Club.

Miss Thel Watts, P. H. S. '18, substituted for Mr. Osborne, Wednesday, as teacher of English history and Spanish.

The returns from the Athletic Association drive have so far been very good. Up to date, nearly $1200 has been contributed. This cause should be well supported, above all by the High School pupils.

Theodore Jeffers, '19; William Munroe, '19, and Chester Stackpole, '18, were home from Brown University over the week-end. They attended Brown-Harvard football game in Cambridge, last Saturday.

Genuine open kettle Molasses. Made from sugar cane. Contains an extra quantity of sugar and should be stirred before using, so as to get the full benefit of the sugar content. For this reason we recommend purchasing it in glass jars. This New Orleans Molasses makes the best Molasses candy possible. On griddle cakes, rice or mush, it is preferred to maple syrup by many. Trolley Head Will Confer With C. of C.

Plans are being made for a meeting to be held Wednesday, November 5, at which time Frank I. Hardy, manager of the Salem Division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company, will talk to the members on the street railway situation as it pertains to Peabody and vicinity. This is a question of interest to every member of the Chamber and a large attendance should be present at this meeting which will be held in offices of the Chamber in the new Court House building. The officers of the Chamber will be glad to receive any suggestions or plans towards the improvement of conditions in Peabody or any ideas which will be of assistance to the Chamber in carrying out its work for the coming winter. This meeting will be one of a series of greetings which will be held during the winter months and it is the intention of the directors to secure a speaker for each of these meetings.

A committee, consisting of Albert Robinson, P. H. O'Connor, Frank Sanger, E. W. Weaver and E. A. Hershenon, has been appointed by President Woods to study the Americanization question and see what can be done towards conducting classes in Americanization.

Arrangements are being made for a display in the Chamber of Commerce windows which will be of interest to all the manufacturers, especially those interested in the foreign trade. This display will no doubt arrive during the coming week and notice will be given to the public through these columns of its being placed on exhibition. This display is part of an exhibit made in the Tanners' Council convention at Chicago during the past week.

Several inquiries have been received lately by the Chamber for factory sites and a committee has been appointed to assist the out-of-town concerns who desire to locate in Peabody. This committee is anxious to secure any information as to suitable factory sites. Persons having such property should see the secretary, giving location of property.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS HERE IN LATEST GRIPPING FILM-- HIS MAJESTY, THE AMERICAN

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

There is no denying the fact that the Strand is giving the public of Peabody the very best obtainable in the line of pictures. "The Man Who Stayed at Home," a seven act Metro special with an all-star cast headed by King Baggot, will be the big attraction for today and Saturday. "The Man Who Stayed at Home" is gripping drama of the power and intricate operations of the Secret Service.

It is a story of individual heroism, displayed at the risk of a man's life. For this man suffers suspicion and scorn at the hands of his friends because he cannot and will not tell of the hazardous mission he is undertaking at the behest of his country. How, through courage and keen strategy he captures a dangerous band of conspirators, following their attempts to betray American state secrets to a foreign power is a story that causes the heart to thrill and the pulses to leap. The play, through which runs deep undercurrents of secret events, possesses also a love romance of the most entrancing sort—in which the young American eventually wins the girl of his choice.

William Duncan in "Smashing Barriers," the great out-of-doors serial, and a Christie comedy entitled "Wild and Western" are the other features on today's bill and all three attractions combine to make a program of 100 per cent. entertainment value.

It is doubtful if any motion picture was ever awaited with as much interest and anticipation in Peabody as Douglas Fairbanks' new picture "His Majesty, the American," which the Strand will offer for three days starting Sunday. This picture was presented in Salem last week at advanced prices, and it is with pardonable pride that Manager Chet Bent announces its showing at the Strand's regular prices. The picture is in eight acts and is far and away the biggest and best thing that the inimitable "Doug" has ever done.

To tell the whole story of the picture here would spoil it for those who have planned to see it, but for the benefit of the curious we will say this much. Doug plays the part of a young American who simply cannot keep out of trouble. He takes a hand in all sorts of situations which lead him all over the world. It shows him first in New York where he tries to show the Fire Department how it should be run. Later he is shown helping the police raid the den of a king of the underworld. Later he is shown in Mexico trying to tell the bandits what they don't know about their business and finally he is found butting in in the affairs of a little principality in Europe. It is the jolliest mix-up imaginable and "Doug" is simply wonderful throughout the entire picture. Some of his stunts are beyond description, but for all that the heart interest is compelling and touching at times.

An idea of the enormity of the production can be gathered from the fact that Mr. Fairbanks spent $40,000,000 on one scene alone. In addition to this, and many more, a complete European railway was built, 1500 feet long and of standard design, the carriages being the exact duplicate of those used in France. In support of Mr. Fairbanks in this production are Marjorie Daw, Frank Campeau, Lillian Langdon and a host of extras. Few bigger pictures will be offered at the Strand in months to come, and the management claims the picture to be a genuine treat.

Harry Carey in Bret Harte's world-famous story "The Outcasts of Poker Flat" will be offered on Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Carey has made a warm spot in the hearts of the public because of his fine work in "Roped" and "Bare Fists," both of which were shown at the Strand recently.

City Hall Notes

Constable Reed has been busy cleaning up back taxes. The 1917 lot had many delinquents, but Arthur plays no favorites, they must settle.

Assessor Jerry Quirk is showing them in Washington how to run the assessing department. The only reason President Wilson has not received pointers is because of illness. Jerry is making a specialty of gestures, and what he has acquired listening to the Senators will assist him in his campaign for Mayor.

There has been 142 gunning licenses issued by the City Clerk. The number is much smaller than in previous years, because of the fact that gunning hereabouts is poor. Severe weather has killed off most of the feathered tribe. Those it did not, have succumbed to pot hunters. A vigorous crusade to save the game birds should be instituted by State authorities.

Aborn street from the Salem line to Pierpont St. has been opened to travel with a well laid macadam making this highway in first class condition for the heavy traffic that goes over it every day. Sewall St. was given needed repairs this week. Supt. Wyman of the street department is keeping his crew of men busy in various parts of the city. Andover street near the bridge is being put back into condition now.

Peabody police and firemen are breathing easier on the advance in pay promised them by vote of the Council some weeks ago, for it begins at last to look as if the ghost would add the extra pesos to help them combat the H. C. L. Of course most everyone at City Hall saw the hand of politics in the new ordinance, and some of the coppers have declared themselves from Missouri, waiting to be shown that the ordinance was really going to benefit their pocketbooks. But finally some of the interested parties went to President Giles of the Council and the latter conferred with the Mayor with the result that His Honor has promised to find a way in which to get the necessary cash. This is why the police and firemen are happy now and they'll be smiling more when the back pay is forthcoming. The new ordinance gave them a weekly salary of $30 dating from Sept. 1.

In accordance with Sec. 40, Chap. 590, of the Acts of 1908, and as amended by the Acts of 1909 and 1912, notice is hereby given that Pass Book No. 8710 has been lost.

greatest of the housewives' problems? Why, unexpected company gives me, or used to give me, a fit of nervousness!"

She was a practical looking woman, her face softened by a contented life among young folks. She was one of those fine women, typical of New England, and her thrift and good table had made her the leader of the younger set at the summer colony. "The girls" had fallen into the habit of stopping each morning on her big veranda, on their way to market and household topics were subjects of discussion.

"You mean that unexpected company no longer disturbs you—since the poor marketing conditions here at the lake? How do you do it?" asked one of the young women.

"I'll tell it to you in a few words," laughed the older woman. "National Biscuits. I'll give you a good product—their Graham Crackers, Royal Lunch Biscuits, do, no, before preparing cream lords, pretty noses."

The gale of words, "National Biscuits," I was girls' favorite. They were the best of their kind. On his when he had purchased some National Biscuits.

STYLES IN SEPARATE SKIRTS

Separate skirts, like suit skirts, have grown wider, the new fall model measuring from a yard and a half to two yards in width and from five to seven inches from the ground. When they are not plain, tucks and plaits are introduced as a trimming. Tiers of plaited flounces set in at each side achieve the wide hip effects indicated in styles for fall. Pockets are set in, not on, the skirt and girdles, made of the fabric, are wide and soft, as shown in the picture above.

Serge and other dependable suitings are used in skirts for utility wear and these cloths are made up in the plainer models. The French skirts, even when made of suitings, are fancier than those designed in America. They will be copied for dressy wear, in silks and satins.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

BUNKER HILL MONUMENT.

THE elevation known as "Bunker Hill" is situated in Charlestown, Boston harbor. On this spot, on June 17, 1775, was fought the famous Battle of Bunker Hill, between the British and American forces. Here the gratitude and patriotism of the American people have caused to be erected a great granite obelisk as a memorial. Located in the center of a four-acre square and surrounded by an iron fence, this monument is 221 feet high and 30 feet in diameter at the base. Within the shaft is a circular stairway leading to a chamber, 11 feet in diameter and 17 feet high, at the top, from which is visible a view that thrills the heart of every American, who has been fortunate enough to witness it.

It is an interesting fact that the corner stone was laid by General LaFayette, a son of glorious France, during his famous visit to America in 1824. The monument was dedicated in 1842, on which occasion Daniel Webster spoke these famous words: "It looks, it speaks, it acts, to the full comprehension of every American mind, and the awakening of glowing enthusiasm in every American heart. Its silent but awful utterance; its deep pathos, as it brings to our contemplation the 17th of June, 1775, and the consequences which have resulted to us, to our country, and to the world, from the events of that day, and which we know must continue to rain influence to the destinies of mankind to the end of time."

Here's A Chance To Cheer Up Hero Boettner

Alfred H. Boettner, one of the most badly wounded war veterans, was operated upon Monday by Major King at the Army Hospital, Staten Island, New York, and has shown remarkable recovery. During his first operation which was in France a piece of bone was left in his head. Upon its removal this week absolute recovery is assured and in the course of a few months Boettner will be enjoying again his daily round of life.

His doctors and nurses have nothing but praise for the war veteran for the manner in which he bears his trouble. The second day after the operation he was able to talk and laugh with his friends. He would like to hear from his many friends here who are well pleased to hear of his assured recovery. His address is: Alfred H. Boettner, care J. S. General Hospital, No. 41, Fox Hills, Staten Island, New York.

EMPIRE BILL AMUSING PLAY

Unanimously proclaimed the greatest of all Cohan successes, "Hit the Trail Holiday," is the vehicle chosen for presentation all of next week at the Empire Theatre, Salem.

"Hit the Trail Holiday" is one of the biggest farce comedy hits of the speaking stage. It brought fame and fortune to George M. Cohan both in its stage form and as a motion picture in which he himself starred with marked success. It is particularly timely because of its relation to the national prohibition question.

The first act is laid in the hotel barber shop of a country town in New England. The social barbers, the local expressman, who is the champion checker player; the self important chief of police, the timid hotel proprietor, who has invented "nearly beer," a new temperance drink, votes for women campaigning and the manicure girl who is the daughter of the minister, give interesting color. Into this atmosphere comes Holiday, a Broadway bartender.

Daniel J. Manning of 41 Osborne st. and Leonard F. Conway were drawn for the civil court jury at Salem for duty on Nov. 3, at a meeting of the Council last night.

Councillor Hogan, who never forgets he represents Ward Four in the Council, got through a motion to have the street committee repair the sidewalk on Union st.

Edward F. Cowan, formerly employed in the street department, put in a claim for four weeks pay, amounting to $112, last night.

Mayor Donnell asked the Council to appropriate $14,600 last night to meet deficits in several departments. He announced that the cost of entertaining the war veterans last June was $9000 instead of $7000, as reported at that time. This difference is part of the $3800 asked for to help out the contingent fund. The sum of $2000 is asked for the tree department. The matter was referred to the committee on finance.

Artificial Ice Being Sold To Peabody Trade

Beginning today Peabody is being served artificial ice which the Bachelor Ice Co. has purchased from the Knickerbocker Ice plant in Brooklyn, N. Y. Two carloads reached Peabody yesterday for the local concern, and their teams are delivering the new ice to customers. Inability to procure natural ice compelled the Peabody concern to secure the artificial product.

Says Teachers Must Know Everything

TEACHERS MUST KNOW.

To the Editor of the Enterprise:

It has been said that:

Teachers must know more, do more and endure more than any other breadwinner. They must know everything in heaven above, the earth beneath and the waters under the earth. They receive no special credit for knowing them, but woe be to her if she knows them not.

Teachers must teach music, drawing, penmanship with all the ability of a specialist, but must give the supervisor all the credit for success atained.

Teachers must, under the title of "Nature Lessons," teach the elements of all the sciences known to man and often, too, without a textbook. They must teach business forms, business usages, short cuts and commercial law, with all the knowledge of a bookkeeper and the corporation lawyer combined, or the schools are impractical.

Teachers must teach the three R's, as in olden times, with the innumerable additions of modern times.

Only a teacher! Yes, that is all things to all minds—father's substitute, mother's confidant, nurse's aid, pupils' friend, physician's monitor, artist and musician, policeman, detective, judge, Court of Appeals, warden, governor and council, mental guide and inspiration, moral surgeon and example, social amalgamator and promoter of peace.

Now, who is there among us, who could begrudge the teacher a well balanced living wage, in this growing young city of Peabody? X

DOES IT PAY TO TRADE AWAY FROM HOME?

Any serious minded person can very readily perceive that the prices in the other cities must exceed the local prices, due to the high rentage, taxation, etc., and, above all, the proprietor of a local store wishes to retain his local customers, and gives them good value for their money.

When you have thought this over, come in and let me prove it.

RABBIS BLESS MEAT AS STEAMSHIP LOADS

First Kosher Meat in Five Years Goes to European Jews
as Gift.

New York.—Included in the more than $8,000,000 worth of supplies sent abroad by American Jewish relief agencies thus far this year were several hundred tons of "kosher" meat. The steamer Ashburn, which left here some time ago for Danzig, carried 500 tons of this commodity, while the Huachuca, which has just sailed, is carrying a smaller consignment to Constantza, Rumania.

Unusual interest attaches to both these shipments. Prominent Jews of this city inspected the first cargo. Jewish rabbis blessed the barrels of meat as they were lowered into the ship's hold. The meat was a gift from the Jews of America to their co-religionists in Poland and other parts of Europe. These European Jews have eaten virtually no meat in five years, for their religion prohibits them using meat other than that killed by a rabbi and in an orthodox manner, and "kosher" meat has been unobtainable.

Among the other supplies sent in these regular shipments are soap, clothing, shoes and shoe-repairing materials, large quantities of notions, medicines, hospital supplies and a long list of additional articles, every one of which is lacking in the war-torn countries across the Atlantic. Funds to continue these regular sailings of relief ships are now being sought by the American Jewish Relief Committee, whose headquarters are at 15 East 40th Street, this city. Louis Marshall is chairman and Henry H. Rosenfeld director of this organization. Campaigns are scheduled for this fall in some twenty states, and it is expected to bring the total contributions for Jewish relief this year up to $35,000,000.

LEO GUILD.

The Leo Guild membership drive being conducted this week has been most successful, and at least 100 new members are expected.

The K. of C. hall on Monday evening will be the scene of a winter picnic and Halloween party, and the members of the Guild have arranged sports, games and a picnic lunch for the entertainment of the new members. All are expected to wear summer hats and dresses.

The Leo Guild was organized seven years ago, and is the only Catholic woman charitable club in the city.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF ST. PAUL'S.

The Young People of St. Paul's church are planning a dance to be held in Masonic hall on November 4. The committee consists of Mrs. Philip Osborne, chairman, and the Misses Evelyn Pyne, Anna Anderson, Wray Patterson and Isabelle Tiplady. The matrons are Mrs. Fred Osborn, Mrs. Harry Pyne, Mrs. Wilfred Leach and Miss Annie McCarthy. Elizabeth and Roy Gourley will render popular songs during the evening.

Music will be furnished by Potter's Orchestra.

Lowell Street

Work has been started on repairing Lowell ter., which is in very poor condition. Something permanent ought to be in order for such a road so much traveled on.

Rev. Dr. Reals has so far recovered from his recent illness that he is now able to be out. He was confined to his room for about a week.

SIL EMMERTON BRINGS BRIDE TO HOME CITY

Sergt. Silsbee Emmerton, formerly of this city, made a week-end visit to the kingdom with his bride of two weeks. Many of his old friends were able to distract his attention long enough to greet him and wish him good luck. This departure upon the sea of matrimony was not the result of a one night's infatuation while on a furlough, but the culmination of six years of intensive long distance correspondence and numerous voyages varying from one to three thousand miles.

"Sil," as he is familiarly known, only comes this way at intervals varying from two to three years, and having been one of the old boys, is always welcomed on his spasmodic visits. He is certainly a seasoned veteran and looks the part with his military carriage, having served four years in the U. S. Navy and six years with the Field Artillery of the Regular Army.

He started out to see the world when he was but 17 years of age, being enrolled in the Peabody High School at the time of his departure. Since then he has been in all four quarters of the globe and has had a very wide and hazardous experience, as cowboy, sailor and soldier.

Demand For Safe Deposits

So steady is the call for Safe Deposit Boxes at the Warren National Bank that it has been difficult to install them fast enough. This week an additional nest of 125 boxes was received and put in place, this being the fourth additional lot to be installed in the two years since the bank opened its new quarters.

Apt Reminder.

"Come upstairs and let me wash your hands," said Winnie's mother. "I don't want to go up!" wailed Winnie, aged three. "Let her wash them down here," called grandmamma. "She can do it just as well." "No," her mother said firmly, "I want her to come up with me!" Winnie came upstairs as slowly as possible. "Oh," she said, turning a wrathfully tearful face to her mother, "why don't you obey your mother?"

M'Vann Deserves Usual Second Term In Office--Sure to Win

Friends of Representative James E. McVann are confident that he will be reelected on November 4, for the customary second term on Beacon Hill. His campaign for the election is well under way and it finds a large body of citizens working together to insure his success at the polls.

The argument of a second term is bound to make many votes for Representative McVann, who has the endorsement of many independent voters in addition to the solid strength of the Republicans in Peabody.

Representative McVann, law partner of Judge Horace P. Farnham, had a handicap placed on him this year owing to the illness of his law partner, for in addition to his many duties at the State House, he was obliged to work overtime in the law office nights, to attend to the business there. Despite this handicap he gave a good account of himself on Beacon Hill.

Judge Farnham Has Warm Praise. for his junior partner for his loyal efforts which he gave to the firm's office.

There is none of the bluster or bluff about Representative McVann and he is first and last a gentleman. His friends honor and respect him and he has made many new friends since he answered the call to run for the G. O. P. nomination. He is married and has recently established his home on Ayer street.

SALARY OF MAYOR SHOULD BE $4000 DECLARES DONNELL

Declaring that the salary of the next mayor of Peabody should be at least $4000 to permit of his successor giving his whole time to the important duties of the office, Mayor Donnell says Peabody's municipal government must jump into the breach to help the city grow.

He declares the three biggest problems for the next mayor to wrestle with are first, water; second, sewer, and thirdly, electric power. Each of these problems, he avers, will require extraordinary efforts and attention on the part of the next chief executive of the city.

"The time has come," declares his honor, "when there should be a laying aside of partisan interests and all citizens who have the best interests of Peabody at heart should pull together to aid in solving the problems before the city government. Peabody must grow and push out quickly in some direction to accommodate the demands for new factory buildings and for new homes. To encourage this growth the city must stand ready to supply water and sewer accommodations and for the new factories that are bound to spring up the city must provide necessary power.

Visiting Nurse Drive For Funds

The Peabody Visiting Nurse Association will launch a four days' drive for funds next Wednesday, during which the corporation hopes to obtain at least five thousand members at a dollar each.

The work of this society is to furnish one or two visiting nurses to care for the health of the community. There is need of increased funds in the treasury to carry on the work. In times of ready money, it is quite impossible for the nurses to do all that is required of them without some means of transportation. The society sometime ago placed an order for a machine for their use.

Through the epidemic last winter this organization was able to do a great amount of good work, both the nurses and the board who procured donations of puddings, custards and the like.

The members of the board are, Miss Addie Little, Mrs. C. H. Brooks, Mrs. Lyman Osborne, Miss Mary Poole, Mrs. Felix Carr, Mrs. Frank Littlefield, Mrs. Thomas Doyle, Miss F. A. Porter, Mrs. John Meagher.

Ernie Gourley proved himself in the big league class against the Red Sox at Beverly last week, when he got on base three times out of four chances. He made one catch and a pretty throw from the outfield to third base in time to get a runner. He played with the Maynard team last Saturday and got his usual hit.

This week's issue of the "A. C. L. magazine" shows that the Military Welfare association at the plant raised $11,696.04 for the benefit of its boys in the service during the war. This sum was raised by monthly dues from its members and by entertainments and dances run by the young people at the plant.

John J. Driscoll of the National tacking room, was married Wednesday evening to Miss May L. O'Brien of Salem. Jeremiah Coffey, who was in the same company with Mr. Driscoll all through the war, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll are on a wedding trip to New York and Philadelphia.

Miss Margaret O'Neil, formerly employed at the main office, called this week on her old friends. Miss O'Neil is on a vacation from her work in Washington, D. C.

Teachers Open Bowling Club

Peabody school teachers started their 1919-20 bowling season this week and by some of the high scores made, it looks like a banner year. 86-90-83; Miss Helen McElroy, 93-76-4; Miss Helen McElroy, 75-70-79-72; and Mrs. Carl Waterhouse, 88-83-67-84.

High scores this week were made by Murray Gourley, 125-134; Michael Desmond, 122-114; Frank Kernan, 127-113; James Mulcahey, 137; Ernest Gourley, 122-112; Frank Chennery, 121-108.

The A. C. L. Bowling league will roll their games at Manning's alleys this season.

Rep M'Vann Sure To Be Re-elected

der the guidance of Chairman Angus J. McDonald, is working as a unit to reelect McVann and their campaign will invade the home of practically every voter. Chairman MacDonald has long since qualified as a campaigner and his clean, above board methods are sure to garner in votes for McVann.

On every measure favorable to the interests of Peabody and all its citizens, Representative McVann has been recorded right and the workingman has no grievance against his first term in office. Peabody has long since honored it representative with a second term and friends of Representative McVann are confident that this only issue will be satisfactorily settled.

Representative McVann represents the ideal type of citizenship. He is a man clean of mouth, upright and on the level and in his profession enjoys the respect of a large clientele. His personal sacrifice this past year in attending to the business of his partner, Judge Farnham, shows clearly the type of manhood he possesses and his friends will see to it that his efforts are rewarded.

A split among the Democrats in which leaders of that party have come out emphatically for a second term for Representative McVann shows that party lines will be thrown aside in the State election and this will mean many votes for him.

SOEWAMAPENESSETT.

The annual meeting of the Soewamapenessett Campfire was held at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Ernest Porter, and the following officers were elected: President, Katherine Underwood; secretary, Esther Hallowell; treasurer, Helen Maguire; reporters, Doris Allen, Olive Goldthwait. A meeting was held Oct. 9, when work was planned for the next two months. Plans were made for a hare and hound chase and frankfort roast, and also for helping poor families at Christmas. Several of the girls are to teach at the community house in order to earn their rank as torch bearers.

TYPICAL WINTER COAT

The importance of being modishly dressed makes itself felt more and more, and women who have only a limited allowance for clothing require good style without extravagance in all their garments. This puts the talent and fine taste of designers at a premium, since style becomes the first consideration when clothes are selected.

The new top coats for winter are straight-hanging and voluminous, with large collars that roll up about the face. They are ample and easy with large armholes and a variety of belts. They look warm and comfortable like the typical smart coat pictured here.

Declares Citizens Must Deal Collectively With Question Of Teachers' Pay

To the Editor of the Enterprise—It would be interesting indeed could the teachers of this city learn just how much interest the public takes in our schools.

Attention is being called just now in other cities regarding the low salaries being paid to teachers.

On account of a dearth of teachers the people higher up are getting uneasy as to where they are to get teachers.

If there is a national need for 38,000 teachers, that need alone is a sufficient excuse for a state of uneasiness.

What are the school authorities going to do about it? What can they do about it?

The school boards are elected by the people, to serve the people, and they will act in such manner as will meet public approval, of such an act.

The solution of the whole problem is up to the public, and it is up to the public to get at the facts of things before it is too late.

It is by far too late to lock the barn door after the horse is stolen. Nobody will steal the stall!

Unless there is a widespread movement to better the living conditions of teachers, and the movement is already well under way in this State, every locality is going to be hard hit.

Granted, that these are abnormal times, and granted that men and women are sidetracking teaching for more lucrative positions, are the people going to deplete the schools of teachers who should be retained because teachers have always been poorly paid?

Times are changing rapidly. Time was when a man or woman sought the position as teacher, from a sentimental viewpoint. Not so today.

There are men and women in the world today who are just as fond of children as of older times, who would be just as glad to serve the State, through the medium of its school system, as formerly; who look upon teaching as a calling; who would like no other life work than that of teaching, but the world has been moving so rapidly that when prospective teachers look over the field of possible openings to earn a livelihood, when they compare the pay of a teacher with that of a chauffeur or of some mill workers, would it be any wonder if some threw up both hands and declared, "What's the use?"

There are 38,000 people today who should be available to the school authorities. Where are they?

It is a pretty good guess that they are getting more money than they could get in our public schools, and yet the schools have need of them.

Unless the school teachers shall be able to receive such salary, as may enable them to live and to live well, it is just as true as that night follows day, so will the people lose the services of teachers who should be serving the public, but who are in better paid positions.

No teacher can live upon the esteem in which she may be held in community. It is a good asset, but it doesn't pay rent, board bills, clothing bills, etc.

Dr. Payson Smith, commissioner of education, says: "Something must be done to make teaching attractive to the young women who have the necessary qualifications for becoming satisfactory teachers, and that action must be immediate."

The Chamber has some added service for the members which consists of furnishing reports on financial inquiries. This service is furnished by the United States Investor of Boston for the local Chamber and should prove of value to the members who contemplate buying stocks of companies with which they are not familiar. The United States Investor issues a weekly publication which carries considerable information of value to the investors. This publication is now being received by the Chamber and is for the use of any of the members.

Information has been received from the Chamber of Commerce at Lewiston, Me., of a man representing himself to be connected with the Ford Motor Company land department, whose checks, when cashed, have been returned marked "No Funds." The Chamber will appreciate any information regarding this party.

At a meeting of the directors held recently a resolution was passed, endorsing the campaign for funds for the Defenders of Public Safety. This fund is being used by a committee to relieve any suffering or hardship of those called to duty in Boston as members of the Massachusetts State Guard, as well as others who are assisting in preserving law and order in Boston. There is no campaign of solicitation being made for this fund, but the committee feels that every person should be given an opportunity to contribute and has arranged with the local banks to receive contributions.

P. E. S. Window Real Thriller

One of the snappiest show windows of the season may be seen at the Peabody Electric Shop on Main st. this week.

A display that attracts, yet brings home a lesson in fire prevention.

The principle "props" are by courtesy of the Strand Theatre and Mark E. Kelley Co. and the ingenious electrical effects to create the flaring of a forest fire were manufactured by the Shop.

Undoubtedly a window trimming contest in Peabody once in a while with a prize for the winners would stimulate our merchants in this direction and give us something more to be proud of. What's the matter with starting one for the holidays?

She was one of those fine women, typical of New England, and her thrift and good table had made her the leader of the younger set at the summer colony. OUR SCHOOLBOYS

We do well as citizens of Peabody to encourage our high schoolboys in all branches of athletics, and the petition to citizens for a public subscription to secure a fund which will supply needed paraphernalia to the athletes, deserves unstinted support.

Peabody has turned out her share of promising athletes from the high school and it must be admitted that these young men have brought creditable publicity on Peabody. The school has today numerous promising athletes who should be encouraged to seek still greater honors on the athletic field in whatever sport they have become proficient. Yet if these players are to get the best results, support of the citizens must help them to the greater success. On its past record Peabody has reason to feel proud of its high school athletes and the personnel of the athletes today well warrants the opening of the public purse in their behalf. It cannot be denied that the athletic schoolboy is better fitted to take up the work of securing a livelihood when he has completed his studies. Our citizens may be depended on to aid this subscription for so worthy a cause.

DRESS UP YARDS

Often times when a man comes out from a shoe store wearing a new pair of oxfords, he suddenly discovers that his suit is a trifle shabby or his tie seems faded, or perhaps that his hat has suddenly become ancient appearing. The chances are that this man goes home, presses up his suit, changes his tie and brightens up his top with the result that he has improved his general appearance to a considerable extent.

Our city found itself in the same predicament this summer, when upon the completion of miles of brand new streets and sidewalks, it discovered that the front yards, in some cases, took on a bare look, and that here and there a fence needed painting and repairing. These houses alone that possessed well-kept lawns and attractive shrubbery seemed in harmony with the new condition.

Now is the time to set out beds of tulips, daffodils, jonquils, or narcissus along the paths or around the house to bloom forth in the early spring. The same beds can be used later for asters, four o'clocks or a choice of several other favorite garden flowers. The bright scarlet salvia is decorating many Peabody estates this fall, and attracts a large share of attention to itself by its brilliant beauty at a time when nature runs riot in color effects on foliage. A very moderate investment in bulbs, seed and shrubs will yield a bountiful return in personal satisfaction, neighborhood pride and good health, for the care of a garden brings all these things.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE BIG TREES IN CALIFORNIA.

THE biggest trees in the world are found in California. They are of two varieties, both a species of evergreen, sequoia (in honor of a Cherokee Indian) redwood and sequoia gigantea. The former grows quite extensively in certain sections on the western slope of the coast range; the latter only on the western slope of the Sierra Nevada mountains, at an elevation of about one mile above sea level. The former is said to reproduce itself from the stump, the other from little seeds which grow in pods.

The best-known and most-frequently-visited grove of the redwood sequoias is near the little city of Santa Cruz, on the coast some seventy miles south of San Francisco. Some of these trees are more than 250 feet high and 20 feet in diameter at the base. The gigantea, however, is the real thing in big trees. Some are almost 400 feet high and 90 feet around at the base. The bark is of a reddish brown color, very thick and fluted up and down. The branches are very large, beginning 60 feet or more from the ground.

The secret of their age is still one of the unexplained problems of the universe. Estimates range all the way from 4,000 to 10,000 years. But suppose it is only the former. Think of living a million and a half of days! Think of the changes which have been wrought in that time! That they are the tallest, stately and oldest living things in all this big world of ours is an undisputed fact.

THE PRESIDENT'S ONE GREAT PURPOSE

It is hardly for the contemporary historian to judge a statesman by everything anybody ever expected of him. If the Senate ratifies the treaty, including the League of Nations, then President Wilson has won a victoire integrale. If the Senate rejects the League, then Mr. Wilson's battle has been a disaster and his triumphs over Lloyd George, Clemenceau, and Orlando in Paris will be nullified by the collapse of the Covenant, just as all Germany's victories in Russia and Serbia were swept away in the collapse of the German front between Chateau-Thierry and Albert.

True criticism does not condemn the artist for failing to do what he never meant to do. We cannot speak of Mr. Wilson's success or failure unless we keep in mind the aim he set for himself when he sailed for Brest. That great purpose, the President's only purpose, was the League. It is fair enough to say that by his insistence on the League the President delayed the work of peace at Versailles; but it was because he thought of the League as the peace. Friends will call that his faith. Enemies will call it his obsession. The name hardly matters. Mr. Wilson's success or failure will be measured by the degree to which his faith or his delusion is realized. It is impossible to have seen and heard the President at the Guildhall in London, or to remember him at the first business session of the plenary conference in Paris, without realizing how utterly the idea of the League had penetrated into his being as the essence and meaning, as the foundation and the crown of the peace. In London and in Paris it was the note sounded in the first words that fell from his lips. It was the beginning, the climax, and conclusion of his argument. The League was the thing, the one thing, for which he had come to Europe.

Between Mr. Wilson and the radical school of critics the issue is clear. He has been accused of doing things in violation of the spirit of the League of Nations which things he did because of his faith in the League of Nations. He has been accused of sacrificing this many or that many of his fourteen points; but the President, if it came to that pass, might almost assert that for the sake of a League of Nations he would sacrifice all his other thirteen points. He has tried to make the treaty, as apart from the League, square as far as might be with his ideals; but the League was his one ideal. For the sake of the League he compromised with the French demands, rejecting the left bank of the Rhine, but conceding the Saar. For the sake of the League he compromised with France in the matter of the self-determination of Austria. For the sake of the League he confessedly compromised with Japan in the matter of Kio-chau. His opponents have naturally asked how a man who believed in the reconciliation of the peoples—through the League—could sanction obstacles in the way of conciliation. His answer, just as naturally, has been that the League is the permanent and ultimate reconciler. With the League he expects to win back the price paid for the League.

Mr. Wilson has remembered the fifty-one and a half months from August 1, 1914, to November 11, 1918, which so many of his countrymen have forgotten or have chosen to forget. And this thing which so many of us have forgotten in the once familiar vow that this must be a war to end war. We have forgotten our outcries when the agony was upon us; that this thing must never happen again; that to end alone Germany must be beaten and the new world built. The one great result of the war, the one profit that might make its horrors almost worth while, must be guarantees against the repetition of the horror. It must not happen again.

It is the President's outstanding service and his title to fundamental consistency that he has not forgotten. The memory of men's arms upflung in an agony of appeal against a return of the great horror has remained vivid to him and he has written the vision into the Covenant. Between the men who six months ago cried out against war and now have their business to attend to and those others who cried out against war and have now found out that there are Revolutions and Reconstructions which they would much rather have than peace, the President stands forth as the man who has not forgotten. And with him, there are many millions of plain people who have not forgotten and never can forget.

Mahogany Trees.

Mahogany trees do not grow in clusters, but are found scattered throughout forests and hidden in dense undergrowth.

ROUND ABOUT

My attention was called this week to the report that a Main street store was selling sugar at 12 cents a pound and telling his customers that the extra cent was because he had to pay more for it himself. Here is a violation of the federal law on sugar, it would seem, and of course our alert sealer of weights will get right on the track of this dealer.

I observe that Charles C. Hills, dean of the newspaper craft in Peabody and Salem is enjoying a few days respite from his arduous duties this week.

Peabody is witnessing a mushroom growth of small factory plants where a small floor is given over to some kind of leather industry, so I am told by Manager King of the Electric light plant who is called on to furnish power and lights. These small concerns are all doing a nice business, too, it would seem.

Capt. Osborn Palmer, head of Peabody's Legion has a gold watch as a valuable reminder of his having qualified as a real estate agent when still in his teens. It appears that property owned by his late grandfather Jacob Osborn on Buxton street was for sale and he acted as agent. His grandfather presented him with his first gold watch.

Among the Peabody overseas men still waiting for the sight of home is Lieut. Michael J. McDermott, a well known Eastend boy, whose duties as an expert stenographer and typist sent him from the White House to Paris for confidential work General Tasker H. Bliss, one of the bound for home and is due here within a few days now. Lieut. McDermott didn't know what he wanted to do when his schooling was completed in Peabody and finally heeded the advice to enter Burdett college in Lynn where he achieved signability got him a job under Secretary Tumulty in the White House. His rise in position and pay has been steady and he returns home with a fine record of overseas duty.

I observe that Orrin B. Griffin, a Peabody man, is again a member of the Hartford, Conn. High school faculty and from all reports is meeting with fine success. He has recently had published another thesis. He is an ardent supporter of the junior high school.

I heard many compliments for the Warren National bank on its Columbus Day window display. A picture of the Discoverer of America draped with rich Italian colors gave the window exhibit a handsome background. Few National banks are more alive to the value of publicity than is the local bank, and its window displays attract much favorable

Ray E. Porter, head of the big contracting concern, founded by his lamented father, Edward H. Porter, is still king of the golfers at Homestead, it would seem. Monday he led the field of contestants for the handsome cups by registering a score of 72 which proved his form.

I have heard adverse comment against the City of Salem allowing the contractor to wreck such long stretches of sidewalk on Boston street in connection with the proposed new street construction. Peabody pedestrians who walk back and forth are compelled with Salemites to take to the broken up street in getting home. The condition makes for unsafe travel and narrow escapes from being struck by autos are daily witnessed.

My attention was called the other day to a group of grownup young men gathered in a circle as if engaged in the pastime of crap shooting, but on closer inspection it was observed they were back to spinning tops and having a good time.

Peabody citizens are not appreciating the free lyceum course at the Peabody Institute, judging from the small audience that greeted Miss Peinneck, the talented reader here last Tuesday night. The first entertainment of the fall course also brought out but a small crowd.

"T. R."

A many-sided man of might. Touched with the poet's vision, he fought always in the van of right. And dealt his blows heroically. For him there was no turning back—His gaze was fastened on a star; Nor saffron-dyed hyena pack Could daunt the courage of "T. R." This was no fifty-fifty man; His hat was in his country's ring; His soul was all-American—

CHEERFUL HATS FOR WINTER

Millinery laughs in the face of winter with hats that are most cheerful and most becoming. Many of them are made of velvet, but beaver on one hand and filmy malines on the other indicate a long range of materials.

In the group of three hats shown above there are only velvet hats but one of them has a trim of malines. It is in black with a gay wreath of silk flowers across the front. Just below it a small hat is embroidered in silk while soutache braid almost covers the soft hat at the left.

POPULAR JAP PLAYER HEADS STRAND BILL TODAY--NEXT WEEK SEES NAZIMOVA HERE

SESSUE HAYAKAWA
LASKY-PARAMOUNT

Sessue Hayakawa, the popular Japanese star, will head the Strand's program for today and Saturday in his dramatic triumph, "The Courageous Coward." Hayakawa has always been a great favorite here in Peabody, and as this is the first time in months that one of his pictures has shown here, this announcement will be received with delight by his many admirers. In "The Courageous Coward" Mr. Hayakawa plays the part of a young lawyer who is appointed by the police to clean out San Francisco's notorious Chinatown. The role is one that taxes the ability of the star of the utmost, being highly dramatic and often thrilling.

William Duncan in the new Vitagraph serial, "Smashing Barriers," is the second number for today. In this epic Duncan's horse saves his life in a startling way. "Her First Kiss," a Fox-Sunshine comedy, rounds out today's bill and all three features combined make up a first-class program of such wide appeal as to please all who are fortunate enough to see it.

Three strong attractions will be offered Sunday evening when a double feature bill of pictures and Mr. Peter Rooney, the well known Peabody singer, will be presented. Carlyle Blackwell in "Hit or Miss" and Gladys Leslie in "A Stitch in Time" will be the pictorial features, and patrons of the Strand will find this program compares favorably with the all-star shows the Strand has been offering every Sunday evening.

Beginning Monday Manager Chet Bent will offer a week of all special features which will be shown on the following days. Nazimova in "The Brat" on Monday and Tuesday, Bert Lytell in "Lombardi Ltd." on Wednesday and Thursday and "The Man Who Stayed Home" on Friday and Saturday. All of these specials have played to extended runs in the larger cities throughout the country and come to Peabody with the reputation of being entertainment of the finest type.

"The Brat," starring the supreme Nazimova, which has been stated will be shown on Monday and Tuesday. This screen play is Nazimova's own adoption of Maude Fulton's drama of the same name which had a phenomenal run of more than two years in New York and other big cities throughout the United States and Canada. It is one of those intensely human and appealing stories in which there are smiles and tears. It follows the picturesque career of the "brat," a nameless waif of the streets who, after having been "fired" from the chorus, becomes the protégé of a famous author who takes her to his home and studies her as a type for the heroine of his novel. This is an eight-part production, and to fill out the show a Larry Semon comedy entitled "Dull Care" will be shown.

Bert Lytell who will appear on Wednesday and Thursday in "Lombardi Ltd." has a strange role for a man. He plays the part of a designer of gowns in this great play of girls and giggles.

Douglas Fairbanks in his first United Artists release, "His Majesty, the American," will be given a three days' showing at the Strand on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 26, 27 and 28.

and refreshments provided. A speaker from the Grand Lodge will be present to address the meeting.

RED MEN

Masconomo Tribe of Red Men will hold an important meeting in their wigwam, Foster street, Monday evening, when they will work the adoption degree on some palefaces.

PEABODY POST, 153.

There will be a meeting of the Post this evening in the Council Chamber at which time the delegates to the State Convention will make their report.

Peabody's war veterans who were delegates this week to the State convention of the American Legion held in Worcester went unpledged to any candidates for office. The Peabody delegates were Charles M. Boyle, John McNamara, Leonard B. Cassidy, Frank T. Mathews, Joseph F. Sweeney and Philip L. Hunt.

The cabaret was enjoyed by about 300 members last Friday evening. It is the intention of the Post to run a series of cabarets and boxing bouts for members this winter. There will be another cabaret next week Friday evening.

The Post now has a membership of about 400 and hopes to double these figures before the winter is over.

The carnival in the rear of the High school closed last Saturday evening and netted the Post a very good sum. The Post expects to run an indoor carnival some time before Christmas.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance wishes to emphasize the importance to service men of one of the provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act upon the fulfillment of which may depend the validity of their claim to compensation under the act. The War Risk Insurance Act provides that "No compensation shall be payable for death or disability which does not occur prior to or within one year after discharge or resignation from the service, except at the time of discharge or resignation from the service, or within such reasonable time thereafter, not exceeding one year, as may be allowed by regulations, a certificate has been obtained from the discharge to the effect that the injured person at the time of his discharge or resignation was suffering from injury likely to result in death or disability."

Many discharged men are not familiar with or are inclined to disregard this provision of law and are allowing their rights thereunder to lapse.

Request for the certificate mentioned above should be made to the Chief Medical Adviser, Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Washington, D. C.

COMMUNITY HOUSE

The kindergarten at the Community House opens Monday morning, Oct. 20, at 9 o'clock. Miss Evelyn Pyne, teacher.

All parents interested will please make application to Mrs. Eaton.

The first course of 10 lessons in millinery begins Friday evening, Oct. 17, at 7 o'clock.

There are no vacancies in the dress-making class, the second series of 10 lessons will begin in about eight weeks.

WOMEN'S GUILD

The Women's Guild of St. Paul's Church will hold a sunshine social in their parish hall on Tuesday evening, Oct. 21. Anyone not having a sunshine bag will be admitted for a small silver fee. Everybody is welcome, and a general good time is promised.

West Peabody

The Grange held a husking bee last Friday night. Supper was served after the husking, and the floor was cleared for dancing. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

Miss Marie Battye of Waltham was the guest of Miss Blanche Martin over the week-end.

Miss Dorothy Bixby spent the holiday with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shean.

Miss Edith Bragdon spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Louis Felt. The last rehearsal of the third degree will be held Saturday night at 8 sharp in the school hall. The following Tuesday the third degree team will work the third degree for Danvers Grange.

Instead of holding a Sunday evening service in the West Church, many of the congregation went down to the Methodist Church in Peabody to hear Al Saunders, the evangelist. George Ballentine, Ralph Ballantine, John O. Ballentine and Leslie P. Watkins kindly provided autos for transportation.

The first and second degrees of the Grange will be worked tonight in School hall.

Charles E. Leach of Keene, N. H., spent the week-end with his parents.

Miss Nellie Taylor has resumed her work in Hunt Rankins factory after spending a week's vacation in Melrose.

Talk about adventures!

Men in the Navy come home with the kind of experiences that most chaps read of only in the books.

Here's your chance!

Uncle Sam has, as you know, a big Navy and gives red-blooded young fellows like you an opportunity to step aboard and “shove off”.

What will you get out of it?
 Just this:

A chance to rub elbows with foreign folks in strange parts of the world.

The chance for good honest work on shipboard—the kind of work that teaches you something real: the kind of work that puts beef on your shoulders and hair on your chest.

You will get 30 care-free vacation days a year, not counting shore leave in home or foreign ports.

You will have the kind of comradeship in travel that sailors know.

You will have regular pay;
 over and above your meals, lodging and your first uniform outfit —good stuff all of it.

You can join for two years.
 When you get through you'll be physically and mentally “tuned up” for the rest of your life.
 You'll be ready through and through for SUCCESS.

There's a Recruiting Station right near you. If you don't know where it is, your Postmaster will be glad to tell you.

To any Father and Mother:—

In the Navy your boy's food, health, work and play, and moral welfare are looked after by responsible experts.

George H. Howes, minister. Morn-

The Universalist General convention will meet in Baltimore from Oct.
 20 to 26. This is the national gathering of delegates from all Universalist churches. The convention this year, from present indications, will be the largest and most important in the history of the church. It comes at the close of a nation-wide drive which has resulted in the raising of a large amount of money which will enable the church to put in force social and religious agencies. There has come also a religious quickening that promises a period of greater success as a religious institution seeking to aid in the solution of the social ills of our day.

Every department of the church will be represented by able leaders from the ranks of the lay members and the clergy. The purpose is to perfect plans to further the forward movement upon which the church has started.

The Universalist church in Peabody which took an active part in this drive, will be represented by the minister and his wife, Mr. and Mrs.
 George H. Howes.

 any man on the continent. He is a graphic word painter and enforces the truth often with much dramatic power. Some of the life experiences he thus illustrates will never be forgotten by those who see and hear him.

SWEATERS FOR CHILDREN

When good judgment rules, children are clad in such sturdy and comfortable garments as this warm sweater of knitted wool. It is shaped to hug the figure of the active little outdoor girl and has a short knitted band across the back. The pert stocking cap to match makes the most comfortable and sensible of headwear for a child.

“Y” Serves State Guardsmen in Strike Crisis

Thousands of cups of steaming coffee are being distributed on the streets of Boston to the members of the Massachusetts State Guard serving in the strike crisis by the Boston Y. M. C. A. from a specially equipped motor truck manned by four war work secretaries in charge of C. H. Ellinwood, who served overseas with the Y and is now in charge of the war service work at the Boston Association, which has thrown its best efforts since the strike into welfare and entertainment channels for the guardsmen.

Starting at South Station, where a large unit of the guard has its headquarters, the “Y” truck driven by Robert P. Jackson of the Boston district, and loaded with ten-gallon containers and paraffin cups, made a tour of the business district, traveling in a wide circle that gradually took in the whole section being patrolled by the State Guard.

The volunteer policemen were not overlooked, nor the regular men who remained on duty, for while the truck bore signs reading, “Free Hot Coffee, Massachusetts State Guard, Boston Y. M. C. A.,” the secretaries left no worker unserved where it was possible to take care of them.

The Boston Y. M. C. A. has also thrown open its doors to the Guardsmen, and placed the entire equipment of the Huntington Avenue building at their disposal, which includes the free use of shower baths, bowling alleys, pool tables, gymnasium, etc.

The Association is distributing free thousands of packages of cigarettes, chewing gum, chocolate, candy, at the various armories, as well as furnishing writing paper, envelopes, ink, games and puzzles. A similar service is being rendered guardsmen by the Cambridge Y. M. C. A., General Secretary, Carroll L. Chase, having turned the resources of the Cambridge Association into welfare channels and established service units at the Cambridge Armory and other points. Entertainments are also given nightly at all Armories and Barracks.

DONNELL SAYS $4000 IS LITTLE ENOUGH FOR MAYOR

tax rate than we have today. But the signs of the times indicate that tax rates must still advance if municipal problems are to be handled in such a manner in the coming few years as to permit of Peabody growing. There is room for much new building, both factory and for domiciles, and the housing problem is at our door demanding immediate attention.

"Where new factories are erected there must the trunk sewer lines be extended. I believe also from the data at hand that more lateral sewer lines are urgently demanded in various sections of the city today. Every new leather factory demands just so much more water to do business with. And as I have said, we are bound to find a problem on our hands to provide the necessary power and light.

"Backed up by the appropriation of the City Council, I am looking over the field for the best available expert to examine the electric light plant with a view, of course, to determine whether it is an economical thing to maintain the present plant, whether it is advisable to enlarge our equipment or whether it is the wise thing to buy power from some outside concern.

"An investigation as to the costs of producing power and light should lay all of the facts before the citizens. It is my opinion from what I know today that Peabody would save money if it purchased its power from some big power generating company. The question of getting the right expert here has had by earnest attention and I now have five experts in mind. From this number I hope soon to be able to announce to the citizens the name of the expert to whom the work of examining the local electric light plant will be given.

"I am convinced that Peabody is bound to witness a rapid growth in business within the next few years. To meet the demands that will be made on the city's finances to help along this boom, the next mayor will be confronted with problems that will require his undivided time. The present salary is far too little for the office of mayor with all of the demands that have been made on me as first mayor. I am sure that the next mayor will have just as difficult issues to tackle as I have had.

"Under the proposed new taxation law Peabody stands to lose at least one million dollars from the tangible property revenue, and this will add to our problems next year. I am a firm believer in the future growth of Peabody and I hope that all citizens will get together in the common cause of promoting the welfare of the city. The problems facing Peabody today call for concerted action on the part of our whole citizenship."

City Engineer Made Short Work Of Flood

Last night's deluge of rain flooded numerous of Peabody's new concrete streets, threatening for a time to flood cellars because of the leaves which blocked the street drains. City Engineer Frank Emerson was on duty with the sewer workmen on Walnut street when the rain fell the hardest, and he at once made a round of the principal streets and had the obstructions cleared away. Two small boys gave the city a lift by removing the leaves that covered the drains on lower Main st. Workmen, including one of the municipal garage employees, made quick work of ridding the leaves from the drains and no consequential damage resulted.

CITY HALL

Chief Engineer Dan Conroy of the pumping station is naturally in favor of an Allis Chalmers pump as against an electrical driven one, and his argument is the final cost rather than the first cost. He can afford to talk on the subject first because of his experience, and secondly because his position is secure in event of the purchase by the city of the electrical driven pump. He argues that the cost of coal makes it a cheaper proposition for the quantity of water demanded.

The city engineer's office is already considering what new sidewalk construction must be handled early next year.

It reminded one of an incident in the United States Senate last week at the Council meeting, when Councilor Hogan secured permission to read some lengthy data from an advocate of an electrical driven pump for the water supply station. The letter was verbose and but a few of the Councilors followed the reader.

Grade teachers are in demand in Peabody and Superintendent Robinson is scouring the horizon for like substitutes. The school committee members are even taking a hand and making inquiries for prospects.

The City Collector's office has been the busiest place in City Hall these past few days receiving taxes and other city bills. The office attaches have been called on to work evenings to accommodate the citizens. When this office is busy it is very busy and this fact offsets some of the seemingly lax times recorded in the office. Assistant City Collector Childs is doing his part as chairman of the campaign fund for the high school athletics. His appeal to the business men ought to see some substantial amounts sent to the depleted treasury behind our boy athletes.

Mayor Donnell is to present to the City Council for use in the Council chamber, two handsome silk banners used in Peabody's welcome home day last June. One is in honor of Peabody veterans who made the supreme sacrifice.

Councillor John A. Jones of Ward Two has shown in his short public career so far that he is not afraid to get on his feet and father some motion before the august body. He is frequently speaking a word for his bailiwick. Councillor Jones holds a position at the C. P. Osborne Co., in which employ he entered on his graduation from high school.

A Peabody school teacher has accepted a position in Beverly at an increase of $100 over her salary in this city. She also has the opportunity to reach a maximum of $200 more than that of Peabody.

MOVIES IN SIBERIA.

Boston—Although thrilling drama holds first place in the eyes of Siberians, their demand for educational films and more comedy features is growing, according to R. J. Reitzel, director of the Y. M. C. A. lecture bureau in Vladivostok. The educational film, Director Reitzel advises the "Y" National War Work Council headquarters here, is being popularized among the peasantry and is proving a short-cut to their general enlightenment.

Mr. Reitzel points out that the "Y" shows have done much to displace and counteract the German films with their thread of propaganda. The shows have not been confined to "Y" huts but have been given in city schools, and before groups of workers, at sport and other clubs and before the soldiers and boy scouts. The movement is being still furthered in line with the greater extension work taken up by the "Y" machines having been installed in cities from Vladivostok as far west as Omsk and Tomsk.

More than 100 members of the Father Mathew C. T. A. S. attended the complimentary banquet to the war veterans of the organization held at Wardhurst last night, and the occasion was one of the hoppiest possible. William J. Dee, president of the society, and himself a war veteran, presided and kept a lively program of entertainment in order during the entire evening.

Rev. Nicholas J. Murphy, pastor of St. John's Church, was the principal speaker of the evening. He complimented the war service men on their sacrifices during the war and urged them to continue to maintain a high type of citizenship with heads erect through life.

Host Hap Ward had ready for the banquet board one of his famous chicken dinners. The society sent 106 of its members into the war service.

CITY CONCIL TALKS PUMPS

There were no discordant notes at the meeting of the City Council last night and the principal noise in City Hall was the Democratic rally in the auditorium. The result was a short, snappy meeting in which debate over the right kind of a new pump for the pumping station featured. No action was taken on either his subject or the proposed half million dollars appropriation for a new high school.

Four more jitney licenses were granted for service between Peabody and Salem. The Council has refused to grant any more licenses to Watkins, who have given the citizens service for years.

The Council voted a permit to the Tenney system to construct a transmission line through West Peabody to Danvers, the city being protected by the provisions.

Councillor Hogan got thru a motion asking the Mayor how about an expert to study the electric light plant. Councillor Brown fathered a motion requesting the Chief of Police to bring in Danvers and Salem jitney owners who have not paid licenses to Peabody for doing business on Main street.

The Council voted $1,000 to buy a right of way thru the Sutton property owned by Councillor Brown. This will give Aborn street residents a short cut to Main street, thanks to the energetic work of Councillor Cotton, who is certainly looking after Ward 3 interests.

South Peabody grammar schools are so crowded that the school committee is considering asking for the use of the Second Church vestry on Brown street in which to place at least 40 pupils. The Brown and the South schools will be drawn on for the new class room in the church, if the plans go through.

Members of the school committee do not hesitate to say they are alarmed at the crowded condition of the schools and declare immediate action should be taken to start the construction on the new junior high.

PEABODY HIGH PLAYS SALEM TOMORROW

CITY HALL

It is Acting Mayor Giles, now that His Honor, the next District Attorney of Essex County, has been autoed away to the mountains to recuperate after his strenuous campaign for votes. The Acting Mayor is wearing the title and the Mayor's private secretary is handling the work of the Mayor's office in her usual efficient manner. Mayor Donnell needed a rest and he listened long enough to his brother to get away from the many duties at city hall.

Councillor Cotton ingratiates himself with the Ward Three voters this week in the new macadam construction being applied to Aborn street. This street, a short cut for teaming from Salem to upper Washington street, sees a maximum amount of traffic every day and the upper end of Aborn street has been in poor condition. The macadam will help until the Tassam pavement can be completed to the Salem line.

City Solicitor Farnham has seen to it that the city is protected in the matter of a permit for the Tenney electric light and power system to install thru West Peabody in transit to Danvers where it will furnish power to that town.

Peabody firemen are confident that the two platoon system will become a general improvement to fire departments of the state as a result of the state election when the voters have the chance to express their wishes on the adoption of the system. The need of more permanent firemen for Peabody's department, especially the four stations outside of headquarters, has long been espoused by the Enterprise as a worth while investment and added protection for the property owners. The adoption of the two platoon system would remedy the present defect in this respect.

The firemen are on duty 24 hours a day. True they sleep, but who is the man that relishes going to bed wondering how much of the eight hours he is entitled to sleep, is to be spent in that test? The two platoon system would make the firemen's job a better one and by the same token the better the job the better the man.

Apropos of the fire department and recent deliberation by the Council to enforce an ordinance to prohibit racing of vehicles against fire kit responding to alarms, it might be said that the city of Springfield has a drastic ordinance compelling all vehicles to give the right of way to fire apparatus when the latter are going to fires.

Value of Quick Decision.

As a rule the man who has trained himself to quick decisions and prompt actions follows close to the right. He does not need to debate questions as does the man who has become a master of deliberation. His mental faculties seem to work automatically and they are generally right. I'm not sure but that they are more often right than they are with the man who is constantly weighing pros and cons and becoming confused with the issues. He saves time because he acts quickly and he saves everybody the uncertainty of indecision.

POLLEY AND PALS
TOOK WRONG TIP

Polley, the human fly, electrified thousands of Peabody people last Friday and Saturday nights in his sensational climb of the O'Shea building in Peabody Square and on his final evening ascending the steeple of the City Hall while a crowd of 5,000 applauded. His work was exceedingly clever and his climb of the City Hall, which he surmounted only after a laborious knee grip of a ridgetway 25 feet to the roof, more than proved the capability of this young man as a human fly. Polley is in a class by himself when it comes to climbing buildings. Apparently from his work in this city no building is too difficult for him to conquer.

It was most disappointing to find that only small audiences were on hand in City Hall to greet Polley and his Pals, a company of twelve, including seven very pretty girls who gave a high class performance surpassing anything of a similar entertainment ever presented in City Hall. It is doubtful if any professional talent ever came to Peabody with more claim to high class calibre than this small but peppery company of entertainers and their exhibition more than satisfied the enthusiastic audience.

It appears that the company came here at the earnest solicitation of one of the Legion members, while Capt. Osborn Palmer counselled delay so as to provide ample publicity and time to allow the Legion members to assist in disposing of tickets. The sound advice was unheeded and for this reason the benefit staged for the Legion netted a loss, since it had to assume half of the cost. The Legion member responsible for the won't soon forget.

Two of the girls in the company were formerly with Al Jolson's Sinbad and their work as dancers showed why they had been chosen for the Broadway production. Polley gave a good exhibition of sleight-of-hand and Rex Casey as the Hindu Seer acquitted himself with honors. He advised one Peabody man to write the U. S. Government authorities in Moscow, Russia, for information as to the whereabouts of a certain soldier who has not been heard from for months. He declared capital and labor would clash within the next year and he answered numerous questions which satisfied the audience. The dancing and singing of the girls was high class. Both Polley and Rex urged the citizens to stand back of the Legion in every possible way. Polley is a war veteran, having seen service in France. The company went to Chelsea from here for a three days' engagement, but after the Sunday afternoon rehearsal the theatre management induced Polley to extend the engagement until Saturday night. Polley and his Pals has all of the qualifications for a money-making tour of the country.

"bone" is being severely criticised and Legion members are saying the interference has taught the veterans' association in this city a lesson it

OUR WATER SUPPLY.

It would be difficult to convince people in general that the water supply of the city of Peabody is in a serious condition. But the facts of the case are that Spring pond is low and that water has been let in from Suntaug lake, which lake is far from full. The rains or rainy weather which we have experienced for weeks is not counted much as to rain fall. It has not been enough to hold its own, and the consumption is increasing. Complaints to the water department of bills which appear to be excessive, have in most cases been found to be just, because of the fact that leaks are discovered which had gone unnoticed. Business throughout the city has kept the leather factories busy, and that means increased water consumption. The Enterprise has in its editorials many times warned those in authority that some move should be made to relieve this situation. Nothing has been done effectively to remedy the evil. We hope it will be bridged over, but with weeks of rain and the supply growing smaller, there appears to be no relief in sight. It seems to us that some move should be made at once, or factories will be compelled to shut down, and that means thousands of dollars daily lost to the manufacturer and his employees.

OUR FUTURE PROSPECTS.

Peabody is enjoying a low tax rate, good roads and sidewalks and everything municipal seems to be rosy. But while the Enterprise does not wish to be rated as pessimistic, the finances of our city must be handled by deft hands in the future to keep the tax rate at any where near its present figure. With a $600,000 building for school purposes to be erected a loss in valuation of more than $6,000,000 it is an easy matter to figure out that only economy can keep us under our present condition. There has been a tendency toward extravagance in many ways. Not but what automobiles are an addition to the several departments, but they are a rich man's plaything, and cost money and plenty of it to run. We are up-to-date, and that costs money. In fact, we have the habit of living high as have so many others throughout the country. If conditions warrant it, we believe it is right. But if we are to face a changed condition another year, let us do so by keeping down expenses and fight the high cost of living by practicing economy, the only way to fight it effectively.

SCARCITY OF TENEMENTS.

While Peabody is no worse off than other communities regarding a scarcity of tenements, there must be some scheme worked out to relieve this condition. We must look the situation squarely up in the face, for not to do so, means a direct loss.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

HELL GATE BRIDGE.

THE completion of the New York Connecting railroad gave us our first all-rail through route from New England, via New York, to the rest of America and a continuous rail line up and down the Atlantic coast from Key West to Halifax. It also calls to mind the fact that the insurmountable obstacle which had heretofore blocked the way had been overcome and the supposedly impossible accomplished.

Before this route could be opened, it was necessary to get trains across that terror to navigators, the rocky-bottomed tidal channel, known as "Hell Gate," between Long Island shore and Ward's Island in the East river, opposite Manhattan Island on which New York city proper stands.

It was not possible to sink piers into the channel, and the stretch was considered too great to be covered by one arched span. An engineer with vision came to the rescue and trains now cross on a wonderful four-tracked steel bridge. A peerless, steel arch, 1,017 feet long, said to be the longest as well as the heaviest ever flung across any waterway of equal width, now bridges the gap. The entire weight is carried by gigantic 250-foot high towers on either shore. The bridge is 93 feet wide, designed to carry 76,000 pounds per linear foot. The extreme height of the arch is more than 300 feet above the water.

About 19,000 tons of steel were used. The towers are bedded in solid rock, and it is estimated that they contain 3,000,000 cubic feet of masonry. The bridge cost $12,000,000.

MOST CHIVALROUS ARMY IN HISTORY

Woman "Y" Worker's Lonely Pilgrimage.

Doughboys of the A. E. F. are bringing home with them the finest thing in their lives abroad—their ideal of American womanhood.

An American woman says so; a woman who has traversed France in every kind of conveyance to sing and talk to the boys in every sort of place; a woman who has read burial services over the dead and has sung to boys dying in her arms.

Her name is Mme. Ada Turner Kurtz. She has studied the doughboy to better advantage, perhaps, than any other woman in France, for she was the only woman Y. M. C. A. worker abroad who held a "roving commission," and who went wherever she believed she was needed, from the forests in the South to the war zone in the North and the occupied territory along the Rhine. She was a Y. M. C. A. entertainment and religious "unit" of one—until she became voice teacher to musician-soldiers in the Army of Occupation, with a German officer's apartment for her studio.

The A. E. F. in Mme. Kurtz's opinion was the most chivalrous army in history. They gave to women the highest tribute of respect and consideration. This was their attitude to the women war workers, and if it changed, the woman, not the Y. M. C. A. or the doughboy, was at fault.

MRS. ADA TURNER KURTZ

She tells of her lonely pilgrimage into the forests of the Bordeaux region, to tell the impatient young soldiers of the S. O. S. that their job was vital. She tells of surprising a unit that hadn't seen an American woman for months, deep in a French forest; how they seized her, set her upon a box, scrambled for "slum" and knives and forks and spoons, every man eager to do something for her. And she tells how some of them would reach out and touch her, just to prove that she was real.

More than all else, Mme. Kurtz declares, the doughboy craved the mother-touch of womanhood. They sought it from all the women workers, whatever their age. They wanted a woman with whom they were free to talk, to whom they could take their troubles, and show the pictures they all carried of beloved women at home. The fact that the women war workers could satisfy this craving, Mme. Kurtz says, is proof of how necessary they were to the army.

The singer tells the story of one youth whom she picked up dying and carried to a hospital. As she held him, he opened his eyes and said, "Mother." She told him she was not his mother, but it was all right, he was to go to sleep. Then he said, "Thank God you're a woman." She tells the story of a Scotch boy who thought he was dying. She went to him and asked him what she should sing.

"Sing 'Annie Laurie,'" he said. And she sang it.

He did not die. Later she had opportunity to ask him why, when he thought he was dying, he asked her to sing that song.

"Don't you know," he answered, "that every man in khaki has an Annie Laurie for whom he would lay him down and die?"

Could Drink Water.

If among the innumerable beverages of colonial times a man could find nothing to quench his thirst, he must have been hard to satisfy. The Pilgrim fathers were much distressed because they were reduced to drinking water when they came to the New World. But Higginson, of Salem, proudly told his contemporaries: "I can and oft-times do drink New England water very well."

ROUND ABOUT

Some of our Peabody commuters between here and Boston would sooner miss dinner than to slip up on getting aboard the 12 minutes to 8 train in the morning, and for most of the Hub-going gentry there's a reason. One of the reasons advanced by friends of Mr. F. Mulcahy and John I. Anglin is the fact that they are the auction bridge champs of the Peabody delegation. Their two nearest rivals for the classic honors are Walter H. Williams and William Hill. The four occupy the same seats every morning, six days a week.

I observed "Eddie" Howard, erstwhile leather buyer, with daily trips to South America, in Peabody square yesterday afternoon admiring the new pavement and thinking nice things about Peabody. He was in that mood when I approached him with the time of day. He tells me he is buying leather and is soon to have his new firm cutting shoes in Lynn. Howard is a former newspaperman and a good one. He gave an interesting talk before the Peabody Club last winter on his travels below the equator.

Matthew E. Dowdell, who recently sold his tonsorial parlors, dropped into the County court at Salem Wednesday to hear Asst. Dist. Atty. Manning in action and found himself in the jury box a few minutes later, having been picked from the group of spectators. It was his first experience as a juror and he rather liked it.

Miss Mabel F. Low, P. H. S., '17, probably has the undisputed honor of being Peabody's youngest woman notary. Miss Low is but 19 years of age and during her office service at the Thompson Electric Co. plant in Lynn it was found expedient to have her procure the needed appointment from the Governor. Miss Low is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Low of King street.

Peabody school teachers with whom I have talked say that mothers fail to take the interest in the school work of their pupils and the instructors deplore the fact. They say that better school work would result if the parents kept in touch with the class room work by knowing how their children are progressing or failing to get ahead. I am told that the school teachers will shortly petition the school committee for more pay and they should get it without any delay. They are the poorest paid municipal employees in this and other cities.

Former Atty. Gen. Harry Attwill, now a member of the Public Service Commission, did not sit on the hearing given on the human flagman for West Peabody, so I am informed. He would undoubtedly have given his vote for the flagman.

Supt. David A. Coombs of the cemeteries has recently completed a card index system for that department with 3,000 cards for as many graves in Cedar Grove and 500 more for Oak Grove, West Peabody. Office equipment in Cedar Grove now makes the work easier and the records more accessible for important statistics. Supt. Coombs is frequently at work in his office in Cedar Grove as late of 9 o'clock evenings. Coombs has proven an ideal man for his position.

Supt. Coombs has supervised the laying of 3,000 feet of concrete gutters on the avenues of Cedar Grove so far this year and the work will be pushed along next year until every avenue is equipped with the gutters.

Sample Shoes Becoming New Big Business

Sample shoes, how they are made and what becomes of them after salesmen get through with them makes an interesting story.

When the designer decides on certain styles, he summons the best workmen in the factory and they select the best of leather and make up samples for the salesman to go on the road.
These workmen do not get paid piece-work but by the week, so as to enable them to take their time and make the samples right.

After a set of samples is completed which in some factories amounts to three or four hundred pairs, they split them in two, giving the rights to one salesman and the lefts to another. Now, as some factories employ from twenty to thirty salesmen they are obliged to make fifteen sets of samples which means 6,000 pairs of shoes.

The salesmen on the road with those samples take great care of them for they have to look right in order to make sales.
He displays them for about four months and after he completes his route he sends them into the factory. They are then paired together and made ready for sale.

If a dealer is lucky enough to have a friend in a shoe factory who will tip him off when the samples are ready for sale he rushes down there with spot cash and if keen enough buys them at the right price.

How to Tell Samples.

Sample shoes come in the following sizes only: Ladies', 3½, 4, and 4½; men's, 6½, 7, and 7½. The factory numbers of the shoes are always stamped on the heel.

Money Saved for You.

If you wear any of the above sizes there is no need of you paying the high prices of shoes for at Robinson's Shoe Store, 38 Main street, Peabody, Mass., you will find hundreds of pairs of samples of the best Lynn and Brockton made shoes, from the high heel, pointed toes, for young women to the low heel, broad toes for old ladies.

The prices asked for them will enable you to buy two pairs instead of one providing you are lucky enough to wear any of the above sizes.

PLAYMATES ACT

AS PALLBEARERS

The funeral services of Alton Warren Parker, the 11-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Parker, who was one of the boys killed in the accident on Summit street, Peabody, Saturday, Oct. 4, was held at the home of his parents, 8 Tucker court, on Tuesday afternoon.

A large number of schoolmates and his teacher, also his Sunday school class and club boys, attended the services and followed the procession to Cedar Grove Cemetery.

Rev. Herbert Walker of Holbrook, formerly of South Peabody, officiated and spoke highly of the boy's sterling qualities and manly character. He especially addressed his schoolmates, setting Alton's life as a fitting example for them to follow.

The floral remembrances were many and unusual for a lad of his years, among which was a beautiful harp of roses and carnations from the Second Congregational Sunday School of which he was a member. A wreath of roses from the teachers and schoolmates of the South School, a basket and mound from his father's associates of the Cost and Accounting Department, G. E. Co.; double spray of pinks from his bicycle club; basket of roses from the office of T. A. Kelly & Co.; also a profusion of other pieces from relatives and friends.

The bearers were playmates: Raymond Coombs, Wilbur Perkins, Carl Ricker and Richard Twiss.

Edward A. Malmitch, the other boy victim, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Malmitch, 11 Tucker's court, and was 14 years old. He was a pupil of the South School. His funeral was held Monday at the St.
John's Church.

Pickled Sheepskins Plenty But Bring Top Prices

By "ENERGY"

There are more pickled sheepskins coming into and in Peabody today than for many moons, yes I am going to say ever before. This statement may seem absurd, but there is a feeling evidently by leather merchants that prices are not going to drop, and let us hope so, for a drop would cause losses of fortunes. The hide market dropped off recently but I am informed that it recovered some of the loss. Pickled sheep are high and the leather produced from them must be sold at prices which before the war would have seemed staggering. So we must continue to face high priced shoes with all our other high priced necessities.

By the way, I do not read in the papers of any results from the work of politicians and others who really mean to try and help the public. The Democrats cannot talk about who caused the high price of living only to lay it to the war. Thinking men and women could not be convinced that the war was the real cause of such a calamity, for some parts of our country are purchasing necessities much cheaper than are other parts. It is not my business in this column to handle his subject, but it is foremost on my mind as it is on thousands of others.

There will be shoes on the market under $12.00 a pair, for every available piece of leather is being made into shoes which appear like real shoes when they are the odds and ends. Excuse me from attempting to launch myself into the retail shoe business under present conditions.

I announced last week that the Wetan Company had purchased the Harrington property, so called, formerly owned by Peter Sim Sons. The purchased price, which I understand was rising $14,000, was large when one considers the buildings are not well suited for finishing leather. But Mr. Woelful, the buyer, who by the way is acquiring some of the best tannery property in the city, evidently believes that the leather business is and will be good for years to come. Success in business since his advent this gentleman has made a marked success in business since his advent here some 15 years ago. With Louis Verza they seem destined to become a factor in the trade. Rapid changes are being made these days, and if one-half of the new concerns that are now doing business stay, we will increase the output of the business in Peabody several million dollars.

There are few desirable places left for tannery purposes. There must be an expansion toward South and West Peabody for new building. Both of these parts of our city offer exceptional advantages for manufacturers, with spur track facilities. The serious drawback appears to be the shortage of dwelling houses. But this same condition appears in other cities and towns, and capital must be let loose to build suitable dwellings. But how can anyone do this and get even a fair return for the money invested?

It seems to me to be an insane idea for some people to be howling because of rents being boosted by landlords. Everything else has advanced 100 per cent. and rents 10 per cent. This 10 per cent. does not represent the increased cost of repairs. No, there may be some cases of profiteering by landlords, but the public, if they know conditions, should pity most of them for having property on their hands to rent. It is a sad story.

So I am at a loss to figure out how we are to draw more help into Peabody and also house them. A. C. Lawrence Company are to help their employees to build homes, but how can the little fellow do that? There are today hundreds working in Peabody and living as far away as Marblehead. They may like it, for some one remarked that Marbleheaders never travelled to any extent and that ride in the electric is a novelty. But spending two hours each day going and coming to work will not last long, not to mention the expense.

The Tanner's Product Company have many attractions these days for people in need of cloth to cover their naked bodies. Because of the high cost of clothing, the cloth produced by these people is attractive as to quality and price. When one thinks that cattle hair enters into these goods to a large extent, it shows what progress has been made in this line. Near this concern is the Densten Hair Company, who are spending large sums to produce a finer quality of goods than formerly. It seems to me this business will develop into large industries for the southern part of our city. It means mills instead of hair buildings, it means that many hundreds of men will eventually be employed there drawing their help from mill cities and towns. It will give the young women a chance to enjoy good wages and lastly it means that the assessors, if on their job, will add to the city's treasury.

When leather became so scarce and high, I imagined that imitations would appear and become staple. So far as I can learn such imitations have not appeared in any considerable quantity. The public hesitate to purchase substitutes, at any rate it takes a long time for them to do it. Substitutes have come to stay, and it would not be surprising to see near leather appear in shoes. If the wear is there, they will stay, for the peculiar wear that shoes get on the foot give leather the severest of tests. No matter what the weather, no matter where you walk. There is nothing like leather, is the way the tanners talk.

William Farnum Heads Strand Bill Tonight In 'Lone Star Ranger' Film

William Farnum in "The Lone Star Ranger" will be the feature photoplay on the Strand's bill for today and Saturday. This is a special attraction and has played at advanced prices in all the large cities throughout the country. No change will be made in the Strand's regular schedule of prices, however, despite the fact that this picture has been playing all this week at the Boston theatre at a dollar a top. "The Lone Star Ranger" is adapted from Zane Grey's world famous novel of the same name. As Steele, the Texas Ranger, Mr. Farnum plays the part of a man who was lighting quick on the draw, who dared the worst outlaws of an outlaw-ridden country, putting an end to an ever increasing menace and redeemed a community that was held in bondage by a band of desperadoes and cattle thieves. One of the biggest moments in this tremendous picture is when Farnum, alone, enters the meeting place of the cattle rustlers, taking death in his hands, boldly slaps one of the optlaws across the face and forces the coward to back out of the room. Everything that goes to make up a perfect photoplay is to be found in "The Lone Star Ranger,"—tense dramatic action, wondrous desert and mountain scenery and a fascinating love story. William Duncan in "Smashing Barriers," the new Vitagraph serial, is the second attraction on today's program. This picture closed last week with the most startling train-wreck ever recorded on the screen and in this episode the action continues at the same furious rate. Larry Semon, in his latest comedy, "The Simple Life," will be another feature for today. Mr. Semon's comedies are, with the possible exception of Chaplin's releases, the funniest picture offered to the public and this one makes a fitting climax to an altogether great show.

Baby Marie Osborne in "The Sawdust Doll" will top the bill for Sunday evening. Baby Marie is again assisted by little Sambo, the inimitable colored lad, and this announcement is a guarantee of an evening's enjoyment. Emmy Whelen in "His Bonded Wife" will be the other pictorial attraction and Mr. Chet Potter and his xylophone will be presented in addition to the photoplay features. The quality of Strand's Sunday concerts are making a big hit and the management is constantly on the lookout for attractions of merit that will appeal to the discriminating theatregoers of Peabody.

Geraldine Farrar in "The Stronger Vow" will head a double feature bill for Monday and Tuesday. This is a story of Apache love in the heart of Paris. Miss Farrar receives fine support from Milton Sills and Thomas Sancheti. Dorothy Gish in "Out of Luck," which was originally released under the title "Nobody Home," will be the other feature for Monday.

Next Wednesday and Thursday "The Fires of Faith," a picture that exploits the great work of the Salvation Army in the war, will be presented. Eugene O'Brien, Catherine Calvert and Ruby De Remer are starred.

Wm. Shinnick Held In Highest Esteem

The death of William Shinnick, aged 47, one of the best known members of the Moose Lodge and Foresters of America, caused a deep gloom among an army of his friends by whom he will long be mourned. He entered the hospital for an operation for gall stones and pneumonia followed, causing his untimely death. He was one of the charter members of the Moose lodge and its first Dictator and under his regime the organization in this city quickly took front rank in membership among the orders. He was an ideal presiding officer and his rulings, always fair but deliberate, found him held in the highest respect. He had been one of the most prominent members in the Foresters of America and had done much to advance the interests of that order. He served the town of Peabody as its principal weigher and induced into that office a system that made it a paying proposition for the city. He was devoted to his aged mother, with whom he made his home at 84 Tremont street. He had long been in the employ of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Company and was probably better known among the army of shop employees than many of the older men in the service. His funeral held from St. John's Church yesterday morning was largely attended and many floral tributes attested the high esteem in which he had been held.

Family Pride.

Family pride, as it exists in society, seems to involve an absurdity, inasmuch as the honor of being descended from a great man increases exactly as the degree of consanguinity to him diminishes; for his immediate descendants are as mere upstarts compared to such of his remote posterity as can trace their origin to their great progenitor, back through a period of many years.—John Malcolm.

The Windward Islands.

The Windward Islands belong to Great Britain. They consist of the islands of St. Lucia, St. Vincent and Grenada, with the smaller islands of the Grenadine chain. The islands, really, form three distinct colonies, united under a governor-in-chief, who resides at St. George's, Grenada. The Windward Islands derive their name from their position, as do also the Leeward islands to the east, being more exposed to the trade winds than the neighboring Leeward islands.

Wm. Carlin Opens Office

William F. Carlin, who has been postoffice inspector for the past four years, has resigned his commission with the government and will open a general estate and insurance business in this city next week at 35 Lowell street, opposite City Hall. He has been planning to return to his home city for some months and engage in business and his many friends predict for him a big success.

Mr. Carlin was formerly postal clerk in the Peabody office from which position he was appointed inspector and assigned to a post in West Virginia. He was a member of the Peabody school committee while employed here and was one of the youngest citizens ever to be elected to that office. His initiative made him a valuable member of the committee. As postoffice inspector he handled many important cases for the federal authorities and he leaves the service at the regret of his chiefs.

During the war he resigned his position despite the fact that by order of the President he was exempted from military duty and he served more than a year in the intelligence department at soldier's pay.

He is entering his new business with a large list of clients already and with his known energy and ability is bound to succeed.

GRANGE NOTES.

Peabody Grange will meet next Thursday evening for the third and fourth degrees.

October 30th the grange will observe its sixth anniversary with harvest supper at 6.30.

POST 153, PEABODY.

Peabody war veterans, soldiers and sailors, are assured of an interesting cabaret show and smoker in City Hall this evening when Commander Osborn Palmer and the members of Post 153 hope to add many new names to the roll of membership. The committee on entertainment has arranged for a snappy show and the stag party is likely to be the opening of a series of entertainments to be provided this winter.

The drive for members is netting results. There are over 800 veterans of the World War in Peabody eligible for membership in the local post and the campaign to gather in the men is finding the 165 present members each a committee of one to add another name. A lunch will be served tonight.

A short business meeting will be held at 8 o'clock when the committee appointed to draw up a resolution pledging the post against any form of compulsory military drill will report. A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to Senators and congressmen. The Lawrence Post has taken similar action.

At the meeting of the Legion held Tuesday evening delegates to the state convention to be held in Worcester were elected as follows: Joseph T. Sweeney, Frank T. Matthews and Charles M. Boyle. The alternates were John McNamara, Philip L. Hunt and Leonard B. Cassidy. The convention seats one delegate for every 100 members and the drive here is to add all of the delegates possible.

The Legion at its meeting this week also named this committee to draw up a set of by-laws: Francis L. Poor, Philip Hunt and Joseph T. Sweeney. Over 100 veterans attended the meeting. The committee on the cabaret show this evening is Kenneth Hill, Leo Murphy, Leonard Cassidy, John McNamara and Charles M. Boyle.

Al Saunders, Billy Sunday's Aide, To Hold Revivals At M. E. Church

Peabody's greatest revival services will open next Tuesday evening at the Methodist church when Al Saunders, one of Billy Sunday's converts and leading evangelists, will begin a series of stirring meetings covering 10 days. The revival services are a part of the nation-wide movement by Methodists following their big centenary campaign.

Mr. Saunders is recognized as Billy Sunday's most conspicuous convert. He has been one of Mr. Sunday's strongest advance helpers, and at the time of Mr. Sunday's campaign in Boston, Mr. Saunders had the largest and most extensive hearing of anyone associated in the advance work of that campaign. He spoke in all of the New England states at that time.

FORD TRUCK SPEEDS INTO HEAVY DRAY

A Ford delivery truck owned by the Peabody Market at 194 Washington st., crashed midships into one of the General Transportation express teams on Lowell st. yesterday afternoon sending the team and horses in turn crashing into another truck standing on the street. But little damage was done and the horses fortunately escaped injuries.

Edward O'Brien was driving the express team from the court yard of the N. H. Poor Leather Co. onto Lowell st. when Mark Budefsky, driver of the first truck, was going up the street. Before he could stop his machine he had sent it headon into the express team. The horses started to run and crashed into the standing truck owned by Yoffa, the Lynn sugar dealer, and driven by Arthur T. Loomis of Lynn. The Yoffa machine was damaged the worst.

Police Officer Wiggin went to the scene of the crash and took the names of the participants in the accident. Budefsky found it difficult to speak English while the patrolman was present. He did not have his chauffeur's license.

Asks Citizens For Fund To Aid Schoolboys

Peabody high school athletics are to be given the boost they need by means of a popular subscription with which to properly equip the team. This was decided at the meeting of the advisory board held last night when enthusiasm ran high. The need of sweaters, blankets and other paraphernalia was never more pronounced and with the high calibre football team now on the gridiron it is believed the citizens will rally strong to the appeal for funds.

At the meeting last night Supt. Robinson, Principal Woodman, City Solicitor Farnham and School Committee member Barnes voted to announce the public subscription. The advisory board will have two undergraduates including the president of the Athletic Association and the athletic manager, these latter two being elected today at a meeting at the school.

Harold G. Childs, assistant city collector and former Peabody High star shortstop, is the chairman of the drive for funds for the high school athletics and he will organize committees to canvass shops and citizens.

NEW NAMES FOR STREETS COMING BEFORE COUNCIL

Naming of Peabody streets in honor of war veterans who made the supreme sacrifice will be discussed at the City Council meeting next week. Chairman Walter H. Brown and the special committee members have prepared a list of streets for which they suggest the following changes in names:

Burke st. for Willow st.
Driscoll st. for Holly st.
Quinlan sq. for Bleachery sq.
Farnsworth sq. at Pike & Whipple's.
Howley st. for Grove st.
Walsh st. for Crest ave.
Martineau sq. junction Lynn, Lynnfield and Washington sts.
Savage ave. for Farm ave.
Warner sq. junction of Aborn and Sutton st.
Connelley Park for Eastend Playground.

Nelson ave. for Clarendon rd.

Nickerson ave. for Randolph rd.
O'Donnell ave. for Lenox rd.
Hutchinson sq. for junction Summit and Lowell sts. or for Ward 5 Playground.

GOLDTHWAITS ARE WEDDED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel N. Goldthwaite celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Monday evening last at their home on Thorndike st. On account of Mr. Goldthwaite being in ill health the reception was confined to the immediate relatives, about 30 guests being present. They received a number of very fine gifts. A very delightful evening was spent with this most estimable couple, and much enjoyed by all present. The rooms were very attractively decorated with ferns, potted plants and cut flowers. During the evening solos finely rendered by Master Wendall N. Goldthwaite of Topsfield, a grandson, were a pleasing feature. Mrs. Brooks catered. The children of this couple now living are Fred N. of Topsfield, Mrs. Perley M. Sidmore of Danvers Highlands, Harry F., Grace M. and Mabel R. of this city.

Human Fly To Climb City Hall

George S. Polley, known as the "human fly," will give an exhibition on wall scaling in this city tonight and tomorrow for the benefit of the Peabody American Legion. Polley, who is only 22 years of age, is reported to be a physical marvel and has yet to encounter a wall or building that is too high or too smooth for him to climb to the top.

His exhibition tonight will be scaling the outside of the O'Shea building on Main st.

Polley during the war was a top sergeant of the 12th battalion, Camp Lee, Virginia, and gave exhibitions of

A. C. L. Had Best Team In County

Lefty Bill Harrington, the popular pitcher of the A. C. L. team, may go to Attleboro this week to participate in the deciding game of the series between Attleboro and North Attleboro. In last week's game, Walter Johnson and Dick Rudolph were the twirlers, and the teams were made up mostly of big league material. Harrington has received an offer to go out as second string pitcher to Walter Johnson, and will probably accept as the A. C. L. season is over. Graton & Knight, of Worcester, are also trying to sign him for Saturday.

Edgar L. Paine, of the Sheepskin department, is away for two weeks on a vacation.

Harry K. Batchelder, office manager and safety head of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., and Joel E. Ballentine, master mechanic, are attending the eighth annual Safety Congress at Cleveland, Ohio, this week. Mr. Batchelder is a member of the board of directors of the Massachusetts branch of the National Safety Council, which is holding the congress.

Joseph Lalor, the well known athlete and entertainer of the Hide department, has received an offer to join Mark Devlin's semi-professional football team in the west. This team is said to be as good as the famous combination of stars that Jim Thorpe has banded together, and with whom Tom Whalen and Leo Cody are playing. Lalor made good at both baseball and football at Salem High and Georgetown University.

John H. Quinlan received the sympathies of all in the plant in the loss of his father last week.

Henry Tadgell, of the National, received his appointment to the rank of Corporal in the Mass. State Guard this week. Corp. Tadgell has been on duty in Boston with his company for three weeks now.

Among those who are seeking to add to their education by taking evening courses at the Northeastern College of Boston Y. M. C. A. are Ray Anglin of the Nubuck dept., Nathan Masterson and Charles Lynch of the National, Henry Kuell of the Japan Shop, and Stephen Walsh of the Sheep staking dept. Walsh, who is taking up the study of law, served in the Canadian army for four years.

A number of the office girls attended the wedding of Miss Marion Thomas and Almon Massey last Tuesday. Miss Thomas is employed in the main office, while Mr. Massey is a member of the book leather dept. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed, and the happy couple were the recipients of many pretty and useful gifts.

Misses Helen O'Rourke, Cecelia Gilmore and Marian Tighe are teaching in the Americanization classes at the Main, Waters River and National plants of the company.

The A. C. L. baseball team had the honor of making a very unusual play in their final game of the season, a play that is seldom made in baseball. This is the triple play, and was one of the features of the features of the Marblehead-A. C. L. game. With men on first and second, the batter hit a low hard drive to the pitcher, who made a nice catch just before the ball touched the ground. The baserunners, thinking that the ball had not been caught, were speeding ahead to their bases, and were the victims of the rare triple play when the ball was thrown to second and first, retiring the side and stopping what looked to be a real rally. The play was run off so quickly that not half the spectators realized what had happened until the teams had changed places.

Frank Hinchon, the timekeeper in the Curry dept., is enjoying a two weeks' vacation. His position is being filled by Robert Poole.

Among the students enrolled in the classes in English at the main plant is a young Armenian, who talks five different languages. He taught school in his mother country, being a professor of language in a school of about the grade of our high school. Although he has been in this country but three months, he already has a pretty good command of the English language, and is attending the plant school in order to further improve his knowledge.

The A. C. L. baseball team closed its season last Saturday with eight wins and five losses to its credit. Six of the games were decided by a margin of one run, which shows the kind of games that were offered to the fans. The team was recognized as one of the fastest in the state, and wall scaling in several Liberty Loan campaigns. He holds the South Atlantic record for hurling, which record has been in the Polley family for more than 16 years, his brother, James, having previously held it. During his exhibitions of wall scaling he performs a series of acrobatic stunts, one of which is standing on his head after he reaches the top of the sky scraper, which he generally takes for his demonstrations. Polley hails from Richmond, Va.

At 6.30 tonight he will climb the 'Shea building and Saturday evening at 6.30 climb the city hall. Does this to advertise his big show which just closed on Keith time in Lawrence. Three big acts of magic, illusions, musical specialties and mental telepathy. "Rex, the man who knows" is a famous mental telepathist and will tell your future from the stage. Rex predicted the end of the world war within 10 days. The famous DeLeo Sisters from Ol Jolson's "Sinbad" are on the show. George Moorehead introduces a novelty on piano, saxophone and banjo.

The show comes very well recommended and is under the auspices of the American Legion, which organization gets 40 per cent of gross receipts. Will play at city hall Friday night and Saturday night at 7.30. Matinee Saturday at 2.30. The company carries its own scenery and has some of the most expensive gowns.

CHUCK BURNS TO AID BOWLERS

Charles (Chuck) Burns will become manager of Manning's bowling alleys when the candle pin emporium opens its doors for the local trade Monday, and he is assured of a busy season in the employ of Boniface Daniel J. Manning, the owner.

"Chuck" is familiar with all of the needs of a successful bowling alley and is himself a fair flinger at the pins. Several leagues are to compete at the local alleys this winter, including the A. C. L. teams.

BIRTHS.

Born—Sept. 23, 1919, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey O'Connell of 13 Swampscott ave., Peabody.

CITY HALL

Peabody's evening schools will not be opened until the latter part of this month. The present cramped conditions of the schools is the problem that confronts the school committee and this must be adequately solved first.

It is predicted that Mayor Donnell's budget for 1920 will be considerably less than this year and it is hinted that the new road construction next year will be confined to completing only Tremont st. to the Salem line and Aborn st. to the Salem line.

It will not be surprising to see a pruning knife used on the number of municipal employees. It is said that the knife is likely to fall in three or four departments where the force of employees is said to crowd each other during the day hours. There's a pesky rumor afloat but those who might know something are not saying a word.

Peabody's shade tree department under Supt. John J. Callahan whose title of tree warden keeps him busy in charge of a fair sized crew, have earned the commendation of the citizens again this year by the general appearance of the shade trees on the residential streets. The department is also called into the "backwoods" quite often to prune out protruding branches. The tree warden has a capable man in Stephen Murphy, who is foreman.

Supt. of streets, Fred H. Wyman, resumed his duties this week after a two weeks' vacation spent in Milton, N. H. where he numbers many friends. He found ample opportunity to crowd home the fact that Peabody has some of the best streets this side of Washington, D. C. and they are saying at city hall that he wasn't at all backward in so declaring the virtues of Peabody.

BARRY OPENS NEW STORE

William J. Barry, Georgetown University graduate and teacher in the Turners Fall high school, and A. Kieffer Stacey of Washington, D. C. are to open the Young Men's shop at 45 Main st. where they will carry a full line of haberdashery. Mr. Barry resigned his position as teacher preferring to engage in the commercial world. Mr. Stacey, who is associated with Mr. Barry, was in charge of the men's furnishing department of one of Washington's largest department stores. The new store will be next to the Strand theatre.

Leather merchants throughout the trade have associated themselves into an organization which will assist tanners who have been unfortunate or unsuccessful in business. This seems to me to be a worthy object and is charity. They are called upon frequently to help worthy objects but none would be so attractive as to assist men with whom they have been associated for years but through breaks have taken the business count. The only bad feature of this proposition is that it was not commenced 5 years ago. Then many tanners in Peabody would have benefitted. The history of the leather business in Peabody up to 1895 shows that practically all who continued in business under old methods retired with but little money. Most of them had made money and had lived well. They contributed to all worthy objects in the town, yes the state and country, but the saying that every dog has his day is true in this case, with the addition there are more dogs than days.

The war just gone into history, has made the tanner of today financially strong. He is in a position to weather many a business storm which comes at intervals, unless the league of nations will stop it, as it expects to stop further wars. But there are happenings which us mortals have never been able to solve, and I am of the opinion that such men as represented the several nations in Paris are no bigger, to say the least, than diplomats before them. We appear to be in a strong leather position today. Strong because supply and demand control business, and will continue to do so in spite of any league that may be established. The people will have the say, not kings, queens and others in the future. So Peabody is looking forward to business in large volumes for years. Leather manufacturers are prepared to cope with good business and thousands of Europeans will be wearing shoes in the near future with the leather made in Peabody. "Made in Peabody" should be stamped on every side or skin, and in years to come a steady stream of humanity from foreign countries will make a pilgrimage to our city to find out how we tan leather that wears so long and well. Meanwhile Peabody will annex Salem, Lynn and other surrounding cities and towns who will stampede here to help take the honor of such a condition. They will want Mayor Donnell to run the metropolis after he has made the district attorney's office so strong they will not need lawyers to conduct it.

In conversation with a large tanner of sheepskins recently, he said there had been much talk of a scarcity of these skins. He said there had never been a time when he could not purchase pickled skins if he had the price. He could always get the kind he wanted, and in quantity. We are all drifting into an era of camouflage. Perhaps the war started it, but business men can look you in the eye today and tell a story that is ridiculously untrue, and try to get away with it. It does not get them much, but it seems to be in the air and the easiest way out I presume. His word as good as his bond used to be an expression with many business men, yes tanners. It would apply today in big things I am sure, but why not in the minor doings of business. So in getting seller's idea of pickled sheep and add it to the buyer's idea, divide by two, and one might get the proper condition. There are plenty of these skins, there are plenty of hides, there are plenty of concerns ready to finish them, so with plenty of demand, old man prosperity will pitch his tent in our city and give all of us money enough to fight the high cost of tanning and living, with now and then an automobile thrown in to enhance our pleasure. Hurray!

There have been some important real estate changes recently. The Wetan Leather have purchased the old Harrington tannery owned by Peter Sim's Sons. This is one of the WATCH YOURSELF GO BY!

Just stand aside and watch yourself go by:

Think of yourself as "he" instead of "I."

Pick flaws; find fault; forget the man is you,

And strive to make your estimate ring true.

The faults of others then will dwarf and shrink,

Love's chain grows stronger by one mighty link.

When you with "he" as substitute for "I"

Have stood aside and watched yourself go by.

CHANGE THE NAME OF MAIN STREET

When Peabody's forebears selected the name for Main street they did it because it was the town's principal thoroughfare off of which diverged a few single streets. They had behind the name nothing of sentiment and their guiding force was merely one of convenience. It was the easiest name for the most traveled street and our ancestors were too busily engaged in farm produce and the nearest marketplace to ponder long over a more suitable name. It probably was the most suitable name in the days when it was first chosen. Today the city of Peabody, possessing some of the best paved streets of any city in the state, is intent on changing the meaningless names of sundry streets and substituting in their stead the names of war veterans who gave their lives for democracy. Why not change the name of Main street to one which will mean something? Why not shake off the village name for a modern one which will always remind a grateful Peabody citizenship through the coming peaceful generations that Peabody sent to the world's war men who defended the ideals of a free people and whose heroic deeds helped to teach the war lords that liberty and freedom were things most to be desired?

THE MAYOR'S CHAIR

The plans of Mayor Donnell as to continuing in the Mayor's chair have not been announced. It is early to announce them because of the fact that an election is necessary to make him district attorney. No one would attempt to say he would not be elected to this office, for he has little or no opposition. After this election some statement by the Mayor is in order. We believe that a large majority of the citizens wish him to continue in the Mayor's chair well into next year. When the budget for next year is passed, there will be plenty of time to arrange for a change. After July 1, an election is not necessary, at least by the people. Under the city charter, the council can fill the vacancy for the balance of the year. It appears to us to be the logical way. But whatever comes, our city should be protected in a way which would not be detrimental to its interests. We are on a prosperous road, and let us not be ditched to our detriment. Let us weigh the responsibilities which all good citizens have in this matter, so that results such as we had in the last three years continue, and Peabody will continue to be in the limelight as to good roads, low tax rate and general efficiency. We do not claim perfection for Mayor Donnell's administration, but events have proved that his record as Mayor will go down in history as a progressive one, and few, if any Mayors, have surpassed it throughout our country.

MEMORIAL FOR WAR VETERANS

Passing through Beverly recently we observed a structure facing the street with a complete list of names of those men who took part in the recent world war. It was so arranged to attract the eye of all passersby, and we believe it is the duty of our city government to erect something which would commemorate the deeds of the local soldiers who did their bit in the great struggle. We can conceive of no class in these soldiers. Circumstances placed some of them on the firing line, others never left our shores, but through no fault of their own. It was one get together to further the interests of our country and as such all should receive equal commendation. So if financial conditions will not warrant spending a large sum to get the result wanted, the least would be to follow the example of Beverly and Lynn and place a list of names in sight of the passersby, and city hall lawn seems to us to be the logical place. Do it now!

Engineers Union Asks About City Pumping Crew

Salem, Oct. 2, 1919.

Editor, Enterprise,
Peabody, Mass.

Dear Sir:—In the issue of the Peabody Enterprise, Sept. 26, there appeared the following, "Engineers and Firemen at Pumping Station Surrender Their Union Cards."

Now, let me ask, "What kind of a union card did they surrender? To whom did they surrender their cards? In what union do they hold membership?"

They are not members of Engineers Union Local No. 93, and never have been, and it is very doubtful if Local 93 would consider them as candidates if they should apply, as we not only expect but demand that any member of our Local, who takes charge of a steam plant, shall be competent to start and operate the same without having to send out of town for an expert.

They are not Union Engineers and nobody knows it better than they do themselves. Why try to fool the public? If it is their intention, as it seems to be, to win a little applause, they will miss the mark, as the public is well informed about the conditions under which these men took the jobs at the pumping station.

Please give this the same publicity that you gave their article in the issue of Sept. 26.

Thanking you in advance,

ESTES J. HATCH,
President Local Union No. 93.

Immigrant Has Kind Word For Peabody's Mayor

Editor, Enterprise,
Peabody, Mass.

I came to Peabody from Ireland. I arrived in Peabody and as I wanted to see my friends at the beachery on Foster st. I rode on a boat or a canoe. I thought I was in Noah's Ark. I was looking for the dove to send word that I was coming. Look at it today, what His Honor, Mayor Donnell, has done for the citizens of Peabody.

In 1871, Mayor Donnell was not on the land of the living. I saw him when he was not as big as the American eagle, when his grandfather, Samuel Donnell, the grocer of Lowell st., gave his goods to the strikers and never refused one, no matter what his law or creed, all were alike to him. His grandson is following his footsteps. He is kind and treats all alike. Look at Foster st. No canoe is needed now, but it is a splendid boulevard as they are styled. So he has proved to the citizens of Peabody what he can do, and let us citizens of Peabody, not go back on him till we land him district attorney and I firmly believe he will never go back on us.

A CITIZEN OF PEABODY.

For One's Own Comfort.

Half the sting of poverty is gone when one keeps house for one's own comfort and not for the comfort of one's neighbors. It is not what we lack, but what we see others have, that makes us discontented.—Miss Mulock.

ROUND ABOUT

One of the first Peabody school undergraduates to enlist in the war service was Frank Lynch, who was president of class 1917. He quit school shortly after President Wilson called for volunteers and within a very few months he was in France, among the first Peabody boys to get overseas. He has returned home with plenty of war service during which he was gassed and wounded, being confined to a hospital some weeks. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Lynch of Ellsworth road.

Irving Blake, Peabody's first war veteran to get to France in June, 1917, is home with the proud decoration of a five star badge indicating service in the five principal battles in which the Americans figured. His regiment, the 28th Infantry "Pershing's Own," was one of the few to be decorated. Blake's regiment accompanied Gen. Pershing on his trip to France. He has returned home eager to get back into "civies" and join the ranks of the busy workmen.

The Lynn Fox Hunters' Association will follow the hounds in West Peabody on Oct. 13, being entertained at one summer home of John J. Joyce, Lake st. Mr. Joyce who is one of the councilors-at-large in Lynn, has thrown his hat into the mayoralty ring in his home city and his Peabody friends are boosting hard for him to win. Councilor Joyce is a member of the Fox Hunters Club and offered to be the host for the day's outing.

I observe that Lieut. Karl Woodman, one of Peabody's distinguished service medal men, is to be the speaker before the Peabody Club members tomorrow night at the first of the Saturday night entertainments to be given by the organization. Lieut. Woodman went from a corporal to first lieutenant in France, and he saw some of the hardest of the fighting. He is bound to interest his audience tomorrow night in his recital of war incidents.

"Jack" Hasseltine, former National Calfskin Co. executive, is assured of a big welcome back to Peabody, and his friends will be glad to see him again take up his activity in the leather game. He is undecided as to his future but has several offers. He resigned a lucrative position with a leather concern in Wilmington, Del. where labor disputes had practically closed the shop for the past two months and the Peabody man couldn't remain idle.

Two Peabody school teachers are enrolled at an evening school taking a course in business training, and one of the teachers finds her present instructor—once a girl pupil of hers in the grammar school.

With the hunting season at hand Peabody devotees of this diversion (some call it a sport) are priming their shot guns ready for the pheasants and other birds the law allows slaughter of in season. I am told the pheasants are very numerous.

Word has been received of the arrival in New York of Joseph O'Connor just back from Haiti where he was one of the U. S. Marines to free the island from bandits. Young O'Connor enlisted in the Marines in Dec., 1917 with John Cassidy of Sutton st. Through a quarantine the two boys got separated, Cassidy going overseas with the Fifth Marines and his bunkie being held at Paris Island, S. O. O'Connor was stationed in Cuba for some months and then sent to Haiti. He expects to get his discharge this week and return home. He was a high school junior at the time of his enlistment and a clever athlete.

Walter J. Budgell of the well known leather concern that bears his name took the mountain trail to Crawford Notch some days ago hopeful that the soft autumnal winds would record Indian summer up among the high hills. Once in the mountain resort he found chilling winds, and his visit was shortened as a result. He is home with tales of an early winter up in the White Mountains.

The honor of having been chosen gridiron captain at Exeter has come to Arthur Barry, son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Barry of Washington st., and his many Peabody friends are naturally elated at his quick rise in popularity at this well known prep school. Capt. Barry was one of the best football players ever to graduate from Peabody High and the alumni of that school are watching with much interest his career in the college world.

All our parish Guilds resume their meetings this month. The rearranged and decorated halls will be far more convenient than the guild hall, and always warm and cheerful.

The school hall and choir room are now a delight. The walls have been tinted, a partition put up separating the halls, new lighting fixtures are going in, wires strung and curtains hung to separate school hall into class cubicles during the lesson period; a platform for school hall and other important conveniences for the better and more efficient handling of our Guild activities will follow. These matters are ready now except a few finishing touches. The men of the parish, led by Mr. Pray as chairman, have worked hard, and we are all under deep obligations to them. I am certain that our people have not realized what fine equipment we had downstairs, capable with such small expense of being made so pleasant, and convenient for our varied activities. As soon as all these contemplated improvements are completed, I shall want to show you all over the plant.

The Knights of Washington start fall work enthusiastically. Eight applications for initiation presented at their first meeting in September.

October 1st was the rector's first anniversary. It has been a happy year. With your prayers and loyal support we will strive for strong advance the coming year. Mrs. Beal and I are grateful to our people for many kindnesses.

The rector is preaching a series of evening sermons upon "The World's Ancient Hymns." Topics for Oct. 5, "A Song of Fellowship;" 12th, "The Outlaw's Hymn of Confidence;" 19th, "A Triumphant Processional Hymn;" 26th, "The Confession of the Prodigal."

Mr. Leach, who has done excellent work as choirmaster, has been obliged to resign, as his business keeps him out of the city all the week. He will continue to sing Sundays. We have been fortunate in securing William A. Staples as choirmaster and organist. Mr. Staples has been choirmaster and organist for a number of years at St. Peter's, Salem. He is an old friend of St. Paul's and will have a cordial welcome from you all.

“The Blinding Trail” Is Newest Film Showing Monroe Salisbury

One of those gripping stories of the north woods, with their play of elemental passions against the background of nature, is promised in Monroe Salisbury's latest picture “The Blinding Trail” which will top the Strand's program for today and Saturday. Written by John B. Clymer, “The Blinding Trail” tells of the fate that befell “Big Jim” McKenzie, lumber boss, when the daughter of his employer and her chum came to his camp in the woods.

Caught up in the swirl of love and jealousy, McKenzie felt Fate's crushing blow when, blinded as the result second chapter of Vitagraph's splendid serial “Smashing Barriers” will be the second big feature for today. Duncan is one of the best stunt actors in the picture game and he performs two hair-raising feats in this episode. The comedy end of this program is held up by Al Christie's funmakers who appear in “He Married His Wife.”

The quality of the Strand's Sunday evening concerts is a source of much favorable comment and the management has received positive assurance that the effort to give Peabody high-class entertainment is being appreciated by the discriminating public of this city. For this Sunday Mgr. Chet Bent has secured Mae Marsh in “The Racing Strain” and Gladys Leslie in “Miss Dulcie From Dixie,” as the photoplay attractions. Chet Potter will present a new program of selected xylophone solos in addition to the features listed above.

Another of Priscilla Dean's absorbingly fascinating “crook” plays entitled “Pretty Smooth,” will be presented at the Strand on Monday and Tuesday. “Pretty Smooth,” according to the reports is replete with thrilling situations that make the spectator's fingers twitch as this swiftly moving story unfolds. Miss Dean has the part of Gertie Jones, known to the crook world as the “Chatterbox,” because of a peculiar habit of talking to herself when under the stress of excitement.

The story of “Pretty Smooth” was written specially for Miss Dean by Bayard Vellier, to whose credit stand “Within The Law” and “The Thirteenth Chair.” The picture is a worthy successor to “The Wild Cat of Paris” and “The Exquisite Thief,” both of which elicited hearty applause when shown at the local playhouse a short time ago. Another offering which is calculated to make this program irresistible is Tom Moore in “One Of The Finest.” Mr. Moore is an established favorite all over the country and his many admirers will rejoice at this opportunity to see him and Miss Dean on the same bill.

PRISCILLA DEAN.

of a toboggan accident, he found that his wife—the daughter of his employer—had played false with him. How he fought against his fate, and how true love came at last to him make an engrossing tale with a strong “punch” at the finish. The author has gone back to the primitive for his material and has painted life in broad, free strokes in keeping with the illimitable settings of forest, mountains and open sky. Those who like dramas of the type of “The Brand” and “The Spoilers” will be satisfied with “The Blinding Trail.” William Duncan in the

Eyes of Youth Empire Bill

The Empire Players will next week undertake the production of one of the most pretentious success of the year, “Eyes Of Youth.” This absorbing human interest play of metropolitan life, from the pen of Max Marcin, has just been released for stock at an unusually high royalty figure and will require the utmost resources and ingenuity, scenically and dramatically of every person connected with the production end of this theatre. Every act calls for new and elaborate stage settings and as for costumes it is not divulging anyone's secret to reveal the fact that Miss Hazel Miller is to appear in the most stunning creations of her magnificent new wardrobe.

“Eyes Of Youth” is the smashing dramatic success that established Major Rambeau as a star over night and swept New York, Boston and Chicago by storm. Painted in melodramatic colors and possessing the value of a mystery novel the play will undoubtedly register the same emphatic hit here as it did in the larger theatrical centers.

Of all sheer materials used for blouses that are required to be both dainty and sturdy, fine cotton voile proves to be the best. It wears like iron, outlasting all but the strongest laces and returns from laundering as good as new as long as it lasts.

The business girl will appreciate the charm of freshness in a blouse like that shown above. It is made of cross-bar voile, having separate collar and cuffs of sheer white organdie.

best layouts in our city for tannery purposes. Sydney Lippa, who has made a success of the scrap leather game, has purchased the Fernald and Lewis shop in the rear of Foster st. near the Vaughn plant. He has associated with him men of practical leather experience and with an addition to the shop will have a plant capable of handling a large output. This shop has been used for finishing purposes over 60 years. Fernald and Lewis carried old fashion side leather, then came Newman Perkins and Son whose specialty was splits and they pushed a ton daily on the market from this shop. Since that time, small concerns have occupied the place making sheep and other animals' skins into leather. There are 102 cellar and one room artists struggling to get a living, finishing pieces. Some of them from the mother to the old man plus 10 children, do the work, and if that does not beat the high cost of living then all of us are licked to a frazzle.

They are to try and introduce the square toed shoe to us again. It must be the chiropodist has lost his hold on the public. When they introduced the pointed toed shoe, chiropodists appeared on many corners. Corns, bunions and such like gave us time to recognize that we had feet attached to us and we wondered why corns should visit us. The squared toed shoe will answer the questions and the foot question will disappear from our ills. They tell us the shoe should be the same shape as the foot, but only a Chinese woman could claim a likeness to the pointed shoes. Give us the wide toe Mr. Shoe Manufacturer. I would have worn them long ago if they were in the market.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

NIAGARA FALLS.

If you can imagine a river three-fourths of a mile wide, 20 feet deep in the middle, and containing thousands and thousands of tons of water, suddenly tumbling over a cliff 160 feet high and dashing on the rocks below with a deafening roar and throwing up huge clouds of mist and spray, you have some impression of what Niagara Falls, the world's best-known and most popular waterfall, is like.

This majestic cataract is situated in the Niagara river, between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario and near the city of Buffalo, N. Y. Ny-ah-ga-rah is an Indian word, meaning Thundering Waters. Members of the Seneca tribe, 'tis said, considered the roar of the falls as the voice of the Great Spirit. Thinking he inhabited the spray, they made many and various offerings to this deity.

The waterfall divides itself into two parts, American Falls and the Horseshoe or Canadian Falls. Nine-tenths of the flow, which is estimated to be 500,000 tons per minute, passes over the Horseshoe Falls, which is by far the more impressive of the two.

Below the falls the river is considerably narrower than it is above the falls, and the water rushes, at a frightful speed, through a seven-mile-long gorge, in which is located the famous Whirlpool Rapids.

The edge of the cliff over which the water plunges into the canyon below, wears away at the rate of about five feet a year. Geologists declare that this mighty fall has been in operation for about 20,000 years.

Do Authors Enjoy Writing?

In an editorial on the financial rewards of the late Amella E. Barr the New York World sets forth that sheer love of writing always produces the best results. “We object,” says the Sun. “A canvass of writers who achieve the best results, our guess is, would show that nine-tenths of them don't love to write. There is a good deal of bunk about it, and it is hard to get honest answers; many writers are afraid to say they don't enjoy the writing job.”

Peabody High Tackles Revere High In Beach City Saturday Tanners Class Up As Champs

Peabody High goes to Revere tomorrow where the gridiron warriors will tackle the fast high school team in that city. After the initial showing made when the Tanners defeated Lynn Classical last Saturday, Coach Gilmore is quite confident that his men will bring home the bacon.

The all around work of Capt. Hubby

C. of C. Aiding Peabody Trade

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, of which the local organization is a member, is participating in the National Budget System hearings before the House committee on appropriations. These hearings, just starting in Washington, perhaps will last two weeks.

The war made necessary an expansion of government expenditures to an extent hitherto not only unprecedented, but almost unbelievable. This in turn gave rise to a comparative expansion of taxation and issuance of government loans. The immense burden thus placed upon the people in general, and upon business and industry in particular, has led to a greatly increased interest in the manner in which the government expends its funds and a demand for stricter and more intelligible methods of appropriating and accounting. Consequently, in the judgment of the National Chamber of Commerce, the time has arrived for pressing upon Congress the need for adopting a budget procedure with far greater hope of success than at any time in the past.

The first fall meeting of the Essex County Associated Boards of Trade will be held Thursday, Oct. 9, at the Essex County Agricultural School in Danvers. The Peabody Chamber will be represented by three delegates as well as President Woods and Secretary Thomas. The home keeping department of the school will serve luncheon.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce, of which the local organization is a member, will be held October 15 at the Vendome hotel in Boston. Governor Coolidge will make the opening address. The local Chamber will be represented by delegates consisting of George E. Hayes, William A. Shea, Frank W. Penniman, President Woods and Secretary Thomas.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America proposes the erection of a permanent and suitable building for occupancy at Washington. The building will be the Washington home of American Business, and it is believed by the committee in charge that the required funds will be subscribed as an outright gift within the next few months.

Lawrence, one of the classic football players ever to don protector and pads, has so far enthused the players that a winning combination is assured in the local talent. All in all it bids fair to rival any of the other football elevens turned out by the local school.

Peabody citizens should get behind the players and pull for a victory at every game.

Jordan and O'Connor were the big pair with Capt. Lawrence to help the Tanners win against the Lynn team Saturday. The Shoe City aggregation were much heavier and at the start threatened to make easy work of the home talent. Lawrence's spectacular run for 50 yards put the ball where the Peabody team got it over the goal line for a touchdown.

A big crowd of fans are sure to go with the Peabody team to Revere tomorrow. The bus will leave from the Father Mathew home on Main st. at 1.30.

The eleven received some tips from Coach Harry Dadman, the former Harvard captain this week, and some of his plays will be put into action against the Revere team. Joseph Lawlor, of the alumni, was also on hand to assist Coach Gilmore in the practise this week and the boys are it for the big battle.

Three minute talks were given in the high school Tuesday and in the annex Wednesday to help boost the Athletic Association. The following pupils spoke in the class rooms: Miss Dorothy Cowdrey, Miss Marjorie Cowdrey, Miss Helen Lagerstrom, Miss Louise Andrews, Miss Elizabeth Macintosh, Miss Alice Mulcahy, John Anglin, Robert Johnson, Stephen Cross, Melvin Bryant, Richard Lynch, J. Macdonald.

their auspices that he comes to Peabody. Mr. Saunders, and Mr. Lusk, the pastor of the church will have associated with them in the work here, G. I. Waltz, an evangelistic chorus director and soloist of rare gift and extensive experience in that particular capacity. Mr. Waltz has worked in all parts of the country successfully for a number of years, having done some of his best work in New England.

Plans are being made to have the vocal music reinforced with the best instrumental talent obtainable. The Methodist church is following its great centenary campaign with a world-wide revival effort, the slogan of which is, "A Million Souls for the Church and the Kingdom in One Year."

This series of meetings is one phase of the Peabody church's contribution to the plan of the Methodist church at large. The Minute Men of the centenary have assumed the responsibility of the effort here, having made arrangements so far, and are most enthusiastically carrying them to completion. Concrete results of their earnest efforts were manifested in 12 additions to the local church last Sunday, which was really the beginning of the present effort.

The Minute Men who are responsible for the direction of this effort are, John Chadder, Walter Beckett, Henry Cook, John Ballentine, Leslie Watkins, Herbert Kimball, Joel Ballentine, A. A. Morten and Percy Robinson, the men who carried the Peabody church over the top in the centenary campaign, one of the first to go over the top, and resulting in one of the largest subscriptions in the Lynn district.

was a contender for the championship of the state up to the last two games. They faced some great twirlers during the season, among them being Mayer of the White Sox, Goodwin of the Chicago Cubs and Bach of the Eastern League, not to mention the one and only "Chick" Davies.

One of the floors of the hide tacking dept. resembles Peabody Square in the manner in which it is laid out in aisles. Same wag has placed signs with "Main Street," "Peabody Square" and other designations on the posts to still further add to the illusion.

Joseph Clothey, order clerk in the main office, is out on his annual two week vacation.

Lovers of football are planning on following the Boston College team this fall, as Jimmy Fitzpatrick and Louie Urban, the battery that won so many games for the A. C. L. team this summer, are two of the star performers on the B. C. squad. Large numbers will go from Peabody tomorrow to witness the Harvard-Boston College battle.

Mrs. Herbert Dennis (Lillian Thoele) is leaving the employ of the company this week in order to start in housekeeping.

"Dimoe" Dempsey, the fleet outfielder of the A. C. L. team, has returned to college where he is one of the star athletes on the track team.

Does your husband worry about the grocery bill? No; he says there's no sense in both himself and the grocer worrying over the same bills.

Howard Barry To Take Bride

A wedding of much local interest will take place this evening at 5 o'clock at St. John's church rectory when Miss Rose Moore, of this city, will be united in marriage with J. Howard Barry of Chicago, formerly of this city. The bride has for some time been connected with Stone & Webster of Boston. The groom, a former Peabody man, is now in business in Chicago, where the couple will reside.

The bridesmaid will be Miss Mary Moore of Somerville, a sister of the bride, and the best man, John Barry, brother of the groom.

At a dinner given in her honor last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Willard Burke, the bride was presented with an electric percolator by her sewing circle. The couple take with them the best wishes of their many Peabody friends.

DONNELL TO AID WORTHY MEN NOW IN COUNTY JAILS

MAYOR DONNELL, NEXT DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

In a statement prepared especially for the Enterprise, Mayor Donnell, the next District Attorney of Essex county, thanks his Peabody friends and supporters for their handsome endorsement. He puts himself on record also of making the path of the professional criminal a bed of thorns in this section of the state and declares that so far as he can do so he will see to it that worthy men now in jail are given a chance to come back into civil life.

The Mayor's statement:

"To the citizens of my native city I shall always be grateful for their tribute of confidence and respect manifested at the polls last Tuesday. With the county machine and the political leaders against me throughout the county I put my faith in the people and they responded by the thousands to my appeal. The majority of three thousand votes in my favor in Lynn, Salem, Marblehead, Danvers and Peabody, where I am best known, brought tears of gratitude to my eyes in the early morning hours of Wednesday following a fight of eight weeks of open warfare.

"The great office of District Attorney of Essex county properly administered can restore to the pathway of good citizenship scores of criminals who have erred because of an unfortunate environment in early life and at the same time the deliberate professional crook who seeks a living at the expense of law abiding

SULLIVAN URGES FREE DENTAL CLINIC

Councillor James T. Sullivan started the ball rolling last night in the City Council when he introduced a resolve to have the Board of Health take measures to install a dental clinic for the benefit of the school children. His resolve asked the health board to look into the matter and report back to the Council. Many cities and some towns have the free dental service now for the children.

PUMPING STATION MEN SURRENDER UNION CARDS

What is said to be the beginning of a stampede on the part of municipal employees to withdraw from labor unions is the action of the engineers and firemen at the Peabody pumping station off Lynn st. who have surrendered their union cards. The proclamation of Governor Coolidge calling it an act of treason for public service employees to strike is known to be supported by the pumping station crew of operatives and their action is believed to be but a forerunner of events slated by other municipal employees in Peabody.

Mayor Creamer of Lynn has come out flat-footed against the school teachers of that city joining a union. The Congressional hearing now being held on the question of public service employees such as policemen and others affiliating with labor unions, will, it is believed, cause the law makers to enact a law making it impossible for municipal or state employees to become members of the union labor movement.

COUNCIL FAVORS JUNIOR HIGH

An informal vote of confidence in the Peabody school committee in its request for a bond issue of a half million dollars for a Junior High school in this city was taken by the City Council last night without serious debate.

The vote requested the school committee to submit the plans they deemed the best for the local project to the City Council, and it is probable that the Council will vote to go to the legislature for the bond issue. The committee on finance reported last night in favor of adding $100,000 more to the amount so as to provide for a stadium in the rear of the high school on land now owned by the city.

Some of the Councillors thought the stadium could be considered separate from the new high school.

Three Peabody Men For Jury

Benjamin D. Courtis of Osborne st., John Keefe, 2d, of 49 Washington st. and John I. Anglin of Holten st. were drawn as jurors last night at the meeting of the City Council. The first two are to report at Newburyport, and Anglin will report at Salem. The call was for service Oct. 6. Councillors Jones, Brown and Hogan drew out the names in order.

COUNCIL FAVORS POLICE MATRON

Peabody police station may see a police matron installed if the action of the City Council on motion of Councillor Brown avails. Under the law Peabody is not compelled to employ a regular matron because of the population being under the minimum number, but Councillor Brown pointed out the recent arrest of two women charged with being inebriated through "jakey" concoctions and declared failure to search the women may have left them their "poison" while they lingered in their cells. Councillor Hogan advocated the police matron a year ago but the City Solicitor ruled the statutes did not compel Peabody to employ one. Mayor Donnell will be urged to designate a suitable woman to be on call for special service at the police headquarters.

MEN'S MISSION TO START SUNDAY

Mission services conducted by the Dominican Fathers at St. John's Catholic church will be held Sunday evening at 7.45 for the men of the parish and will continue all of next week. The services are at 5 and 8 o'clock in the mornings and at 7.45 every evening. The services for the women of the parish which have been held at the above hours all of this week have been very largely attended. The Dominican Fathers assigned here for the special services are Rev. Fr. Higgins in charge, and Rev. Fr. Duggan and Rev. Fr. Baxter. The mission services for the women will come to a close at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

CHARLES HOOPER OFF TO 'FRISCO AFTER VISIT HERE

Charles H. Hooper, formerly superintendent of streets in Peabody and now a successful fruit grower in Hollywood, a suburb of Los Angeles, California, will start for his home on the Pacific slope next week after a very pleasant sojourn among his Peabody friends. He is accompanied by his wife who is a sister of Warren P. Blake, fire marshal of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co.

Mr. Hooper's fruit farm is in the frostless belt of California, no frost ever being recorded there. He has an assortment of fruit, there being 27 varieties on his place which he supplies to the markets of Los Angeles. Among his neighbors is Douglas Fairbanks, the movie actor, whose home is leased for $1000 a month.

The Hooper farm comprises some four acres, every bit of which land is given over to intensive fruit farming, and the former Peabody man who is on his fourth year's residence in California is now seeing the full bloom of his fruit. He employs Japanese labor as do most of his fellow fruit raisers, although Mexicans are also a part of the labor employed.

During his visit to his old home, Mr. Hooper has given many talks on his newly chosen residence and he is a most ardent booster for Hollywood. The town is seven miles out of Los Angeles. Its municipal buildings including a hospital, compare with the finest in the whole state.

Beverly To See Pitchers' Duel

A pitcher's duel between "Pop" Harrington of the A. C. L. and Chick Davies of the Marblehead team ought to feature the big game tomorrow in Beverly when the two teams open their championship series. Both pitchers are in fine fettle and ready for the battle royal.

Manager Jack Quinlan of the A. C. L. will send in his usual strong lineup with Doc Durgin, the heavy swatter, on first, Jake Warner at second, Danny Silva at short, and Gardella at the hot corner. The outfield will be Gourley, Gildea and Dempsey. Dempsey will be awarded a loving cup for his home run swat of two weeks ago. Ernie Gourley is also slated for some kind of testimonial from the Peabody fans for the stellar work he has done to make the A. C. L. near champs of Essex county. The only thing that stopped the Tanagers was a major league hired by the Cornets to save the bacon for the Lynn outfit last Saturday.

A big crowd of Peabody fans will journey over to Beverly tomorrow afternoon to root for a victory for their favorites.

Big Business For N. E. Appraisal Co.

The New England Appraisal Company, Inc., appraisal engineers, incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts with offices in the Donahue building, Salem, are placing before the manufacturers and property owners of New England a service of special importance now with the difficulties and confusion of the reconstruction period.

Up to recently this business was handled by the office of the E. H. Porter Company, but of late the demand for appraisals and valuations became so insistent that it was decided to make this branch a business of its own. So the New England Appraisal Company has been incorporated under the following management: Ralph H. Rideout, president; Leslie Porter, vice president; Ray Porter, treasurer; George F. Rose, manager; Norman V. Crane, chief engineer.

The reasons for valuations are many and one of the most important is on account of the co-insurance clause in insurance policies which to comply with it is necessary to base insurance not on original costs but rather on present costs of new reproduction. An up-to-date, accurate and systematic appraisal arranged in accordance with recognized standards of valuations is an important essential of business management and without one a business is placed at a serious disadvantage.

The New England Appraisal Company, Inc., carries a force of competent engineers and estimators with a thorough knowledge and experience of appraisal and replacement valuations. They also furnish full and complete appraisal plans, which show location of all material, type of material and construction of the buildings, which in the case of fire or damage of any kind furnishes an easy method of adjustment. Land surveys, estimates on all classes of buildings, equipment and machinery are executed in an efficient manner by their corp of expert engineers.

Admiration for Bravery.

If there be one thing upon this earth that mankind loves and admires better than another, it is a brave man—it is a man who dares to look the devil in the face and tell him he is a devil.—President Garfield.

Poise.

Sarah Bernhardt is credited with having said: "Prettiness does not matter. If a woman has charm and energy, she can secure whatever else she desires—love, success, power." There is a distinction between prettiness and beauty. A fluffily-headed, highly powdered and rouged woman may be pretty, but the beautiful woman has to have wholesomeness, cleanliness, neatness and charm. And the latter is the permanently endowed.

Florida Plant Being Used For White Leather

Walter J. Lloyd, well known in the Peabody leather trade and now a resident of Miami, Florida, where he is engaged in the production of tannin for leather, is renewing his former acquaintances in this city and interesting some of the big leather manufacturers in his tannin product.

He manufactures gametto which has proven a good substitute for quebracho. He is experimenting now with a Florida plant which has already proved its worth to tan leather white, and local manufacturers are much pleased with the results.

Mr. Lloyd is exhibiting a shark skin which he had tanned at the Verza Leather plant and which shows that shark skins can be used in place of cowhide. Alligator skins are finding a greater demand, according to Mr. Lloyd, who says the Indian tribes gather in large numbers of the horned back monsters from the Miami river.

He predicts Miami is bound to become a big shipping point with South American trade and says he has the assurance of South American sheep-skin exporters that they will ship their goods to Miami and have the vessels loaded with Florida pine for South America.

CITY HALL WANTS TO KNOW WHEN MAYOR DONNELL WILL LEAVE OFFICE FOR COUNTY JOB

When will Mayor Donnell resign his office as chief executive of the city to give his undivided time to the important duties as district attorney? That is the question that is worrying some of the "pols" right now. At the right time the Mayor-District Attorney-elect will say when he will relinquish his duties here. District Attorney Wells finished out his term as Senator, a period of nearly six months, although he drew no pay from the county during that period.

Who's going to be the next Mayor of Peabody? This is the next question the "pols" want answered. President Cornelius A. Giles of the City Council would seem to have the inside position in the next mayoralty contest if he elects to run in answer to the requests of his friends.

Loyalty at City Hall is responsible for at least one of the Mayor's appointees in being a bit weathered as a result of the Mayor's victory at the polls last Tuesday. Several other supporters of the man who put Peabody on the map are also passing around cigars.

The appointee of the Mayor who won the largest bet didn't get around to placing his money until after 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and when the man who had picked Wells to win saw the money they say he almost turned white, but came across with the dough.

At least a half dozen of City Hall attaches got the shock of their young lives Wednesday morning when they learned that Donnell had been elected. Now most of them are saying, "I told you so." Their political efforts were discovered before election.

It must be admitted that Mayor Donnell still has a majority of primary voters with him in about any fight he enters.

Water, water, plenty of it, there appears to be, thanks to Providence and the city engineer's office, and it is a fact that not a single factory in Peabody is going to close down because it can't get water enough. Ipswich river is still a million dollars away from Peabody. We have water and we have good streets and it may turn out that the men who assume to be fortune tellers predicting a high tax rate in a couple more years will learn that they had another wrong hunch.

City Engineer Frank Emerson will attend the annual convention of the New England Waterways Association in Albany next week.

They are saying that City Almoner

Ray's sedan auto is not going to be emblazoned with gilt letters denoting municipal ownership and the reason advanced is that there is no need advertising the fact that adversity has called at sundry homes the Almoner must call on to afford relief. Councillor Hogan will probably be heard from later on this matter.

Councillor Cotton of Ward Three expects to greet his son, John, back from the war service in the near future. John was a member of the electric light plant staff and enlisted in the cavalry service. He has been stationed in "Texas most of the time.

Joseph Tomassello, the contractor who has built a number of Peabody streets, won $100 on the Donnell victory. He also put in some effective work for Donnell in Lawrence, where he kept three machines busy getting out the Italian vote pledged to the Peabody Mayor.

The Mark E. Kelley Co. have completed the northerly sidewalk on Lowell street from Crowninshield to Endicott street and has this week started in on the other side, which will be pushed to completion.

Dumping in the Endicott street grounds owned by the city is about done unless the city removes cobblestones which are too good to bury. The Eastend playground should see dumping prohibited for the balance of the year if the residents of that section are to have a skating pond this winter.

Work of resurfacing Liberty street to the Danvers line with a water bound macadam is completed and the street is greatly appreciated by the heavy traffic that goes to and from the big Waters river plant.

William F. Searle, the publicity man and virtually the campaign manager for Mayor Donnell in his latest victory at the polls deserves no mean credit for the success which has come to the Peabody executive. It was the fifth man whom Searle has put across with the voters in Essex county by his stellar work as press agent and publicity man. Congressman Lufkin, Councillor James F. Ingraham, former District Attorney Louis Cox and Clerk of Courts Archie Frost all owe their success at the polls in great measure to the effective publicity work of this well known newspaperman who is a resident of Gardner Park.

McCarthy Bros., who have the ash removal contract, are still maintain-

THE DONNELL VICTORY

Peabody may well take full measure of pride in the successful contest which last Tuesday declared Mayor S. Howard Donnell of our fair city the next District Attorney of old Essex county, and the 600 majority of votes in his honor in his home city must be figured largely in the final count which saw him practically vested with the office to which he aspired and to which he is virtually elected in the absence of any contest at the state election next month. The fact that he broke the county ring, a feat almost unheard of in Essex county compels deep admiration on the part of Peabody citizens who have watched the career of their chief executive. His success on the stump is the thing of marvel throughout the entire county and his hosts of loyal supporters who advanced his candidacy may well take home to themselves much of the credit for bringing him home a winner in one of the most strenuous campaigns old Essex has ever recorded for the office of District Attorney. One thing is certain, the majority of voters in the county must have believed Mayor Donnell on the stump. Equally sure is it that the majority of the voters were convinced that the man who put Peabody on the map (and not a single fair minded person can deny this compliment) was the better man to guide the office of District Attorney for the next three years. How well Mayor Donnell will respond to the duties which devolve upon his young shoulders in the new office, remains, of course, to be seen, but it is fair to assume that his best efforts will be to make his administration reflect credit on himself and his assistants and to so conduct himself in the high and important office that when he goes before the electorate three years hence for their endorsement he will have merited a continuation of their patronage at the polls. Mayor Donnell has no easy task before him in this accomplishment and it is refreshing to echo his sentiment that he realizes the importance of the office and the full weight of responsibility that rests on his efforts. That he will not be found wanting is the ardent wish of his friends for his success in the office will be to further promote the good name of Peabody, his home city, in which he has the honor of being the first Mayor and whose initiative and persistent supervision has resulted in the good streets and other improvements of which Peabody may well be proud. Surely Mayor Donnell has put Peabody on the map by his direction of the city's business during his time in office so far. It was his right to aspire to the high office to which the majority of Republican voters in Essex county have virtually elected him in defiance of the powerful machine which from the first mocked at the efforts of the Peabody man and to the last tried by subterfuge to thwart the will of the people. In his home city by the handsome majority last Tuesday at the Peabody voting booths, Mayor Donnell's administration at City Hall was given an endorsement that no sane man can possibly deny. It was clear cut and emphatic and the expression at the polls effectually blots out the assinine attempt to throw "mud" on his successful regime. Once more Mayor Donnell has demonstrated his ability to gather votes and there are plenty of citizens today who will not laugh at the assertion that further political honors are in store for Mayor Donnell. Peabody citizens will sincerely hope so.

SOLDIERS' LEGION

Peabody citizens who helped to win the war by their efforts at home to back up our fighting men must view with pleasure the decision of the Soldiers and Sailors' Association to merge with the Legion of Veterans established in Peabody. The reports that discord was rampant and threatened to mar the success of the Legion is happily unfounded and the action of the parent association to yield its charter and join in the new Legion is a matter of congratulations to the advocates of only one organization for the World War veterans in Peabody. The welfare of these fighting men should be the concern of every grateful citizen and the Legion which gets under way with greater punch at the coming meeting next week deserves the support of every veteran who represented Peabody in the war. That it is going to merit this support is obvious and the prospects for its successful career are excellent. Let us not forget that Peabody sent brave men into the war who upheld the honor of their fair city and we can show our appreciation in no better way than by responding to every logical appeal from the new Legion. The Enterprise hails with satisfaction the forming of the Peabody Legion and pledges its earnest assistance in promoting its future welfare.

Wants to Know Who Are P.H.S. Advisory Board on Football

Peabody, Mass., Sept. 23, 1919.
Mr. Frank Penniman,
Peabody Enterprise,
Peabody, Mass.

Dear Sir:—There is much comment about the city, especially among the alumni, present and past players, and students in regard to the football situation at Peabody High this year. Peabody has been represented on the gridiron by formidable elevens for the past three years, or since Leander McDonald started to pilot Essex county championships in 1916. During these three years the city of Peabody was prominent through the efforts of its football teams, when it did not have a chamber of commerce or any organization to back it.

When the eleven played at Manchester, N. H., Haverhill, Lynn, Lawrence, Milton, Fitchburg, etc., it was accompanied by rooters which included Mayor Donnell and other city officials and alumni. Credit must also be given the city paper, The Enterprise, for the support received during that time. The paper was always backing Coach Leander McDonald and his team.

Naturally the first drawback is the lack of funds, but principally the greatest and foremost hindrance is the inefficiency and inactivity of the present Advisory Board. The public does not know who or what this board is, does not know when or how they were elected, or for how long a period the board was to serve.

However, disregarding these questions, it is about time to produce an Advisory Board of active members, who will co-operate with the boys and work for satisfaction and results.

Thanking you for this space,

I remain,

EX-MANAGER.

COUNTRY VOTES FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS

National Economic League Poll of Council Results in Three to One Ballot

An overwhelming majority of the American people are in favor of the Treaty with Germany as shown by a canvass of the National Council of the National Economic League. It is interesting to know that opinion in Massachusetts is representative of that of the country, because both the country and the State poll 75% in favor of the League.

Of a total of 685 votes cast from all parts of the country 519 unreservedly indorsed the following resolution:

"RESOLVED, that the United States should ratify the Treaty with Germany, including the League of Nations Covenant, without complicating, delaying, or invalidating reservations."

This resolution was so phrased as to afford opportunity for "such interpretations of the Treaty and Covenant as may be thought necessary to clarify the American position, provided no danger is thereby created of delay or of furnishing ground for Germany or any other signatory to declare that the ratification by the United States is not complete and binding."

Out of 48 votes cast in Massachusetts, 37 were in favor of the resolution:

C. L. Allen	Harold Marshall
Charles A. Andrews	W. Frank Mattison
Arthur A. Carey	C. B. McCallum
Harvey S. Chase	Everett Morse
John S. Conner	Leroy D. Peavey
H. S. Dennison	A. V. Phillips
Charles W. Elliot	Warren A. Reed
John W. Elliot	R. H. Rice
David A. Ellis	John C. Runkle
A. Lincoln Filene	C. H. Sachs
Everett O. Fisk	Paul H. Scovell
Desmond Fitzgerald	Harvey N. Shepard
H. A. Garfield	H. N. Sheldon
Richard Hooker	Minot Simmons
Lewis J. Johnson	J. P. Snow
Deleware King	Moorfield Storey
Joseph Lee	F. W. Tausig
William H. Lincoln	C. Oliver Wellington
	Edward N. White

In no state was there a majority in opposition to the League of Nations and in only one State, Indiana, was there a tie. The total vote of the New England States was:

	Yes	No
Connecticut	9	6
Maine	9	2
Massachusetts	37	11
New Hampshire	6	1
Rhode Island	6	1
Vermont	6	3
Total	73	24

The purpose of the National Economic League is to create an informed and disinterested leadership for public opinion—a leadership that is free from any possible partisan bias or class interest and that will be accepted as representing simply the best thought of this country—and to provide the educational means of developing a public opinion that will respond to such leadership.

The National Council of the League contains in its membership (at present about twenty-five hundred), presidents and professors of universities, judges, lawyers, bankers, merchants, manufacturers, farmers, labor leaders, etc. The aim, however, has not been so much to make it inclusive of classes and interests as representative of the informed and unbiased opinion of the country.

WHAT AMENDMENT MEANS

Senator Hitchcock points out in the minority report of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations what the United States would sacrifice by amendment or rejection of the treaty with Germany as follows:

1. Germany's acknowledgment of responsibility for the war and her promise to make restitution.
2. Germany's promise of most-favored-nation treatment of our goods as to both exports and imports.
3. Germany's promise that our shipping in her ports will be given as favorable treatment as German ships receive.
4. Germany's agreement that for six months custom duties levied against American imports shall not exceed those of 1914.
5. Germany's agreement that we may at will revive treaties in existence prior to the war.
6. Germany's promise to restore property of our citizens seized in Germany.
7. Germany's very important validation of our seizure of $800 million dollars worth of property belonging to German citizens in the United States.
8. Germany's agreement that these properties may be used to pay American claims against her.
9. Germany's agreement to compensate her citizens for property seized by the United States.
10. Germany's relinquishment of claim against the United States for patent or industrial property rights used or sold by us during the war.
11. Germany's agreement that we shall retain some 500,000 tons of German shipping seized in American ports.
12. Loss of our membership on the Reparation Commission, the most powerful international board ever created. In no other way can the United States assure itself against discriminations in German imports and financial policies.

ROUND ABOUT

Wilbur Merrill was among the yeomen who worked overtime to put Mayor Donnell into the office of District Attorney and it wasn't his first successful attempt to win the suffrage for his candidate. Merrill has the knack of knowing how to get out the vote and his knowledge went far in this direction to marshal the Peabody support for the Mayor. He has been one of the most loyal supporters of the Mayor.

Thousands of dollars will be lost, so I am told, by Peabody farmers because of the constant rain which has rotted bushels and bushels of potatoes in the ground. Other crops have suffered too, and the monetary loss will be heavy.

With the painting of lines on Peabody Square to denote the danger zone for autoists to check their speed in favor of pedestrians, the only thing lacking now is a human traffic cop who should be stationed in the square to curb fast and reckless speeders from ignoring the rights of the foot travelers.

The state law which provides for Old Glory to be unfurled in district and superior court rooms is complied with in the local district court where a handsome banner is erected. It must have a salutatory effect on the aliens whose misdeeds get them before His Honor, Judge Hall.

I observe that Attorney B. J. Ronan is a frequent pleader in the Peabody district court and his clients have found a large measure of satisfaction in having retained him to represent their interests. Among the newer of the legal lights, Atty. Ronan is fast making a name for himself.

Residents of Mt. Pleasant and Prospect st. would seem to have just complaint at the water service given them at certain hours of the day. General Francis H. Appleton is one of the residents who is continually being deprived of sufficient water pressure at his summer home. On top of Mt. Pleasant the lack of water at certain times of the day causes a distinct hardship.

Secretary Thomas of the Chamber of Commerce is working on the proposition of getting better freight yard facilities for Peabody. He held a conference with some of the Boston & Maine officials this week with the result that Supt. Rourke is to view the proposition. The railway officials admit that consignees should not be notified their goods are in the freight yard until the railroad is in a position to have the cars unloaded. The officials of the road admit something is wrong with the local office in this respect. A copy of the Enterprise which recently exposed the bad condition of the local freight yard was sent to the B. & M. officials and some redress is most likely to ensue to the benefit of the Peabody shippers and consignees.

School Committeeman Stephen S. Littlefield has proved one of the most zealous members of this unpaid committee which is trying to solve the schoolhouse problems in this city. Although a busy man in his leather factory, Mr. Littlefield finds time to advance the interests of the schools in this city.

I observe that Miss Charlotte Haywood, daughter of Dr. George Haywood of Lynn, has been appointed to the Brown Woman's College faculty. She is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke where she was an honor student. Dr. Haywood is one of the property owners of summer homes in Elginwood Park, West Peabody, near Pheps station. Mrs. Haywood was a school teacher before her marriage.

An exhibit worthy of great praise at the recent Essex county fair was that of the various playgrounds. That the public may know the instructors have engaged in a worthy object as well as having taught the children how to become useful, the following item is published. At the woman's activities tent were 45 knitted scarfs, 25 children's knitted sweaters, 2 pairs children's knitted stockings and 10 cotton undergarments, all made from material belonging to the Red Cross, and returned to headquarters at the close of the fair. It is needless to say that each playground received first prize (blue ribbon) and those having both sweaters and scarfs, second prize (red ribbon.) In addition to this there were dusters, knitted towels, face cloths, out-line work and sewing, all done by children ranging from six to 14 years of age. Thus it would seem the playground commission should receive the support of the community in the interest of the children. Mrs. Jesse Barrett, wife of the fire chief, had general charge of the exhibits and deserved credit for her work.

ing their reputation for giving the city a square deal in the contract and satisfying most of the public.

The pre-primary statement of Assistant District Attorney Daniel C. Manning that he would not become a candidate for mayor of Peabody probably pleases some of the aspirants for the office, who saw in Manning a tough nut to crack. Friends of the former representative to the General Court believed that it was a mistake in judgment for him to say he would not listen to being a candidate for mayor of Peabody. It is hard to reconcile the alleged statement that the assistant district attorney owed nothing to Peabody, for of course his rise in the political field was because of his being elected to the Legislature from Peabody. He is one of the very few men mentioned today for the office of mayor who could qualify, it is held by the wisecracks. Perhaps he will change his mind, for once into politics it is hard to quit, so goes the proverb repeated by the men who like to contest for public office. Whatever criticism may be lodged at the office of the district attorney it cannot be denied that Mr. Manning has shouldered much of the detail that goes with that office for the past two years.

Miss Annie Driscoll, clerk in the Board of Assessors' office, starts next week on her vacation and will accompany her mother to New York on a visit there. Miss Driscoll has proved a most capable clerk for the assessors and her knowledge of real estate locations and ownership stamps her as an ideal clerk.

Despite the fact that a large field of contestants are announced to oppose him for renomination from Ward 4, Councillor Dennis P. Hogan is still wearing the smile that has made him a conspicuous figure in municipal politics. Hogan is honest and on the level. What he has to say when some of his loquacious colleagues are still, generally finds him having a bit of logic to expound. His friends declare the large field of opponents does not frighten him and that he will put up a campaign confident of getting a place on the December ballot. One may not agree with all that Hogan says, but his characteristics compel respect and that's the principal attribute of any politician.

Councillor Frank McKeen is not likely to have any opposition within his own party for a renomination. He is bound to have some opposition out the courageous man is not yet heard from who may essay the contest. McKeen while a ward Councillor is proving a safe man for the taxpayers. He is one of the Councillors who is acknowledged an authority on the city charter of Peabody.

A number of Ward 4 voters wrote in the name of S. Howard Donnell for District Attorney on the Democratic ballot. One Ward 4 voter who was asked what ballot he wanted said he didn't know or care as long as he got one on which he could vote for the Mayor of Peabody. He got the right ballot.

Park Commissioner Angus MacDonald was a factor in the Donnell victory for he made speeches all over the county. As the original McCall man in Peabody the G. O. P. chairman showed he was still a spell-binder.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE CATHEDRAL OF ST. JOHN, THE DIVINE.

THE corner stone of this great Episcopal house of worship, which crowns Morningside Heights in New York city, was laid on December 27, 1892. This church was designed to be the largest and most costly church edifice in America and the fourth largest in the world. St. Peter's at Rome and the cathedrals at Seville, Spain and Milan, Italy, only being larger. It will be over 600 feet long and its greatest width 300 feet. The total cost will exceed $10,000,000, and although it has been under construction for more than twenty-six years, no one can now say when it will be completed.

The architecture is of the French gothic style. The plans for the great organ call for 7,000 pipes and a chime. The crypt will seat 500 and the altar is to contain 150,000 pieces of mosaic glass. It will contain seven chapels of tongues: St. Martin of Tours or Huguenot chapel, representing the French rite; St. James or Spanish chapel, representing the Mozarabic rite; St. Ambrose, representing the Italian rite; St. Saviour, representing the Oriental rite; St. Columba or Scots chapel, representing the British rite; St. Boniface or Holland chapel, representing the German rite, and St. Augustus or Swedish chapel, representing the Scandinavian rite. There is to be also an open-air pulpit with a 40-foot-high spire and ornamentations in gothic structures.

Donations, large and small, have come from every conceivable source and direction, to assist in the erection of that which is to be America's greatest cathedral—a cathedral for the people in America's greatest city.

Duncan Is Strand Headliner

It would be almost impossible to find a better balanced program, or one that could play upon all the different emotions with such pleasing effect as the all-star show the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. Tense drama and exhilarating comedy are skilfully blended with a result that will surely please the most critical theatregoer.

Jack Pickford in "Bill Apperson's Boy" is the dramatic feature on this big program. Mr. Pickford plays "Buddy" Apperson, the leading character, who is pictured as a boy of about 18. In a rapid series of humorous and serious events the picture delves deeply into the heart of the mountain lad, depicting his bravery in face of great odds and his beautiful devotion to the memory of his mother. The rugged grandeur of the Blue Ridge mountains of Kentucky, famous in song and story, form an imposing background to the story. The part of the father is played by Russell Simpson, whose remarkable acting in Rex Beach's picture "The Brand," will be recalled by patrons of the Strand. Mr. Simpson is recognized as one of the finest actors of mountaineer and western types on the screen and it is his excellent work opposite Jack Pickford that helps lift this picture into the masterpiece class.

William Duncan in Vitagraph's new serial "Smashing Barriers" is another attraction of merit on today's bill. Mr. Duncan has the reputation of being the strong man of the movies and his thrilling stunts in this chapter will be something of a revelation to those not familiar with his daring actions.

Last, but not least, on today's program, comes Larry Semon in his latest laugh producer entitled "Home Sweet Home." If any comedian in the country has half a chance to steal Charlie Chaplin's crown away, Mr. Semon will be the man to do it. This is his first comedy at the head of his own company and promises a hearty laugh every second while it is being reeled off.

Two feature pictures and Chet Potter and his marimbaphone will be the attraction at the Strand Sunday evening. Hale Hamilton in George Randolph Chester's comedy-drama "Five Thousand An Hour," and Kathleen Clifford in "Angel Child" will be the pictorial offerings. Mr. Potter has made such a big hit with the patrons of the Strand that Mgr. Bent has engaged his services for every Sunday. Each week a new program of selections will be given on either the marimbaphone or xylophone, and will be a regular feature of the Sunday evening concerts.

Mary MacLaren, the beautiful star, will top the bill for Monday and Tuesday, appearing in "The Unpainted Woman." In this picture Miss MacLaren depicts the battle of a girl against the forces of society. Miss MacLaren's picture "The Amazing Wife" scored a distinct success at the local playhouse a few weeks ago and many who were charmed with this star's beauty and talent will welcome this opportunity to see her again at such an early date. Mabel Normand, the same Mabel that used to play with "Fatty" Arbuckle, will be featured in "The Pest" as the second attraction. Photoplay critics all over the country have been unanimous in their opinions that in this picture Miss Normand has given the screen her finest characterization.

Spoke a Little Hastily.

John Brougher tells this one: One colored gent said to another: "Ev'ry time I hugs my feecanzay and kisses her, she just giggles and squirms alarming." To which the other responded: "I say she does." "Huh?" asked the belligerent swain, as his eye took on a glitter, "I say, does she?" was the eager change in the response. —Houston Post.

High School Football Team Opens Season Tomorrow With Lynn Classical Here

The Peabody high school football eleven was under heavy practice Monday, and in spite of wet grounds and rain every candidate turned out. New suits were given out Monday by Coach Gilmore to the regular eleven. The first game is to be played Saturday with Lynn Classical at the park. There has been talk about the game being started at 2 p. m. but according to Manager Griffin the game will start at 3 p. m.

Frank O'Keefe, half back, sprained the cords of his wrist Monday and it is doubtful whether he will be able to play Saturday. It will be a great handicap if he is out.

Peabody Legion Will Hold Big Carnival Oct. 2-10

American Legion Post 153 of Peabody is to hold a week's carnival in the rear of the high school building from Oct. 2 to the 10th, inclusive, for the purpose of raising money for its organization recently created in this city. The City Council on recommendation of Mayor Donnell last night voted the Legion the free use of the land for the event. A merry-go-round and booths will be erected. Games of chance will not be a part of the entertainment. In his communication to the Council, Mayor Donnell said: "Some people expect the city to be conducted on the same quiet style as a New Hampshire village," giving the inference that some citizens objected to granting the land privilege to the war veterans.

Father Mats To Banquet 105 Veterans

Peabody Father Mathew C. T. A. Society will banquet the 105 war veterans in its organization at Wardhurst on October 9. Plans for the banquet were perfected yesterday and a fine entertainment is being arranged for the event. The Mats have the honor of having sent more of its members into the war service than any other organization in this city.

INGRAHAM IS RE-ELECTED

James F. Ingraham, Jr., member of the Governor's Council, was re-elected a trustee of the J. B. Thomas hospital last night at a joint meeting of the City Council and Trustees of the hospital.

LUNCH ROOM AT A. C. L.?

There is a report that the A. C. L. Co. may consider opening a lunch room to accommodate its large number of office force and employees who live out of the city. It is known that the management has been approached on the measure and it is said that some definite word will be forthcoming in the near future.

Charles Prince of Clement ave. and Milk st. is home after 19 months' enlistment in the navy. He made seven trips overseas on board of the De-Kalb and came near being torpedoed more than once. He was employed at the A. C. L. Co. in the mechanical department prior to his enlistment in the navy.

Earl W. Weaver, one of the editors of the A. C. L. magazine, has been confined to his home in Danvers for the past week. He hopes to resume his duties at the Waters River plant by Oct. 6.

CITY COUNCIL

A lot of needless debate last night prolonging their meeting and in the end accomplishing but little business. Particularly irksome became the debate on a new engine for the pumping station and some of the august Councillors who essayed the role of qualifying as experts fell far short of the mark.

In the end, the Council voted for more time in which to permit some of the experts to gather further information after Councillor McKeen had taken a fling at some of his colleagues whom he urged to get some data and come to the meeting with some definite information.

Councillor Ryan, who with Councillor McKeen, has spent much time investigating the merits of pumping engines for the water supply, made the motion last night that the Council authorize the Mayor to contract for the Allis-Chalmers pump. He declared his mind was entirely made up that this was the best thing for the city to do.

The expected split was recorded on the proposition to buy a steam driven engine as recommended by Engineer Barbour, some of the opposition loudly proclaiming the good points of an electrically driven pump and urging that the city install one without any definite knowledge of what it would cost in comparison to the steam driven pump. Some of the suggestions were amusing, especially when the price of power was quoted.

Three more pony express licenses were granted last night to Cornelius J. Flynn, General Transportation Co. and the Pappas Express Co.

With all of the recent holler about Peabody being near a bankrupt city, the monthly statement of cash on hand furnished by the City Auditor last night showed a deficit of $2.37 on the proposed comfort station and $29.37 lack of funds in the city electrician office due to expense on underground conduits.

Judge Horace P. Farnham, city solicitor, returned to duty at City Hall last night occupying his customary seat at the left of President Giles at the Council meeting. He was given a warm welcome by the members of the city government. He was heard with legal advice on several questions before the Council.

Councillor Horrigan, chairman of the claims committee, reported his committee had nothing to report in the way of claims, insinuating that the legal end of the government was still debating over some claims before the committee.

PEABODY MAN IS HONORED

Mr. Andrews has been one of the promoters of the camp and has brought in many new members.

A slaughtering house permit was granted, 8 to 3, to Louis Kotarski at 242 Lynnfield st., despite the fact that the Board of Health was unanimously opposed to any more permits being issued in this city. It was claimed that the city would have to employ another inspector if this permit was granted, but the Council believed that the present inspector could handle all of the work.

The Tenney Electric Light and Power System was given a hearing last night on its application to string wires over certain West Peabody streets in their effort to supply the town of Danvers with power, and after some little debate it was voted to have the City Solicitor, Manager King and the City Electrician impose such restrictions in the interests of the city as deemed expedient. The matter will come before the Council at its next meeting.

citizens should be given no consideration.

"I have very definite opinions as to the manner in which the office should be conducted and my first official act shall be to place the office upon a business basis so that thousands of dollars may be saved the county of Essex and the business disposed of with dispatch. With time and the hard work which I intend to devote to the position it will be a question of time only when the docket will be cleared."

LANTERNS ON TRAFFIC POSTS

Red lanterns surmounting traffic posts were placed in Bleachery Square, Warner Square (Aborn and Sutton sts.) and in Peabody Square last evening by order of City Engineer Frank Emerson and evoked much favorable comment. Some weeks ago Councillor Charles H. Cotton of Ward three held a conference with the City Engineer who promised to procure the needed lights and new traffic posts. These were ordered back in August and reached this city yesterday being quickly installed for service. Ward two voters are warm in their praise for the City Engineer and Councillor Cotton as a result of the new traffic posts.

A. C. L.--CORNETS IN-FINAL CLASH

There will be plenty of Peabody money in sight tomorrow when the deciding game of the A. C. L.-Cornet game will be played at Little River Park, West Lynn. The fans who have witnessed the tanners in action the last three games claim that nothing can break the winning streak inaugurated on Labor Day. No changes will be made in the A. C. L. lineup, as the removal or replacement of any of the players who have kept the team in the running by annexing the last three games against the two big rivals, Salem and the Cornets, would meet with immediate disfavor from the supporters of the team.

Ernie Gourley, who kicked the first ball pitched for a single, scoring afterwards in the last Cornet game, will be seen at his old place at the top of the batting list, and his many followers expect him to equal his record of last week, when he got a single, double, three-bagger, base on balls and base on error, scoring two runs himself as well as driving in two more ahead of him. Billy Dempsey has hit his natural gait, and is rapidly making himself popular with the Candidate Foley in his rallies this week spoke at some length on the present high cost of living and promised his listeners that, if he were elected representative, he would work for the passage of laws which would affect an immediate reduction in the present high cost of living. He also promised his audience that he would work for laws which would impose severe penalties upon profiteers. He favored a restoration of the five-cent fare on the street railways and the lowering of the present high freight and passenger rates that the public was being charged by the steam railroads.

Donnell Asks Wells To Debate At Lynn Rally

Peabody, Sept. 19, 1919.
Daniel C. Manning, Esq.,
Asst. District Attorney,
Salem, Mass.

Dear Dan:—I have your letter of the 18th. You cannot go behind your public speech in Ward Two which was heard by at least 300 citizens, neither can you deceive the citizens of Peabody as to the results of my administration.

The water situation has been solved within the past year for 10 years to come, as you ought to know, and the high school will be built but not the week before the primaries to suit the exigencies of the waning campaign of your friend Mr. Wells.

I realize that you are trying to hold your job, and that is the reason for your vicious attacks upon me, but you ought not to take yourself too seriously in this fight. No one has asked you to run for mayor to succeed me as far as I know.

Mr. Wells is already defeated, and that is responsible for the worried look upon the faces of both of you.

I knew Mr. Wells would not meet me, but I again renew my challenge, and will meet him in Lynn, at Blake street, at 7 o'clock on Monday evening, and I promise he will receive a warm reception as my friends are to furnish me a band and make a tour of the city, and he can present his cause before the citizens of Lynn. After I am through with his record, he will not receive one-third of the votes cast in Lynn.

Yours very truly,
S. HOWARD DONNELL.

With principal interest in the coming primaries, next Tuesday, centering in the nomination of District Attorney for which office Mayor Donnell has conducted a powerful campaign throughout the county, it is believed that Peabody will record one of the biggest state primary elections ever held here and upward of 2600 votes are anticipated. Nearly 200 names will have been added to the voting lists which will be checked off Tuesday.

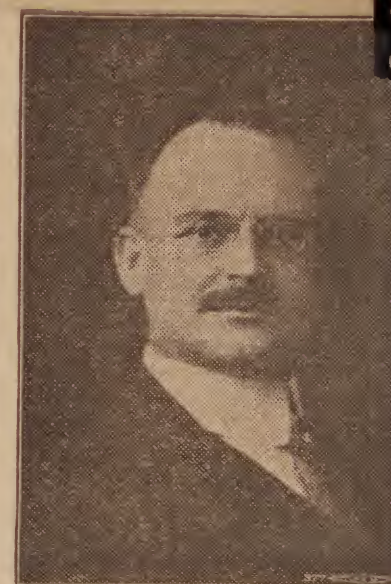

Some of the new registration is obviously because of the triangular contest for the Democratic nomination of Representative from Peabody and judging from the personnel of the new list much of the added voting strength is labelled for Attorney Elmer J. Foley who is one of the best fitted candidates the Democrats have ever put up the fight for Dist. Attorney is bound to bring out a big vote in Peabody Tuesday for a two fold purpose. First because many citizens registered as Republicans and many who are not will avail themselves of the opportunity of voting for the man who has put Peabody on the map by building a half million dollars worth of new streets in three short years and at the same time been responsible for the low tax rate. Secondly the fact that Assistant District Attorney Daniel C. Manning, former Representative from Peabody, is taking an active part in the campaign in defense of Dist. Atty. Wells. There can be no denying that Manning's part in the local campaign will cut some figure. How much is the question. Peabody Republicans have supported Manning

FOR SENATOR To the Voters of Peabody:

Arthur L. Nason

On Tuesday next you will vote to nominate a Senator for the coming year. You must choose between Mr. Nason, the present Senator, and a Mr. Thomas Wood, hitherto unknown in politics. Every voter in Essex County knows Senator Nason and the energy and honest, conscientious work he has accomplished for this district. Every Soldier, Sailor and Marine in this district knows how hard Senator Nason worked for them and their dependants. Over 400 Service Men have endorsed his candidacy.

Senator Nason has been endorsed by labor generally for his liberal attitude. The Malden News said: "He is an active, conscientious legislator and has performed good work for the State."

Newspapers throughout the State have endorsed Senator Nason's efforts for reducing Street Railway fares.

Every Republican in Peabody should rally to his support next Tuesday and VOTE for him.

fans. His home run last week was a beauty, and he is said to be apt to repeat at any time. Beef Gildea is coming back in his hitting, and will be a dangerous man—for the Cornets.

The infield will again consist of Gardella, third; Silva, short; Warner, second, and Doc Durgin on first. Durgin's wallops in the past three games make him a terror to opposing pitchers, and no matter who faces the tanners tomorrow Durgin will be looked for to come through with a hit or two. A smoother working combination in the infield would be hard to find, and in addition they can all hit when hits count.

Billy Harrington is confident of pitching the team to a win, and if he is going as good as he was last week, there will be nothing to it but flowers for the All-Stars. Urban, although he has been practising football at Boston College, where he is sure of a place as one of the ends, promises to be on hand and play his customary fine game behind the bat.

The question of umpiring has been settled satisfactory to managers and fans alike by having the officials alternate behind the bat and on bases. Bannon and Cody have been named as the peacemakers for the day.

As both Salem and Marblehead are not playing this week, the attendance that is usually divided between these places should center at Little River. The game is absolutely the most important of the schedule for both teams this season, and it is expected that both teams will make all kinds of efforts to win. Some of the best players of the season will undoubtedly be pulled, as the players are all worked up over the series and will exert themselves to the limit in order to bring their teams in winners.

It is not yet announced who will twirl for the Lynrites, but whoever he is he will have his work cut out for him. The Cornets are looked to deviate from their fixed policy of not going outside for players at this game, and if this is the case, a closer contest should be the result.

The usual fine transportation facilities will be accorded the Peabody fans who make the trip with the team.

One of the largest and prettiest home weddings solemnized in Peabody in years was last night at the home of Mrs. Harriett A. Nelson, 100 Andover street when her daughter Avis one of Peabody's prettiest brides was united in marriage to Arthur K. Manning of 117 Andover street. The wedding is the sequel to a romance dating back prior to the groom's departure for the war service. Rev. Jason G. Miller, pastor of the South Congregational church officiated and the double ring ceremony was used.

There were nearly 300 guests present during the ceremony and reception which followed. The couple were married at 6:30 and the reception was held from 8 o'clock until 9:30 when the newlyweds departed on their honeymoon amid a shower of rice and old shoes.

The bride wore a handsome wedding gown of white georgette crepe, heavily beaded. Her veil was draped with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's and sweetheart roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Beatrice L. Nelson whose costume was orchid georgette and who carried a bouquet of ophelia roses.

Harold W. Clark of Bridgeport, Conn., a former war veteran and associate in the army at Camp Devens was best man. He is the fiance of the bridesmaid. Both the groom and the best man were in the quartermaster's corps at Camp Devens being denied the privilege of going overseas because they were deemed indispensable in the work they were handling.

The ushers for the reception were Horace P. Nelson, Samuel O. King,
Howard I. Young of Lynn and Willard Aylward of Salem. Potter's orchestra played during the wedding and reception. Thomas Smith the well known Lynn caterer served the luncheon at the reception. The house was tastefully decorated by Dolansky of Lynn.

Rebecca Manning sister of the groom acted as flower girl and Erwin W. Nelson nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

Miss Ruth Manning sister of the groom was in charge of the gift room which displayed many beautiful presents and Miss Jessie Stewart of Salem was in charge of the guest book.
Miss Stewart was engaged to Leroy Nelson, deceased brother of the bride who died in an army camp in Florida.

The servers of the punch bowl were the Misses Lena and Hazel Mansfield of Lynn, Miss Mabel Martin and Miss Ethel Dow of Salem and Miss Grace Goithwaite of Peabody.

Following their honeymoon the newlyweds hope to make their residence in Peabody. The groom is in the employ of the H. S. and M. W.
Synder Co. and the bride has been in the office of the Tanners Product Co. Guests at the wedding came from Chicago, Wilmington, Del., Hartford, Springfield, Lynn and Salem.

PEABODY LEATHER WILL HELP TO SHOE MANY EUROPEANS

By "ENERGY"

The principal event of the week in the leather trade was the victory of the A. C. Lawrence team over Salem Saturday afternoon. It is evident that somebody has the ability and cash to get together a team, which on paper does not look stronger than Salem, yea not as strong, but evidently inside stuff known only to the wise, helped to take the bunting. I used to be as big a bug on the national game as any rooter who witnessed the contest last Saturday. I had an idea I knew the game, but like the game of life, the best of us err, sometimes at the critical moment. A treatise on baseball is not in order in a leather column, and I am liable to be called for going as far as I have, but I could not resist the temptation of signing my appreciation of the efforts of Mr.
Kelley and his associates, thinking that while other names appear as managers and assistants, the real lead or direction came from the southwest office in the office building.

The pickled sheepskin market is dull. In conversation with a prominent dealer, he laid the situation to the uncertainty of labor conditions, and did not look for a downward swing in prices. Every one conversant with the market, does not expect such prices as have reigned of late to hold,
and all agree a drop would be healthy.
And so the small slump of late may go still farther, but not for long.
There are countries in Europe today who want shoes as bad as a horse on pavements. They must have credit to get them, and that credit must continue over a period of years. The question arises, who will finance such countries? The United States has financed so many countries in Europe already to create misgivings as to how they will be able to get square, but the only way out appears to be a continuance of financing, to help get what already has been loaned. So the shoeless population of such countries as are in central and western Europe, will in time wear shoes of American make, for I believe our nation will find a way to do business.

Meanwhile, we have plenty of business to attend to and the other will come when present orders are filled.

Most of us think of the Massachusetts manufacturer of shoes and leather as supplying trade within our borders. Time was when this was 90 percent true. But some leather merchants for many years have placed their efforts toward developing a foreign business. They have succeeded so well that instead of 90 per cent local, it is now 10 per cent local with the balance divided among buyers from all parts of the world. The foreign buyer must have his goods shipped according to his own peculiar ideas. It took Americans years to realize that the shipping part was necessary to get and hold the business. Once having the confidence of such foreigners, there was little worry but what the business could be retained over competitors. It has created in the shipping department of factories better ways for shipping.
Not only has the foreign buyer been better served, but local buyers receive their goods in better condition.
Express companies can vouch for this statement. Only those who have no foreign business are now guilty of

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Councillor Albert F. Reed will be a candidate to succeed himself and on his record of results for ward five is most likely to be found representing his bailiwick next year. Councillor Reed is the man behind the project of giving Ward 5 what should be a playground second only to that of Perkins Park and the filling in of the land off Endicott street where once the town of Peabody maintained its stone crusher is being done at his suggestion. A skating pond is a part of the project which will probably be opened for use this winter.

COUNCILLOR REED.

Reed is not the kind of Councillor who gets onto his feet without some sane excuse to advocate measures in the interests of the citizens. He has none of the bluff or opera bouffe stuff and never blunders when he uses the English language to drive home his argument. He doesn't hog the floor of the Council but when he gets in a word it is always a bit of wisdom and the majority of the Council are prone to back him up. Reed is one of the sincere friends of the firemen. His slogan is a square deal for everyone nor does he play favorites as some of his blustering colleagues that could be mentioned. Reed's popularity in his ward makes him an extremely difficult man to defeat and proof of this assertion is borne out by previous contests in which he has figured. The first city government of Peabody was fortunate in getting a man like Reed to essay the contest of election.

Vincent O'Keefe in charge of wires is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

What has become of the motion recording the Council in favor of granting more pay to the call firemen of Peabody? This motion was introduced by Councillor Ryan some weeks ago. The fairness of the motion was never questioned by any citizens.

Appropos of call firemen, the engineers ought to place an age limit when men can draw money for posing as able bodied fire fighters. There are several men long since in the Grandpop class that are chair fighters of fires now rather than capable of fighting the flames with the agile performers in the department. There ought to be some regulation making the position of call firemen open only to men who are employed in Peabody.

There might well be an ordinance which will make teamsters take efforts to so secure their loads of leather scraps, shavings, etc., from leaving a trail behind the teams or trucks as the latter are driven through the public highways. There is no excuse for a teamster allowing his load to leave a trail through Peabody square, especially after the "whitewing" has made his round and put the square in condition. A little care on the part of vehicle drivers in securing their loads would obviate this frequent nuisance.

Assistant City Engineer Roger Macdonald made the auto tour of the White Mountains over the week-end.

Miss Louise H. Teague clerk in the office of the school department will not resume her duties until January 1 having been granted a leave of absence in which to recuperate her health. Miss Teague has made many friends since she joined the staff of attaches at city hall. She is always busily occupied with the manifold duties of her office. Miss Alice Lynch who graduated from the high school last June is sure to admirably fill the position during Miss Teague's absence.

City hall attaches of the male gender found comfort in the brand of cigars handed them in honor of Miss Gertrude Poor, the newly arrived daughter of the able city clerk, Francis L. Poor this week. Mother and daughter have been showered with congratulations at the J. B. Thomas hospital.

Supt. Fred H. Wyman of the highway department is enjoying a two weeks vacation which means that the daily kicks in his end of the city engineering office will be told to someone else, which will be some vacation in itself. Why not ask Charles H. Hooper to fill in on the job for the time being? That would give Charlie a chance to greet all of his friends.

Supt. Michael Murphy of the sewer department, the man at city hall that takes all of the kicks with a smile is acting superintendent of streets in the streets in the absence of Supt. Wyman. Murphy is a glutton for work anyway and this added responsibility won't worry him.

William J. Dee, the genial clerk in the city engineer's office will resume his labors Monday after a two weeks' respite from the hundred details of his busy desk. Dee has made a good man for the job and his attention to the duties before him has made him many friends in and out of city hall.

It is some weeks ago that the city engineer's car went into the municipal garage for repairs caused by careless driving on the part of another machine that crashed into the grey car. With 73 miles of streets in his department it is essential that the city engineer have an auto to save time and money for the city.

Heart Of Humanity At Strand

The final episode of Marie Walcamp in "The Red Glove" and Rex Beach's story "The Crimson Gardenia" are the high lights of the Strand program for today and Saturday. Typical of the virility and the appeal of all the former Rex Beach screen productions is his latest "The Crimson Gardenia." Its delicate human touches, stirring suspense, carefully-wrought climax, unusual scenic beauty and all-star cast would naturally be associated with the work of Rex Beach, the peer of American novelists. Following closely on the unprecedented success of "The Brand" and many others the "Crimson Gardenia" promises to set a new mark in the popular hall of fame.

This story is of perhaps even greater appeal than the foregoing Rex Beach pictures. Its locale is in quaint New Orleans at the most picturesque time of the year—the Mardi Gras. The plot concerns the activities of a band of expert counterfeiters and is calculated to keep the spectator guessing every moment that it is on the screen. Owen Moore, the husband of the famous Mary Pickford, has the leading part. This is Mr. Moore's first screen appearance in months. "Shades of Shakespeare," a Christie comedy, will be the third attraction for today. It is a positive scream.

Carlyle Blackwell in "Love in a Hurry" and Frank McIntyre in Rex Beach's international comedy-drama "Too Fat To Fight" will be the photoplays Mgr. Chet Bent will offer for Sunday evening. Both productions are of the type that please all classes of theatregoers and combined they make up an unusually attractive Sunday program.

A screen classic that critics have placed in the same category with the "Birth of a Nation" and "Hearts of the World," has been produced by Universal under the title of "The Heart of Humanity" and it is this production the Strand will offer on Monday and Tuesday, with Dorothy Phillips in the principal role. Newspaper critics are unanimous in calling this picture the biggest production in ten years. It is in nine acts and all told the cast runs above three thousand people.

"The Heart of Humanity" is a motion picture history of woman's part in the great war, depicted in story form and built around the romance of a little Canadian girl who gave her husband to fight against Prussian autocracy and then went to France herself to care for the wounded and orphaned and homeless victims of German brutality. The closing scenes of the fighting in Flanders form the red background for action that expresses the bravery of the Red Cross in working under the very mouths of German guns, to restore to normal physical and mental health the children of France and Belgium made fatherless, motherless and homeless by war. It is amid such scenes that Nannette, the wife of John Patricia, an aviator with the Canadian Forces, labor day and night, and suffers the indignities of war-maddened, lustful Huns before she is re-united with her husband and decorated by the French government for her valorous services. Millions who have seen this production have made this statement, "It is a picture you will never forget." Miss Phillips plays the role of Nannette in inspired fashion and receives excellent support from a cast of capable players.

Peabody C. of C. Favored Return Of All Railroads

Commercial organizations of Boston, Everett, Fall River, Fitchburg, Greenfield, Haverhill, Holyoke, Lawrence, Lynn, New Bedford, Peabody, Springfield, Taunton, Ware and Webster voted in favor of returning the railroads to their owners as soon as the necessary legislation can be enacted.

Amesbury, Athol, Attleboro, Brockton, Cambridge, Clinton, Dorchester, Framingham, Gloucester, Leominster, Lowell, Newburyport, North Adams,
Pittsfield, Plymouth, Provincetown,
Quincy, Salem, Waltham, Wareham, Westfield and Worcester, which also belong to the National Chamber, did not avail themselves of the opportunity to vote.

The 15 organizations participating in the referendum also went on record as favoring federal regulation of capital expenditures and security issues; with the exceptions of Lawrence and New Bedford, favoring consolidation of railroads in a limited number of strong competing systems; with the exception of Haverhill, favoring federal charters; with the exception of Lawrence, favoring federal regulation of intrastate rates affecting interstate commerce; with the exceptions of Holyoke, Lawrence, New Bedford and Peabody, rates fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission shall be designed to yield a favoring a statutory rule providing the sufficient return to enable the railroads to keep up their property and furnish adequate service; with the exception of Haverhill, Holyoke and Peabody, favoring a federal transportation board.

The complete returns on the referendum show that from 80 to 99 per cent of votes cast in 48 states were for the following propositions:

To return the roads to their owners for operation with comprehensive regulation.

To bring about the consolidation of the roads in a limited number of strong competing systems—hooking weak lines up with strong ones.

To require the roads to take out federal charters, the states to retain taxing and police powers over the properties.

To provide for federal regulation of capital expenditures and security issues.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, therefore, is committed by referendum vote to the general railroad plan outlined, and the chairman of the railroad committee, George A. Post of New York, has presented the plan to the appropriate committees of Congress.—The Nation's Business.

Empire Stock In Fair and Warmer

It is not often that the dramatic critics of New York, Chicago, Boston and San Francisco agree on the merits of a single play, and it is rare indeed for them to become extravagant in their praise of a simple love story. But both feats were brought about last season by Henry Miller's production of "Daddy Long Legs" in the west and east.

If you care for pleasant plays, observed the conservative Evening Post in its criticism of Jean Webster's appealing comedy, "If you do believe in fairies and all delightful things that belong with them in Cinderella and the Marchioness and so forth, in short, if romance glows for you and warms
the cockles of a still youthful heart within you; then it is hard to see how you can resist so engagingly an invitation to be quite simply charmed and delighted. Very few persons in the house last night failed to yield to the spell. Critics were caught smiling simply and sentimentally; elderly ladies beamed; if anybody came with a carping spirit he soon had it bewitched out of him by the pretty little story; the gay little story, the salt of wit and the sense of character embodied in "Daddy Long Legs."

Miss Webster's irresistible little comedy will be made known to theatregoers here in its living, breathing pulsating form by the Empire Players for the first time all next week with the usual daily matinees.
The advance sale of seats is unusually large and the management would suggest to its patrons the necessity of ordering their seats well in advance.

That Morning Grouch.

Morning "grouchiness" is frequently nothing more than a product of the late hour habit. So is a tendency to see the world at all times through smoked glasses. Prolong the hours of sleep and optimism may soon replace the pessimism deplorably in evidence in many short sleepers. And with the change in mood will come an increase in working power. For pessimists are notoriously inefficient workers, if only because of the mental and physical demoralization which pessimism always involves in some degree.

A JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

It has become apparent that Peabody needs a junior high school. Skilled educators, men who have placed their life study in education, agree to a man that a junior high school is one of the big essentials of schools in all cities. They argue that a majority of the boys who attend school, leave after the grammar course, due no doubt to the fact that their parents cannot afford to send them to the high school, and a feeling that further education helps them but little, due to the fact that their own education has been neglected. A junior high school takes in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. Boys and girls in these grades are leaving boyhood on the way to manhood, and therefore naturally prefer older ones for associates. This school will specialize in branches which the present grades do not attempt to do. In fact it is a cleaning process for such boys and girls who are not situated to attend the high school. Peabody schools are getting crowded. Something must be done in the near future to care for such conditions, and it seems to us a junior high school is the ideal way to accomplish it. From all we can learn about the situation, the present high school building can be added to for this purpose. This addition will be separated in such a way from the present structure, as to make it a building entirely independent, and like a factory of large proportions, economy can be practiced. The grammar schools will thus be relieved of many pupils, which simplifies the whole situation. So as our city is growing, and its needs for school purposes increase in proportion, we are facing the time when more schools are needed. A junior high school fills the bill so far as our observation carries us, and we record ourselves in its favor.

A REAL BASEBALL TEAM

When the A. C. Lawrence Leather Company conceived the idea of placing a ball nine in the field to compete with the best in this vicinity, it was assured they would have a winner. It would matter little what the powers that be want at that plant, from bees wings to cow hides, yes to ball teams, Mr. Kelley and his associates can produce it. And it is not the policy of this corporation to do an ordinary way, but on the same lines as all the great teams have had in the past ball teams of money to build up a successful company when they tackled the problem. To emphasize, is that such a pride of those interested, but interest in leather making is little or nothing. Afternoon without journeying to the city, has made another home week so to say, more advertising of the proper way, the mecca of many local baseball fans has been that this town had a team. Thanks to the skill of a man, Peabody. Now all is changed. Saturday holiday. Amusement is sought by hunting it at home, merchants must benefit. There is a first class ball team in Peabody has and a big effect. And only a disposition to run it, command have to pay the bills, makes it a success. Lawrence company is doing much for the welfare of their workers, and in this case it extends to all workers throughout the city.

ROUND ABOUT

Peabody was veterans who receive their state bonus of $100 this week can thank Representative James E. McVann for his efforts to induce the state treasurer to hustle some money to Peabody. Senator Nason also gave a hand and both sent a letter to the state house urging that Peabody war veterans be given their money with more dispatch.

I observe that Joseph E. Riley is the new night supervisor at the Western Union telegraph office in charge of the A. D. T. service given to the local plants. He is a war veteran having seen service at the St. Mihiel where he first got under fire. He is a graduate of the Peabody High school and is well known in South Peabody where he makes his home.

Among the 80 businessmen of New England who are engaged in business of exporting goods from the port of Boston that were entertained in the Hub last Friday were Col. William Armstrong and M. W. Synder, the latter of the new leather concern H. markets, both domestic and foreign. S. and M. W. Synder now operating the big O'Shea plant on Main street. The Synder brothers who purchased the O'Shea plant are doing a big business in the output of skins for the The day's program consisted of a trip down the harbor and an examination of the docking facilities of interest to the exporters. Luncheon and dinner was served the guests at the Boston City Club, the Shawmut National Bank doing the honors at noon and the First National Bank being the host for the dinner in the evening. John N. Cole of the Port Commission was the principal speaker and he boosted Boston as a shipping center.

Peabody's legal circle will add another bar member to local practice soon in the person of Atty. Daniel Tumulty. He is one of the candidates for Councilor from Ward 4.

It's going to be interesting to see how many Democrats become Republicans and how many Republicans become Democrats next Tuesday, not to omit the Socialists who may want to declare themselves in one of the two dominant parties now on the ballot.

Rev. Dr. Rivington D. Lord and wife returned to their winter home in Brooklyn this week after the season spent at their summer home on Lynnfield street. Dr. Lord enjoys an unique honor of having held the pastorate of the First Baptist church in Brooklyn for 35 years, this being his only parish and the first one to which he was called fresh from his graduation from the Union Seminary. His wife is a former Peabody girl which accounts for the couple coming here to spend their summers. The Brooklyn pastor has a good word for Peabody.

I observe that Peabody was well represented at the annual pow-wow of the Essex County Republican Club at Swampscott this week when Assistant District Attorney Daniel C. Manning was re-elected secretary and William F. Searle made one of the directors. Councilor James F. Ingraham past president of the club presided at the banquet and introduced the speakers.

The Soewamapenissett Campfire had their fourth annual camping trip this year, Aug. 25-Sept. 7, at East Boxford, Mass. Mrs. Ernest Porter, the guardian, had charge of the camp and the girls owe many thanks to her for her unstinted work. Although the weather was unfavorable, something was going on every minute. One day a hare and hound's chase was held and another day the girls went on a straw ride to Georgetown. Swimming was the chief sport although they had to walk a mile to the pond. On one night when the moon favored them, a council fire was held on the shore of the lake. The work of the camp was divided so that it was done by relays of girls and the entire day was carried out according to schedule.

The girls in the camping party were Doris Allen, Louise Burbeck, Virginia Carten, Sylvia Gaines, Olive Goldthwait, Esther Hallowell, Elizabeth Mackintosh, Emily Mansfield and Marjorie Taylor.

Why Called "House Leek."

The leek, it is said, is called house leek because it was formerly common in the north of England to plant the house leek on the roofs of cottages as it was supposed that the leeks were protection against thunder and lightning.

Entire Village of Wood.

The Russian village is built principally of wood and roofed with wood, or with straw and stones. For this reason there are so many fires that, according to statistics, one-fifth of all the peasant cottages burn down every year, or putting it in another way, every house burns down after five years. This seems improbable, but it is reliable information.

Language and Thought.

Language is properly the servant of thought, but not infrequently becomes its master. The conceptions of a feeble writer are greatly modified by his style; a man of vigorous powers makes his style bend to his conceptions—a fact compatible enough with the acknowledgment of Dryden that a rhyme had often helped him to an idea.—Culow.

PEABODY BOUND TO SEE ANIMATED PRIMARIES IN DIST. ATTORNEY CONTEST

in his former campaigns for the suffrage, and it stands to reason that many of his personal friends will be found with his candidate for the nomination.

The Enterprise does not believe that Dist. Atty. Wells applauds a Haverhill newspaper that published a nasty thing at the city of Peabody as unwarranted in its text as this paper would be to slander the fair "city of snows" on the Merrimack. Besides Peabody supplied some bread and butter once to the aged writer of the sight. The attack on the city of Peabody was aimed at Mayor Donnell but fails to do either thing in the minds of fair-minded citizens. We repeat, we do not think this article had the "O. K." of former Senator Wells and it is not entitled to a single vote in this city next Tuesday. Haverhill has nothing on Peabody when it comes to streets and many of its shoe factories are owned by outside capital, what's that about the man living in a glass house? The writer of the Haverhill article knows the answer by sad experience.

Vigorous Campaign.

There can be no gainsaying the statement that Mayor Donnell has given Essex county the most penetrating campaign for a Republican nomination that it has had in many years and his record of achievement in upbuilding Peabody is likely to be a big factor in his success at the polls next Tuesday. For this reason the Peabody vote means a great deal.

Atty. Manning is to speak in Peabody Square tonight and he has invited Mayor Donnell to debate with him. Monday night Atty. Manning will speak in South Peabody and in Wilson Square.

Attorney Foley was the first Democrat to announce his candidacy for the nomination and this fact gave him deservedly a big start on his two rivals who came in sometime later one hoping to smother the young war veteran who gave up his new law office to enlist in the navy and was ready to go to France if sent by the government. Attorney Foley never made any talk about his having a pull to keep him safe in this country and performed the duties assigned to him with credit.

He is a graduate of Boston University Law School which he entered after receiving his earlier education in the Wallis grammar and Peabody high. For a time he was associated with Judge Hall of this city and later in the law office of Sullivan & Devine of Salem when he opened his own law office in the O'Shea building.

One of his opponents said to be fearful of the outcome of the primaries is reported to have attacked Atty. Foley on the grounds that he was a nephew of Thomas H. O'Shea, the city's largest individual taxpayer and whose money erected the city's two handsomest business blocks in Peabody square and whose money later turned a dilapidated factory building on Main st. into the best one-man leather plant in New England if not in the country thereby adding to the taxes of the city.

The attack is most likely to prove a boomerang for the young attorney whose own ability got him through his law school and whose training has opened the way for a good law practice in his home city. To Atty. Foley goes the rare credit of having acted as the attorney in the sale of the O'Shea leather factory, one of the biggest realty deals consummated in Peabody in many years. His part in the deal brought him many fine compliments from older attorneys who recognized his ability and initiative.

Strength For Foley.

Certain it is that the Democrats who put Ex-Representative "Bully" Mahoney on Beacon Hill are putting strong for Atty. Foley who is not making political thunder out of his part in the world's war. With the probable split that the triangular contest is bound to develop friends of Atty. Foley are confident that he will emerge the winner among the three Democratic aspirants.

Rep. James Edward McVann on his own record in the House will be nominated by the Republican primaries as the candidate to succeed himself and no matter which Democrat wins the nomination Rep. McVann is sure to be reckoned with next November. The fact that Senator Nason has a rival in Capt. Thomas L. Wood, a Haverhill attorney, adds interest to the Republican primaries Tuesday.

Senator Nason has many followers in Peabody because of his experience in former campaigns. He is confident of success. His opponent went to France as a lieutenant and won a Captain's bars overseas under fire. He is a younger man than his rival. Both are making a strong appeal for the soldier's vote.

CANADIAN E. F.

A meeting was held of the executive committee of the American Volunteers of the Canadian E. F. and some very important business was brought before the following committee: William Whooton, chairman; Gilbert Andrews, secretary; Andrew Sheridan, Ralph Cody, George W. Chase, E. Hughes.

The committee is working hard for the welfare of the association and it is requested that all returned soldiers of the C. E. F. will be present at Carpenter's hall, Munroe st., Lynn, Monday, Sept. 22 at 7.30 sharp.

poor packages, and such packages hurt them indirectly to say the least.

There is little doing collectively in the building line. Some contractors are doing a big volume of business, but repair work is the rule among the big majority. New factories or buildings are few and far between. There appears to be no incentive to build factories with the price of materials and labor so high. If today's prices are to be a basis for future construction, new buildings would appear in many sections. Housing all who need tenements will be worked out by corporations whose help need housing, but no one can see a fair return on their money to build tenement houses at present cost, together with the appellation of profiteer attached to it. There are signs of something doing in added factory buildings in Peabody. What will materialize is problematical, but I expect something to drop in the near future. There will be no trouble letting factory buildings, and rent for them could be placed at prices which would return a fair percentage on the investment; without annexing the appellation of profiteer.

I have not taken the census of small concerns finishing leather in Peabody today, but practically every available room is occupied by men mostly of Jewish origin, finishing pieces. That money has been made is certain. Practically all of these people have had little experience in the leather game, but they grasp the situation as readily as in all other lines they tackle. Some manufacturers finish their tearoffs, but the busy man has little time to do it, for finishing pieces requires much pattering and the time can well be placed to better advantage. It was reported that I had entered this game, but to those who are interested as well as those who are curious, I will say that what little I do in that line will not affect the market. If I can see a dollar in it, I will certainly do business, for the H. C. L. has struck my domicile and has done almost as much execution as a German bomb. A man working on a salary today has as much chance as the victim of a firing squad. All know that who are there, and I find I have plenty of company, none of whom are envious.

Daniel B. Grosvenor Was Typical New Englander and Ideal Citizen

(By Ralph M. Harper)

A typical New England man died in Winthrop September 15, when Daniel Prescott Grosvenor, aged 83, formerly of Peabody, answered the final roll call. Mr. Grosvenor was a typical New Englander in a three fold sense. First he was a shrewd New England business man. He was possibly the oldest living druggist and Western Union telegrapher in New England. At the age of fifteen, 1851, he became an apprentice in a drug store in Peabody and soon after began the drug business for himself, keeping the same store for fifty years. At the same time he was the Western Union telegraph operator for Peabody, using the old time double wheel instrument. The instrument that he used in Peabody for 43 years is now kept in the Peabody Historical Society.

Mr. Grosvenor was typically New England in his interest in all organizations of the community. He was a Mason for over 50 years, a Past Master of Jordan Lodge, Peabody for four years, the oldest member of the Winslow Lewis Commandery of Salem, a member of the Second Corps Cadets, of Salem, a vestryman and the treasurer of St. Paul's Church, Peabody, for 15 years, Trustee of the Peabody Institute, and since its foundation a member of the Board of Directors of the Masonic Board of Relief Home at Charlston.

He was most typically New England in his intellectual interests. He had a broad charity toward the foibles and failings of men, and constantly kept saying that the world is growing better. Never a day passed without being questioned on the leading news items and issues of the day. Three years ago he and his wife, who survives him observed their golden wedding. He was clear on the reason why so many marriages turn out wrong and how they could be happy. The secret of home life, he said, was in absolute confidence between husband and wife. All news of the day and all issues must be discussed in the home without any reservation. The secret of Mr. Grosvenor's long healthy happy years is that he never hurried nor worried. And instead of having an empty mind for worries and anxieties to enter in, Mr. Grosvenor's mind was keenly alert for all new developments in the world. The League of Nations interested him immensely. He was at first skeptical about the plan, then questioned if it could be put quickly into operation. But just before his death he said that even if the present plan failed, President Wilson has sown the seed of a new kind of brotherhood which will make the world a better world. He is survived by a widow and two daughters.

ROWLEY PLEDGES FIVE CENT FARES ON ALL TROLLEYS

A State-wide reduction of taxes, 5 cent fares on street railways, and a more economical administration at the State House, are among the planks of Clarence W. Rowley's platform in his campaign for the Republican nomination for attorney general of this Commonwealth.

Through his 25 years experience as a lawyer and through his acquaintance of conditions at the State House, he knows where it is possible for the attorney general to accomplish what he proposes through the planks of his platform.

Rowley is a typical Roosevelt candidate for office. He was a close friend of Roosevelt and named one of his sons Theodore Roosevelt Rowley. He was also a life-long friend of "Buffalo Bill." He hunted with him in the Rockies and rode horse together. The rabbit's foot, which Roosevelt carried with him through Africa was presented to Theodore Roosevelt Rowley.

As an attorney, Rowley is regarded in the profession as a live-wire. He strikes while the iron is hot. His supporters throughout the Commonwealth say that a man of the Rowley type is necessary at the State House during the coming year when warfare will be conducted against the high cost of living.

"A PRINCE THERE WAS."

The Tremont theatre, Boston, opens the regular dramatic season next Monday, Sept. 22, when Cohan and Harris will present Geo. M. Cohan's greatest character comedy "A Prince There Was" from Darragh Aldrich's story, "Enchanted Hearts," with Grant Mitchell in the leading role.

"A Prince There Was" is Mr. Cohan's latest triumph. Certainly it shows this talented playwright, at his merriest and matured best. The play is an up-to-the-minute romance, written of places, persons and projects with which every American is familiar. Several of the characters are entirely new to the stage—including that of the "Prince" himself, who is a unique type of character drawing in American comedy drama.

This hero of "A Prince There Was" is as vitally modern an American as the well-remembered "Tailor Made Man," which Grant Mitchell made famous. In "A Prince There Was" Mr. Mitchell appears in the title role. His portrayal of the new Cohan character is a revelation of the modern actor's genius in being able to reproduce on the stage a natural, everyday American of his own time with a note of human appeal that is irresistible. Beside the "swashbuckling hero" of the old romantic drama, Mr. Cohan's modern hero stands forth, under Mr. Mitchell's guiding intelligence, as a real man against stage puppet. This is perhaps the finest tribute that can be paid to Grant Mitchell in "A Prince There Was." The entire original Broadway cast will be seen in Boston precisely as presented for over half a year in New York and four solid months in Chicago.

Theodore Jeffers Brought Boy Scouts To High Efficiency

Among the Peabody boys whose college career will be followed with interest is Theodore, R. Jeffers who begins his collegiate course at Brown University next week. He was graduated with honors from the Peabody high school last June, being president of the class, and one of the most popular students, prominent in athletics and a fearless and brilliant football player. He has been a member of the Player's Club of Peabody, winning success in several plays. His greatest work has been done as acting scoutmaster of Boy Scouts, Troop No. 2. About three years ago when elected to the position he now resigns because of going to college, he found Troops No. 2 and No. 3 in a disorganized condition. He soon brought them together under one troop and won the confidence of every boy.

THEODORE R. JEFFERS.

During the Liberty Loan drive he conducted the work in a manner so creditable as to raise the general public opinion many degrees concerning the Boy Scout organization. For two successive winters he devoted three of his evenings a week training the scouts, and then for one night at the end of the season gave a performance in the Strand theatre to a packed house.

By such means sufficient funds were raised to pay the expenses each summer of a large encampment. The first was in August of 1918 and was in Deerfield, N. H. where for two weeks 40 boys were so well governed by Mr. Jeffers that the community expressed high praise of his work.

The encampment of this season was at Wells Beach, Maine, from which the boys have returned with glowing accounts of a splendid time. As a young man still in his teens Mr. Jeffers has undertaken big things with rare success. As scout leader he has been quick to act and decisive in his judgments, but always with that tact which makes for confidence and companionship. His self-reliance has been marked. As a disciplinarian he has few equals among young men.

He has corrected wrong habits vigorously but with Christian grace, helping to make boys clean and manly. The farewell banquet given in his honor on Wednesday evening attested the place that he holds in the esteem of older men, and the $50 in gold presented him by the Troop at that time illustrates the wonderful hold he has on the boys themselves. He goes away to college bearing the best wishes of all his friends.

The Americanization program at the plant opens Monday of next week when 10 classes in English will assemble at the classrooms at the Main, Waters River and National factories. While the plan outlined by the committee in charge of this project called for an initial enrollment of 150 men, from present indications the number desirous of entering these classes will be nearer 200. At the Waters River plant alone, nearly 50 men are eager to learn English.

Henry Tadgell, clerk in the National beamhouse, wrote this week of life in Boston with the State Guard. The first few days of his duties were very strenuous, as they were on nine hour tours of duty. Last Thursday he had but an hour and a half to rest, and had his breakfast and dinner but 45 minutes apart. Mr. Tadgell is missed at the plant, as he is chairman of the garden committee and a tireless worker on Americanization, which he strongly favors.

The engagement was announced this week of Miss Marion Thomas of the Main Office to Almon Massey of the Book Leather department. The popular couple are receiving the congratulations of their many friends at the plant.

Miss Mary Peirce has severed her connection with the Main Office in order to enter Boston University.

Among those who have gone from the shop to Boston with the State Guard are T. Churchyard, Pigskin department; A. Murray, Sheepskin department; C. Cote, Beamhouse; Charles Appleton, National shaving; and Clarence Comer, National embossing.

Edward H. Merrill, superintendent of the Japan Shop, celebrated the 16th anniversary of his wedding last Monday, Sept. 15.

Three of the Knight Templar order journeyed to Philadelphia last week, where the national convention was held. They had a splendid trip, visiting the Hog Island Shipyards, Atlantic City and other nearby points of interest. They were Thomas G. Bemister, National Calfskin Co.; D. H. Kuel, Jr., Japan Shop, and George Estes, Mechanical office.

Miss Nettie Kerr, of the National office, is enjoying her vacation this week.

Miss Mary Foster has resumed her duties at the National office after a rest of about two months.

Herbert O. Barnaby has resigned his position at the Japan Shop on account of ill health. His friends are hoping that a change of climate will work wonders with "Bunny."

Miss Margaret Arnold is absent from the National office this week, owing to her vacation.

The Enterprise in last week's issue prophesied that the A. C. L. outfield, comprised of Ernie Gourley, Billy Dempsey and Beef Gildea, would garner eight hits off of Somerville's delivery, as well as capturing the silver cup offered for the first home run by a Peabody player. This sounded impossible, but this is what the trio accomplished: scored seven runs out of the eight made by the team. Got on bases 11 times; secured six hits, and according to some scorers seven, as one hard hit ball went as an error; Gourley knocked out a nice homer, but through poor coaching was held to three bases; Dempsey won the silver cup by a home run in the eighth. In addition to this they accepted every chance offered in the field, Dempsey getting two hard flies in one inning. It certainly looks as though these boys had read the Enterprise and lived up to its opinion of their ability.

Miss Blanche Oliver of the Main office is spending her vacation at Marblehead.

Roger Ferrin, a returned soldier boy who has been working in the shipping room at the Waters River plant, has resigned his position in order to attend school in Boston. Young Ferrin is making a study of accountancy, which he plans on making his profession.

Mrs. Evelyn (Knowles) Hutchinson leaves her position at the Main office tomorrow to start housekeeping. She will be given a great sendoff by her many friends in the office.

Albert Dalton, who has been acting as office boy at the National, has left the employ of the office.

Miss Gertrude Holland is enjoying this week and next in New York City, where she is visiting her brother.

Miss Julia Ryan has been having a good time at Conticook, N. H., with two other young ladies from the office, Misses Blanche and Bertha Goodwin. All were spending their vacations at the popular country resort.

Miss Grace Goldthwaite is out on a vacation from her duties at the main office.

Wilmer Norris, for the past few months serving as apprentice in the hide department, has left the employ of the firm to take an extended trip to Cuba. Norris has already visited Alaska, Australia and nearly every state in the union, as well as having served with the navy in the Coast Guard.

Capt. Lawrence Emerton was united in marriage last evening to Mrs. Marcia Osgood at Salem. After a wedding trip through Maine, the happy couple will reside at 1 Eaton place. Capt. Emmerton was in France a year and a half, and it was while he was in the service that his engagement was announced.

C. of C. Appoints Its Committee On City By-Laws

Plans are being completed by the United States Chamber of Commerce for the International Trade Conference to be held in Atlantic City September 30-October 3, and the committees appointed by the National Chamber of Commerce have been working diligently in the United States and Europe with the view of making a program which will afford opportunity to bring before the International Trade Conference the big subjects requiring attention. An exceptional program accordingly has been arranged. All the countries have a common interest in most of the topics, but in some cases each foreign delegation has a list of subjects vital to its own country, in which its neighbors have only a passing interest. Under the heading of major topics is scheduled economic readjustment of commercial and industrial conditions in England, France, Italy and Belgium. It is deemed essential that a frank statement be made as to what is needed to place these countries on a basis of stable and enlarged production. This is pointed out, perhaps, would involve something like an inventory of available supplies and resources, with the view of arriving at an estimate as to the requirements of food, raw material and manufacturer articles for, say, a two-year period, and should be of a character to serve as a guide to American business men, manufacturers, producers, bankers, etc., in planning their trade relations for the future. Persons interested in foreign trade and desiring to attend this meeting can secure credentials from the local Chamber office.

The Massachusetts Forestry Association of Boston is asking the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce towards securing an enactment of a bill authorizing the Commonwealth to purchase suitable lands for forestry not to exceed 250,000,000 acres. Petitions are being circulated by a committee consisting of W. H. Brown, C. L. Beckett, A. P. Ames, Fred Bushby and Arthur P. Bodge, which was appointed at the directors' meeting held last evening.

The Chamber has installed a library of city directories which covers practically all the cities of New England and is for the use of any of the citizens of Peabody.

The following have been elected as sustaining members of the Chamber of Commerce: H. S. & M. W. Snyder, Inc., Amerikaf Tanning Co., Hunt-Rankin Leather Co.

At request of the committee appointed by City Council to revise the by-laws, the Chamber appointed P. H. O'Connor, H. M. Blair and N. V. Crane to work with this committee.

by that body to promote the welfare of its big shipping interests looking to more adequate freight facilities in Peabody.

The story in last week's Enterprise setting forth the absolute need of improvement in the local yard has been commended by local business men and it is presumed that the Chamber of Commerce officials are interested in bringing about some improvements in the freight yard. It is said the question will be brought before the directors at the next meeting.

Rev. Barnes Resigns

Rev. Frederick Barnes, pastor of the Baptist church has resigned. Action on his resignation will be announced next Sunday when the standing committee will recommend a leave of absence with pay for their pastor. He has a call to another church not far from Peabody and may decide to accept it although he informed a reporter for the Enterprise today that the local church offer demanded his earnest consideration. He has not enjoyed good health and desires to take a rest which may involve a trip into the west.

A.C.L. To Play Salem Here Tomorrow

If the weather man is willing, the A. C. L.—Salem game of tomorrow will be the magnet that will draw thousands of fans to the tannery city. It is almost certain that the big attendance record of Aug. 16 will go by the board when the third game of the championship series starts, as there is no other attraction of importance in baseball circles tomorrow. A large number of out of town fans will be drawn to Peabody by the Rockdale fair, and will attend the game at the same time.

The A. C. L. team of last Saturday will be again seen in action, and those who were present at Little River last week will vouch for the calibre of the two new-comers, Gardella and Warner. Warner's stop in the first inning and toss to second for a double play was a gem, and Gardella had the opposing pitcher worried to death whenever he appeared at the bat. Silva and Durgin have more than made good with the Peabody fans by their work in the last two games, and these four players will comprise an unbeatable infield to stack against the powerful defensive infield that has represented Salem this season.

Lefty Harrington is out to annex his third straight win since his debut Labor Day, and the A. C. L. batters

Mayor Asks $500,000 For Junior High

Mayor Donnell and members of the school committee asked the City Council last night to sponsor an appropriation of $500,000 with which to erect a junior high school for Peabody. The Mayor addressed the Council. He declared it would be necessary to go to the legislature to get permission to borrow the needed money in view of the fact that the city now has a borrowing capacity of about $300,000. The proposed new school building, according to the Mayor will call for a 36-room building which will accommodate upwards of 1500 pupils, allowing the school committee to take the 7th and 8th grades out of the grammar schools and join them with the 9th now in the high school. Plans were submitted for the attention of the Council. The finance committee will look over these and report back to the Council presumably at the next meeting.

On recommendation of the Mayor the claims committee last night awarded $1500 damages to Albert C. Somes of 32 Carleton st. who sustained injuries when he fell through an excavation caused by a flood from a stone drain last May. This is one of the highest awards ever made in an

Whoever put up the sign of warning to motor vehicles on the Lowell street bridge near the Middleton line must hunt an alibi should the owner of the auto truck which broke through the planking decide to sue for damages. It appears that the sign was nailed to the bridge half way, part of it being in Middleton and part in Peabody. It is said that some official jointly erected the sign, picking out the middle of the bridge so that each municipality could claim half ownership in the sign. Just how they expected the driver of a heavily laden truck to read the sign midway of the bridge in time to take warning of his excessive load is not at all clear. Two signs one at each side of the bridge should have been erected to warn truck drivers. The bridge was capable of holding five tons and a nine ton truck got wrecked in the bridge collapse.

J. F. Tomassello and Son, the contractors, who have built many streets in Peabody, have secured a number of new contracts this week, among them being the construction of a large storage house for the United Shoe Machinery Co., highway construction for the Park Commission in Watertown, and bridge construction and dredging a canal in Newton.

The report that gypsies who have been camping this week at Rockdale Park have been using Spring Pond to bathe in is absolutely denied by Inspector Boyle, in charge of the water supply. The fact that the band of gypsies used a board fence near the basin on which to dry their clothes earlier in the week led to the report that they had been bathing. A sharp watch is being kept on the pond to see that there is no evasion of the law prohibiting bathing in Spring Pond or other water supply sources.

Jere J. Quirk, chairman of the Assessors, and George R. Nelson, clerk and principal assessor, have gone into the scrap leather business. As such they become rivals of their former assistant assessor, Councilor James T. Sullivan.

John O'Brien, who keeps Peabody Square spic and span, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from his duties and so is driver Ralph Basford.

Blocking up of an old stone drain on Aborn st. when the new Hassam pavement was laid there recently, has cost the city something to remove the obstruction. The heavy rains caused a caving in of the sidewalk and a private yard facing "Warner Square."

It is pretty certain that Engineer Barbour's report in favor of a certain type of engine for the pumping station will be carried by a majority vote in the City Council.

It has been reported that some small town stuff was going to be aired, that in substance would favor hiring an expert optician to perform an operation for appendicitis. Engineer Barbour is admitted an expert in his line.

City Solicitor Horace P. Farnham, associate justice of the district court, sat on the bench yesterday for the first time since he was forced to give up his law business last November. The case before him was that of Miss Florence Oliver of Lynnfield, who alleged that her neighbor, John L. Hamilton, had struck her in the eye following a wordy altercation over a boundary. After hearing the evidence Judge Farnham imposed a fine of $10 on the defendant.

Chief Grady got back to his desk this week after two weeks' vacation. He found plenty of work waiting his personal direction on matters relating to the Grand Jury. They say the Chief may consider the plan of keeping a policeman in Peabody Square as a regular traffic cop, at least Councilor Ryan hopes he will, and also put an end to fast speeding of autos and trucks through the Square.

The Municipal Garage is still a busy hive of industry, despite the flings and taunts of hostile Councilors.

They are saying that Councilor Hogan is worrying a bit over the coming city primary when he must face the opposition of four other candidates aspiring to fill his chair.

Harrington On Mound To Beat Salem

have promised him their aid in trimming up Ray Somerville. They hit Somerville hard in Salem, and would have done so in Peabody had he put the ball within reach of their bats. As it was, they reached first base 12 times and scored three runs while the heavy hitters of Salem, including Shean of the Red Sox and Bailey of the Braves, were gathering seven hits and two runs.

Gourley, Dempsey and Gildea will make up the outfield, and should be good for about eight hits among them. One of this trio should cop the cup offered for the first home run of the season by an A. C. L. player.

Dave Shean, Ollie Wescott, Marty Donovan, Gilligan and Merritt are a few of the Salem stars that Frank Donovan is depending upon to pull Ray Somerville out of the many holes that he is very apt to get into tomorrow. He also will strengthen considerably by adding a new outfielder and a high-class first sacker of major league calibre. Donovan can be depended on to present a real lineup, even if he has to break up the big league game in Boston to do it. He has pulled some great stunts so far this season in raking up players at the last minute, and they have been good ones at that. Donny is anxious to get a crack at the Cornets, and figures that he will have to trim the A. C. L.'s this week in order to beat out the General Electric outfit, which is clamoring for a series with the All-Stars.

Bill Cody, of basketball fame, will be one of the umpires, with the other as yet undecided.

The game will be called at 3.15 sharp.

MICHAEL W. RAY.

City Almoner James J. Ray and sisters have the sympathy of their friends in the death of their brother, Michael W. Ray, dean of the stable keepers in Lynn, who died Wednesday after a lingering illness. He was born on Prospect st., Hog Hill, this city, and lived in Peabody prior to taking up his business in Lynn. He gave up the stable business in favor of the automobile service, and was the head of the concern which bears his name in the Shoe City. He was the father of Councilor Benjamin Ray of Lynn.

LEATHER NOTES

The high cost of shoeing. Yes and then some. The cost of a shoe as to manufacturer has been compiled by a trustworthy correspondent, and from the little I know about such things the figures are about what I should use. Three feet of leather at $1.50 a foot (for two feet), duck and sheep for linings figures at 21 cents. Bottom stock, which includes heels and soles $1.81. Labor $1.12. Then comes boxes, royalties, general labor expenses of office and outside of actual manufacturing 24-cents, selling is figured at 62 cents, then discount and interest is added 25 cents, and we have two innocent looking shoes and $9.35. This means a man's shoe. Women's shoes cost relatively the same, whatever that is. We find that it costs 87 cents a pair to sell with the discounts and interest. If such is the case with a production of 1000 to 5000 pairs of shoes daily, and medium size shoe factories do this amount, this charge seems to me excessive. The upper leather costs $1.50 a foot we will assume. If so you are getting the best leather, calf or goat. Sole leather has jumped to $1.82 from 80 cents in 1914. Upper leather from 93 cents to $4.50. Why has upper leather increased so much more than sole leather? There is probably a reasonable answer, but I am not qualified to give it. It seems to me that the cost of making shoes is much under the above prices. The profits added, and it looks as though they were, makes a high cost shoe. The situation as I see it is just here. Everybody that has anything to do with a shoe from the time the animal is slaughtered gets a profit and while the going is good they will continue to get it. So would all of us.

A friend of mine visited a high class shoe store in Boston recently. He had purchased shoes of this concern for years. They formerly charged him $9.00 a pair for shoes which could be purchased elsewhere for $6.00. He imagined he was getting a better article. I do not agree with him. The same stock and practically the same skilled labor entered into both shoes. But high rents in Boston made it necessary to add several dollars to the $9.00 shoe. Now they ask $25.00 for those shoes. Think it over. Many of us can remember when our mothers shopped for everything they purchased. That practice is still going on by some people but not by many mothers. The practice has grown to visit the stores of reputation and buy, buy, buy, never mind the cost. They come home inflated with the idea they have just what they wanted and they do not count what money they have left, for more is coming any time. It goes with the times. Why try to convince anyone he is doing this and it is seriously detrimental to his pocket book. Only a taste of dull times will bring him back to where he should have been for the last four years, and had he done so, his bank account would be a respectable one.

Prices in 1914 and 1918 on leather are interesting:

	1914	1918
A Foot	A Foot	A Foot
Calf leather	.32	$1.50
Side leather	.25	.95
Patent leather	.25	.15
Sheep leather	.10	.25
Sole leather, oak	.45	.85
Raw native cows	.19	.51
Buff hides	.17	.45
Calfskins	.22	.87

These figures tell part of the story. They tell that the raw material has jumped nearly 300 per cent. They tell that finished leather has advanced 500 per cent in some cases. Sole leather has not taken such a jump, perhaps for the reason that labor does not enter into the situation so keenly. But I have been able to purchase good wearing shoes for $6.00 for two, up to date, and I have my eye out for more of the same kind. I do not claim such shoes are the best, but they serve the purpose of covering the feet, and are not conducive to corns and bunions. If one wishes to wear the higher grades, dig down and pay for them and quit talking about the high cost of shoes. It is not necessary, so far as shoes go.

Calf and side leather are in demand, but I am informed that sheep leather is slowing up. Does this mean the beginning of an era which will pile up finished stock with the result that prices will drop? I pause for a reply, as Mark Anthony did.

The A. C. Lawrence Leather Company will assist their help to build houses. Large corporations in other places do this and the Lawrence company have done and will do much to improve the conditions of those who labor with them. While houses built today cost double over former times, those times are not to return for many many moons I predict. Therefore if you build houses as some buy shoes, such homes will cost hunks of money. But a house that is comfortable, will make you live as long as the stucco mansion, stuck with hard wood finishes and floors. One can have four or five more rooms in his house than he can possibly use, but that adds to the high cost of existing.

Wire for Ocean Sounding.
A very fine steel piano wire is used in making ocean soundings. The ocean at its deepest point as far as is known is 31,614 feet—about six miles—deep. This hole in the ocean is near the island of Guam. A wire must be very fine and very strong to support six miles of itself in making these soundings.

The Bread that makes Friends and keeps them

Friends' Milk Bread

There's the biggest part of the story of Friend's Bread in that one word — Milk.

Friend's Bread is Milk Bread — and it's Milk Bread rightly made with the proper ingredients — each with its wholesome qualities — making a palatable, nutritious loaf.

Friend's Bread appeals to the children because it "tastes good" and "hits the right spot." It appeals to Mothers and Fathers because it contains the milk, wheat and fats that build up sturdy boys and girls.

Friend's Bread is Bread for "all the family."

Moose Behind Actors' League

The entire membership of 550,000 of the Loyal Order of Moose have been pledged to the Actors' National Memorial campaign. This action was taken at New York Lodge No. 15 where a set of resolutions were drafted and unanimously adopted. P. A. Shaner, Dictator of the local lodge, in a letter to Daniel Froham, President of the Actors' Fund of America, said the order had been won over to the cause through the efforts of Will S. Rising, an actor. The writer also pointed out the endorsement meant that the ceremonial on December 5, 1919—Actors' National Memorial Day—would receive undivided support of the executive personnel of the institution.

B. & M. Freight Yard In Deplorable Shape--Cause For Complaint

and other trucks, a veritable quagmire. No efforts on the part of the railroad people is taken, evidently, to keep the yard at all cleaned up and the rain which fell Monday night and all day Tuesday made the spectacle of the freight yard off of the newly constructed street pavements a disgraceful scene, viewed as it is by hundreds of people on busy Central street.

reporter for the Enterprise disclosed all kinds of refuse about the yard near the freight cars which ought to have the attention of the Board of Health. Not for months would it appear a single bit of effort had been made by the railroad company to put its yard here in any kind of decent shape.

Could Rid Mud.

If the railroad cannot afford to pave the freight yard as it should be for the convenience of its big shippers and consignees then it might spread crushed rock and gravel to do away with the yards of mud and filth and thereby ease the work of the teamsters engaged in urging their horses into the slough and mud and water in their efforts to get their ponderous teams up to the doors of the freight cars. Much time is lost by the teamsters which amounts to much money in the course of a few days in that the handicap under which teamsters labor to unload freight in the yard during the wet weather prevents the railroad just so much longer in expediting other freight shipments for this city.

Pictures Tell Story.

The Enterprise photographer secured the accompanying pictures shortly before 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when a half dozen teams were backed up to the cars engaged in unloading goods consigned to Peabody concerns. The pool of water and mud in the foreground of one of the pictures tells a big part of the story of why the railroad should take immediate steps to improve the condition of the Peabody freight yard.

By extending its yard toward the A. C. Lawrence Leather plant, the railroad could, in the opinion of men familiar with the traffic needs find room for storage for at least 50 cars more every day which would be sufficient to meet the demands.

Frequently cars consigned to Peabody come from Lowell en route from points west and north and pass through Peabody to Salem where the work of handling them again is made necessary because of the too meagre storage room in the local yard. The attending delay in freight delivery is obvious and of course a distinct inconvenience and even a monetary loss to both the railroad and the consignees.

The Enterprise has frequently pointed out the necessity for additional track room in the local freight yard and the matter has been brought to the attention of the railroad officials in the past through the efforts of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce. Railroad officials have quickly agreed that more room was needed in Peabody and as promptly admitted that the freight receipts at the local freight depot assumed a large figure of steady revenue to the coffers of the railroad. Still, nothing by way of improvement has been forthcoming and the business boom which this city has witnessed since early in 1917 has found the railroad and finds it today, sadly unable to handle the local business with anything like promptness and good service.

Receipts Large Here.

If the receipts were small there would be less cause for complaint on the part of the shippers and business men who deal with the local freight office, but as stated in the foregoing the receipts here are admittedly among the highest of any freight depot outside of Boston.

It is argued that the railroad management ought to be willing to make traffic conditions in its local yard more advantageous to the local business men from whom so handsome a revenue comes each day, week and month.

Cars Held In Salem.

There is no denial of the assertion that loaded freight cars consigned to Peabody are forced into idleness and "cold storage" in Salem freight yards awaiting room in the badly congested yard room in Peabody. This makes for a condition that reflects on the railroad officials, and worse still, entails a lack of service to the local consignees and shippers even, that means loss of real money.

Something must be done by the railroad to improve the conditions obtaining here to handle the daily consignment of freight, it is generally agreed by the rank and file of shippers conversant with and handicapped by, the present lack of freight yard facilities.

The condition of the yard as viewed this week after the rain is one that should be the concern of the Chamber of Commerce which represents the big shipping interests of the city. The photographs show how urgent is action looking to immediate improvement.

B. & M. FREIGHT YARD INADEQUATE

There is urgent need of awakening the management of the Boston & Maine railroad to remedying the deplorable conditions that obtain in its freight yard in this city. The Enterprise today publishes a story of its investigation of the yard made this week and it is to be hoped that the Chamber of Commerce directors will take immediate action looking to a conference with the management of the railroad. The revenue obtained by the railroad from the hundreds of shippers and consignees in this city should compel the railroad to make improvements both in the way of highway construction in its yard and also to give Peabody an additional car storage to accommodate at least 50 more cars. To the credit of the railroad officials in the past it must be stated that they have shown a willingness to listen to justifiable complaints looking to improving the local freight service, particularly where more business was bound to follow. The present cramped condition of the freight yard here makes for a handicap to local business that spells a monetary loss to the shippers and speedy action looking to relief should be forthcoming. Here is a chance for the Chamber of Commerce to bring a distinct benefit to the army of Peabody manufacturers and business men.

TABLET FOR OUR BOYS

There is frequent comment made that the city of Peabody has so far failed to erect a memorial tablet in honor of the 1000 men who participated in the world's war. In everything but this, Peabody has done well by her soldiers and sailors and many citizens will agree that it is high time that a definite form of a tablet bearing the inscription of every one of her brave sons is erected to the public gaze. The kind of tablets erected by many cities and towns is not expensive, and placed either in some public square or in front of the city or town hall, shows to the citizens and visitors how well the particular city or town was represented in the conquest to bring liberty to the whole world. The city hall lawn here affords an excellent place for the big tablet which could be illuminated as in other places so that it could be read at night. It would seem that Peabody is warranted in assuming the expense for such a tablet even though it be considered but temporary to be followed by some more lasting kind of public memorial. Let's show the world the list of Peabody men who served their country in the the great war.

The GLORY of WORK

by Angela Morgan

Work!
Thank God for the might of it,
The ardor, the urge, the delight of it—
Work that springs from the heart's desire,
Setting the soul and the brain on fire.
Oh, what is so good as the heat of it,
And what is so glad as the beat of it,
And what is so kind as the stern command
Challenging brain and heart and hand?

Work!
Thank God for the pride of it,
For the beautiful, conquering tide of it,
Sweeping the life in its furious flood,
Thrilling the arteries, cleansing the blood,
Mastering stupor and dull despair,
Moving the dreamer to do and dare.
Oh, what is so good as the urge of it,
And what is so glad as the surge of it,
And what is so strong as the summons deep Rousing the torpid soul from sleep?

Work!
Thank God for the swing of it,
For the clanging, hammering ring of it,
Passion of labor daily hurled
On the mighty anvils of the world.
Oh, what is so fierce as the flame of it,
And what is so huge as the aim of it,
Thundering on through death and doubt,
Calling the plan of the Maker out,
Work, the Titan, Work, the friend,
Shaping the earth to a glorious end,
Draining the swamps and blasting the hills,
Doing whatever the spirit wills,
Rending the continent apart,
To answer the dream of the Master heart.
Thank God for a world where none can shirk,
Thank God for the splendor of work.

ROUND ABOUT

Peabody High's biggest game this season is carded for November 22, when the Tanners will go to Haverhill to tame the Merrimac River tigers on the football gridiron. Coach Gilmore hopes to have his men on the field this coming week and expects to repeat his triumphs of last season when he had one of the best eleven ever to represent the local school.

I observe that J. Ben. Palmer is one of the pillars behind the new organization of an Infantry Company in Salem and is sending out personal appeals to his Peabody friends to aid the project financially. His appeal deserves generous support. Mr. Palmer, father of Capt. Osborn Palmer did his part in the war campaigns and was always ready to do a little more than he was asked to do on committees. It was men of his patriotism that stood behind the boys who had gone to war and the Salem Light Infantry of which he has long been a zealous member is bound to be perpetuated under any new arrangement of militia assigned to various state armories, because of the kind of effort put forth by men like Mr. Palmer.

Apropos of war veterans, what is Peabody as a city going to do to erect a memorial and tablet in honor of the thousand or more Peabody boys who braved the dangers and hardships of war. It must be conceded that Peabody, first in good streets, and with the lowest tax rate of any city in the state, is a bit tardy in this important duty. Melrose war veterans served notice on their city government that they proposed to erect a memorial tablet at their own expense. Similar tablets to what other cities and towns have erected near their city or town halls is in order quickly.

Mathew Meehan, the well known J. A. R. member, who is the sole representative of the Union Post 50 at the National Encampment in Columbus, Ohio, this week had a reunion with his brother, Patrick J. Meehan, of San Diego, Cal. at the convention. The two brothers had not seen each other for 25 years. Both saw much fighting in the Civil War.

"Jim" Fitzpatrick who as one of the early pitchers for A. C. L. put that ball team into the limelight is Captain of the Boston College varsity football team this fall. Louie Urban the A. C. L. catcher was captain of B. C. football team last year.

With an array of nearly 350 dahlias the garden of W. Albert Fifield of Caller st. vies with any in this district for beauty, and the many visitors to the garden tract have been profuse in their compliments on the owner. He has 150 named dahlias and 200 seed dahlias. Some of his plants have reached a height of nine feet, which is believed to be a record in this vicinity this season.

"Kelley Field," one of his 1919 dahlias, measures 8½ inches in diameter. Among his handsome flowers is his R. R. Fifield which is a crushed strawberry raised from seed. Camp Devens, a buff yellow; Priv. A. C. Little, a light shade of shell pink, and Marion B. Fifield, a wax like dahlia of a waxy pink shade are among his most cherished specimens. Mr. Fifield has long enjoyed the distinction of having a handsome garden of dahlias and this season was no exception. He plans to reduce his number next year, retaining but 80 of his best seedlings for 1920.

Music a Necessity.

Music is not one of the luxurious superfluities in our time. It has come to be classed as a necessity. It is, like flowers, the staff of life to the hungry soul upon a pilgrimage. It is in relief to all the strident and discordant sounds made in the fevered industrial rack and turmoil of "man's" fitful uproar mingling with his toll.

Triumphed Over Misfortune.

The famous French artist, Gustave Dore, was born and reared in the shadow of Strasburg cathedral, says Mrs. Betham-Edwards, in "The Heart of the Vosges." At the age of eight years he broke his right arm, but became, as if by magic, ambidextrous. As he lay in bed he cheerily drew pictures all day long with his left hand.

G. O. P MAKING BID FOR ALIENS TO CAST VOTE

The Republican State Committee is making a drive to naturalize all aliens eligible to become citizens. Chairman Angus J. MacDonald of the city committee has received the following explanatory letter:

Boston, Sept. 8, 1919
Chairman, Republican City Com.,
My dear Mr. Chairman:

Sentiment among the returning soldiers is so strongly favorable to the Republican party that it is to our interest as a party organization to help toward the naturalization of those to whom war service has given special privileges in obtaining citizenship.

Congress has extended the provisions for the naturalization of aliens who served in the military or naval forces of the United States during the war until one year after all the American troops are returned. Soldiers and sailors holding an honorable discharge are exempt from the necessity of paying the fee of $4.00 from filing a declaration of intention, and from obtaining a certificate of arrival. They may have their petitions for naturalization heard in the most convenient court exercising naturalization jurisdiction providing that they produce two witnesses to establish the fact that they are the persons named in the honorable discharge certificates and provided, further, that they first appear before a representative of the naturalization service for examination.

I hope you will circulate this information among returned soldiers as widely possible. Assisting alien soldiers to get the right to vote in the country for which they fought is a patriotic as well as party service.

Very truly yours,
FRANK B. HALL,
Chairman

EMPIRE STOCK TO GIVE "SOME ONE IN THE HOUSE"

"Someone in The House" which will be produced at the Empire theatre all of next week is a melodramatic comedy containing all of the necessary elements that go to make up the sort of theatrical entertainment that seems to be in great favor with theatregoers at the present time, those lovers of the drama who like intense excitement and suspense in their theatrical food will find a tasty dish in "Someone in The House."

The story is told in a straightforward manner in which the plausibility is not strained and it is owing to the thorough convincing manner in which the plot evolves the good judgement and complete understanding of human nature which are the tools that all good plays are made with that it surely must appeal to all theatregoers. "Someone in The House" had a very successful run at Knickerbocker where it was first produced and will no doubt register the same emphatic hit when seen here at the Empire.

FRED WALKER WAXES POETIC OVER PEABODY

"You're out!" Moran's landed another game. Adding more lustre to his fame. The Giant rooters steal from their posts. And vanish from sight disheartened ghosts. Sneak like a Bowler with sixty-eight. Charging the loss to the God of Fate. There's no use donning sackcloth and ashes. And the cast-off Stars of the valiant Reds. Looked at Moran and kept their heads.

Let's shift the scene to a dear old spot Where Sport is King and the Fans are hot, Where the Fans are real and the Hot Dogs bark. Out on the diamond at Emerson Park Where the cheering is heard from sea to sea—

Fair Donnellyville! Fair Peabody! Oh! could I join in the good old yell, Oh! could I watch the strong A. C. L. See "Nukie" Abbott out on the line With his wits as sharp as a porcupine, see Ernie Gourley whale out the pill Till it pauses to rest on old Hogg Hill, The abiding-place of a coming man— Good Jim Ray and his Ford Sedan.

Back to the Square—Manning's Paradise—

Where cluster in groups the bowlers wise,

Down the back-stairs to the alleys grand

Where Dan receives with a welcoming hand,

Gives you encouragement, picks out your alley and roots for you hard at every rally.

In the "Kingdom to Come," what a wonderful sight

To meet the old fans in their bowling togs bright,

See Dessie and Dan a pushing the ball With angels all dressed like a masquerade ball.

See Wiggin the cop in asbestos tights, And Nelson the bowler fixing the lights.

Softly floating around (it is hard to believe).

Janip Reynolds is serving a barrel of Bevo.

While good Arthur Sim, a king in his station,

Takes the whole push a year on probation.

The Planets are out and the hour is nine.

Some day I'll continue a similar line. I'll quit for this session because it is wise

To show some regard for the Enterpriser.

FRED G. WALKER.

TIME FOR PEACE.

Little boy, little boy, you should not fight that way.

Hold off with your peace talk, lady. One more punch on the nose from me and I'll have this kid ready to listen to you.

WASTING TIME.

There's nothing in making excuses. You're right. I never yet framed one that had the slightest effect on a traffic policeman.

HIS POSITION.

Does you would be done by, my boy. But I don't want to be done by anybody, dad.

SAFETY FIRST.

Why are you putting that muzzle on your little brother?

I'm going to send him to the store to buy me a charlotte russe.

Pauline Frederick Sure To Please In "One Week of Life"

Ethel Clayton's new picture "A Sporting Chance," which will be shown at the Strand today and Saturday, was founded on "Impulses," a story which appeared in a recent issue of the Snappy Stories Magazine. Carey Brent, the part played by Miss Clayton, is an impulsive girl who gets a "hunch" and acts upon it without reflection. So when she employs as her chauffeur a man she believes to be an escaped convict, in order that she might reform him, she opens the door to thrilling and unexpected adventures. Jack Holt heads a sterling supporting cast which includes Herbert Standing and Margaret Green. Mr. Holt played the part of Lord Raa in "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," which pleased so many when played at the Strand a few weeks ago. Marie Walcamp in the last episode but one of the popular Universal serial "The Red Glove" will be the second big offering for today. Those who have seen any of the previous chapters will want to see this episode. "Dangerous Nan McGrew" a Christie comedy with a laugh a minute upholds the comedy end of the program.

Tom Moore, the brilliant young Irish star, will be presented Sunday evening in "Just for Tonight," a Goldwyn picture that tells the story of a fighting lad who wouldn't stay down. Louise Huff in "Heart of Gold" will be the other photoplay attraction for Sunday. Mr. Chet Potter will be presented again this Sunday in an entire new program of selections. As Sunday programs come and go this one stands out like an oasis in a very dry spot and the Strand will be a mighty popular place all evening.

Pauline Frederick, the distinguished emotional artist, will be offered Monday and Tuesday in Cosmo Hamilton's sensational novel "One Week of Life." Mr. Hamilton's story affords her a role, a dual role in fact, the counterpart of which has never been seen on the screen before. As Marion Roche, a girl who comes from a little town in Ohio to study art in New York, Miss Frederick creates a role that will long be remembered by her many admirers. Marion is confronted by a startling situation, namely that she takes the place of a certain Mrs. Sherwood, whose counterpart she is, that this harassed woman may go away from her drunken husband for a week to visit her boy. No harm will come, she is told, inasmuch as the Sherwoods seldom, if ever, see each other. She will be doing the mother a great act of kindness and so she consents to the proposition. Mr. Hamilton is never conventional in his writings and in the present story he has evolved a plot that fairly teems with originality and bristles with extraordinary situations. Also Miss Frederick wears some stunning gowns during the run of the picture. Lila Lee in "The Heart of Youth" will be the other feature for Monday. Anita Stewart in "A Midnight Romance" will be shown Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Stewart is a prime favorite all over the country and the news of her appearance here in Peabody will be hailed with joy.

EVENING CLASSES FOR THE AMBITIOUS DAY WORKER.

Young men and women now holding positions which offer little in the way of salary or opportunity and whose financial circumstances will not permit them to give up their positions to prepare for something better, may well be encouraged by the splendid results attained by hundreds of young people in the Lynn Burdett evening classes. These classes also make it possible for high school students, by taking advantage of their evenings, to be ready, or nearly so, for good secretarial and accounting positions in business or Civil Service.

Every year hundreds of young people greatly improve their positions and their earning capacity by attending Lynn Burdett evening classes. Many of them made greater progress in two years after graduating than they had previously made in five years. What is more important, most of them freed themselves from ruts which offered practically no opportunity for future development. The number of high school students who, by attending these evening classes, were ready to accept good positions immediately upon the close of the public school year is very large. Lynn Burdett evening sessions are conducted three times a week—Monday, Wednesday and Friday—from 7 to 9 p. m. The same course of study, the same faculty and the same equipment are at the disposal of the evening classes and at considerably lower rates of tuition. At Lynn Burdett, the evening student has every opportunity of the day student.

It has been the experience of Lynn Burdett that employers feel very kindly toward evening school graduates. The very fact that a young man or young woman has the ambition to get ahead to the extent that he or she is willing to sacrifice part of his or her leisure for self-improvement, is a recommendation which employers are not slow to recognize. Statistics clearly prove that evening school graduates have no difficulty whatever in attaining the same success as day school students.

OUT FOR SENATOR.

Capt. Thomas L. Wood of Haverhill who is contesting the renomination of Senator Nason was in Peabody this week lining up his strength for the primary. He is a graduate of Cornell and Boston University Law School. He enlisted in the infantry in May, 1917, and won his shoulder straps in France with the Rainbow Division, being discharged with the rank of Captain in the 168th Infantry.

Appeal To Business Men To Get Behind Light Infantry Co.

Sept. 5, 1919.

Gentlemen:—

The Salem Light Infantry came into existence in 1805 and has had an honorable career up to the present time—latterly as H. Co. 8th Regt. Mass. National Guard, but during the recent war the Co. was all split up and the men assigned to various commands.

Anticipating that the National Army will soon be demobilized, and the present Mass. Home Guard disbanded, and a new Mass. Volunteer Militia formed, the Salem Light Infantry Veteran Association intend to recruit a new Infantry Co. in Mass. Volunteer Militia with headquarters at the Salem Armory.

These recruits will mostly be H. Co. men and come from Salem, Beverly, Peabody, Ipswich, Danvers, Topsfield, etc.

This Company will logically be the first Infantry Co. called upon to reinforce the police in this locality for any cause.

To accomplish the above and give a welcome home to the men who were members of the Active Co. at the time war was declared, the Veteran Association will give them an outing on Sept. 24, at Hap Ward's at Lynnfield, which is opposite the field on which the 8th Mass. N. G. regiment was mobilized for U. S. service.

Knowing that Manufacturers and Merchants will be most deeply interested in having an Infantry Co. located near their property in these troublous times, the Finance Committee, (of which the writer is a member) extends an invitation to them to contribute to the expense of the proposed entertainment which will amount at least to $1500.

The Committee wish to interest more people in numbers than in amount of subscriptions, and so show the new Co. that many take an interest in it.

It is suggested that the smaller establishments contribute not less than $5 each, or he larger ones not more than $25 each with the exception of a few who will not wish to draw a check for less than $50.

If you wish to contribute, please make check to Major Horace S. Perkins, Treasurer Salem Light Infantry Association and mail to me not later than Sept. 15th.

Very truly yours,

J. BEN. PALMER.

171 Lowell st.,
Peabody, Mass.

The following contributions to the above cause have been received in Peabody to date:

Conway Leather Co.	25.00
The Morse Blacking Co.	15.00
Wm. A. Shea	10.00

United Shoe Machinery Co.	50.00
A. C. Lawrence Leather Co.	50.00

City Electrician O'Keefe was 100 per cent efficient last night when he persuaded the Council to refuse to issue any more permits to move buildings through the streets. He charged that the city stood a loss of $400 every time a building was moved because of the cutting of wires.

On motion of Councillor Horrigan, chairman of the claims committee, women who are asking damages from the city for injuries caused by defective sidewalks were informed that they should sue the contractors responsible for the obstructions.

Following a conference with Supt. Gray of the Bay State it was stated in the Council last night that a 10-cent fare between Lynn and Peabody may be forthcoming soon.

from 5.45 a. m. to 4 p. m. on Sept. 23, according to an election order read last night and published elsewhere in this paper.

Councillor Ryan put it up to the police department last night to put a stop to fast speeding in Peabody Sq. when he got up to introduce an ordinance.

Councillor Hogan got the Council to request Chief Barrett of the fire department to show why his department answered still alarms sent in by the A. D. T., a private corporation. He cited the needless call two weeks ago when Henry Eager of Holden st. was killed by the chief's car going to the Morrill Leather Co. on a still alarm by the A. D. T. service.

Councillor Jones who came back from Goffs Falls, N. H. to attend the meeting last night, got after the city authorities for no having red lanterns on the traffic posts throughout the city. The city engineer was requested to take action.

Councillor Hogan got after the committee on a memorial tablet for the soldiers and sailors last night by insinuating they were not on their job. He thought it high time that a tablet should be erected. Councillor Brown, chairman of the committee, said the committee were not asleep, and would soon be able to report something.

GET RESULTS FROM WARD 3

Through the efforts of Councillor Charles H. Cotton of Ward 3, the highway department will resurface Aborn st. from the Salem line to the end of the new Hassam pavement at Osborne st. The work will be commenced in the very near future.

Residents of Aborn st. can thank Councillor Cotton for his efforts to get a right of way from their street to Main st. which by vote of the City Council last night will soon be opened for travel by pedestrians. Later a highway will be laid out. The purchase of the Sutton home by Councillor Walter H. Brown paved the way for the city to acquire the land for the benefit of the Aborn st. residents. Councillor Cotton has worked hard to please his constituents in this matter and now sees success crown his efforts. The Council last night authorized the city solicitor to draw up the legal papers making an 18-foot right of way.

The Grange is conducting a lunch booth at Rockdale Park this week serving hot coffee, frankfurts, sandwiches and pies. Opening very early in the morning is greatly appreciated by those who are obliged to be at the park all the time. Mrs. Cross is chairman of this hustling committee, who are true grangers, by their pleasing greetings which are winning all who patronize them. When visiting the park, be sure and look for the booth.

Merely Nominal Right.

The freedom of the city of London carries with it, nominally, at any rate, the right to keep pigs in the parish of St. James, Piccadilly. But even were any one disposed to avail himself of this liberty, and if the sanitary authorities failed to object, land in that part of London is somewhat too costly for profitable pig-farming.

COUNCILLOR BROWN BUYS GEN. SUTTON ESTATE LONG USED AS OLD LADIES HOME

SUTTON HOME FOR AGED WOMEN.

Councillor Walter H. Brown has purchased the Sutton Home for Aged Women for investment and will take possession just as soon as the old Thatcher estate, corner of Sewall and Holten sts.
is ready for occupancy by the inmates of the Sutton Home.
Papers in the big realty transaction will not be entered until the newly acquired home for the aged women is completed at the hands of the contractors but it is believed that the Sewall st. estate will be ready for occupancy by October 1.

The General Sutton estate, easily land, with majestic pines and rare one of the finest mansions in Peabody, trees. It commands an excellent view. Money was not spared in its construction. Councillor Brown says he has bought the place for investment and it is possible that a well known Peabody organization may lease the property later. It would make an ideal club home. Its land runs to 10,000 Men In Labor Day Parade Here

Ten thousand labor union men and women will form in the big Labor Day parade in this city Monday and march to Salem where the Mayors of Salem, Peabody and Beverly will review them. John P. O'Connell of Salem is chief marshal of the parade and has completed all details for the big affair which will surpass anything of its kind ever presented in this section of the county.

John J. Shea, organizer of the Leather Workers' Union will be marshal of the second division. John J.
O'Brien of the street laborers' union of Peabody is one of the chief aides of division seven. There will be seven bands and three drum corps in the procession and a number of floats are anticipated.

The parade will begin to form shortly after 9 o'clock on Central, Lowell, Chestnut, Church and Foster
sts. and begin the parade for Salem over Boston, Essex to Town House Square and thence to the Common where the exercises will be held.

The Leather Workers' Union numbering over 300 in line will head the second division. Many Peabody union men will be seen in division six which includes the metal trades and machinists union. In division five, the employees of the Danvers Bleachery will be a feature. The Millwrights' Union will find many Peabody men in division four.

Mayor Donnell will signal the start of the procession at 10 o'clock.

Past Grands of Holten lodge of Odd Fellows will attend the annual convention of the Grand Lodge in Boston next Thursday.

FIRE AUTO KILLS EAGER

A needless still alarm from the Morrill Leather Co. last evening cost the life of Henry A. Eager, a well known leather worker, when he was cut down on Main st. by the chief's red car of the fire department driven by Daniel Hannon who was responding to the fake alarm.

Mr. Eager appeared to become dazed and while the driver, Hannon, did his best to avert an accident the big touring car struck the victim, breaking several of his ribs and arm and he died shortly after he was hurried to the J. B. Thomas hospital.

The still alarm is said to have been from another instance of a special wire alarm service which nine out of 10 times prove to be merely defective wires with no blaze in sight.

The accident occurred shortly before 8.30 and Mr. Eager who was crossing the street for his

CITY HALL GOSSIP

If you perchance to see Building Inspector Michael H. Bresnahan operating an automobile accompanied by a policeman, don't be alarmed for the "B. I." is just getting back to the motor sport after a layoff of some years. Special Officer Jack Keane is instructor. Once Bresnahan owned an auto and one day near Pilling's Pond, Lynnfield, it got into the mud and refused to budge. The machine was only extricated from the mire by a dray horse borrowed from some nearby farmer. Since then the "B. I." has walked. Here's another customer for the Municipal garage.

Cyrus Tenney, now living in West Peabody, who is a booster for that district, and "Bill" Sheen, the owner of the lot of land which holds up the straightaway course of Ellsworth road. The highway is in good shape for travel from Perkins st. and from King st. on the other side. The city should take this land by right of eminent domain. It was stated in this column last week that the piece of land was owned by Perkins Park Land Company.

Councillor Walter H. Brown, who is one of the deputy sheriffs of Essex county, has taken desk room in the office of Attorney E. A. Hershenson, O'Shea block.

"Sergt." William J. McMannus of the police force is acting chief of police in the absence of Chief Grady now on vacation tour.

Tuesday is the last day when poll taxes may be paid without fines. Collector Hershenson advertises this fact in the Enterprise this week. Already $4000 has been paid in making a total of about 80 per cent of the whole amount assessed. War veterans of both the civil and the world's war must present their tax bills to have them abated. The statute directs that the collectors of taxes must assess the veterans when all other voters are taxed but the abatement is in order by personal request.

Now that the police court has been removed from the city hall basement there will be less crowding necessary on the part of the citizens who make the police barracks their library and gossip food. (We refrain from being personal.)

Aborn st. will be completed to the Salem line next year, this being one of the first highway construction jobs to be awarded after the new budget is made up early in 1920. Tremont st. will be another street to be completed to the Salem line next year also.

Lynn and Salem appear to be waking from their slumbers. Lynn is building a new macadam roadway from the Peabody line to Wyoma Sq. and Salem is about ready to make Boston st. passable from the Peabody line to Blubber Hollow. Peabody has blushed both cities into action.

Councillor Sullivan is admittedly "pro bono publico" for as a member of the committee to handle the sale of the army food he was kept so busy seeing that the public got the goods that he failed to have some reserved for his own home until all of the supplies were sold. He hopes to see another load of goods brought here.

when he will probably make his own purchases.

Not all political aspirants can send their father after votes this year in Peabody and for the reason that Republican voters cannot enter the Democratic lists at the primaries. It is going to be interesting to watch the success of some of the brazen candidates in this particular this year.

Forces unfriendly to Councillor Hogan of Ward 4 are said to be advancing the name of a rival candidate for the city primaries to represent the Eastend section in the halls of municipal legislature. Meanwhile "Dennie" is sawing wood, running things in general in the Eastend and confidently expecting to be renominated.

Councillor Reed of Ward 5, the man responsible for the shaping of the new playground for that section on Endicott st. on the land formerly used for the town stone crusher, is much pleased with the way the city authorities are making good the project. The land is being filled and smoothed off and great progress has been shown already this summer.

One of the squares which will be named for some Peabody war veteran is that at Pike and Whipple's on Andover st. A pretty parkway could be laid out there at little expense and the commercial name now applied to the section could well be changed to commemorate the sacrifice of some war hero.

Ralph Basford, the Cupid of the street department, is once more on his feet as teamster having recovered from a sprained ankle.

Roger Macdonald is acting city engineer in the absence of Frank Emerson now enjoying a short vacation from his duties.

Supt. Robinson of the school department returned this week from a vacation spent in Warren.

State Officer William Murray of Lynn has been investigating a case in Peabody this week.

Alfred A. Hall, constable, dog officer, member of the Board of Health and newly named custodian of the new county court house in this city, is leading city officials in the number of titles, it would seem. He is easily one of Peabody's busiest officials and always wears a smile.

Donnell's Campaign Full of Pep

Mayor Donnell is making heavy inroads in his campaign and assurances of support for the Peabody man are convincing his sponsors that he is most likely to gain the nomination for District Attorney in his contest with the present incumbent, Hon. Henry Wells. Lynn workers are multiplying rapidly and an office in the Lynnford building, Central Square, Lynn, is opened today by the Donnell campaign committee. Mayor Donnell addressed two good sized rallies in Wyoma and Glenmere Squares last night.

Essex county editors are giving the Peabody Mayor plenty of newspaper space and several unsolicited letters from some of the largest newspapers in northern Essex assure Mayor Donnell of support.

Not for years has any such a campaign of publicity been waged as is being espoused by the Donnell campaign committee and Donnell literature has literally plastered the whole of Essex county. The face of the fighting Peabody Mayor is broadcast face to face with the voters who like pep in candidates.

Many prominent Lynn Republicans are lining up their influence for the Peabody candidate and Mayor Donnell feels confident that he will carry the Shoe City. It is probably true that Donnell has many more friends in Lynn than has Dist. Atty. Wells. The vote in Lynn is sure to announce the winner of the contest.

A.C.L. Hot After These Two Games

With the best team that has yet represented the A. C. L. in the field, Managers Quinlan and Abbott are all ready to invade West Lynn tomorrow and grab a game from the cocky Cornet All-Stars and thereby even up the series which has been standing in favor of the Lynn team for two weeks. Fight will be the watchword of the Tanners from the start, and they promise to be in the game every moment pulling their hardest for a victory. They realize that a defeat tomorrow blackens their hopes for the championship title, and will take every chance offered to pull over a win.

Billy Harrington is said to be as good a pitcher as has faced the Cornets this year, and as he has a large following in Lynn, having played with the New England League a few seasons ago, he will be a big drawing card. He will have a great team behind him, including Gourley, Rowe, Dempsey, Urban, Murphy and Gildea. One or two new players have been signed up, and will probably be heard from during the game. One of the newcomers is named Barcroft, and has the reputation of being a second Babe Ruth at the bat. Barcroft is an outfielder and will be seen in the left garden. Dignan, the big twirler who showed so well against Salem last week, will be on hand as relief pitcher and pinch hitter, and may break up the game by one of his long hits in the ninth.

Special cars will leave Foster st. every few minutes from 1.45 to 3.00 o'clock and will go direct to the ball grounds at Little River park, West Lynn and return. Those who followed the team to Salem last week will appreciate this feature, as the service was very good and added to the pleasure of attending the game.

The Cornets have been spending this week in camp, and will be full of pep and confidence, but the A. C. L.'s promise to knock it out of them early in the game.

Labor Day afternoon the Salem team comes to Emerson Park, and Frank Donovan promises to bring half of the population of Salem up with his team. Ray Somerville vs. Billy Harrington will be a pitcher's battle worth going miles to see. A. C. L. got to Somerville pretty strongly last week, and think that they can solve his stuff for a bunch of hits on Labor Day.

The holiday game will start at 3.15, and will be the first game on the home grounds since Aug. 16. From now out it is planned to play nearly all of the games at home, including the rubber game with the Cornets. Dave Shean, Wescott the mighty, Devlin, Marty Donovan, Gilligan and Merritt are some of the Salem stars who will be seen in action on the holiday. A great crowd is expected to be on hand, especially if the teams both A. C. L. plans on evening up series win on Saturday. Salem plays Manchester the rubber game of their series tomorrow, and if they lose will be eliminated from the race for the title.

So far the only team that has been thrown out of the running for the championship is the United Shoe, who have been beaten in three game series by Manchester and A. C. Lawrence. Manchester and Salem are tie, Cornets and Marblehead are even, while

If Manchester wins from Salem, a series will probably be arranged with them. Peabody fans will have some great baseball over the two and a half day layoff.

LYNN-PEABODY TROLLEYS

There is growing dissatisfaction at the change of route for the Peabody-Lynn electric cars from Washington street to Foster street and it doesn't appear at all plain to the residents of Washington street how best the trustees of the nearly bankrupt road can afford to continue to keep its Lynn cars off of the more thickly populated district. From Peabody Square to the Bleachery hardly a single passenger is anxious to board the Lynn car, while frequent stops on Washington street witnessed numerous passengers. South Peabody workmen who are employed in Peabody are inconvenienced and made to walk some distance from the Square. The chief complaint as voiced apparently is from the populated streets off of Washington street for many residents who patronized the Lynn-Peabody cars are compelled to walk from Foster street to their homes. If the Bay State thinks to injure the jitneys by this change of route it has done quite the opposite, since the jitneys get the trade on Washington street. As the Enterprise has said before the way to beat the jitneys in the opinion of many citizens would be to make a 10-cent fare between Lynn and Peabody without transfers. More filled trolleys would unquestionably be recorded between the Shoe and Leather cities if this 10-cent fare was inaugurated. Why not try this scheme, Messrs. Trustees?

AN ACT REGULATING THE SALE OF ALCOHOL

Chapter 360, General Acts of 1919
Whereas, the evils sought to be remedied by this act are such as to require its operation as promptly as it is consistent with justice, accordingly it is hereby declared to be an emergency law, necessary for the immediate preservation of the public safety and convenience.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. No person, firm or corporation other than a registered druggist shall engage in this Commonwealth in the business of manufacturing, buying, selling, or dealing in methyl alcohol, or wood alcohol, so-called, or denatured alcohol, or any preparation used for manufacturing or commercial purposes which contains more than three per cent. of any of the said alcohols, and is intended for use other than as a beverage, without being licensed so to do by the board of health of the city or town where the business is conducted.

Section 2. The board of health of each city or town may issue licenses hereunder, upon the payment of a fee of one dollar, to such persons as it shall find to be properly qualified to carry on the said business. The licenses shall expire on April thirtieth of each year, and may at any time be suspended or revoked, for cause, by the board. The board shall keep a record of all such licenses.

Section 3. Every container of methyl alcohol or wood alcohol, so-called, or denatured alcohol, shall bear a label of white paper upon which shall be printed in large red letters the words, DEADLY POISON, the name and place of business of the vendor, and the number of the vendor's license. The label shall also bear in legible type the words, NOT FOR INTERNAL USE. CAUSES BLINDNESS. KEEP FROM THE EYES.

Section 4. The sale of methyl alcohol, wood alcohol, denatured alcohol, or any preparation containing alcohol as described in Section one, by a person not licensed as herein required, or to a minor or to any person without reasonable investigation and inquiry to determine that the same is not to be used for drinking purposes, shall constitute the offense of unlawful sale of alcohol, and may be described as such in any complaint or indictment without more; but a person so charged shall be entitled to a bill of particulars in accordance with section thirty-nine of chapter two hundred and eighteen of the Revised Laws.

Section 5. Violations of any provisions of this act shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offense, or by imprisonment in the house of correction for a term not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

ROUND ABOUT

Some months ago the State Fish and Game Commission stocked the Devil's Dishful with wild duck and the birds may be seen daily majestically paddling on the lake that adorns West Peabody. One day shortly after taking possession of the lake some of the wild ducks paid a visit to the yard of Councillor Walter H. Brown whose estate fronts the water. They came in quest of food and got it. Since then with clock-like regularity the birds have been callers at the Brown estate, mingling freely with the domesticated fowl and getting their share of "grub."

Hail stones which fell during the tempest of last Sunday left their tell-tale marks on squashes in mute evidence of the size of the frozen rain. At the Peabody Institute land on main st. where Jamtor J. Murray Vinson has raised a bounteous crop of vegetables this year, the squashes were indented noticeably.

Details are a bore to many busy men, undoubtedly, but you expect a businessman to know the combination of his safe and among other things his postoffice box number. Still little things like these do get by some busy business men. I overheard a Peabody business man asking a clerk in the postoffice one day this week if he would tell him the number of his letter box.

Peabody teachers must report for duty Tuesday following the holiday and will get things in shape for the opening of the schools on Wednesday. Peabody is more fortunate than other cities where resignations of teachers have assumed alarming numbers.

Some ex-school teacher would do well to open a kindergarten in Crow Village district, it would seem, judging from the number of youths whose parents would undoubtedly supply the requisite number of pupils to make the venture worth while. Here's a chance for some enterprising teacher.

Peabody barbers are agitating 50-cent hair cuts and 20 cents for hirsute adornments and they predict that the master barbers must emulate to example of Beverly in this newest raise in prices.

Boniface Daniel J. Manning, the man with a "million dollar smile," has been regaling his health at Rial-side this past week, so I am informed, and trying his luck at flounders et al, too numerous to mention. He's had a real vacation, one of the first in many months.

Charles "Gus" Littlefield, leather expert with the S. S. Littlefield Leather Co. qualifies as King of Turkey(ville) up in Boxford, so I understand, and proof of the assertion is the fact that he has a brood of seven weeks' old gobblers being primed for the greater American holiday next November. He has 40 of the specimens left after losing a number by the ravages of the barnyard at his country place. Turkeys are not his whole line, however, for he has a bumper crop of potatoes. His place is near the railroad station and both he and his brother Frank are B. & M. commuters for the summer months.

Former superintendent of streets Charles H. Hooper has presided over several "court settings" in "Judge" Gardner's harness shop this week following his arrival from the glorious haunt of Hollywood, California, where he emigrated some few years back. He is looking in excellent health and is full of pep and praise for his new bailiwick. He is through with politics.

STRONG MEN WEEP SAYS DR. DAVIS

Former Red Cross Commissioner Tells of Recent Trip to Poland.

FOUND CHILDREN STARVING.

American Jews Raising $35,000,000 to Save Survivors—Plan to Aid Christians as Well as Own People.

"The tragedy of the next few months in Eastern Europe bids fair to equal, if not to surpass, that of the actual war years themselves. Words are utterly inadequate to describe the suffering from poverty, starvation, disease and other allied causes that is met on every hand. Literally hundreds of thousands of the unfortunate victims of circumstances are looking to America as their only hope, but it is a question if America has not heard so much of suffering in recent months that she is numbed and perhaps cannot fully realize the terrible crisis that now confronts vast numbers of people abroad."

The above gives in brief the carefully considered opinion of no less an authority than Dr. Halm I. Davis, well known neurologist of Chicago, who returned a short time ago from Poland, where he served for some months as American Red Cross commissioner and made an intensive study of economic, social and political conditions with a special view to determining America's present and future responsibilities. At the request of Louis Marshall, Felix M. Warburg, Jacob H. Schiff of New York, Julius Rosenwald of Chicago and other prominent members of the American Jewish Relief Committee, Dr. Davis submitted a special summary of conditions in Poland. This report, together with additional information secured from other commissioners abroad, forms the basis for the appeal which the above committee is making for $35,000,000 this year to save the lives of war's victims in those countries where the situation is most dire. The headquarters are at 15 East 40th Street, New York.

"If America could be given but a glimpse of the childhood of Poland," says Dr. Davis, "the millions of dollars that are needed would be forthcoming instantly. The common lot of literally thousands of these youngsters, both Christian and Jewish, makes strong men weep and has actually been the cause of a number of investigators for various organizations leaving the country before their work was completed."

"Walk down the streets in certain sections of Warsaw, Vilna, Kovno and other cities in Eastern Europe and you will see mother after mother, themselves emaciated, carrying children who are apparently infants of a few months, but in reality are five to eight years old. For years they had no milk, and all the other food procurable has been sufficient only to keep them alive. Undernourishment has been so long continued that the little bodies are stunted, rickets being a common affliction, and many of them can never be restored to normal health and strength."

"The lives of thousands can still be saved, however," the doctor told the Jewish Committee in his report, "if food is rushed over quickly."

"It is in the name of the pitiful children of Poland, the babies of Christian as well as Jewish parents, that I urge you to make your appeal to America for the funds that will restore their birthright to these little ones."

"POLLY WITH A PAST."

"Polly With a Past," David Belasco's big N. Y. and Boston success, has been chosen by Mgr. Katzes as the opening attraction for his two big stock companies at the Central Square theatre, Lynn, and the Empire, Salem. "Polly With a Past" last season ran for several months at the Tremont theatre, Boston, and within a few weeks has completed a solid year at the Belasco theatre, N. Y. As light as meringue and quite as refreshing "Polly With a Past" is a play designed solely to amuse. Recognizing elements of permanent popularity in the well of amusingly youthful and refined jealousy, Mr. Belasco has again visited it with a deep and artistically-designed pitcher and drawn therefrom a new supply of ideas from a delightful theme, and presenting these ideas in his accustomed charming and well-bred manner he offers an entertainment that is dainty and sparkling and diverting that will win for it a lasting popularity. There will be two performances at both houses daily, starting with the Monday matinee, Labor Day and continuing for the week. For the second week in Lynn the bill underlined for presentation is "Hit the Trail Holiday," and in Salem "Upstairs and Down."

Timothy and James Roche, two well-known Eastend boys, have been discharged from the war service having served in France. Another brother, Daniel, also returned from overseas service in New York and expects to be home this week.

Monroe Salisbury War Veteran Is Strand's Headliner Tonight

Munroe Salisbury in "The Light of Victory," will be the strong attraction the Strand will offer today and Saturday. This picture is built around the American Navy, the hero being a Naval Officer himself. These naval scenes are real and add greatly to the story which concerns the actions of an officer in the navy who becomes a drunkard, and is finally convicted of treason. Later while in the South Sea Islands he makes amends for his traitorous conduct and redeems himself in the eyes of his countrymen in the most surprising way. Mr. Salisbury is noted as one of the ablest actors appearing in pictures and his portrayal of Lieut. Blanton, U. S. N., is splendid. The other features on this fine program are Marie Walcamp in "The Red Glove" and Mack Sennett's latest comedy "The Dentist." Mr. Chet Potter will appear at the Strand Sunday evening and will render a program of selected xylophone solos. Mr. Potter will present his act at both shows. This feature is offered in addition to the regular program of pictures. Earl Deer Bigger's great war story "Inside the Lines," starring Marguerite Clayton will be the main photoplay attraction. Louise Huff in

Monroe Salisbury in "The Light of Victory"

"The Little Intruder" will also be shown Sunday.

Paromount-Artcraft Week will be celebrated in all the better theatres throughout the country beginning Monday and special programs will be offered at each change of pictures.

For Labor Day and Tuesday, Mgr. Chet Bent, has secured "Secret Service," the most successful drama of the American stage. Major Robert Warwick, who has just returned from active service in France, is starred. The supporting cast which is heralded as the greatest ever assembled for a picture includes Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts, Raymond Hatton, Casson Ferguson, Irving Cummings and "Kid" McCoy. "Secret Service" was directed by Hugh Ford, the man who produced the "Woman in the Moon" and "It is a play dealing with the efforts of a secret service agent of the Union to bring about the capture of Richmond at the time when the city was beleaguered by Federal forces. Undoubtedly it is one of the tensest dramatic stories ever written, or produced. "Among Those Present," with Mack Sennett's funmakers and the Photograph will be the other attractions for the holiday.

Dorothy Gish in her latest photoplay "Nuggett Nell" will be the main feature on the bill for Wednesday and Thursday. It is a satirical comedy of the wild and movie West and Miss Gish is a most enjoyable wild and woolly western girl therein. Teddy, the famous Sennett dog will appear in "Treating 'Em Rough," as the second feature. This dog does stunts that seem hardly credible and does them in a way that shows he is not being forced to do it. Elmo Lincoln in "Elmo, the Mighty" will also be shown on the mid-week change.

The new price list that the Strand was obliged to put forward in order to meet the increased cost of everything connected with the photoplay business is as follows: Rear five rows down stairs and entire balcony thirteen cents plus two cents tax making fifteen cents. Balance of lower floor eighteen cents plus two cents tax making twenty cents. These prices effect the evening shows only as no increases have been made in the matinee schedule. This list goes into effect Labor Day.

Miss Mary Carlin of Tremont st. is spending her vacation at Young's Hotel, York Beach, Me.

Residents of Harris st. are complaining of the presence of refuse barrels which tenants at the corner of Harris and Walnut sts. leave in an unsanitary condition. The barrels contain garbage which prevents the ash collector from emptying them. The attention of the Board of Health has been called to the nuisance.

William Quinn, John O'Leary and Timothy Mahoney were among the passengers on a Bay State car in Marblehead last Sunday afternoon which was struck by lightning and in the panic which ensued the three Peabody men aided women and children to get out of the crowded car.

"Irish night," observed by the East-end table last week was one of the best entertainments ever afforded this section. Miss Theresa Burke, soloist, was one of the musical features on the program.

John Quinlan, Jr. of the Sheepskin Dept. is spending his annual vacation at his home in Salem.

The work of teaching English to foreigners, which was interrupted by the hot weather, will be resumed next month on a larger scale than last season. Extra teachers will be engaged, and it is expected to open 10 classes of 15 men each. The work is carried on under the direction of a special committee at the plant with the cooperation of Mr. Robinson, Supt. of schools. The company is bearing all the expense of the plant.

Many of the folks at the plant will take extended trips over the holiday. The plant will close down until Tuesday morning, giving a nice vacation period of two days and a half. Several motor trips are being planned by the automobilists, and the frequenters of the beaches are hoping for some nice weather over the holiday.

Several members of the local Moose lodge will take in the outing at Centennial Grove tomorrow. Quite a few of the lodge officials are employed at the plant.

Essex Fair At Rockdale Looms Big

From the large field of entries being sent in for the Essex County Fair next month at Rockdale Park the public is going to find one of the best attractions of this kind ever staged in Essex county. Particular interest is being manifested in the women's activities and entries in this department have been very generous up to date. Mrs. Jesse Barrett is chairman of the committee having this in charge. Prizes for the most antique exhibit are bound to bring out some worth while curios.

Essex County Day will be Sept. 10, the second day of the fair, and Governor's Day will conclude the program on Sept. 12. Manager Cann has sent invitations to all Essex county mayors and officials of cities and towns. It is probable that Sept. 11 will be called Peabody Day. The headquarters of the fair are in the O'Shea building where the clerks are receiving many applications for entries.

Edward Boxwell of Sutton st. is resting comfortably at the Salem hospital following an operation.

J. Williams has leased the store at 88 Main st. opposite Washington st. and is displaying a nice line of dry goods together with school dresses for the little girls.

BIG LEATHER BOOM IS PREDICTED FOR PEABODY

By "ENERGY"

Another sale of tannery property has been recorded, and this time Cornelius J. Fitzpatrick announces his retirement from the business. Mr. Fitzpatrick has long enjoyed the reputation of being an expert on white alums. He made this line his specialty. This property is a combination of three former plants. Two of them were small currying shops making heavy leather. The other was the George Clerk property who was a pioneer in the sheepskin industry. By making the two currying shops into one building, a factory of good proportions capable of handling 300 hundred dozen of sheep was accomplished. The Triangle Leather Company who are supposed to be the power behind the throne in this deal, is composed of Messrs. Verza, Wolfel and Steinharter, a Massachusetts corporation. Mr. Verza has become a factor in the Peabody leather business in a comparatively short time. Mr. Wolfel has accomplished wonders in his line of embossing leather, and has the wherewith to do things. The large demand for leather that is cheap has made the art of refinishing leather a busy one. It seems almost out of reason that leather that has been finished can be improved in appearance as can this corporation re-finish it. There is land enough connected with this deal to build more buildings, and Peabody hopes to see it accomplished.

Talking with several prominent tanners here, I find that all feel that a break in prices is liable to occur at any time. They have no definite knowledge as to how this break will come about, but they are playing the game as close as possible, always expecting when it comes, a big loss stares them in the face. Stocks in factories are sold as a rule, and by playing this way, they hope to keep their losses down. There may not be a break in prices for months to come. Personally I cannot see anything in sight to warrant such a feeling. But I credit these men with knowing much more than I do, and they are liable to know of conditions, which they will not give out.

It would be a serious problem to have stock drop as it has risen. It would mean nothing less than a panic in the leather business, and those of us who have witnessed panics know what it means. The biggest fellows would weather the storm, but the others who had leather at stake, would be like crafts rammed by German submarines, lucky if they escaped with their lives.

Meanwhile, all the shops in Peabody are busy, from the A. C. Lawrence Leather Company to the little fellows buying pieces and converting them into leather fit to cut into shoes. If England lifts the embargo on shoes and leather as it is promised they will in a short time, there will be a big flow of the precious stuff to that country, which would only mean more shortage. Such prices as are promised for shoes this winter, will make most of us walk on our uppers and then some. How many of us will pay $20.00 for two shoes? They tell us this is or will be the price of a good shoe made by reputable manufacturers. Then clothing, both under and over will represent a sum up to $100, so that most of us will be wearing apparel that will be tempting to the highwayman. It seems to me that nude men will be found in the suburbs for the reason that their clothing includes shoes, looked tempting to some bigger fellow, and it was worth the trouble to take it.

We do not make automobile leather here. That is one kind of leather that Peabody tanners have not dabbled in for what reason I know not. I am told that little of this kind goes into even the high priced automobiles today. The price is prohibitive. If this is general, I am wondering what Newark tanners are doing with their product. One of the most interesting processes to me in the leather industry, is the splitting of these big hides into five thicknesses. It is a slow process. Formerly all were split on Union machines. This does not mean that this machine was unionized, but given that name by the inventor for some reason unknown to myself. The leather measuring 60 yes 70 feet to the hide, was pulled through this machine by hand and came out to the required thickness. The first process was to level the hide by taking a split from the flesh side. Then the grain was taken off about the thickness of heavy paper. The balance was then split to what ever thickness wanted, all according to the thickness of the hide and what was needed. It took three men to do the trick and few hides were finished in a day. When the belt knife came in, the progressive tanners did away with the union machine. However it is still used for specialties. Newark may have become up-to-date of late years, but 10 years ago, they made leather as did their ancestors before them. It was a common sight to see leather drying or sunning in the gutters of much used thoroughfares, collecting dust and cinders. I trust much of such practices have been eliminated in the past few years.

Such times as we are going through, present big chances for the man who desires to start in business. There were never before so many small places, barns, yes any old place with a roof, doing business as today. It has always been the rule that these fellows come and go with the tide of production, but they have come right now. High prices have made it possible to buy and sell any old leather at a profit, and no doubt out of this large number, some have come to stay, which means well for our city.

COUNCILLOR BROWN BUYS OLD GEN. SUTTON ESTATE

COUNCILLOR BROWN.

The transaction looking to the transfer of the property was negotiated with the trustees of the Sutton Home and Mr. Brown direct. The price agreed on is not announced. The property which as a charitable institution has not been taxed was assessed in 1916 for $8000, land and buildings.

Gen. Sutton, the original owner, was president of the North Andover woolen mills for years. He was also chief of the old call fire department in Salem for 30 years. He was elected to the legislature and senate and was a member of the Governor's Council and one of the wealthiest men of the State in his day.

Friends of the Sutton Home corporation are somewhat at a loss to understand why the trustees have seen fit to purchase the Thatcher estate which is no where near as good a home nor is it any larger. There is no comparison between the two places.

RECORD NUMBER OF PUPILS

All school records for attendance in Peabody are slated to be broken next Wednesday when the doors of the public schools admit their pupils. The high school will witness its largest number in history with the total over 600. Last year the opening day found 550 registered at the high school.

There will be a large number of changes in the teaching force. During the summer vacation the following resignations have been received. In the high school, Miss Learoyd, Miss O'Keefe, Mr. O'Brien; Wallis, Miss Hinds, Miss Dennehy, Miss Dempsey; South, Miss O'Grady and Miss Torr leave of absence.

Several of these resignations have occurred during the past week and the list of new teachers is not yet complete. The superintendent is spending this week trying to find experienced teachers for several important places now open.

In the high school Henry A. King of Peabody will take Mr. O'Brien's position in Physics, Miss Elene Masterson will have Miss Learoyd's place in the Dept. of French and it is expected that Henry B. Osborn of Peabody will fill Miss O'Keefe's position.

The present indications are that the enrollment at the high school will be very large this fall. The seniors will occupy rooms 1 and 10; the juniors, rooms 2 and 11; the sophomores, rooms 4, 8, 9; freshmen, rooms 3, 5, 6, 17, 19; sub-freshmen, rooms 7, 12, 15, 16, 18.

Pupils entering the high school from the eighth grade of the grammar schools will report in the assembly hall at 2 o'clock, Tuesday, Sept. 2, to receive instructions.

Auto Kills Henry Eager

home at 37 Holten st. was seen to make an effort to get ahead of the machine. Driver Hannon felt confident the man would stop to let the machine by, but slowed down in his effort to avert the accident. According to Hannon Mr. Eager hesitated almost in front of the machine.

The body was taken from in front of the rear wheel of the machine, showing that Driver Hannon had the auto under good control. The front wheel crushed the victim.

Mr. Eager was born in Kerry, Ireland, Jan. 13, 1862, and came to Peabody in 1889. He married Peabody in 1889. He married Miss Josephine Williams of Beverly in 1892. Agnes, Lillian, John and James are the living children.

The dead man became a member of Kerry (Ire.) lodge of Masons in 1888 and a year later he joined Jordan lodge of Masons of this city. He was one of the first motormen to work on the North Salem trolley car line and later was a boss at the Danvers Bleachery. He had been identified with the leather trade for some years, being employed at the National Calfskin Co.

It is probable that an inquest will be held shortly. No blame is attached to Driver Hannon for the accident. The latter was nearly unnerved by the tragedy.

COUNCIL MEETING

Ordinances fixing the salary of the police and firemen at $1550 a year instead of $425 a day to take effect Sept. 1 were ordered advertised last night in the City Council. Further time was given the committee on water who are debating the kind of a pumping engine to install at the pumping station and the Council voted to have the committee on public property make over the old court room in city hall for the use of the night captain and inspector.

The Tenney electric light system was granted a hearing Sept. 11 on their petition to be allowed to run a line of feed wire from the intake at the New England Sand and Gravel Co. plant in West Peabody over streets in that portion of the city to Danvers where their juice will be sold to the municipal plant of that town.

Thomas H. O'Keefe, local expressman, was drawn as a juror at Lawrence for duty on Sept. 15.

Mrs. M. J. Donovan of 50 Endicott st. filed a claim for alleged injuries caused by tripping over some old pipe left by the contractor on Berry st.

The Peabody Grange asked the Council to supply needed comfort stations at the various playgrounds and the matter was referred to the Park Commission.

By a vote of 6 to 5 liquor transportation licenses were granted, although Councillor McKeen claimed that the Council had no right to grant any and that if the applicants were not bringing in intoxicating liquors they didn't need any permit.

Crest ave. which will be accepted as a street will probably be named Walsh st. in honor of James F. Walsh who was killed in action. Walsh is said to have been one of the youngest boys to enter the war from this city.

The Council protested last night the action of the Bay State in transferring its Lynn cars from Washington st. and the chair appointed a committee to wait on the trustees of the road. Acting City Solicitor Fay gave it as his opinion that the Bay State road was about ready to discontinue its Lynn-Peabody service through lack of patronage.

A committee was appointed on the motion of Councillor Ryan to revise the old town by-laws relating to plumbing and building and other departments. The chair appointed Messrs. Ryan and Sullivan to act with the City Clerk and City Solicitor. Councillor Ryan got after the health department on the deplorable condition of the brooks which he inti-

School Opening

In the A. B. & W. Shoe Shop there are shoes made especially for children 2 to 5 years (sizes 6 to 8); shoes made especially for children 4 to 6 years (sizes 8½ to 11); for children 6 to 9 years (sizes 11½ to 2), and for children 9 to 18 years (sizes 2½ to 7).

The question of the proper making and fitting of children's shoes is one that must be solved by careful study and experience. We make a specialty of fitting children's shoes.

The proportion of each size must be scientifically worked out to keep pace with the natural growth of the foot. Not only are the lengths and widths of the feet of a young child different from the older boy or girl, but all the proportions are different. The toe, the arch, the heel, the ankle and the instep all develop differently, therefore mothers, when buying shoes for their children should consider these important points and buy children's shoes in a shop where children are not left to the mercy of a size range.

BLANKETS CAUSE GREAT BIG HOWL

There's a tremendous howl at City Hall over the sale of army blankets allotted to Peabody. It is claimed that some of the purchasers carried away five and six blankets and a number of applicants including members of the City Council, are not likely to get any unless some more are procured from the government. According to one of the Councillors, some one at City Hall hogged the blankets.

Sensible View of Health.

If a sound mind and rational habits do so much to keep the body sound, and if nature unaided can cure most of our curable ills, life is a fairer deal for all of us than it has sometimes seemed. Of course, it is not so easy as it sounds to put fear and worry, harrowing love affairs and destructive emotions—hatred and envy—out of mind. But if this is done we must do it ourselves. Doctors cannot do it for us, and realization that the matter of health is largely in our own hands must contribute to the wiser order of life.—Chicago Daily News.

Bryant Washburn Is Strand Feature In "Very Good Man"

Bryant Washburn, a favorite here in Peabody, has been provided with one of the best opportunities of his career in "A Very Good Young Man," his latest starring vehicle, which is at the Strand today and Saturday. In "A Very Good Young Man" he plays the part of a young man who has none of the vices which are prevalent in most young men of today, such as flirting, smoking, gambling, drinking and etc. When he proposes to his sweetheart she fears he is too good to be true and that as he hasn't won his wild oats, the bad streak in him might crop out after they are married and spoil their happiness. So she turns him down in spite of her love for him. Then Mr. Washburn in the role of the very good young man decides that the only thing for him to do, in order to win the girl, is to go all the gaits, so to speak. His stunts in trying to acquire a rep as a sure enough devil are very funny. The picture has caught the public fancy in no uncertain manner and has registered a comedy knockout wherever shown. Marie Walcamp in "The Red Glove" and one of Al Christie's comedies "Mary Moves In" will be the other features on this splendid program.

Both Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge appear in "The Way Out" which will top the bill for Sunday evening. These two stars both have corking good roles in this picture and their many admirers will like their work exceedingly. Louise Hull in "Another Dear Charmer" will be the second feature on the Sunday program.

Kate Douglas Wiggin, famous writer of innumerable clever stories and books which have had world wide circulation, wrote "Rose of the River," the new Paramount picture starring dainty Lila Lee which comes to the Strand on Monday and Tuesday. Miss Lee plays the part of a seventeen-year-old girl in a down east settlement and the famous game of "Postoffice" is the beginning of a romance which, after many trials, ends delightfully for the principals. Mary McLaren in "The Amazing Wife" is the other feature the local playhouse will offer on Monday and Tuesday. Miss McLaren plays the part of a young widow who is driven by want to pretend that her husband was a certain young officer killed in France, instead of a ruffian killed in a cabaret brawl, as was actually the case. Of course, the officer wasn't killed at all, and what happens when he comes back and finds a wife whom he had never seen makes one of the tensest emotional dramas in many months.

Charles Ray in his latest picture "Bill Henry" will be shown at the Strand beginning Wednesday, along with Elmo Lincoln in the new serial "Elmo, The Mighty" and the Pathe News.

WANTED—Women, Girls and Boys.
J. S. BARNET & SONS, INC., 128 Boston St., Lynn, Mass. tf

REPORT 5 MILLION DOLLARS VALUATION MAY BE TAKEN FROM PEABODY BY THE STATE

By "ENERGY"

The National Leather Company, with headquarters in Boston, takes over the A. C. Lawrence Leather Company and the National Calfskin Company. Incorporated under the laws of Maine with a capital stock of $30,000,000 and consisting not only of the two local concerns but other tanneries of the Swift interests, it makes an octopus or in other words a competitor of the other large tanning corporations. So far as I can see, it is merely a change in name and will continue to manufacture all varieties of leather as before. I presume the same interests will control the business, and the public will subscribe for the stock of 3,000,000 shares or some less than one half of it.

A concern of this size may add to its capacity in Peabody, or it may be their policy to take away some of the business done here, because of cheaper wages. It is certain that should some of their tanneries produce leather cheaper than can be produced in Peabody, a change will be made. It is liable to mean changes where conditions warrant it, but it seems to me Peabody will only know the difference in name. The change is made as are all changes of big corporations for reasons best known to the few who control them.

Coming as it did at this time, when Congress is making an attempt to lay high prices at the door of all large concerns, some will say no doubt that the change was made to cover past business, as such books could be destroyed. It matters not what has happened in the past on the privateering stuff. All of us have spent that money. What is going to happen is the all absorbing subject. If there are plenty of shoes of the cheaper variety that can be purchased at prices within the reach of the poorer man, I say poorer, for no one need be poor these days, fine. I have no sympathy for the person who refuses to wear a cheap shoe. Such a one should have a lesson given him in economy as to make him realize that money hard earned is worth more than he gives it credit for.

A law has been passed at this session of our legislature which gives Peabody a punch a-la-Jack Dempsey. If I correctly understand this law, we shall have around $5,000,000 taken from our personal valuation. The true valuation of cities and towns does not appear on the records. Massachusetts corporations are not taxed for their stock in trade, and this new law directs that foreign corporations will not be taxed for their stock in trade. I say not taxed, Peabody will get five sixths of whatever the tax commissioner taxes the stock of these corporations, which will not begin to equal the amount received in the past. There are at least five large foreign corporations doing business here and their stock in trade amounts to $5,000,000. It is early to predict what affect this new law will have, but unless expenses are kept down, we shall face a high tax rate in 1920. A problem for next year's mayor.

Again the manufacturers of Peabody will have a chance to exhibit their wares to the public. This time it will be at Rockdale Park where a county fair will be held. This fair in all probability will draw people from over Essex County. It will be a regular Brockton outfit, with all that goes with up-to-date fairs. There will be exhibits from the county over, and as our local merchants have got their stride in the exhibition of the Chamber of Commerce, they will make a good showing. The A. C. Lawrence and National Calfskin Companies have already entered, and with the combination of the two plants under one head, will show their speed much more effectively than at the local exhibit. Circular letters have been sent all who were in the local show, and no doubt most of them will be at Rockdale.

The Snyders are doing a thriving business in the former O'Shea plant. More than 1000 dozens daily are being produced by this concern which means much to Peabody in the money dispensed by the pay roll. There are frequent rumors that T. H. O'Shea will build on the land where his plant was burned. The sheepskin trade is lively, with prices sky high, both for the pickle and finished article. Sheep skin shoes are selling for $6.00 for two, but how the person will feel who purchases these shoes after a little wear is another thought. The nature of the critter does not produce a leather that stands for vamps.

Washington is investigating the high cost of shoes. First, the skins are higher in price than ever before. Whose at fault? The cost of materials, labor and anything in the tanner has jumped ten per cent. The shoemaker is confronted with exactly the same proposition and again labor is one of the factors. Whom shall we lay it to? The jobber makes his profit presumably by percentage, and if he gets the same per cent. as when prices were low, he makes much money. But the retail shoe man has my sympathy. If his store is stocked with high priced shoes, it represents much money. Where will he get off when prices drop, as drop they will some day? Few retailers get rich as every one knows. They are the goats so to speak.

MAYOR DONNELL'S CANDIDACY

Peabody Republicans and independent voters not "tagged" with party affiliation will doubtless be found generously supporting the candidacy of Mayor Donnell for the Republican nomination for District Attorney of Essex County. And for this reason it is rightfully expected that the local demonstration planned in his honor tomorrow evening will find a large turning out of citizens eager to pay tribute to the first Mayor of Peabody. The demonstration will in part be a testimonial to the administration of Mayor Donnell who has built nearly a half million dollars' worth of new streets and sidewalks in his short three years in office and reduced the tax rate at the same time. Praises for Peabody's good streets is broadcast throughout the state and this street improvement goes arm in arm with the praise meted out to Mayor Donnell for his initiative in giving the people of Peabody an administration which has boomed this city in the eyes of its neighbors. Peabody's good streets and tolerant tax rate (this year $18.70, while most cities and many towns are nearer $30.00) are envied by Lynn, Salem and Danvers and other Essex County cities and towns. This is the monument to Mayor Donnell and the thing that re-elected him with the endorsement of the majority of the tax payers and citizens solidly behind the man who was at the helm of municipal government. Mistakes he has made while in office but there are small things, indeed, when compared to the big things that he has done in his administration at City Hall since January, 1917.

The Enterprise has consistently supported Mayor Donnell, reserving the right of honest criticism and friendly suggestions which have appeared from time to time in our columns. That we represented the majority of the voters of Peabody was attested last December when Mayor Donnell was re-elected by a decisive majority of 181 votes. We have seen mistakes in his administration and we have heard the idle insinuation of his enemies, none of whom has dared to come out in the open and publicly utter a word that any honest man would be quick to challenge. The Enterprise has no quarrel with District Attorney Wells, for whom we have a very kind regard, but as a Peabody institution the Enterprise whole heartedly supports Mayor Donnell in his aspirations and the office that has been held so many years by Haverhill lawyers. Mayor Donnell has given us proof of efficiency as an administrative official in his present position and it is only fair to assume that he would carry to the District Attorney's office a system of efficiency that would do credit to Essex County. He has the right to aspire for any public office on his record as Mayor of Peabody and it is to be expected that a grateful citizenship will get behind a man who has done what he has to benefit their municipality. Here's to Mayor Donnell. May he win this fight for county honors.

TRIBUTE TO VETERANS JUST RETURNED

With two Peabody war veterans back from France with the coveted distinguished service medals and each also the proud possessor of the French Croix de Guerre for their valorous deeds, it is fitting and proper that special efforts be made by the Mayor and City Council to pay tribute to these men in the near future and at that time give homage to the hundred odd veterans who have returned home to Peabody since the citizens welcomed back the great bulk of her service men. Among the soldiery to be thus honored are men who fought in the famous Second Division as did the two leading heroes, Corp. John Doyle and Private Francis X. Boyle. Peabody may well afford to emphasize the importance of action by this Second Division which bore the brunt of the attack at Chateau Thierry, Soissons, Belleau Woods, St. Mihiel and the Argonne. The coming welcome home is to the belated warriors who were forced to remain overseas on German soil to insure the acquiescence of the Huns to the peace terms. Doubtless it will find the city giving a banquet to these men at which time a public reception may be held and the citizens afforded an opportunity to shake the hand of Peabody men who have helped to make history in the world's war. We cannot do too much for these veterans. Peabody is to be proud of her distinguished service medal heroes. The Enterprise congratulates Corp. Doyle and Priv. Boyle on the great honors that have come to them for their part in the world struggle. Proud indeed must their parents be of them.

PLAYGROUND INSTRUCTION

Under its present system of playground instruction the city of Peabody might just as well do away with the project of entertaining the kiddies that go to these places for recreation. A lack of funds is justly ascribed to the poor showing made this season in this department together with the fact that hardly any playground lot, save that at Emerson Park, is in any way equipped to carry out the important work that stamps this effort in other municipalities. Not until the City Fathers appropriate sufficient money to adopt a comprehensive system of playground instruction will Peabody be able to get results in this department. Certain it is, from the observance of the several playgrounds, that the money expended is largely spent in vain with results that fall far short of the best purpose of maintaining playlots for the Young Americans. The playground proposition in Peabody is one that must be seriously considered before another year and a worth while program agreed upon that will justify the taxpayers contributing to the project.

Optimistic Thought. Surnames. These are pursued at a less expense than fiction. Surnames began to be used first among the nobility in 1200.

ROUND ABOUT

Workmen employed on the excavation of Lowell st. unearthed a three cent piece bearing the date of 1851.

Kenneth Hill, Tufts College graduate, is Peabody's most constant bather at Devereaux Beach, Marblehead. His record is a daily dip, rain or shine since early in the spring. Hill is learning the leather business at the A. C. L., starting in the beam house.

Chief Grady is telling this story on himself. Sunday accompanied by reserve officer Bernard Gill he set a watch on the Newburyport Turnpike for fast speeders. As they watched for prey a machine came bowling along at better than 30 miles. "Here's one, remarked the chief to his aide and he began to jot down the number. As he was doing this the man at the wheel yelled out "Which way to Salem?" but hardly slowed down while he asked the question. The Chief pointed the way and the machine went out of sight before the Chief had completed his task of getting the number. It is probable that some speeders will be hailed into court in the city's effort to put a stop to fatal accidents at the railroad crossings on the Turnpike.

Some of the prettiest dahlias I have seen so far this season have come from the garden of Charles A. Bagley of Franklin street who every year raises some of the best specimens of this flower grown in this district. Mr. Bagley's recreation is in his garden of which he has reason to feel very proud.

Two girls early in their teens have been employed by the Warren National Bank delivering to the householders the bank's newest savings proposition that of providing the easy means of a worth while vacation. The fact that so many boys have found work this summer has opened a way for energetic girls to find profitable employment. I observe more girls are also carrying newspapers.

It is certain that if Peabody school teachers are to be kept in Peabody the city must assure them of a substantial increase in pay not later than January 1, to be effective from that date. The resignation of Miss Marion O'Keefe, teacher of Spanish in the high school is an instance of a teacher going to another school with additional salary. Miss O'Keefe has proved an efficient teacher. She is a graduate of Radcliffe. She is bound to prove a popular addition to the Lynn Classical faculty.

Lester F. Peabody, Superintendent of the National Calfskin Co. is putting on weight this summer because of his getting close to nature at his summer home in Puntnamville. He finds the atmosphere of the Danvers Highlands conducive, evidently, to good health for the office attaches at the big plant declare he is cultivating a smile that won't come off.

Danvers with its lesser population and vehicles maintains a traffic cop at its square near the Berry Tavern to divert autos and other traffic. A traffic cop in Peabody square at the junction of Foster, Main, Lowell streets and the Square proper would be a move in the right direction. The police officer assigned to the Square district could always be found when needed if he were acting as traffic cop. It would be a pretty good advertisement for Peabody's $30,000 Square, too. I pass this suggestion on to Mayor Donnell and Chief Grady.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Marsden and family of Monson who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Disen, parents of Mrs. Marsden returned to their home yesterday in the western part of the state. Mr. Marsden is a leading jeweler in that town. He was instrumental in getting Rev. George W. Penniman, formerly pastor of the Universalist church, to locate in a parish in Monson.

Daniel J. Hannon driver at fire headquarters was elected sergeant-at-arms at the annual state convention of the Mass. firemen held in Lawrence last week.

Yes, but I don't believe he enjoyed himself at all. He was set down to what was called a good roast.

Big Girl for That.
That tooth was certainly annoying. Miss C., the primary room teacher of the A school, put her finger into her mouth to discover the cause of this annoyance. Ollie, a bright-faced little pupil, noting the act suddenly asked: "Teacher, how old are you?" Choosing to ignore his impertinence she made no answer. He was not to be daunted, however. With an expression of scorn he said: "I know you're over twenty, and just think! still sucking your finger."

Trade Unionists Have Proved Worthy of High Position They Occupy.

When the comparatively few trade unionists of our various communities paraded on Labor day, more than thirty years ago, their motives were questioned in many instances and newspapers gave them scant publicity.

This year, when the hosts of organized labor, now numbering 3,000,000 members, march, they will be acclaimed by those who formerly even denied their purpose.

This changed public opinion has been gradual through constant agitation, education and organization, but it has been quickened the past two years because of organized labor's prompt acceptance of autocracy's challenge against democratic ideals.

Organized labor has not depended upon words to prove its patriotism. Its whole-hearted support of the government in the crisis of war should be sufficient answer to any query on this subject. This support was of the kind that befits men and women imbued with our republic's ideals, and who realize that when a government that is founded on these ideals falls the loss is an individual one for every American citizen worthy of the name.

Organized labor distinguishes between a government that rests on the whim of one man or a small group of men and a government of, by and for the people.

Our 1919 Labor day celebration features this difference between the two systems of government which recently struggled for mastery. The thought behind these systems is older than any nation. In truth, nations are but an incident, but a process, in this struggle of human liberty and advancement versus the ancient theory of government so well illustrated by German Junkerdom.

Organized labor is not a peace movement. While we long for the day of industrial concord, when disputes between capitalists and laborers will no longer feature our industrial life, we refuse to paralyze our movement by surrendering the right to strike against wrong when other methods fail.

Partners in Life's Work.

At this time several aspects of the labor question demand consideration. We need to emphasize the meaning and necessity of labor—to show that it is both a law and a means of service. We need to emphasize the difference between productive labor that performs a service and makes wealth, and unproductive labor that wins wealth away from others and lives upon their toil. We need to emphasize the fact that industry is a partnership, and so it demands the participation of all parties as partners in the enterprises. We need to realize that the relations in industry are human relations, and so it is necessary that the relations of men with one another should be just and brotherly relations.—Exchange.

Sherry Speaks At Lynn Square For Dead Hero

Ex-Rep. Michael J. Sherry, admittedly one of the best platform orators ever to represent Essex county, was the principal speaker at the dedication of "Cosgrove Square", Lynn, last Monday afternoon. The newly named square was formerly known as the Item Plaza. The square is now named in memory of James J. Cosgrove who was killed in action as he was operating a machine gun in France at Chateau Thierry.

The Peabody orator, who will be admitted to law practice next month, was a life long friend and chum of the dead soldier. He paid the dead soldier a splendid tribute. His speech quoted in the Lynn Item was in part as follows:

"Jimmy was a real hero and a volunteer one. He knew what was before him when he enlisted his services under his country's banner to go overseas and he was willing to sacrifice his all for his country and starry emblem. We not only honor him, but we honor those who gave him to this great cause. The real American is the mother who brought this boy into the world in order that he might fight for the flag which stands for democracy and freedom of the world.

"Jimmy's mother is a real mother. Her heart was with him when he enlisted, when he was in the hospital, the dugout, on the firing line and over the top, and it is still with him today, and when she passes to the great beyond she will meet her son again, there to be ever happy with him who sacrificed his life's blood. The city of Lynn should be complimented for naming this square for such a hero and all citizens should always look upon it in memory of him who died for the flag."

Miss Anna Lynch of Ellsworth road has resumed her duties at A. C. Lawrence's after enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

DECLARE ATTY. FOLEY LOOMING LARGE AS PARTY CANDIDATE

Peabody war veterans will be an important factor in the Democratic nomination for Representative this coming month and from their attitude it is pretty certain that Attorney Elmer J. Foley, Boston University law school graduate stands an excellent chance of capturing the caucus. The same strong coterie of Democratic voters who swept Attorney William H. Mahoney into the nomination of his party and later elected him to the House are evidently solidly behind Attorney Foley in the coming campaign.

ATTY. ELMER J. FOLEY

Atty. Foley is assured of a handsome vote in the Eastend or Ward 4 and it is agreed that this ward will have a lot to do in deciding the contest. Ward leaders in the Eastend are behind his candidacy. Wholesale desertions from a rival candidate are said to be lining up for Attorney Foley. Ward 2 Democrats have been urging Atty. Foley to enter the field for the nomination for sometime back or ever since they began to look around for a successor to Rep. Mahoney. Certain it is, that Atty. Foley is making heavy inroads into the hearts of the Democratic voters for this nomination which if he wins and even is defeated by Rep. McVann will place him as the logical man to have the nomination without a contest next year.

As a young lawyer who has already launched a successful business, Atty. Foley by education and temperament is well equipped to represent the city of Peabody on Beacon Hill if elected. Scores of young Democrats are pulling for Foley.

Mr. Frank Penniman,

Publisher Peabody Enterprise,
Peabody, Mass.

Dear Frank and my Peabody friends—It seemed a revelation last month to land in Peabody for an hour and meet so many of the boys of your live city. The Soldier's Monument was still emulating the Statue of Liberty and Jim Ray had not been presented with the Ford Sedan in which he motors through the vales of health. It was a pleasure to meet yourself and to grasp the hand of Dan Manning the optimistic prince of sports and a close pal of the head pin.

I could see that the masterly hand of Donnell was ever vigilant in improving Peabody in many ways, and I came back to New York a more ardent lover of the Leather City than ever.

At times midst the roar of airplanes and the loud voice of industry. I think of all the boys of Peabody—boys who make good in a real American way—many heroes superb and majestic whose names are woven in the folds of the flag of my county, and as the National hand was stretched over your red-blooded city in an appeal for help, I saw the serried hosts of a matchless citizenship boost Peabody "over the top" to the plaudits of an admiring world and the salvos of the stars.

American City! strong and great!
The youngest of the old Bay State!
Honored and loved where true men be,
My Peabody! My Peabody!

happy days of the last few years is as refreshing as an East wind on the way from Neptune's realm and must burst forth in a few lines to communicate with the boys of Peabody.

I see tonight old Peabody square. Tom Keefe and his old nag is there. I hear the hot dogs barking loud Where Danny Manning feeds the crowd.

I hear the yells and fearful din. The Lawrence's score another win. Who is that bunch so sad and blue? Simply my boy the United Shoe. I look ahead a little way

When Dan will stage his little play, And all the alleys will be going For DeEntremont to make a showing.

I hear the bugle blowing loud To call the classic bowling crowd, And they come trailing one by one Some are still good and some are done—

It takes an extra sort of a man To put one over on Dessie and Dan. —Fred G. Walker.

"SEE-SAW" BIG TREMONT BILL

"Gayest of musical comedies" is the label that Henry W. Savage's latest musical comedy hit, "See-Saw," has won from Boston theatregoers during its run at the Tremont theatre. "This is the life; how gay it is!" sing the "See-Saw" girls as the curtain rises, and for three hours they carry you along in the golden glow of their youth, beauty and high spirits. "See-Saw" has the most radiant chorus that has been seen since "The Merry Widow."

"See-Saw" begins with Cynthia Meyrick's wedding party aboard a yacht bound for Florida. Cynthia, the daughter of a Detroit automobile king, is engaged to marry Lord Harrowdy and a number of his lordship's creditors (and they are indeed numerous) are resolved that the wedding shall take place. Richard Minot, representing Lloyds of London, has pledged his word to his employer that nothing shall slip. But Richard is the first to slip when he comes face to face with Cynthia. For he had met her before in a canteen in France and it was a case of love at first sight. Not until the final curtain does the solution heave in sight.

"See-Saw" will be remembered as one of those plays which make theatrical history. It must leave Boston on August 30. So the motto is: "See it now."

Genuine Baked Beans

Friend's Baked Beans are actually baked in earthen pots and in brick ovens. Baked in the only satisfactory way—the good old New England fashion.

Friend's Baked Beans are the only canned beans that are really baked in brick ovens. They don't need any extras to make them appetizing, for they are appetizers in themselves. Besides—they're the real California Pea Beans and—oh, so good!

Chamber of Commerce

At the request of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce, of which the local Chamber is a member, a special meeting of the directors was held Tuesday evening to consider what action, if any, should be taken in regard to the Plumb Plan for Railroad Control. It was the opinion of the directors of the Chamber that this organization should go on record as opposed to railroad control as outlined in the Plumb plan, as the members, when voting on Referendum No. 28 of the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. A., were unanimous in favor of the railroads being returned to the owners with proper supervision by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The "Made in Peabody" exhibit not only attracted attention locally, but inquiries have been received from various organizations throughout the United States asking for detailed information as to how the exhibit was conducted, and favorable comment has been received from several cities.

The committee on investigation as to a plan to relieve the shortage of houses is working on some plans which will be made public as soon as all the details are worked out. Any suggestions as to the best solution of this problem, will be gladly received by the committee.

From present reports, they will be in the United States during the month of October. The main purpose of the visit is to better acquaint American business men with the situation abroad and to bring about closer relations between this country and her European associates in the war. A. THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN By CENE BYRNES

PLAYGROUNDS NOT A SUCCESS

Lloyd (Chick) G. Davies, member of the Park Commission and for the past two years supervisor of the playgrounds has resigned as superintendent of the boys' department of the Peabody Community House, and although the directors have urged him to reconsider, he is done with the job. The directors at a special meeting held a few days ago appointed a committee to scour the field for his successor.

Chick who joined the A. C. L. ball team last week is to appear occasionally in the lineup and if he plays with New Haven it will be Sundays only. He is spending the summer in Hamliton.

Because of his absence from the city the work of supervising the playground instruction has gone by the boards the past several weeks and it is presumed that the salary paid for the job will go back into the treasury of the city as an unexpended balance.

The fact that so many farmers have issued calls for the services of both boys and girls this summer has helped to deplete the usual large crowds which have patronized the several park lots in the city and Chairman Angus J. MacDonald who took the position at the request of the Mayor is much disappointed.

The Wallis school grounds, Emerson Park and fairly good representation of kids in the Eastend have been the busiest places of recreation on city land this summer. It cannot be said, however, that the playground season has been in keeping with the work of other seasons, particularly since instructive work in arts have not been so commonly practiced.

As supervisor last year Davies had a fair measure of results but it required time and the remuneration is not enough to make the position attractive for him or anyone else. The playground season will end on August 30 and may before that.

Another season Chairman MacDonald hopes to induce the Mayor to expend more money in his department so that certain playgrounds can be put into better shape with equipment such as is used to advantage in Salem and other places where the summer playlot instruction is made an investment for which the taxpayers are willing to subscribe.

Through no fault of Chairman MacDonald the playground proposition in Peabody cannot be said to have been a success this year. It takes a man's time and it calls for a stipend better than Peabody pays.

The teaching of the youth, boys and girls, in healthful and instructive pursuits during the summer vacation is an issue that many municipalities are making capital out of today in training Young Americas for the more serious problems of life, so declare child educators who point to Gary, Indiana and other nationally known successful playground areas.

One lad who batted for 666 recently with A. C. L., goes to first, while short will be taken care of by Rowe, who has the name of being a fast man and a reliable hitter.

Ernie Gourley has been batting for 400 in six games with the Tanners, and is out to better his average at the expense of Ray Somerville. Urban got one of the four hits secured off Somerville in the previous Salem game, while Gourley got two. These fellows should repeat, and Dempsey, Murphy, Gildea and Rowe are all hard hitters, and should be able to drive home runs enough to put the game on ice.

It is not known just who will twirl for the A. C. L.'s, the name of Haas being unfamiliar to local fans. This may only be a camouflage covering a league, and as good pitchers are scarce this may be the case.

The United Shoe game in Beverly two weeks ago, nearly half the crowd were Peabody people. This will probably be the case in Salem tomorrow, as the fans in Peabody have the reputation of being the most loyal of any hereabouts.

marvels of the local business. The addition of the Fitzpatrick factory which has long been operated as a sheepskin plant is but another step in growth of the Verza concern.

An effort by the the Enterprise to get into communication with Mr. Fitzpatrick to ascertain his future plans failed to locate him before the Enterprise went to press. It is understood, however, that he plans to retire from the business. He owns the estate at the corner of Lynn and Bartholomew sts., South Peabody, and has long enjoyed a high reputation as a leading sheepskin manufacturer in this city.

The Fitzpatrick plant is assessed for $19,500 and the machinery for $6,200.

Orders for surplus army food placed by the War Department, through the postmaster, will be taken at the postoffice, sub-station No. 1, South Peabody, or by the carriers. Patrons of the postal service will make out their orders accompanied with the cash for the food stuff.

Council For City Ice Plant

Councillor Dennis P. Hogan fathered a motion before the City Council last night looking to a municipal ice plant for Peabody. His motion called for the appointment of a committee of three to devise ways and means of bringing this project about in conference with the Chamber of Commerce. Councillors Hogan, Horrigan and Brown were named by President Giles for this committee. Councillor Hogan wants the city to take all of the pond ice in Peabody and shut out present dealers.

Blankets For West Peabody

West Peabody citizens are urged to communicate with Councillor Walter H. Brown if they wish to procure some of the army blankets to be sold in this city. The price is $4.80 and the blankets are all wool and guaranteed by the government.

MAYOR DONNELL BUYS ARMY FOOD TO SWAT "H.C.L."

Peabody citizens will have a chance to buy army food rations and blankets following the suggestion of Mayor Donnell before the City Council last night which body authorized him to contract for one or two carloads of the war supplies which the government now is disposing of among the cities and towns.

Carload lots cost $6500. The supplies which will be ordered today will consist of canned bacon, tomatoes, beans, corn, peas and loaf sugar and they will be placed on sale at various stations, to be determined, at prices considerably below the store prices charged for these same goods.

Mayor Donnell appeared before the Council following an interview with a government agent who was in this city yesterday and the Council quickly voted to have the Mayor put in a requisition for the army food supplies.

Railroad ave. will be one of the food stations. It is probable that the fire stations throughout the city will be utilized as the food depots for the sale and the Wallis school may be pressed in for Ward 3 residents. West Peabody and South Peabody will have their special stations. On a vote of the Council, President Giles named a committee of three to act with the Mayor. These Councillors are Messrs. Brown, Cotton and Sullivan.

The goods will be sold in case lots with restrictions as in vogue elsewhere in the sale of these supplies to

CITY HALL GOSSIP

City Hall is quiet. Regular routine has the floor and the Mayor assumes little now that the tax rate is settled. By the way, $18.70 looks pretty good compared with other cities and towns. The jump of $2.70 is small compared to Danvers raising of $5.00 a thousand, and no improvements. The way Danvers has of repairing streets seems money thrown away. They do not last a season.

The state and county taxes had much to do with the raise of the tax rate. A wave of economy is needed with municipalities as well as private living.

The city coal yard is doing a good business judging by the coal stored behind city hall. Come on, Mr. Mayor, and clean up this yard for the sake of the contrast with the other surroundings.

Atty. Arthur W. Sim is enjoying his vacation. Atty. and Representative to our General Court McVann is busy filling in as Clerk of Courts and probation officer. Perhaps some day he will fill the judge's chair.

Those interested in the Mayor's candidacy for District Attorney are busy with his campaign. If pep and push wins, there is nothing to this election but Donnell with the accent on ell.

Bill Searle is a busy man, attending to his 57 varieties of labor. Bill is a versatile chap from pool playing (he was a champion in his kid days) thence to golf, newspaper work, reporter to editor, and a playwright. Politics is his surname, and publicity is where he lives.

Vacations are in order in City Hall. Miss Quint is enjoying a much needed rest. Miss Griffin is at Centre Harbor, and she, like our friend Searles, is versatile. Starting in at City Hall as a clerk in the school committee's room, she has filled both clerical positions in the water department not to forget assistant to Auditor Goggin. City Clerk and Treasurer Poor is taking his vacation by piece meals, enjoying golf. His ambition is to play many courses, many of which he has covered. His game is improving, and another year he will be a dangerous competitor. Mrs. Newhall took her vacation recently, a trip with her husband who recently came from overseas, a member of our proud army. There are others due for a rest, some of whom might take the rest cure, and others who do not need a vacation. Miss Chamberlain is missed about the building, with always a pleasant word for all. It is good food after a hard day, or night.

They are laying it at the door of the brook for the perfume which is wafted through the midnight air frequently. It strikes us it had better be looked for in other quarters. That brook is not half as bad as it appears. Rubbish emits but little odor. What flows into it counts.

A sign "do not park automobiles here" stands in front of police station door. There might be added, city officials take notice. The question arises, how much of Chestnut st. Chief Grady bosses?

If Mayor Donnell lands the district attorneyship, many officials in City Hall will be on the anxious seat. Wonder if the next Mayor will add or subtract from the automobile list. Perhaps divide would be the proper word.

It looks as though the assessors another year would need to raise the price of land about Peabody Square. It has been raised 50 cents a foot, but when property of the Blaney estate sold for $25,000 and another party raised it to $30,000, property in that section is rated too low. What say you property owners. The answer would no doubt be, it is worth that to sell but not to tax. Human nature.

There was talk at one time of having an entrance to the new court house from the side toward City Hall, to take prisoners from their cells. It seems now they will parade on Lowell st. Some attraction.

What about that salary raise for some of the downtrodden officials in City Hall? That $1800 with a dollar worth 35 cents, is not conducive to sirloin steaks and automobiles. Give all employees of the city government a square deal, Mr. Mayor.

What a difference when comparing last and this year in the council chamber. There is about as much noise there now as in a quaker church. Somebody should be able to start something even if they have to hammer the city garage, what say you Messrs. McKeen and Hogan?

Granite blocks which have been stored on the city land off Sutton st. have been drawn on for Crownshield st. work this week which is being done by Simpson Bros. The contractors figured the contract with the understanding that the city would furnish the granite blocks.

MOOSE CLAN IN BIG UNION PICNIC AUG. 30

The Loyal Order of Moose of Peabody, Lynn, Salem, Beverly and Gloucester will conduct a union picnic at Centennial Grove, Essex, Saturday, Aug. 30 which will be the biggest event held in this locality for years. There will be sports of all kinds for men, women and children including races, baseball game between Lynn and Gloucester, and a tug of war between Peabody and Lynn.

There will be an attractive midway, and dancing all day will be in order. The plan of the Moose is to establish a good old-fashioned picnic annually for this locality. A good deal of rivalry is showing up between the different lodges in the matter of sports and some hot sketches are looked for. A large committee from the different lodges is working hard to make it a success. J. H. Thomas of Peabody is chairman and Ira Slate of Lynn, secretary.

MRS. EUGENE WEBBER.

A number of Peabody people attended the funeral of Mrs. Eugene Webber, a former Peabody woman, held at her late home, 35 Baker road, Everett, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Webber prior to her marriage was Miss Belle Murray and lived with her parents at the corner of Beckett and Sutton sts. Her husband was in the employ of Swift & Co., the packers. The dead woman underwent an operation last week from which it was expected she would recover but her death transpired five days later.

be seen in the A. C. L. infield, as will Owen Keefe on first base. These changes will give the Peabody team a hard hitting, fast fielding combination without a weak spot. Manager Quinlan makes no bones of saying that he expects to win by hammering the ball, and no matter who appears in the box for the Cornets, he will have his work cut out for him.

The A. C. L. outfield for Saturday is one of the fastest playing semi-pro hall today. Gourley, Dempsey and Davies are all remarkably speedy youngsters and capable of caring for anything hit beyond the infield. In this department of the game the Cornets will be outclassed. The two infields are pretty evenly matched, not much choice on either side's favor. The A. C. L. battery, Fitzpatrick and Urban, will have a stiff proposition to face, but both Fitz and Capt. Urban are chock full of confidence in the outcome of the game.

A crowd of well above the 10,000 figure is anticipated, and it is a sure bet that no Beverly fan will leave Tannerytown until the decision is reached late Saturday afternoon.

Dan Sullivan has been picked to umpire behind the plate, with Tom Rannon on the bases. This assures a fair deal to both sides. Here's hoping for a perfect day, and let the best team win.

The game starts at 3.15 sharp.

2d DIVISION BOYS HOME

John Cassidy, one of the few Peabody veterans of the famous Fifth Marines, arrived home in Peabody yesterday having received his discharge at Quantico, Va. following the parade of the regiment before President Wilson. He enlisted in December, 1917 and was sent to France within a few months of training and rushed to Verdun. Chateau Thierry, Belleau Woods and the Argonne were the three famous battles in which the Marines took part with such crushing effect on the enemy. Cassidy and his unit forded the Meuse river in the face of the deadly fire of the Germans. Aside from a slight gassing which resulted in pneumonia, young Cassidy saw little of the hospital and was in the fighting most of the nearly 20 months overseas.

Corp. John Doyle of Lynn st., cited for bravery while with the 23rd Infantry in the famous Second Division, is another Peabody boy to reach home after a long and valorous service in France. Corp. Doyle cleaned out a German machine gun nest and won his promotion.

Richard J. McElligott, brother of Fred G. McElligott, has returned home having been with the 12th Artillery in the Second Division. He figured in the battles of St. Mihiel, Meuse river and Argonne. He was sent to the University at Beaune, France for a three months' course this last spring. He is a resident of Lynn now but was born on Midway st., this city.

Frank Boyle, believed to be the only Peabody boy in the Sixth Marines, arrived home yesterday. He was twice cited for bravery, one of

Ice Supply For Peabody

They declare that they got a refusal on a large tonnage of ice from Frank E. Newhall but before the deal was closed this ice was sold to the Brennan ice people of Salem. Only this week they bought a carload of ice in Georgetown for which they had to pay $7 a ton and this ice is being sold for $8 in Peabody with the shrinkage loss being borne by the Batchelder concern. In June they bought ice in New Hampshire for $6 and sold it for $7 so as to keep in reserve their ice tonnage in the ice houses. They claim that their efforts have been directed in seeing that the Peabody trade was properly handled.

They refute the assertion made recently that they had failed to notify consumers of an increase in the price of ice effective July 1 and declare that their drivers informed their patrons in plenty of time and that this notice was ample and no supplementary notice in the newspapers was compulsory.

They say they are selling ice at 80 cents a 100 pound weight and obviously this is less than a cen a pound in contradiction to the statement said to have been made by Sealer of Weights Sawyer before the high cost of living commission in Boston this week.

Capt. Palmer Prime Mover For Legion

Capt. Osborn Palmer who won his spurs with the 101st Engineers under shell fire of the Germans is coming in for a lot of praise for his initiative that secured a charter for a Legion Post of War Veterans in this city. At the meeting of the veterans called for August 19 in City Hall, Lieut. Leo Murphy a veteran of Chateau Thierry who secured his commission from the ranks after he got to France, will preside. Lieut. Murphy is President of the Peabody Soldiers and Sailors' Association which will probably give up its charter with the forming of the Legion in Peabody.

It is highly probable that the veterans will take the name of Delmar J. Warner, the first Peabody boy to be killed in action. Warner was a member of the medical corps of the 102d Field Artillery and was among the first Peabody boys to get to France and under the German fire. He was killed administering aid to a wounded man on the battlefield.

By a coincidence the Grand Army sons of veterans when they formed their post here took the name of the Charles B. Warner post. There is no relationship between the two Warners here mentioned.

Edw. P. Barrett Sees Coast Fair

Edward P. Barrett, of this city, was a visitor on August 2 at the big exhibit of Southern California products maintained free to the public in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. He also attended the lectures and moving pictures that are a part of the daily program. The exhibit is the largest of any in the country maintained by a commercial organization. Before returning home, Mr. Barrett expects to visit several of the many other places of interest in the Southland.

Miss Catherine Horrigan, a recent graduate of the Shorthand Course of the Salem Commercial School, has been placed as stenographer for the Danvers State Hospital.

Boy Scouts Off To Camp

The Boy Scouts, Troop 2, leave tomorrow for a two months camping trip, visiting many of Maine's finest beaches. The troop will sail from Boston for Portland Saturday night at 6 o'clock and on Sunday will swing down the coast to Wells Beach, Me. There they will pitch camp. An elaborate program has been prepared promising the boys a fine time during the camping trip.

Hikes will enable them to visit the surrounding country, while the home bound trip will be made by B. M. Moore and Sons truck, taking the fellows through Ogunquit and York Beach, Me.; Portsmouth and Hampton Beach, N. H.; Salisbury Beach, Mass. The troop will be in charge of Theodore R. Jeffers, A. S. M. He will be assisted by William C. Munroe and Thomas G. Reid. Two army cooks will prepare food for the scouts.

The list of campers who will go are as follows:

Panther Patrol—William Ratcliff, leader; Walter VanDyke, William Dunn, Raymond Pynchard, Pierce Watkins, William Glencross, Newell Bodge, Wilbur Jackman, Samuel Upton.

Eagle Patrol—Ralph MacCracken, leader; Wendell Wiley, Robert Hayes, George Morrison, Frank Pitman, Edwin VanDyke, Kendall Hanson, Wilds Moore, John Nichols.

Wolf Patrol—Stephen Cross, leader; Mansfield Munroe, Elmer Wiley, Bertram Pitman, Charles Southwick, Roger Trask, Stuart Quint, Harlan Stone.

MAJOR WARNER HOME.

Word has been received of the arrival in the States of Major Caleb Warner from a long duty overseas where he saw plenty of fighting and won promotion to his present rank. He is expected to pay Peabody a visit in the near future.

William Costello Just Escaped Shell That Killed His Pal

William Costello another Peabody war veteran of the famous second division is home from overseas. He is the son of Driver John J. Costello of House 4, Tremont street. He came back on the Finland and reached Camp Devens this week where a happy reunion between himself and his father took place.

This war veteran enlisted in the medical corps in October 1917 and was sent to Fort Ethan Allen having expressed a desire to join the regular army. He was assigned to the second division and lost no time getting into the battle zones where his services in the medical aid exposed him to the German shellfire and he had many narrow escapes. He got a touch of gas. The night before the armistice was signed his pal was standing beside him at the time and was killed by a fragment of a high explosive shell. Costello escaped unscathed.

One of the five men who shared in common Costello's tent at Fort Ethan Allen but two are alive today, the other three having made the supreme sacrifice overseas in the discharge of their humane duties in caring for the wounded and dying.

In the 20 months that Costello has been overseas he has seen plenty of war and just before the peace terms were accepted his unit had penetrated to the farthest neutral line in Germany. He had a chance to see much of the Rhineland and his numerous letters home to his father have been filled with interesting travels. The famous Second Division which is known by the Indian's head on the sleeve of each veteran was composed of the 9th and 23d Infantry, Fifth and Sixth Marine, 12th, 15th and 17th Infantry and the Second Engineers. It was with the latter outfit that Costello served the greater part of his overseas duty and up to the signing of the armistice his unit had been a big factor in the final wedge that hurried the Huns to surrender.

Here is a brief history of the Second Division which a number of other Peabody boys will long cherish:

WILLIAM J. COSTELLO

First to fight and last to leave. Engaged 39 German divisions in seven sectors.

Stopped German advance at Chateau Thierry.

Thirty-five hundred officers and men cited, 646 with Distinguished Service crosses.

Fought at Verdun, Chateau Thierry, Soissons, Marbache, St. Mihiel, Champagne, Meuse-Argonne.

will resume his studies at M. I. T., returning to college before the opening date in October.

GRADE CROSSING MENACE

The latest addition to the list of fatalities at the West Peabody railroad crossings, making five within a comparatively few weeks, to say nothing of other accidents in which people were seriously injured, emphatically calls for some action that will remove this menace to life. The unguarded crossings are still there and the motor traffic is steadily increasing, and the only thing in the shape of relief that has thus far taken any shape is a petition to the public service commission to install wigwag signals there in addition to the light and bell signals now in use.

It is plainly evident that the present warning signals are inefficient, as motorists without number continually report they cannot hear them, and few persons believe the proposed wigwag signals will prove much more effective.

It has been said, not without some justification, that in most of the accidents and the numberless narrow escapes from accident, the blame rested with the motorists. Operators of cars approach the crossings at what is considered a high rate of speed, due to the presence of a slight rise which leads them to speed up their engines at these points and they are blamed for not slowing down or stopping to see if the tracks are clear. But, the question is asked, why should the railroad trains have undisputed right of way over unguarded crossings? None but local motorists are familiar with the danger there, and the turnpike is used by hundreds of non-resident motorists daily. These people naturally assume the crossings are safe, as they should be, and being prevented from hearing the warning signals by reason of their own whirring motors and unable to get an unobstructed view of the approaching trains, they speed on to possible collision and death.

The deadly grade crossing is subject to only two efficient courses of treatment. One is their elimination, and the other is the installation of human guards. To put the burden of safety upon the motorist is nonsense. Even if one calls the chance they take suicidal, why provide the means of committing suicide, which is unlawful?

There is a law compelling trains to come to a stop before crossing another track. Just for a suggestion, why would it be unreasonable to compel all trains to stop at these crossings and send a flagman ahead to guard the crossing before proceeding?

FRUIT AND GARDEN THIEVES

That miserable pest of late summer and early fall, the garden and fruit thief, is with us again and up to his old tricks. In most cases the thefts of this sort are committed by boys, some of whom are actuated more by a spirit of mischief than by wanting the fruit or vegetables thus obtained, but reports are coming in of adults, both men and women, boldly invading gardens and orchards and taking what they want. It is discouraging particularly to the small gardener to put in many hours of hard work planting and taking care of his growing vegetables, then to come home and find a lot of them stolen and the others trampled upon and damaged, and the same is true of the man who has patiently raised a few fruit trees in his back yard. The police will act promptly in getting after this class of offenders, and property owners and witnesses of acts of depredation of this type are urged to notify the station by telephone or otherwise whenever they observe this brand of marauder at work. Once in court, offenders of this type should be made examples of and given the full limit in the shape of penalty as a means of deterring others inclined to the same sort of thievery.

WORTH CONSIDERING

In view of the seeming inability of the railroads to pay for flagmen at the unguarded railroad crossings and the apparent recklessness of motorists who take their lives in their hands and speed over the crossings, The Enterprise in all seriousness would offer the public service commission a suggestion.

This is to tax every motorist a small sum, to be added to their license or registration fee, and from the proceeds pay for the services at every unguarded crossing in the state. There over 160,000 operators of pleasure cars alone in the state, and a tax of the insignificant sum of 10 cents on each would yield nearly enough revenue to pay the bill. If not, a little larger tax would, and we venture to say that most of them would gladly pay at least a dollar additional to be assured of safety at every railroad crossing they come to. This may seem like taking the burden off the railroads and invite criticism for that special reason, but it does afford a practical means of insuring safety and is at least worth considering.

THE PRINCE OF WALES

It is really too bad the Prince of Wales could not have arrived in this country in time to have taken in the "Made in Peabody" exhibit. He would have seen something that he will be unable to see in any other part of the country, and his knowledge of American productions would have been increased. Be that as it may, a visit to Peabody is something His Royal Highness could still make to his great advantage. He could not fail to be impressed by its industries, its 72 miles of parlor floor roads would indelibly stamp themselves in his memory, and he could not help displaying a family interest in the historic medal presented by his royal ancestor, Queen Victoria, to the great philanthropist, George Peabody. The latchstring is out, Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, and Peabody bids you welcome.

ROUND ABOUT

Tell-tale evidence of the "meanest thief" was found the cause of a water leak in the Allen Block one day this week when a dime bank which had been pilfered and smashed open was fished out of a hopper. Dollars to doughnuts the thief was a "jakey" disciple.

Motorists who travel over Lynn st. to Lynn are urging that action be taken to remove the sheds of the ice house near Brown's pond so as to prevent what they proclaim will be fatal accidents at this "deadman's" curve. The sheds built out toward the street shut off a view of the corner by which speeding motorists are some day coming to their untimely end unless the sheds are removed.

Apropos of speeding motorists on Lynn st. I stood near Cedar Grove cemetery entrance last Sunday afternoon and noted the excessive speed of the Peabody and Lynn jitneys which seemed to be engaged in a road race competition. There are some of these jitneys that average 25 miles an hour on certain stretches of Lynn st. and it looks as if it is up to the Peabody police to apply the same rule to them as the Lynn police have done this week.

Patrolman James Crean of the night force back from a vacation at Nantucket is 100 per cent booster for the Vineyard Haven island. He found surf bathing ideal and among other compliments for the place declares the streets although of macadam construction mostly are kept as clean as Peabody's new concrete streets. He is already counting the days until his next holiday down on Nantucket.

The attention of the Bay State St. Railway Co. is called to the dangerous condition of its tracks at the junction of Margin and Holly sts. The rail is at least six inches above the street and is positively a menace to all kinds of vehicle travel. One auto driver nearly wrecked his machine when he hit this exposed rail this week.

Boys who drive offal wagons thru the city should be directed to keep their garbage covered and not exposed as is frequently the case. Wednesday of this week a team with two barrels of offal was standing near City Hall for 20 minutes until passersby remonstrated and the youths who sat on the team reading a pictorial sheet folded their paper and drove off.

I observed that Rev. Dr. Louis Malvern, the retired Baptist minister living on Bartholomew st. assisted in the program which dedicated Wyoma Square, Lynn, last Wednesday and which is now to be known as Lewis Square in honor of a well-known Wyoma boy who died of wounds in France. Dr. Malvern, although retired from a regular parish duties, is no idler. He is a veteran of the Civil War.

My attention was called the other day to the spectacle of a former well-known chauffeur driving a pair of horses. His speed had considerably slackened, I noticed. As a motorist he gained a reputation not to be envied by any sane driver.

A driver who allows a child to ride with him without the consent of the parents of the child is an abductor within the eyes of the law. One of my twins was thus entertained last week and kept from his home for over an hour. The driver may have thought he was doing the lad a favor but he has the wrong viewpoint and presumably he is not a married man with a family. Should the child fall off the team, what then? Children do not belong on delivery wagons and drivers who indulge kids in this "sport" ought to be hauled to court and taught a lesson.

One of Uncle Sam's recruiting trucks was on duty in Peabody Square Wednesday evening while sergeants went among the crowds and solicited enlistments. The truck bore the slogan of "Join us the big gun corps." I observed a crowd of war veterans being canvassed by one of the recruiting sergeants. I am told that the truck secured one or more prospects.

TREMONT THEATRE

Happy precedents come most often by good fortune and they apparently are installed by the easiest of methods. But it is a truism that they are exceedingly difficult to adhere to in succeeding ventures. Apparently Henry W. Savage has discovered this rare formula in his theatrical productions, for they seem to follow in regular succession, and each vies with its predecessor for worth and eminence in pleasing qualities.

The title of the new musical comedy is "See Saw," and since its first presentation two weeks ago there has not been a single performance that has not had its capacity audiences. This has been because the highest standard of musical comedy production has been adhered to and the genius and opulence of Henry W. Savage has been applied to the making of it.

The story of the comedy has been taken from Earl Derr Biggers' popular story, "Love Insurance," the stage version having been made by Mr. Biggers himself, who also turned his clever hand at the writing of the lyrics. The music was composed by Louis A. Hirsch, who stands today as one of the most popular American composers.

The plot is ingenious and admirably constructed, and concerns an impecunious English Lord who endeavors to safeguard his coming marriage with an American heiress by insuring the project with Lloyds, the famous takers of risks who insure anything from fingers to ships.

LYNN MAY COPY "MADE IN PEABODY"

Taking a veiled slap at the failure of Lynn to build good streets, a special writer in the Lynn Item asks the readers of that big Essex County daily:

"Would it be worth while for Lynn to have a Lynn products exhibition like the Peabody products exhibition now going on in Peabody?"

If Lynn had such an exhibition it would bring out these two points: Good streets and good shoes go together.

Good window displays are helpful to both merchants and shoppers. They danced on the smooth paved streets of Peabody, while the band played. Now if people can dance on modern streets they certainly can wear good shoes on the streets.

Will Promote Church Work

A general survey of the religious conditions and needs of this county, as a part of the world-wide surveys being made by the Interchurch World been begun. The surveyor for Essex County is Rev. A. Gerhard Dehly of Beverly.

Every denomination has been invited to cooperate in the work. The survey is to be made by competent investigators who are satisfactory to all the churches. The object is to obtain an impartial and complete summary of all the facts relating to the condition of every church in the county as to its finances, its membership, whether growing, stationary or declining, whether it has a resident pastor, what families are included in its ministry, what families in the county are without pastoral oversight, etc.

The surveyors are also expected to report upon church groupings, upon conflicts in parish boundaries, upon areas without Christian influences, upon community centers or social buildings, such as lodges and granges, and upon any other matters that will throw light on the problems of the churches in this county.

CLASS '19 BANNER ONE AT BURDETT'S

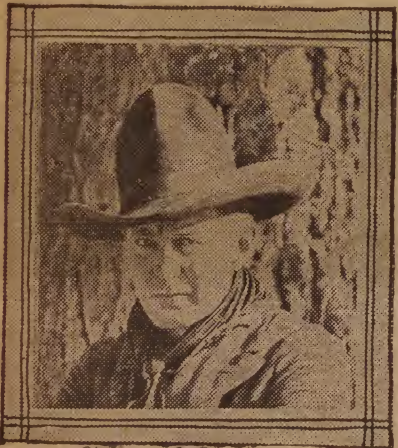

The reproduction of students in the assembly hall at Lynn Burdett College, which has a seating capacity of 420 students, is of more than passing interest to the residents of Peabody because of the large number of young people of this city and vicinity who were in attendance when this photograph was taken.

The young people of Peabody began to attend Burdett College, Boston, 40 years ago, and since the establishment of the Lynn branch they have transferred their patronage to the nearer school. Business education has today become more of a necessity than at any other period in history. The rapidly increasing needs of the government and the phenomenal growth of commerce since the outbreak of the war have each contributed to produce a shortage of capable office workers. Salaries for the trained bookkeeper or secretary are increasing rapidly and the entire business field is alive with opportunities for ambitious young people.

Harry Carey Here Next Week With "Jerry" Farrar at Strand

Those who like delightful comedy, tense drama and gripping tragedy will have an opportunity to see all these elements in "Louisiana," a Paramount photoplay starring Vivian Martin, which will be shown at the Strand today and Saturday. The story concerns the many unusual adventures that befell a girl who had lived her eighteen summers in the heart of the Kentucky mountains. Her father realized that his daughter was handicapped and decided to send her to the city. She goes to one of the famous summer resorts in the South and while there she meets and falls in love with the man of her dreams. The big punch in the story comes when a jealous mountain lad who had followed her to the city attempts to kill her lover. The picture is adapted from Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's novel of the same name and has a delightful finish wherein the lovers are finally reunited. Marie Walcamp in a nerve tingling chapter of the "Red love" will be the second attraction for today. "Trying To Get Along," one of Mack Sennetts famous comedies will be the third attraction and it rounds out a mighty good program of pictures.

Madge Evans, probably the best liked of all the juvenile screen stars, will appear Sunday evening in "The Love Net. It is a wholesome and pretty offering. Gladys Leslie in "A Nymph of the Foothills" will also be shown Sunday evening.

Monday and Tuesday Mgr. Chet Bent, will offer a splendid double feature bill with Geraldine Farrar and Harry Carey in the starring roles. Geraldine Farrar needs no introduction to the public, being an international celebrity as a singer, and a wonderful actress in addition. Miss Farrar will be presented in "Shadows" a strong, dramatic offering that permits her to wear fine clothes and do some emotional acting that is best described by the world excellent. Harry Carey will appear in "Roped," a comedy drama, in which this great Western actor comes to New York and breaks into society. Mr. Carey will be remembered for his fine work in "A Fight For Love," a picture that proved decidedly popular when played at the Strand a few weeks ago. The spectacle of a bunch of cowboys trying to take care of a bouncing baby is one of the many humorous features of "Roped."

William S. Hart in "Wagon Tracks," his latest production will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday. This picture presents Hart as the public loves to see him—as a real, red-blooded and relentless character with honor as his greatest ideal and bravery his second nature. The real west of fifty years ago is shown, starting in Kansas and winding up along the Santa Fe trail. Elmo Lincoln in "Elmo, The Mighty" the new Universal serial that is making such a hit will be another attraction for the mid-week change.

Counting the Cost.

MATS MARATHON TO BE FEATURE

At the Peabody Mats' lawn party to be held at the Bresnahan estate on Washington st., Friday, August 22, the feature of the evening will be a 10-mile road race from Beverly to the grounds. Many of the best amateur runners in this section have sent in their applications and a large field will compete for the prizes offered. Other attractions will include a grand midway, band concert, and dancing on one of the largest floors in this vicinity.

BIG LABOR DAY PARADE HERE

Four divisions of the big Labor Day parade which is to be held in Salem, will form in Peabody Square and march to the Witch city for the big procession. It is estimated that 5000 Peabody men including the leather workers union, machinists, teamsters and others will be in line.

How Many Hours Per Day Do you Require Heat in the Kitchen?

When it is not needed can you turn it off and stop the expense? If not, you are wasting fuel. It is surprising how little heat one actually needs through the summer months, and how much fuel is wasted through the operation of the coal stove—and how uncomfortable the kitchen.

THE GAS RANGE uses fuel only when there is work for it to do, and there is positively no expense between times and,—a comfortable kitchen.

PASSED ALL TESTS

Organized Workers of America Properly Proud of Labor Organizations.

Labor day, 1919, brings to the workers of America the right to cheer and confidence in the trade-union movement. There have been tests and crises that have proved its fundamental principles; there have been opportunities that have tested its practical efficiency. Through them all the trade-union movement has made sure progress and gained in confident vision for the future.

Every national and international, every local union affiliated to the American Federation of Labor, has made definite progress in securing for its members greater advantages in those things which are fundamental of betterment in all relations of life. In some organizations the success has been phenomenal.

Taking the labor movement as a whole there has been greater progress in securing the shorter workday than in any other similar period of time. The meaning of these victories can be interpreted only in the light of full understanding of the meaning of the shorter day. The shorter workday is something more than an economic demand. It is a demand for opportunity for rest, recuperation and development; things which make life more than mere mechanical drudgery.

ADVANCE MUST BE GENERAL

Anarchy in Russia Proves That Labor and Rest of Society Must Go Forward Together.

The future of labor lies in stabilizing democracy. In that alone is progress. One of the great problems of peace is to erect an industrial democracy upon the solid foundations of political democracy. That can come if labor is patient and prudent and self-controlled, but it can never be brought about through the application of theories of confiscation or class war.

Autocracy has failed, and failed criminally, but the failure of bolshevism is no less complete, even though the consequences have been restricted to a single country. There is no hope for the world in either. The fate of Russia proves that labor must go forward with the rest of society. It cannot advance alone. It cannot take everything and give nothing. If it ever tries, it will wantonly waste most of the substantial fruits of the war.

Much Cause for Congratulation.

Labor day is always an inspiration to the organized workers of America. Nationally, upon this Labor day, the workers of America have much to congratulate themselves upon: The past four years have resulted in the realization of labor's hopes, long deferred, in the enactment of laws guaranteeing the liberty of the toilers and their right to organize for their protection and advancement upon the economic field.

Energy Discusses Prices Of Leather Showing History Repeats In Profiteering

By "ENERGY"

Profiteering is the all absorbing subject in the country, and the shoe and leather manufacturers are coming in for their share of inquiry. In 1812 we had a fuss with Great Britain. The British navy has always ruled the seas. It occurred to some bright yankees that their merchant ships might be captured, and so privateering became a business among those who followed the sea from yankee shores. Some were captured and sunk by British ships of war, but many gained everlasting fame by bringing home the bacon. When the present war started many people started in to privateer but some now the name changed to profiteer. They saw a chance to mark up their wares, and in fact everything was marked up. In five years prices of all commodities have doubled and some trebled, and now it has been brought forcibly to the President and Congress, that something must be done, not to raise wages but to bring down prices. The beginning has begun. What will come from it must be left to time, and the government. But I must talk about the leather end.

The Boston Herald this week prints a story of the witnesses called before the Grand Jury. They were composed of representative men in the leather trade, and the information obtained was interesting. They declared the leather market was worldwide and impossible to control. It was also declared there was no shortage of the raw and finished product. From any small observation of the leather game, I should say there was a shortage of finished leather. As to hides, they appear to be in the hands of a few, therefore easily controlled. Whether this is profiteering remains to be seen.

One leatherman said it was unfortunate that the government made an error in lifting the limit on the price of hides from 23 cents a pound. If it had been maintained much of the trouble would have been eliminated. It seems that way. For without a limit, prices have soared to unknown heights, and still climbing. When raw material has a limit, finished stock must have one also. Therefore a limit placed on hides and other skins might help to unravel the problem.

It is a known fact that most merchants figured that prices would drop after the war. They were in error. They carried small stocks and when the big demand came, they were in no position to furnish their wares to the public. Therefore they became bullish, purchased raw material in large quantities and up went prices.

The packers were doing business for profit. So are all of us if we can. They saw the handwriting on the wall and with their immense facilities for handling hides, it was easy to jump prices. This may be called profiteering, but it seems to me that the government with all its power to do things could have curbed the whole business. They did not do so, and now turn to the people they allowed to handle the situation when they easily could have done otherwise, and tell them they are profiteers. I believe that when the history of the situation is written, the whole trouble can be traced to those men appointed by the government who were not big enough to hold down their job.

Hides have always been considered a by-product. At normal prices, the hides brought under $8.00 each. Now they sell for over twice that amount and are a big factor in figuring the profits of the packers. Handling perhaps 10,000 hides each day, a nice profit of $100,000 daily would make some of woody.

Now while not trying to cover the business of any large corporation, they are out to do business at a profit. The only way to stop profiteering, is for the government to establish limits on raw material, and the finished end will care for itself. The packers with their large tanneries can tan their hides if not salable. If the tanner will not pay for his hides the price set by the packers, those hides are sold to the account of their tanneries. A perfect legitimate proposition. I can see but one way, a limit on hide prices.

One point brought out at the grand jury investigation, shows the ever hickie public must have the best shoes. There are plenty of cheap shoes to be had at fair prices. They do not sell, for the men and women, many of whom have more money than brains must have the best John, no matter the price.

So when we have tallied the cost of living sheet, it is certain that there will be found at least 80 per cent of all of us Americans are profiteers. The only ones not guilty are some salaried men and clerks who would no more dare to ask for more money than steal it, for they are not essential to the business make-up as there are more of them than there is room for. But this 80 per cent raise the prices of their goods at every turn, for the public pays the bill. This applies to labor, capital, small merchants, and when one hears of different people complaining, it would be well if interested, to look the party up, and you will find he is getting his in the same old way as are 80 per cent of his fellow men, profiteering.

Coal in the Ice Regions.

Geologists have discovered immense deposits of coal in Spitzbergen, and it is now apparent that, in spite of ice, cold and fog, Spitzbergen is a land fraught with many commercial possibilities. The coal is practically all on the surface, and deep mining is unnecessary.

PROPOSED ORDINANCE.

An Ordinance Relative to Patrols and Motor Ambulance.

Be it Ordained by the City Council of the City of Peabody as follows, viz:—

That the Patrols and Ambulance now under supervision of the superintendent of the Municipal Garage shall be placed under the supervision and direction of the Chief of Police Department under Class Fifteen (15) of the Civil Service Rules and Regulations.

All ordinances inconsistent herewith are hereby annulled.

the public. Tomatoes will be sold for 11 cents a can by the case lot which cost from 25 to 30 cents in the store. Peas and corn will be 9 cents. Bacon in 12-pound cans will be sold for 34 to 38 cents. Loaf sugar will also be included.

An order for several hundred army blankets which are to sell for $4.80, is also placed today by Mayor Donnell after a vote of the Council which lost no time in getting behind the Mayor to give the citizens of Peabody a chance to cut the cost of living. The citizens are asked by Mayor Donnell to notify the City Clerk if they want any of the blankets. These blankets are worth $10 if bought over the store counter. The city must purchase them in hundred lots to get the price of $4.80 to the people and for this reason it is necessary to know how many applicants will register for one or more.

It is expected the goods can be put on sale in Peabody not later than Monday or Tuesday. Trucks will go over the road to the army depot in Boston to secure the goods for sale in this city.

West Peabody citizens are asked to get in touch with Councillor Brown if they wish army blankets.

Councillor Brown wants a police officer to do duty on the Turnpike for a while and snare fast speeding auto drivers in the hopes that no more human lives will be claimed at the grade crossings, and following his motion the Council voted to request the Public Service Commission to order the Boston & Maine road to place a human flagman on both of the death trap crossings on the Turnpike. Councillor Brown spent several hours in conference with the Boston & Maine officials this week and reported to the Council last night that they assured him of their desire to cooperate with any ruling of the Public Service Commission.

The committee on public health composed of Messrs. Hogan, Horrigan and Brown will view the premises at 8 Elm st. now occupied as a wood yard in view of a petition by residents who claim the place is a nuisance.

Councillor Brown wants a tree cut down at the junction of Lake, Winona and Pine sts., West Peabody, and some service poles removed to make travel safer. The matter was referred to the City Engineer.

Councillor McKeen got after the Bay State last night in protest at the Lynn zone being removed to Rockdale Park from the ice house on Lynn st. He claimed it was not a fair deal to South Peabody people. The trustees of the road will be appealed to. Joseph H. Golden wants the city to pay his $882.72 as extra compensation for his war services on the ground that he was an employee of the city when he was drafted. Mayor Donnell says he will refuse to pay any such claim. It is claimed Golden worked 23 days in one year for the city.

Protest (?) Gas Tank.

There is very apt to be plenty of protests at the Council voting to allow another gas tank to be placed on Lowell st. near the Court House. An application came from Thomas Renzi who is now a tenant in the Court House building for the tank. Roger H. Smith, property owner, who is a dealer in gasoline, has a tank across the street and Doyle's Garage has another one below the Enterprise office.

Councillors Brown, Cotton and Jones were appointed a committee of three to look over different squares and streets in the city that can be named for Peabody war veterans who made the supreme sacrifice.

Councillors Horrigan, Duggan, Hogan, Jones and Sullivan opposed ratifying the majority vote of the Council last October which authorized the Mayor to sign an agreement with the American Glue Co. on water privileges at Cedar Pond. The 1918 Council voted the authority but acting city clerk Costello failed to clearly record the vote in his records. The error was discovered a few weeks ago by City Clerk Poor.

Thomas W. Clark of Shillaber st. was voted $5 for water damages in his cellar.

Special Officer John Keane notified the Council last night that he had sold out his interests in the jitney he ran between Peabody and Lynn. The Council held up transferring the license to investigate. It is probable that no more licenses will be granted between the two cities.

Application to run what was referred to as an open bar at 56 Walnut st. was held up and will probably give leave to withdraw at the next meeting.

On motion of Councillor Horrigan steps will be taken to have the salary of the Board of Health nurse raised. Her salary is fixed by ordinance which will have to be changed. Miss Ethel Boyle holds the position and is worth much more than she gets for her services.

City Engineer Emerson was requested to see that the sidewalks about the city were left in a passable condition and not cluttered for pedestrians to stumble over.

Lowell Street

George H. Abbott will observe his 80th birthday anniversary on August 22 at his home, 151 Lowell st. All friends are invited.

Joseph Chandler of Kosciusko st. is spending a two weeks' vacation at Gorham, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Moore of Franklin st. entertained Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fulsom of Woburn for a few days this week.

Mrs. Norman Crane and daughter will spend the next two weeks with relatives at Matunick Beach, R. I.

Mrs. Peter Tremblay of Lowell st. gave a party last week, the occasion being the birthday of Edwin Morton. A large number of young friends were present and a fine time was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. King entertained their nephew, Baker Adams, of Baldpate, Boxford, for a few days this week.

Rev. and Mrs. George H. Howes are spending the summer at Salisbury Beach.

Ryan Gets After Speed Maniacs

Councillor Joseph A. Ryan is on the trail of the motor speed maniacs traversing Peabody Square and thickly settled streets and he is also out to snare drivers of motor trucks race fire apparatus to the scenes of fire. It was his motion before the Council last night that induced that body to adopt an ordinance making it a crime to race a fire kit en route to a blaze or even to block it in its travel.

Councillors Brown and Horrigan also had something to say about auto speeders and Councillor McKeen came to bat with the suggestion that the police could do a lot to stop the nuisance without a special ordinance being passed. In this opinion he was supported by City Solicitor Fay who said there was law enough on the statutes but added that the ordinance could only aid the police in the work of checking the speed maniacs.

Councillor Horrigan wants operators of jitneys to do away with siren whistles and other noisy horns which he facetiously averred had caused his $100 horse to take on a value of $300 owing to the way he was scared.

The water committee will now have an ining before the needed pump is purchased for the pumping station.

BIG CIRCUS WEDNESDAY

The biggest amateur circus ever in Peabody will be shown at Emerson Park next Wednesday evening under the management of the Lowell st. committee of St. John's church. Salem Cadet band will give a concert at the park. One of the big things of the evening will be five sensational professional out-door acts under the direction of Hap Ward, who will also have charge of the circus.

ATTY. D. C. MANNING.

Peabody, August 6, 1919.
Editor, Peabody Enterprise,
Peabody, Mass.

Dear Sir:—Reports have been reaching me from different parts of the county, evidently industriously circulated, that I am to be a candidate for Mayor of Peabody and therefore am not interested in the fortunes of District Attorney Wells in his candidacy for renomination. As First Assistant District Attorney under Mr. Wells before and since his election to the unexpired term of Judge Cox, my record is involved with and a part of his. My sole political interest therefore is to see that Mr. Wells gets his well earned full term. Under no circumstances whatsoever will I be a candidate for Mayor of Peabody at the next election. And that my friends and others in general throughout the county may not be misled by anything untrue, I respectfully ask that you publish this letter in your paper.

With deep thanks for the indulgence of your time and columns, I beg to remain

Respectfully yours,
DANIEL C. MANNING.

SALARY BOOST AT CITY HALL FROM TAX RATE

Salaried men whom Mayor Donnell refers to as the brains of his administration are to have their pay raised out of the new tax rate decided yesterday when the figure was placed at $18.70. The extra 20 cents added at the last moment was by direction of His Honor with especial regard for the salaried men to whom he gives credit for having materially aided him in giving the citizens a half million dollars in new streets and sidewalks and keeping the tax rate down where it will be much lower than most any other city in the Commonwealth.

For the benefit of the taxpayers, the Enterprise presents today a financial list from the office of the assessors which gives the details of how they arrived at the tax rate this year and last year. Here are the statistics:

Personal estate	$11,498,774.00	Real estate	$13,867,400.00

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Salem officials virtually admit that their cleaning out of the trunk line sewer has been inadequate by their latest decision to try and get more money from Peabody for the care of its sewer outfall. Peabody city officials have all along claimed that Salem was not properly handling the proposition in this respect else there would have been no necessity for opening the gate at Grove st. to relieve factories in this city from back flooding of the sewer in their plants.

It is expected that work of grading the land about the new pump house on the City Farm land near Lynnfield st. will be started in the near future.

City Clerk Francis L. Poor is after Larry Paton's laurels as a golfer. He is a member of the Homestead Club and last Saturday with Judge Fay against Edward Cavanaugh and a Lynn player, Messrs. Poor and Fay won out 4 up.

Peabody's Chamber of Commerce officials induced Mayor Donnell to keep the tax rate around the $18 mark this week and the Mayor found a way to do it with the aid of the assessors despite the falling off in the income tax rebate.

A drinking fountain may some day adorn "Warner Square" at the junction of Aborn and Sutton sts. Provision was made for the water supply when the new Hassam pavement was laid last week.

Councillor Bert Reed, who is summing at Conomo Point on the North Shore, is getting his real fun in taking a daily dip in the ocean.

"Col." Jim Ray's, or more properly the City Ford Sedan which he operates is causing much talk about the square. How about the big letters seen on other machines, does it apply to this machine also? Pretty soft, Jim.

It is not our purpose to criticize the Mayor. But we are getting many inquiries as to why His Honor is out for district attorney when he has another year as Mayor. There was nothing to compel him to become Mayor and when he assumed the office he knew its responsibilities. There is a growing sentiment against his working for district attorney in the middle of his term as Mayor. It may not make serious inroads into his vote, but is sure to affect it more or less. They say there is time enough for his other political aspirations.

Should the Mayor succeed in being nominated district attorney, there will be a lively scramble for the mayoralty. Predictions are early, but watch Councillor Giles. To our way of thinking, he has the pole, with plenty of speed at this writing.

According to figures given the assessors by Superintendent Robinson, the city treasury will get about $14,000 from the school fund. This law increases the salaries of teachers another year.

Are there any more city officials who want an automobile. We started to say need, but want fits better. Apply quickly for the municipal garage is getting overcrowded with machines and help.

Norman V. Crane is now in the employ of the E. H. Porter Company. There are ugly stories floating about the engineer's department. There was no friction between the engineer and his assistant, but some outsiders would have it so. But where there is fire there must be some smoke.

The $7500 from the income tax is some cut from $20,000 received last year. There will be more coming later, but the way this income tax is handled, makes the amount a football in the hands of the legislature, to bolster up expenses. When this tax is returned to the cities and towns in proportion to what is received from them, and returned in a lump sum, then such cities and towns will know where they are at. If any state or nation is law ridden, it is Massachusetts. Big men are needed in the legislature to start matters right.

If the rear of city hall is to be a dump for all time, we would suggest a high board fence be erected to shut out the coal yard. The members of St. John's church have to face it, together with hundreds of others passing daily. We insist it is no part of the janitor's duties to clean up this storeyard.

That concert on the city hall lawn was a great success. But bands cost lots of money these times, and the treasury will not stand many.

We note Had Sawyer received commendation from his superior recently. Had is making good as Sealer of Weights and Measures, and the people should give him more credit. But the public care only for themselves as individuals.

Police Inspector Pierce has returned from his vacation. He visited Rangeley Lakes and lived in the open. The out door life appeals to Dive, and if you think he is not healthy, take hold of him some time.

There is going to be fireworks of the large variety when the campaign for district attorney is on. The Mayor proposes to invade every house in Essex county if necessary. Staid Essex will be treated to a brand of politics which will make good friends or bad enemies. The Mayor claims to have put the at in attorney. He expects to put the well in Wells.

City Almoner Ray informs the Enterprise that his crew of laborers employed in cleaning out the brooks have begun at the right end removing boxes and other debris below the city so as to allow the water to flow freely when the brook is cleaned nearer Lowell st.

Little "Nemo," once the pride of Chief Grady, is in the paint shop being lettered "City of Peabody, Municipal Garage," and Councillor Hogan is happy.

Councillor Walter H. Brown, makes an ideal chairman of the finance committee. He comes to the meetings prepared to state his motions with all of the necessary argument to carry them through.

The suggestion is made that Chief Grady take one of the day officers to add to the night force and give Crow Village and the Eastend all night police protection.

Mayor Donnell is wearing a Shrine pin, as a result of his getting the degrees in Aleppo Temple, Boston, yesterday. He is a member of Jordan lodge of Masons, this city, and the Salem Chapter and Knights Templar.

tremely anxious to annex this game, as it means the first victorious series in the championship race. His schedule is pretty full, and a third game with the Shoe would only crowd out some of the stellar attractions that are clamoring for games with the popular Peabody team. For this reason the Tanners will go after the game in dead earnest tomorrow and endeavor to run up a large score on the Beverly aspirants.

The Cornet All-Stars, the only Essex county team that has been undefeated this season, comes to Peabody for the first game of a three-game series on Aug. 16. A. C. L. hopes to administer the first defeat over the West Lynners on this date, and thereby upset their fond hopes of bringing the championship to Lynn.

With Fitzpatrick in the box for the Tanners, it would look like a win unless Manager Foley of the Shoe trots out a dark horse to oppose him. This would not be surprising, as Foley wants this series badly and will go to any expense in order to grab this game.

Peabody should be well represented in the Garden City concrete stadium tomorrow to cheer the Tanners to victory.

How Character Is Revealed.

The little things that we do without thinking are the things that tell what we really are. We may desire to possess a character that we have not yet attained, or we may pose for the kind of person we are not, but our unguarded movements betray us. What we are speaks more loudly than what we say.

Grandmothers Vindicated.

Our grandmothers used to hang a red flannel petticoat over the window of a smallpox patient's room, asserting that it hastened the cure, and also prevented "pitting." Scientists have now discovered that the red rays do actually exert a bad effect on the bacteria of the disease, and a correspondingly good effect on the patient.

NO CHANGE IN B. N. MOORE FIRM

Boston, Mass., Aug. 4, 1919.

The Peabody Enterprise, Peabody, Mass.

Gentlemen:—In your issue of August 1 you made a statement that was untrue and not founded on facts in any way.

You stated, "the Benj. N. Moore & Sons Company now owned and operated by an English concern."

This is not so. There has been no change of stock or property in any way.

The B. N. Moore & Sons Company leased their Lynn plant to the Pyro-Leather Corporation of New York City and are the selling agency for the Pyro-Leather production made in this factory.

This is not the first time that statements of this kind have appeared in your paper and if any further references are made we trust you will keep to the facts and not fancies.

Very truly yours,

Wooden Heels May Help To Lower Cost of Shoes

By "ENERGY"

William R. Scharton has invented a shoe with a wooden sole and heel if you want it, that he claims will revolutionize the high cost of shoes and therefore give us poor suffering mortals a chance to keep our bare feet from the cold, cold ground. The first thought is, how can a stiff sole be comfortable to walk in, when we have been used to flexible soles. They have been worn in times past, but it would seem to me we should have to take lessons in walking. However, I do not lose sight of the fact that a shoe of this kind is cheaper, therefore the parties making them are doing all a favor in helping to solve the high cost of shoes.

A company has been formed to operate in Maine. They picked Norway which should not be confounded with the nation of that name, as the place to start, because the wood is available, and there are plenty of shoemakers in that section. The uppers are made as are all shoes, but duck or some substance similar will constitute the uppers with perhaps a little leather on the higher priced shoes, just to show that leather is not forgotten.

Peabody has a slogan which was started in the presidential campaign of 1890 that "There is nothing like leather." These people propose to change that to "There is nothing like wood." No one believes that a wooden shoe will make serious inroads into leather manufacture. But these people may have something which may hit the fickle public, and I might put it this way: Individuals have brains and use them, but the public seldom do.

An article appeared in the Boston Herald recently, describing the wooden sole and the following is a part copy. "Mr. Scharton passed over a wooden sole for inspection to his visitor. The object was far from being a crude chunk of wood whittled out in a more or less imperfect way to conform to the shape of the human foot. It was smoothly turned and finished to begin with, highly polished and artistically shaped. In contour it was moulded to the shape of the foot destined to rest upon it. The under surface instead of being flat, curved in a rocker shape from the ball. The heel looked like that of a normal shoe, and in the counter was a circular deep sunk hole about as big as a dime with two small drill holes in the bottom. The most striking feature of the wooden shoe bottom was a deep groove running all around the outside edge whose purpose was to be explained later.

"When we first began to investigate this subject," goes on Mr. Scharton, "we found that wooden shoes were not a new idea at all. We found that many patents had been applied for, some so long ago that the application papers and specifications had been destroyed. As might have been expected, these early shoes were very crude and clumsy, and none of them ever reached the practical stage of manufacture in anything like quantity. We decided to go ahead and develop the idea, and one of the first things we did was to get competent orthopedists to design a shape for the bottom, which should be in contour to the foot of the person who was to wear the shoe, in the most scientific and satisfactory manner possible. We wanted to make a shoe for the use of men who had to stand for long hours on hard floors such as are now built into modern industrial establishments. We are not making a dress shoe, but one intended for workmen, although even the finished article will compare favorably with leather."

These people claim broken arches will be a thing of the past after wearing these shoes. If so, it is a decided advance and will sell many shoes. I wonder how a young woman could walk in these shoes if moulded after the low cut shoes they now wear with heels about six inches high. A wooden sole would complete the story. Then they propose to put rollers on the bottoms. Those of us who reside near the center of Peabody could well afford to have a pair of these shoes, for the rolling is good on the new streets.

But joke as we will, there is liable to be something come out of these shoes, and there was never a better opportunity to start them than now. Get them introduced to the public, and just so long as shoes sell for $15 for two, just so long will the up-to-date wooden shoe wiggle its way into public affection which is liable to stay there.

The Chamber of Commerce exhibition closed Wednesday with an outing at Lynnfield. It was a fitting close because the outing was a success, as was the exhibition. When this attraction caught the eyes of men representing other cities and towns, it means that the example of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce will be followed in other manufacturing centers. It has again placed our city on the map of progress, and has not only opened the eyes of our own residents but has shown Peabody up in a far better light than ever before. It may have a tendency to bring buyers of our manufactures to the factory. Once was the time many buyers of leather came here and the cost of selling was reduced. It may not be necessary now, but the high cost of living can be cut by practicing these cuts in expenses which are legion in all kinds of business.

COMMENTS SAWYER.

State Sealer of Weights and Measures, Thure Hanson, has asked the Enterprise to compliment T. Hadley Sawyer for his work in the recent ice cases. The state sealer sent the letter of commendation to the newspapers with the statement he felt sure Mr. Sawyer's native modesty would prevent him from exhibiting the letter. Mr. Sawyer says he is merely trying to do his duty.

FACTORY ROOM NEEDED

Among the problems before the Chamber of Commerce is the need of devising ways and means for the erection of a leather factory building which may be rented or leased to several concerns. It is held that this project would bring to Peabody added industry and the proposed building could be rented before the last nail was driven. Capital is the chief thing, obviously, but it is believed that stock in such a factory plant could be easily disposed of outside of Peabody as well as among local citizens. The way in which the old Pepper candy factory was gobbled up by small concerns operating in the leather game is proof of the assertion that a really building of this kind would prove an investment. The Chamber of Commerce is putting the punch into its new endeavors and it is entirely possible that the leaders of the local institution can devise a way in which to start the erection of a big factory building especially designed for the leather trade.

A WELCOME EVENT

If Peabody is to again be the seat of an annual county fair, as now appears to be reasonably certain through the incorporation of a company with that express purpose in view, the event is one in which considerable local interest will doubtless be taken. In the old days when the Essex Agricultural society conducted its annual event here, thousands of visitors were attracted and the local merchants profited to a considerable extent thereby. That much material benefit certainly accrued from the fair, while from the competition fostered by the awarding of liberal prizes, agriculturists and breeders of poultry and livestock were stimulated to special effort. If this proves true of the fair proposed for some time next month at Rockdale Park, Peabody may be justifiably expected to bid it welcome.

THE 1919 TAX RATE

That the 1919 tax rate, as pointed out by the Enterprise some time ago, must of necessity be higher than last year is now apparent to everyone, yet there is no occasion for alarm on the part of the taxpayers over the increase, whatever it may be. It is certain to be $18 and probably will be slightly over that figure, but even at that it will be far below that of 90 per cent of the cities of the Commonwealth. The great increase in the cost of running the city, which is in the same ratio as that of running a business or maintaining a home, is one of the contributing causes, and higher state and county taxes and a decreased income tax are others. When one considers the rate before the war and the general doubling of expenses of all kinds since that time, there is ample ground for rejoicing over the fact that the local rate has not jumped in proportion. Another fact that must not be lost sight of is that Peabody has something tangible to show for a liberal portion of the money expended, which is a condition which does not exist in many other places. With rates of $26 to $30 being freely predicted in other Massachusetts municipalities, Peabody has reason to be thankful that it is still down to a figure to which the taxpayers can "point with pride" rather than "view with alarm."

AN UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS

The "Made in Peabody" exhibit under the auspices of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce, which closed Wednesday night after a week's run, was an unqualified success in every respect. On the opening night, the band concert and street dancing drew thousands of visitors from out of town and all through the week an unusually large number of strangers were in the city to view the exceptionally fine exhibits of the Peabody manufacturers.

How the display impressed many of the visitors was perhaps most strikingly conveyed by the expression frequently heard in front of the store windows "Why couldn't they have something like this in Salem, in Lynn, in Beverly?" as the case might be. Peabody was given credit generally for being an enterprising city, a city of thriving and diversified industries, and due compliment was paid to its live Chamber of Commerce, which originated the idea and carried it out to a successful conclusion.

The general excellence of the goods exhibited was apparent to everyone. No such display of the great varieties of leather produced here has ever been seen outside of an exclusive leather exhibit, and visitors as well as a large percentage of Peabodyites were amazed at the wonderful things manufactured from the by-products of the tanneries, the men's, and women's suitings and yarns of the Tanners Products Company and the felt goods of the Densten Hair Compny attracting particular attention. The products of the score of other industries also came in for a share of the favorable comment.

All this direct evidence of the advertising value of the exhibit is apparent to everyone, but only a few realize the vast amount of publicity that was obtained for Peabody and its industries indirectly. The Boston Sunday and daily papers and the dailies and weeklies of Essex county all carried stories of the exhibit furnished by the Chamber of Commerce in advance, and finally the trade papers and scores of the dailies scattered all over New England were reached through the same source. What all this publicity means to Peabody cannot be measured or even accurately estimated, but that it is certain to prove of great material advantage is evident to everyone even remotely familiar with the result of newspaper advertising.

ROUND ABOUT

I observed Pershing ave. yesterday as I rode through North Beverly. Why not an Edwards st. for Peabody while we are renaming some streets that now carry meaningless names? Probably all of the 26th "YD" boys from Peabody would applaud this action by the City Council.

Henry M. Cawley, meter inspector and master plumber, broke a long record recently when for the first time in his life he lost a document. It was an insurance policy. Papers of similar value once in his possession have generally found a safe receptacle but this one evidently was mislaid.

Henry R. Jacobs, once alderman in Lynn and father of City Solicitor Earl Jacobs of that city, was among the out of town visitors to the "Made in Peabody" exhibits. He is business manager of Greater Lynn fair and it is possible that as a result of his visit some Peabody exhibits will find their way to the Meadow Park fair to be held this fall. While in Peabody, Mr. Jacobs called on Miss Caroline Merrill of Thorndike st. who taught the Lynn man his three R's in the Shepard grammar school in Lynn. Miss Merrill is now in her 89th year and enjoys excellent health. She was in the yard picking flowers when her one-time pupil called on her last Saturday.

Corn borers and pesky green worms which are causing such havoc among hundreds of Peabody gardens have yet to make their appearance at the City Farm off Lynnfield st. Supt. Thomas Gilroy who is establishing a splendid record as caretaker of the city's institution has 23 acres of land under glowing cultivation which is the biggest crop ever. His three-acre patch of potatoes are now being harvested as needed for the inmates of the home. Already he has filled 50 barrels with cabbages. A patch of eight acres is given over to a sure enough bounteous harvest of squash. The array of vegetables presented by Supt. Gilroy would cause any farmer to marvel. Some days ago a representative of the State Board of Agriculture inspected the farm and reported that corn borers had yet to make their appearance.

Four hundred and twenty-five patrons were handled at the Warren National Bank last Saturday night, actual count being recorded as each person entered the bank between the hours of 7 and 9. The Peabody bank is one of the few in Essex county that carries on a general banking business Saturday evenings as an accommodation to its patrons. Checks are cashed, notes discounted and everything in the way of banking business that is done day times is done Saturday evenings. Apparently it is appreciated, this kind of service as the number of patrons above mentioned would attest.

I observe that Glover Ware of the Strand theatre is one of the theatre men of Southern Essex interested in the newly formed organization of theatre owners to promote the welfare of the craft. The Ware brothers have certainly given Peabody a worth-while picture house and crowded houses that number two and three times a week patrons are the regular thing. Manager Chet Bent has proved the right man in his position. He carries out the Ware brothers' slogan, that of pleasing the patrons.

The North Shore Babies hospital is shaping the destiny of 25 precious infants, so I am informed this week and getting the usual excellent results. Here is an institution that fills an important gap but which is not appreciated to the extent it should be. Peabody babies are among the number enrolled at the hospital at Ropes' Point, on lower Dearborn st., Salem.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN MONDAY

Beautiful little Marguerite Clark, who has been called the sweetest girl on the screen, will appear at the Strand today and Saturday in her latest picture entitled "Girls." The photoplay is based upon a delightful comedy by the late Clyde Fitch, a noted dramatist, and affords the charming little star a splendid vehicle. The story is original in plot and is considered to be one of Clyde Fitch's best plays. It concerns the attempts of a young and beautiful self-styled man-hater to dodge Cupid's darts, and her final surrender to the god of love. Miss Clark is backed up by a top notch supporting cast headed by popular Harrison Ford. Dashing Marie Walcamp in a chapter of the sensational "Red Glove" and a Christie comedy starring Fay Tincher, entitled "Rowdy Ann" will be the other attractions on this sterling program.

Alice Joyce in "The Captain's Captain" will be the main attraction for Sunday evening. This picture is adapted from James A. Cooper's widely read novel "Capt. Abe, Storekeeper." Johnnie Hines and Barbara Casleton in "Just Sylvia" will be the second feature for Sunday.

In "Sunnyside," his third million dollar comedy, in which Charlie Chaplin will be seen at the Strand Monday and Tuesday, the world famous comedian tries to beat a dude at his own game. Charlie is an uncouth farm hand who loves a pretty country maid. A city dandy comes to the village and threatens to steal the affections of Charlie's light of love. Then Charlie dresses up. Those who never miss a picture in which Chaplin is seen can guess the rest. Ethel Clayton in Cosmo Hamilton's story, "Men, Women and Money" will be the feature picture for Monday. This is a story of the idle rich and an innocent girl who strayed along the primrose path. This picture was originally scheduled to play the Strand a month ago but owing to a mistake in booking did not arrive. It is a fine production in every sense of the word and well worth waiting for.

Priscilla Dean in "The Wild Cat of Paris" will be offered Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Dean's advance to stardom has been really remarkable. Patrons of the Strand will recall her fine work in "The Silk-Lined Burglar." In this story she is shown as the queen of the Paris Apache's. It shows vividly the awakening of these strange peoples and their going to fight for their beloved France. "The Wild Cat of Paris" is not only a tense, happy-ending melodrama but it is a photoplay that will startle all who see it.

Glover and Harris Ware, owners of the Strand, are busy contracting for next season's pictures, which starts Sept. 1. Pictures which cost $50.00 last year will sell for $100.00 this year and in consequence some advance in price will have to be made. The amount of this advance will be determined by adding the increased cost in film, labor and supplies to last year's expenses and then figuring the revenue required to meet this increase.

Mrs. Bertha Johnson of Central st. is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from her duties at William Sawyer's.

William Cronin of Andover st. has returned to the National Calfskin Co. after enjoying a week's vacation.

A. C. LAWRENCE ADMITS HIS PLANT BALL TEAM CAN ALSO MAKE LEATHER

A. C. LAWRENCE.

Arthur C. Lawrence whose name heads Peabody's biggest corporation, that of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. saw the A. C. L. ball team take the first leg of the series from the United Shoe last Saturday, 3 to 2 and was one of the most enthusiastic fans that swarmed the grounds for the big fray. He witnessed the game in company with Lyman P. Osborn, president of the Warren National Bank, and officials of his big plants in this city.

"Well, what do you think of your team now?" he was asked when the last Shoe batter went out in the ninth and Peabody had won.

"A good ball team," was his quick rejoinder. Then he added, "If the A. C. L. could make as good leather as they play ball, it would be fine."

"Wait a minute," interpolated the Peabody bank president, "guess you haven't seen the A. C. L. made in Peabody exhibit, have you?"

Mr. Lawrence had not.

So the chauffeur got orders to drive the party of fans to the store of the George H. Jacobs Co. in the O'Shea building where the A. C. L. exhibit of leathers lured the crowds of visitors.

Mr. Lawrence inspected the exhibit, rubbing shoulders with other spectators who didn't know who the visitor was. When he had viewed the entire window display a smile wreathed his countenance and he confessed the exhibit was quite satisfactory. He admitted then that the A. C. L. evidently was making good leather thereby bolstering up their reputation as experts in this line as well as in the National pastime.

Not many spectators at the game last Saturday knew that the father of the A. C. L. was among their number. Mr. Lawrence threw out the first ball in the opening game of the A. C. L. some weeks ago and this was his second visit to Peabody since that time. He returned to Boston glad of his visit.

SPORTING GOSSIP

The A. C. L. looked the best ever last Saturday in its blood game with the United Shoe. Fitz has gotten the kinks out of his thousand dollar arm all right now.

Eddie O'Connor, admittedly Peabody High's stellar player this season, is keeping in condition by working with the Rockdales of South Peabody this summer. His work at the hot corner borders on the sensational frequently and he handles everything that comes his way. Not only that but he is clouting the ball hard and often and extra bases are his regular diet. Last Saturday his hitting won the game for the Rockdales at Nahant. He got a single and a two-bagger, his extra base hit sending in the tying run and he tallied the winning run himself in the same round. Eddie is the "baby" of the famous O'Connor family on South st., all sons of Evening Officer Dennis O'Connor, who have made enviable reputations at Peabody High in baseball and football. Dennis and Joseph are the other two star players. Dennis is now plant manager at the Woelfel Embos-sing Co. and Joseph is with the Marines in Cuba. Dennis saw fighting in the Argonne.

"Buster" Childs, one of the niftiest shortstops ever to represent Peabody High also played with the Rockdales last Saturday and showed that he had lost none of his ability to eat 'em alive. Guy LeCain, also P. H. S. graduate, was on the slab and did a good job.

"Tom" Wallace, former third sacker for P. H. S. collected $25 last Saturday for sitting on the bench in with the Marlboro city team. He did not expect to play unless called in an emergency.

Peabody fans who saw Chick Davies perform against the Cornets in Lynn last Saturday figured he should have tightened a bit more surely in the rounds that extra base clouts settled his fate. It looked as if Chick let up in the wrong pinch. This boy could be drawing down a big salary in the majors if he would listen to the pleas of the scouts. If he was playing with the majors, Peabody would be represented in big league ball. Chick has about everything a good pitcher should have and if you don't believe me, ask Pickey Gill.

FATHER OF LABOR DAY

GEORGE M'GUIRE
Died Nov. 1, 1913

LABOR'S OWN DAY
First Monday in September Is Legal Holiday in Almost Every State Now.

THE American Federation of Labor held an annual convention at Columbus, O., December 8-12, 1896. At this session the officers reported the following:

"At the fourth session of the federation a resolution was adopted making the first Monday in September of each year labor's national holiday and recommending its observance by wage-workers generally throughout the country. This met with response that exceeded the most sanguine expectations. In our great manufacturing and distributing centers thousands of workmen marched in procession and participated in the festivities of the picnic grounds, where the most skilled mechanics and workers in professions and laborers united in a common celebration, exchanging friendly fraternal greetings while they listened to the champions of labor discussing the economic and political questions of the day. The good effects of this are so well understood that we recommend its more general observance still until it shall be as uncommon for a man to work on that day as on Independence day."

Nearly all of the states in the Union now have statutes making the first Monday in September a legal holiday, thus observing Labor day.

In order that there be no misunderstanding with reference to the action of congress in enacting legislation upon this subject it is well to state that the law passed by congress June 28, 1894, described above, as making Labor day a national holiday only provided that Labor day should be observed in the District of Columbia, as well as the then territories.

Labor day was established in the various states and in the order and on the dates named below: 1887, February 21, Oregon; 1887, March 15, Colorado; 1887, April 8, New Jersey; 1887, May 6, New York; 1887, May 11, Massachusetts; 1889, March 20, Connecticut; 1889, March 29, Nebraska; 1889, April 25, Pennsylvania; 1890, April 28, Ohio; 1891, February 19, Maine; 1891, February 24, Washington; 1891, March 4, Montana; 1891, March 4, Kansas; 1891, March 9, Indiana; 1891, March 11, Tennessee; 1891, March 31, New Hampshire; 1891, June 17, Illinois; 1891, October 16, Georgia; 1891, December 22, South Carolina; 1892, February 5, Virginia; 1892, February 23, Utah; 1892, July 7, Louisiana; 1892, December 12, Alabama; 1893, February 11, Texas; 1893, February 14, Delaware; 1893, March 23, California; 1893, April 18, Minnesota; 1893, April 19, Wisconsin; 1892, April 29, Florida; 1893, May 26, Rhode Island; 1894, June 28, District of Columbia and territories; 1895, April 9, Missouri.

Eastend Angry Over Garbage In Ash Cans

Residents of the Eastend want the Board of Health to hail into court persons who throw garbage into their cans and leave the receptacles near the sidewalk. McCarthy Bros., the ash contractors, refuse to handle ash cans that are filled with this sort of refuse and the terms of their contract support them in their position. There is a law against putting garbage into the ashes. One word from the Board of Health ought to suffice to correct this nuisance.

LIEUT. KARL WOODMAN.

Privs. Boyle and Cassidy reached New York coming home on the George Washington, the former palatial steamship which carried President Wilson to and from the peace conference. Lieut. Woodman got into Hoboken Wednesday and was sent to Camp Merritt, N. J. He wired the news of his arrival and notified his parents, Principal and Mrs. Willard Woodman that he would call them by long distance telephone at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Charles H. Cassidy, father of Priv. Cassidy went over to New York Wednesday night to visit his hero son. With him went Leonard Cassidy, brother of the young veteran with the enviable war record. Leonard Cassidy, turned down three times when he tried to enlist, finally got into a uniform in the service of the Commander of the Northeast Dept. in Boston and came out a sergeant.

Today the Marines with the two Peabody boys parade in New York. It is reported they are to go to Washington where they will be reviewed by President Wilson.

Lieut. Woodman went to France a corporal in the 101st Engineers and his work so impressed his superior officers that he was rapidly promoted until he was made a First Lieutenant

The Second Congregational church was filled to overflowing yesterday afternoon when hundreds of friends of the late Mrs. Elmer Skinner gathered to pay their final respects to this lovable woman and neighbor. Single Men Walloped In Baseball

Most of the 18 ball players who staged the national game at the Chamber of Commerce outing at Lynnfield last Wednesday are still nursing sore arms, legs and fingers and most of the unmarried men, some who are not looking for wives, are carrying about more or less sore heads for they lost to the benedicts by the tune of 12 to 6. Chet Bent, proud husband and father is the man to whom most of the credit may go for letting the married men win for his homer with the bases almost choked gave the balance of power to the family men. Dr. Yale who pitched for the unmarried men had only one bad inning but had rather poor support most of the distance. Roger Smith, who held down the initial sack for the married men, put up a regular McInnis game and Councillor Frank McKee, who used to be a sweet ball player, caught a superb game for the winners.

President Patrick J. Woods got in a Babe Ruth swat for a homer. Dr. Murphy played short for the single men and knew how the position should be played although he didn't have a great deal to do. Of course had Jimmie Buckley, who is a big man at the game, been in the points for the single men, it might have been different. Cap Hayes delivered.

ROCKDALE PARK

Rockdale Park should draw a big crowd tomorrow with the rivalry in the jockey races which are gripping the race track devotees. Two five-mile motorcycle races are also on the cards in addition to the usual fine field of trotting races. The motorcycle races are a big feature with plenty of daring.

Mr. and Mrs. White Observe 25th Wedding Year

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. White will observe their silver wedding anniversary next Thursday evening with a reception at their home, 5 Lincoln place, from 7 to 10. Invitations are being sent out today to their many friends. There will be a musical entertainment and refreshments will be served.

Mr. White, who is sexton at the South Street Church, was born in Danvers, and came to Peabody 32 years ago, entering the employ of N. W. Edson & Co., who carried on a grocery business at the corner of Wallis and Main streets at that time. He spent 22 years in that business.

He married Miss Helen G. Simmons two months after her graduation from Peabody High School, the ceremony being performed on August 7, 1894. Three children blessed their union, two of whom are Mrs. Mabel E. Moser of Middleton and Alden G. White, who is employed at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. Another son, Lester, died at the age of 16 months.

Mr. White has probably attended more funerals than any other man now residing in this city, being called on as a driver for nearly every funeral held in this city during the past 15 years. Both he and his wife enjoy good health and they will be showered with the congratulations of a large host of friends, all of whom invited to attend the reception at their home.

Cloverdale Refused To Burn Lights

The sole disappointing feature of the "Made in Peabody" exhibits show last night was the refusal of Elmer R. Abbott, manager of the Cloverdale store in the O'Shea block, to keep the store lights burning during the evening's promenade. Thousands of people were thereby deprived of seeing the remarkable display of the Woelfel Embossing Co., whose exhibit is easily one of the features of the big show. This was the only store which filed to meet the request of the Chamber of Commerce to keep its window lights burning, and there is much adverse comment expressed at the shortsightedness of the manager

MADE IN PEABODY EXHIBITS VIEWED BY HUGE CROWD

The "Made in Peabody" exhibit under the auspices of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce, opened on schedule time yesterday in the store windows of Main and Lowell streets and Peabody square, and will continue for one week. Street dancing to the music of the Salem Cadet Band, stationed on the City Hall lawn one of the advertising features of the exhibit, drew a large number of visitors from surrounding cities and towns last evening.

Peabody was the mecca for thousands of people from all over the country and Greater Boston on the opening of the exhibits and the open air dancing on Chestnut street near City Hall was participated in by hundreds of couples. The Salem Cadet Band gave one of its inimitable performances and its singing numbers were wildly applauded.

The manufacturers of Peabody have done themselves proud in their exhibit of their wares in the many store windows on Peabody square, Lowell and Main streets. We have heard so many people speak of the fine display, scores hearing of it have made special visits to see what is "Made in Peabody." Our German friends, which is proper now that the war is over, made known their products the world over by these words. Peabody's leather has been seen the world over, no doubt, but the wearer did not know or care where it came from. But the unanimous opinion is that we are bigger than we thought we were, and produce varieties not dreamed of by the ordinary mortal.

The American Glue Company presented surprises. We have been used to seeing glue stock and hair conveyed through the streets by horse and auto truck for years. It generally made one take notice because of the distinct quality of the aroma. Little did we think that mess of soupy substance could be converted into gelatin and glue, emory cloth, sand paper and in all 15 varieties. Those of us who attend the movies would not think that this concern had a hand in our pleasure, but such is the case, for the films are produced in a glue factory. Eye opener No. 1. The Armstrong Leather Co.'s exhibit of calfskins in various colors as displayed in Pushard's drug store window has come in for a generous share of praise. The hustling plant of William J. Dodge, oils and extracts manufacturer, shows samples of its high grade supplies for the leather trade.

In looking over the leather on exhibition, the variety of colors and finishes are astonishing. W. J. Budgell & Sons show a large variety of colored sheepskins. Vorel & Sons have a line of chamois. James Barry, fancy colors in India goat, his reputation in this line being long established. Then we come to Calvin Osborne Company. They are special

Sec'y Thomas Man of Hour In Exhibits

Sec. Ralph E. Thomas of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce is coming in for all kinds of praise for his initiative that is responsible for the "Made in Peabody" exhibits. As former secretary of the Portsmouth, Ohio, Chamber, he has figured in several Korn Karnivals, as they are called in the Presidential State. He suggested that Peabody stage something similar and he had had general direction of the altogether successful affair which is bound to give some excellent publicity to Peabody, the home of good streets under Mayor Donnell. Thomashas proved himself a live wire and there are those who believe he earned his year's salary in staging this big show of made in Peabody exhibits. William E. Searle, leading publicity man in Essex County, has been a big factor also by his newspaper stories of Peabody's gala event. President Woods and Directors have done their part well.

CITY HALL

After beseiging the various members of the school committee to give her a regular election to take effect when the school term opens in September, Miss Marion Dunham of Danvers has capitulated to Danny Cupid. Miss Dunham had substituted in one of the East End schools for 20 weeks when recess time came in June, and she liked the idea of living in Danvers and being able to teach in Peabody. She solicited the school committee armed with credentials that attested well if superfluously her ability to train the young boys and girls and her record of 20 weeks was quite enough. It was a problem before the school board, for Peabody girls seemed to have the preference, and yet after considerable "sweating" the board duly elected the Danvers girl. Before the committee could meet again to discuss various communications Superintendent Robinson, there came a letter from Danvers saying that Miss Dunham would not want the position. Instead she had elected to heed the whisperings of Danny Cupid for an early marriage.

They are joshing school committee man Stephen S. Littlefield. Some weeks back he received a letter from an old friend urging him to do what he could to provide a teacher's position to a certain West Peabody young lady with ample qualifications. So he brought up the girl's name for election. There were more applicants than jobs and it was some puzzle. Littlefield can get about what he wants in the school board meetings and the upshot was the election of the girl he had named. But when Superintendent Robinson notified the girl that she was elected he got back a letter in which she said she had changed her mind and intended to take a post graduate course.

Atty. Elmer Foley, who is most likely to capture the Democratic nomination for representative next month, has the signatures of Councilman Horrigan, Sullivan and Hogan on his nomination papers.

Peabody is fortunate in securing Henry King as teacher of mathematics in the freshman classes at the High School. He is a Peabody boy and has had considerable experience. He was at one time in Greenwich, Conn., schools.

Police Patrol Driver William Hingston will be placed in the service of the police department this month and assigned to duty in the east end. Officer Martin Quinlan will be placed in charge of Walnut street and the beat formerly covered by Inspector Pierce.

ASK HEALTH BOARD TO CLEAN BROOK

There is a brook which runs under Lowell street from a point just above the railroad crossing in the square, and thence in the general direction of Danvers until it connects with another stream near Railroad avenue and eventually winds its way into the North river. It is out of sight, but not out of mind. One cannot hear its rippling waters as they merrily flow on their way to the sea, but what it lacks in picturesqueness by reason of its low visibility it more than makes up in odiferousness. It is not a brook that would suggest the inspiration for Tennyson's immortal poem. As a matter of fact, it smells to High Heaven and about the only thing it would inspire is profanity. As it flows beneath several business buildings in its course through the section around the square, its nauseous odors permeate these premises, and loud and insistent calls for relief are heard. It is rapidly becoming a nuisance and should be cleared out insantly.

first resulting in a victory for A. C. L. by the score of 3-2. A snappy contest is expected, as the first game was played on that extremely hot Saturday of July 5, and handicapped the heavy Shoe team somewhat.

Jewett will probably twirl for the Machinists, with Dube in reserve in case the Tanners take too great a liking to Jewett's delivery. Jimmie Fitzpatrick, the strikeout king, will do the box honors for Manager Quinlan's team. Thirteen or fourteen strikeouts is nothing exceptional for the big left-hander, and he does not by any means confine his specialty to the weak end of the batting order. Witness his work last week against Salem when he fanned such men as Merritt (twice), Halloran, Cody and Somerville.

A least one new man will be seen in an A. C. L. uniform tomorrow, as "Doc" Ring, the sensational shortstop and 1919 captain of Tufts, will play in the A. C. L. infield. A. C. L. is building up its team for the Cornet and Salem series, and Rings work will be closely watched by the fans tomorrow. He has been playing nifty ball with Manchester, and has faced the Shoe team twice during the Manchester-Shoe series.

United Shoe have defeated some classy teams, including Manchester, Boston Navy Yard and Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., A. C. L., have been defeated but once, and intend to limit their losses to that one.

A game full of fight can be looked for tomorrow, as United Shoe are out to avenge their defeat of July 5, and A. C. L. are still sore over their one loss. Lord help the umpire if he makes a very close decision.

Friend's Baked Beans are the only canned beans that are ists of splits and show a variety which is attractive. The Danvers Bleachery picked the Co-operative Bank window for its display. Sheets and pillow cases abound there, and give us an idea they are far beyond the idea, they were only a bleachery.

The L. B. Southwick Company give us a fine exhibition, but it does not begin to represent their output in variety. This concern manufactures 225 varieties of colors and finishes, which with the grades mean 2000 different species of leather. There must be a profitable place for every sheepskin.
These 2000 varieties make a place for all skins that sheep carry.

The National Calfskin Company have a neat window. With 65 varieties they have Henz beaten. The arrangement of this display is particularly inviting, and in keeping with the doings of one of the largest calf tanners in the trade.

Richard Young Co.

Richard Young Company give us an idea of their output. If this company could display all the goods manufactured by them in their 14 tanneries, no window would be large enough to show them. Their output in Peabody is sheepskins only. Moses rage shows us what a pottery means.
He did not show his other wares, probably preferring to keep close to pottery ware, which is his original specialty. Going down Main street, Mr. S. and M. W. Snyder show us their handiwork. They now occupy the O'Shea plant and are comers.
Essex Tanning make patent leather in black and colors. An attractive exhibit.

Do any think a sand and gravel company could make an attractive window? But the fact remains that they show you five varieties of stone and gravel arranged so as to attract the eye. The New England Sand & Gravel Company by up-to-date methods have made a success of a venture where others have failed.

Tanners Product Co.

One of the most interesting displays is made by the Tanners Product Company, who manufacture in the old Corwin plant at South Peabody. They are producing cloth, yarn, made from cattle hair mixed with some wool.
The advance in what can be done with cattle hair is phenomenal.

Hunt-Rankin Leather Co. show their choice leather at Raddin's. Only such leather as is manufactured today can be exhibited, for like all the tanners, everything is sold ahead. The Verza Company and the Trimount Leather Company have a large variety to choose from. J. S. Crehore & Co. make a specialty of fancy splits, made in attractive colors. Pearse Leather Corporation show us a large variety of finishes of goat and sheep leather.
The Peabody Leather Company are large manufacturers of counters, heels and pancake stock. Their exhibit gives one a chance to see what is in our shoes, which are the bowels, so to speak. B. N. Moore & Sons Co.,

now owned and operated by an English concern, have a large assortment of goat and sheep in fancy colors.
They are no, doubt, handicapped in presenting a variety such as they ordinarily carry in account of the shortage of stock.

George C. Vaughn, the original and only manufacturer of ivory sole leather hereabouts, shows us what can be done in chrome sole leather. His claim of wearing qualities for this leather has already been proven.

A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., because of their large variety, have no doubt the largest exhibit in the list.
Their window at the Jacobs clothing store placed there by an expert is another example of how they do things.
Welting, pinskins, Nubuck, patent leather are some of the list.

Marine Hardware Co.

One of the surprises to all is the exhibit of the Marine Hardware Co.
Brass is their chief output, and the window is one which attracts many people. Everything brass on a ship, they make, and the attractive parts seem foreign to leather. Woolful Embossing Co. are the pioneers of embossing. They show not only leather, but paper embossed in delicate colors.

At William A. Shea's store the Fancy Paper Works present novelties in paper covering for boxes and elsewhere. This is a novel business.

N. H. Poor & Co. have long enjoyed the reputation of being specialists on fancy colored sheepskins. Their exhibition is in keeping with their reputation. The Morse Blacking Co. make the stuff which gives leather its lustre. When in finishing trouble telephone Morse.

An Enterprise reporter visited all the windows, and has briefly given a list of contributors to the success of Peabody's first "Made in Peabody."
This spirit of co-operation cannot but help to boom Peabody, and here's hoping that this display is only the beginning of a new era made possible by a live Chamber of Commerce. As predicted in this paper, this organization led properly will go over the top many times for the good of the whole of Peabody.

50 Exhibits Displayed.

The products of approximately 50
Peabody industries are shown in the exhibit, leather, of course predomi-nating. During the week most of the large leather manufacturers are keeping "open house" to the leather trade.

THE TRANSIT PROBLEM.

In making the assertion, practically in the form of an ultimatum, that the public cannot have both trolley cars and jitneys and must soon decide which they prefer to patronize, the trolley interests have raised an issue of state-wide importance. While the railroad interests have no authority to enforce such an ultimatum except by discontinuance of trolley service, it is apparent to those who give thought to public transportation problems that there are reasonable grounds upon which to base such a view of the situation.

On this question public opinion is divided. There are a number of former street car patrons who have openly expressed the view that the discontinuance of the trolley lines and the removal of the tracks from the streets would be far from a calamity, and naturally they are backed up by the jitney operators.

To the majority of the traveling public and to the big business interests of the state, however, the discontinuance of the trolley lines would be one of the greatest steps backward that could possibly be taken. The situation during the recent strike on the Bay State Street Railroad effectively demonstrated the extent to which the traveling public depended upon the trolley lines for transportation, and incidentally also demonstrated that the jitneys do not as yet offer a satisfactory solution of the problem.

Then again, there is the question of personal comfort and safety, in which, at present, there is no comparison between the trolley service and that of the jitneys, the latter appearing in the guise of a makeshift means of transportation until something better is devised. If it did come to a choice between the trolleys and jitneys, and the latter should be chosen, doubtless in a short time a much better jitney service would be forced by public opinion through the agencies having control over transportation. The fact remains, however, that at present the jitney service is crude, inadequate, and not altogether desirable.

It has apparently been demonstrated that under the increased cost of everything connected with railroad operation the old five cent fare is a thing of the past. It also appears to have been demonstrated that the jump to ten cents with drastic limitations on the distance to be carried has cut the riding down more than enough to offset the increased fare. What then is the solution of the problem?

The most reasonable proposition thus far put forth is that of a five cent fare within city limits. This would take care of by far the greatest amount of traffic at a fair rate and remove one of the greatest objections to the present established fare. If the Bay State reduced its fare to Lynn to 10 cents it would put the jitneys out of business.

MORE HOSPITAL FACILITIES.

The necessity for additional hospital accommodations in Peabody is fast becoming apparent, and some action towards securing it must be taken in the near future. The J. B. Thomas Hospital is an excellent institution, and one in which Peabodyites may well take a justifiable pride, but at present its facilities are inadequate to meet the demands upon it. An addition or annex of some sort is needed and will have to be provided if the hospital is to continue as the only institution of its kind to meet the growing needs of the city. At present, although urgent cases can be taken care of, the hospital facilities are taxed to such an extent that it has been necessary to establish a "waiting list" for cases in which treatment may safely be deferred. A more extensive maternity ward is also greatly to be desired, and to meet these requirements an extension or addition of some sort to the present structure must be provided. An appropriation for this purpose by the city council naturally suggests itself as one solution of the problem, and the matter is of such importance as to warrant consideration by this branch of the city government.

HONORING SOLDIER DEAD.

In the matter of honoring her soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War Peabody has been somewhat of a laggard and action along this line would be appreciated. There are a number of public squares that might well be renamed for these soldier heroes and a fitting tribute could be paid in this way. One square which suggests itself for this purpose is the one at the junction of Aborn and Sutton streets, but there are plenty of others. What is known as "Bleachery square" might well bear a soldier's name. If there are not squares enough, why not name some of the new streets with the same idea in mind?

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

August is here without even a single holiday to celebrate.

And nothing to celebrate with if there was one.

Among the "Made in Peabody" products is also one live candidate for the Republican nomination for district attorney of Essex County.

Count that day lost whose setting sun looks not down on a new strike begun.

Now if we only had rubber-tired car wheels to go with out concrete streets everybody would be happy.

All New England is reading about Peabody this week, thanks to the Chamber of Commerce publicity department.

SHIP ROCK LODGE.

Grand Guardian Grace W. Thurston is to be entertained by Ship Rock Lodge, N. E. O. P., at their meeting next Monday night. Florence E. Crofts, the Warden, hopes to see a large attendance of members present.

ROUND ABOUT

Chief of Police Grady is sponsor for the suggestion that the new Hassam pavement square at Aborn and Sutton street, best known now as John's Square, be given the name of Warner Square, in honor of Delmar J. Warner, Peabody's first war veteran killed in action. Warner enlisted in the Medical Unit of the 102d Field Artillery and he was killed by a German shell while he was in the act of giving medical aid to a fallen soldier on the field. Councillor Brown wants a committee appointed to consider renaming several streets whose names mean nothing now and which he believes should be named after Peabody soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice in the war.

There is a strong possibility that an agricultural fair will be held in Peabody late in September, under the direction of Edward C. Cann of Lynn, who is conducting the Saturday attractions at Rockdale Park. A new amusement company was incorporated in Lynn this week, of which Mr. Cann is the head, and one of the purposes for which it was created is the holding of an annual agricultural fair at Rockdale Park. Up to within a few years the Essex Agricultural Society's annual "cattle show and fair" was held here and attracted thousands of visitors from all over the county. Now this show is held at the society's permanent grounds in Topsfield. It is stated that there will be no Reading fair this year, which is an argument for the proposed event to be held here.

"How would you like to be the iceman?" is not the question to hurl at the men employed on the teams that bring us frozen water on these hot days, for when the humidity is great these men are frequently obliged to work two days in one in order to see that the householders are supplied. It was nearly midnight when some of the Peabody teams finished their day last Monday, and it was somewhat unique to behold the iceman carrying a lantern in one hand and the piece of ice in the other.

Peabody High School never had a more popular teacher than Miss Amy Leary of Danvers, who has completed her work after many years in the service of Peabody. Alumni of the school are unanimous in this testimonial to the teacher of French who has toiled so faithfully here, and all wish her much happiness during her remaining years in whatever endeavor she finds herself.

The contempt some citizens have for good streets was shown last Wednesday morning, when a Concord buggy went through the Square with a pile of lumber 20 feet long dragging one end on the pavement.

Prohibition has had the effect of thinning out the population of the Essex County jails, for last week the register at Salem was 21 and in Lawrence only 17. No Peabody guest was recorded in either institution.

George C. Farrington, the insurance man, has had a banner summer so far in his garden at Hampton Beach, N. H., where he has his summer home, and he finds his real pleasure in being the sole caretaker. Among the summer colony it is admitted that his garden tract is second to none. Incidentally the Peabody man sides with the farmers who want the daylight saving law repealed.

Peabody's good roads have been heralded nation-wide, it might be argued, when citizens observe touring cars from various states of the union passing through Peabody Square. I noticed cars bearing the number plates of California, Arkansas, Maryland and District of Columbia this week. Last week a car from Quebec was a visitor here. The Canadian car number plate was made of wood with the letters painted in red.

Constable Arthur Reed is in Detroit in company with his daughter, Miss Norbertina M. Reed, United States Army nurse with a fine record of service in France. They are the guests of his son Louis Reed, who is with the Dodge Auto Co. The visit is a reunion after a long separation. Albert Reed, another son, who is in the naval service, now stationed at Pittsburgh, was in Peabody last week. He and Constable Reed had not seen each other for nearly 10 years. Miss Reed, the war nurse, arrived home from France last week and was met in New York by her father. Together they went on to Detroit.

Priscilla Dean Heads Strand

Priscilla Dean in "The Silk-Lined Burglar," adapted from one of the celebrated "Boston Blackie" stories that appear in the Red Book Magazine, will be the main attraction at the Strand today and Saturday. "A drama of suspense" is the characterization given to this photoplay and those who have read one of the "Boston Blackie" stories will be prepared to accept it as warranted. Miss Dean plays the part of "the silk-lined burglar" who advertises for a professional safe blower. Boston Blackie answers her ad. Miss Dean and Boston attempt to rifle a safe in order to secure some papers needed to save her father from disgrace. What happens when the pair are discovered by the owner of the safe results in a rapid-fire drama that is guaranteed to hold picturegoers on the edge of their seats. Marie Walcamp in "The Red Glove" will be the second feature for today. This picture needs no introduction to patrons of the Strand, who recognize it as the greatest of all serials. One of Mack Sennett's gloom dispellers, "Hearts and Flowers" will also be shown today, rounding out a program that speaks for itself.

Bessie Love in "The Wishing Ring Man" will top the bill for Sunday evening. Miss Love was recently voted the girl with the "sweetest" face in pictures. Gladys Leslie in "The Beloved Imposter" will be the other attraction for Sunday.

Elsie Ferguson, in her latest Art-craft picture, "The Avalanche," will be shown on Monday and Tuesday. Miss Ferguson plays three parts in "The Avalanche," and as each is supposedly rich and extravagant, the gowns and furs, not to speak of the gems, were essential to the proper portrayal of the roles. In one scene, when Miss Ferguson strolls into a fashionable gambling house, she wears a gown, fur wraps, jeweled slippers and other adornments worth over $30,000. Her stockings alone cost $300, they being fashioned out of old lace of antique pattern, while the heels of her slippers are resplendent with the glitter of six hundred small diamonds. Aside from this "The Avalanche" is a stirring photoplay which is filled with suspense and thrills and in which Miss Ferguson appears to great advantage. A Fox-Sunshine comedy and Photograph will also be shown Monday.

Wallace Reid, one of the most ideal of all the screen heroes, portrays one of his finest roles in "The Love Burglar," which will be shown at the Strand Wednesday and Thursday. Wally plays the part of the "Cult Kid," in this offering. Another big attraction for the mid-week change will be the opening installment of "Elmo, the Mighty." Elmo Lincoln, who will be remembered as Tarzan in "Tarzan of the Apes," and as the blacksmith in "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin."

Charlie Chaplin in "Sunnyside" will be presented Monday and Tuesday, August 11 and 12.

Deep sympathy is expressed for Mrs. Purvis Smith in the tragedy which claimed as victims her husband and five-year-old son Fletcher last Friday night, when the automobile in which they were riding on their way home was struck by the 6.30 p. m. train on Summit street. Mrs. Smith is convalescing from her own injuries received in the fatal accident. Mr. Smith was killed outright and the son died a few hours after the accident. The double funeral was held Tuesday and was largely attended. Mr. Smith was a painter and all-round mechanic and a well known resident of South Peabody, where he lived for years. He was active, genial and loyal to his home and family, and will be greatly missed by a wide circle of friends and neighbors. Little Fletcher was five years old and was to begin school in the fall. He was a very attractive little boy. The funeral services were held at the Second Congregational Church at 2 p. m. Tuesday. The Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias attended in a body. The beautiful floral offerings conveyed evidence of the love and esteem in which both were held.

It was erroneously stated in this column that the grandnephew of Walter Osgood had been killed in an auto accident in Beverly. The boy was struck by the automobile and badly injured. He is expected to fully recover.

Grange To Inspect Peabody Play Parks

The Peabody Grange has appointed ward committees to visit the playgrounds each week for the balance of the season, for the purpose of discussing the work at the first fall meeting. It is likely that suggestions for more instructive work will be made as a result of the inspection work, and it is very probable that the Grange may vote to assist in the playground work to the extent of purchasing some needed equipment.

Chamber of Commerce Doing Real Service In Blind Grade Crossings

Boston & Maine officials, headed by John Rourke, superintendent Portland division; George K. Thornton, division engineer; Otis Ruggles, signal supervisor; George H. Woodman, track supervisor Southern Division; P. Higgins, track supervisor Portland Division; Mr. Durfee, assistant to superintendent of Southern Division, met with the Chamber of Commerce committee Wednesday and inspected several crossings in West Peabody.

Several plans were suggested by the committee as an improvement over the present signals used and Supt. Rourke stated that the Boston & Maine was willing and anxious to make any changes that would reduce the possibility of accidents. However, he explained that before any changes could be made, it would be necessary that approval be granted by the Massachusetts Public Service Commission to make such changes.

It was the opinion of all that the new wig-wag signal, as now used at the crossing on Allen's Court, was an improvement over the present signal system, and the proper steps will be taken by the city officials and the Chamber of Commerce committee to have approval of Public Service Commission granted to make the necessary changes.

Among the crossings inspected were the two on the turnpike, Lake street, Winona street, Summit street, and Allen's Court crossings.

The Chamber of Commerce committee consisted of Edward H. Merrill, Charles C. Hills and Councillor Walter H. Brown.

C. of C. Outing Will See Ball Game Aug. 6

A baseball game for "blood" between teams composed of the married men and single men will be one of the sporting features of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce outing at Wardhurst, Lynnfield, next Wednesday. "Cap" Hayes will manage the married heroes of the diamond and "Doc" Murphy will direct the husky single aggregation of "Ty" Cobbs and "Babe" Ruths. "Jim" Ray will umpire and will bring his voice with him.

Among the players signed up early for the married men's team are Ray Porter, Frank Emerson, Joel Ballentine and "Dan" Manning. The single men will be captained by James Buckley and Dr. Yale, and Clarence Murray are among the stars of his warriors.

Other sporting events and outdoor entertainment are on the card before the dinner, which is scheduled for 2.30 o'clock. Following the dinner there will be a brief "speaking" session.

This is the first outing of the Peabody Chamber and from the interest already displayed the prospects are good for a large attendance. The welcome sign is out for everybody, and the tickets, which are $3 each, may be obtained of President Woods or at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Lowell street.

FIFTY NEW "Y" CENTERS PLANNED FOR CZECHO-SLOVAK REPUBLIC.

New England Man Reports on Progress in Russia.

Paris. (By Mail).—The most serious worries of the new Czecho-Slovak Republic are the food situation and Bolshevism, the latter partly resulting from the former and partly from Magyar propaganda, according to Irving D. Kimball of Lowell, Mass., a Y. M. C. A. secretary from Prague who is in Paris for supplies.

Food from the United States, brought in under the direction of Herbert Hoover, already is relieving noticeably the food shortage, Mr. Kimball says, and the Y. M. C. A. is doing much to minimize Bolshevism.

When the first army of Czecho-Slovak troops who had been with the French entered Prague January 3, Mr. Kimball, who had been with the Foyer du Soldat, was with them, and now twelve Y. M. C. A. huts, directed by Mr. Kimball and E. J. Wright of Oklahoma, are in operation in Bohemia. Besides furnishing army athletics, reading and writing rooms, cinema and entertainment features, these huts maintain a systematic educational campaign against Bolshevism, so effective has this campaign proved that the Czecho-Slovak army has arranged with the Y. M. C. A. to increase its number of centers from twelve to fifty during the present year. The plans call for fifty new centers by the last of July.

TREMONT THEATRE

First of the musical comedies of the new season is "See-Saw," which Henry W. Savage will bring to the Tremont Theatre, Boston, Saturday evening, August 2. The comedy is by Earl Dorr Biggers, the music by Louis A. Hirsch, and for once Mr. Savage is willing to commit himself before a verdict from the public has been obtained. He says that "See-Saw" is on a par with any of the long list of successes which George Ade ever wrote.

"See-Saw" is a dramatization of Biggers' rapid-fire novel, "Love Insurance." An English aristocrat, Lord Harrowb, is hard pressed by numerous creditors on the eve of his marriage to an American heiress, Cynthia Meyrick. He bethinks himself of Lloyds, the London institution which will insure you against anything from colic to breach of promise. And Lloyds, being persuaded that Miss Meyrick intends to marry his lordship five days later, insures his marriage for $200,000, which persuades the hungry bill collectors to take a notch in their belts and sit down and wait.

A hustling youth, Richard Minot, is assigned to watch the plighted pair and see that the marriage goes through. Of course, he falls in love with Cynthia, and she with him. But honor is at stake, so he keeps pushing his lordship's suit instead of his own. Everything gets muddled beyond hope of salvation, and then—well, you know how it is. With wedding bells ringing and the bridesmaids singing, they arrange to live happily ever afterward in Detroit and teach their children who Benedict Arnold was and how to keep out of libel suits.

Will Tanning and Shoe Making Be One Business? Asks Energy-Leather Notes

By "ENERGY"

Is the leather business gradually drifting to combinations of tanning and shoemaking? There is one large corporation, probably the largest in the trade, who purchase the skins, tan and finish them, and manufacture the shoes. They are the only ones who attempted to do this, who successfully carried it through. Others have ventured, but the loss as in most new ventures staggered them. But the Endicott Johnson Co. have shown the trade what can be accomplished with brains and push. The are at the present time adding more to their already extensive plant and the outcome must be watched, for they will soon be to the leather trade what the packers are in most everything else. I realize the packers are formidable competitors in leather, but as yet they have not attempted to make shoes, for their policy has been in the past to handle that which pertains to the animal. A concern that handles 2,000,000 skins a year to cut into leather must be recognized as being in the swim and going strong.

Resulting from the combination of leather making and shoemaking, there are many economies practiced. Shoe manufacturers care little for ordinary finishes on leather. They are destroyed in the making of the shoe to such a large extent that it seems a waste of money to put the time and money into that branch of the business. Some shoe men ask for their leather partly finished. How far this is carried I do not know. But it is a fact that leather made by concerns for their own use is not finished, trimmed. All this work is done after the shoe is finished and with what I know about finishing, such leather will take the finished better for it. The surface is not filled, such trimming as part of the finished process costs money and mounts into five figures in a large business annually.

Large bodies move slowly, but I am of the opinion that a change is going on and will continue to grow in the leather business. As one concern makes a success of taking the hide to the shoe, others will follow. Only the big fellow can do it successfully today, which makes it harder for the small cuss. But the small man always has a chance, being favored with less overhead, which lets him by. What can be accomplished by necessity is being shown these times.

I may be wrong. I have been wrong many times. But looking over the leather industry and comparing it with other large industries, I am of the opinion that the advancement is small compared with many others. The radical change has been chrome tanning, to succeed vegetable tanning. This new process has speeded the manufacture, in the tan. I am not ready to admit that the quality, looking at it from all angles, is better. But it saves interest and plenty of it. This enables bigger capacity, which is the cry, but whether it is healthy is another question. I must leave this question to others more capable of deciding. I do know that business is bigger than the supply of labor, which creates a scarcity which today is giving the tanner much concern. But when one considers that many of the processes now in vogue were used a generation ago, I do not think other branches will show this condition. All will admit that a close study of such conditions will start something. There has been changes of late which heretofore seemed impossible to accomplish. But it is only a primary condition, which must advance to the grammar and thence to high school teaching.

I do not mean in such a statement that distinct advances have not been made in varieties of leather. My point is that the methods of doing the work are crude. One of the largest manufacturers in Peabody agrees with me in this statement. So a utility man, one conversant with the business, who has inventive genius as well as knowledge of leather, whose time and brains would be placed only on this one subject, would in my opinion be a most valuable asset to any large leather concern.

I made a call on the windows on Peabody square and Main street Thursday, where exhibits of leather and other materials made in Peabody show that our city is on the map in black letters as a busy city. It will be a surprise to those not conversant with manufacturing to see what a variety of useful articles are produced. The idea is a brilliant one. I must congratulate the Chamber of Commerce through Mr. Thomas on an idea well carried out, which I believe will bring results. It will serve to give our citizens a feeling of pride which heretofore has not been awakened. Not one man in a hundred has realized what is being done in Peabody. The know their own business, and think no doubt that is enough to attend to. But this exhibition has brought more true facts of the other fellow's business than any of us have realized. In another column the whys and wherefores are told. In my little column I simply say that should our competitors visit Peabody they would see leather things that might and should lead them to say, well done, good and faithful tanner. I will say that should the value of the leather in the store windows be computed, it would give any of us money enough to purchase a Pierce-Arrow car with the fixings thrown in.

The Allies Guaranteed the Neutrality of Belgium

The makers of the Treaty of London knew their guarantee was good. The Allies lived up to it. Even at the cost of the Great War they drove out the oppressor of Belgium.

You can have freedom from the invasion of that great oppressor of auto storage batteries—ruinous sulphation—if you put an EVEREADY on your car.

This battery will live up to its definitely written, eighteen month Guarantee of good starting, lighting and ignition service—its makers know that it will.

This means freedom from the aggravations that wreck your pleasure in motoring—failure of your lights, inability to start quickly, poor ignition, and so on.

Besides, we, as EVEREADY Service Station, will keep your starting, lighting, and ignition working right. Bring your car to us for inspection of your storage battery every month—no charge—whatever make of equipment you have.

BIG MIDWAY AT EASTEND TABLE FAIR

A. J. Tomassello & Son, the contractors who are building part of Peabody's godo streets, have been given a contract for $50,000 to rebuild a stretch of the Arlington Parkway.

Collins field, where the great midway is staged in Peabody; will be the scene of a lawn party Wednesday evening, Aug. 13, when the Eastend table committee will hold a carnival. Dennis Pender, president of the Eastend Improvement Society, is in general charge of the program. The grounds committee is headed by Councilor Dennis J. Hogan, Manuel Foster and James Linehan. The ladies' auxiliary will have charge of the refreshments with Miss Kate Sheehy as chairman. Daniel Tumulty will arrange the lighting effects. Mrs. T. A. Sweeney is chairman of the music committee. The Lynn Cadet Band will play during the afternoon and evening. The proceeds will go toward the table of the Eastend at the St. John's field day, Aug. 30, on the grounds of Thomas H. O'Shea, Washington street.

CAN YOU LIVE ON $15 WEEKLY

Government Experts Place This Sum as the Smallest Livable Income

Can you live on $15 weekly? Government experts say that the smallest weekly amount on which a woman living in what is known as a "third" class city can maintain herself decently, is $15. Could you make $15 a week cover all your living expenses, from one year's end to the other? And if you are doing it, or intend doing it, just how?

Room and Board, $6.67. Room and board, according to government figures, should cost the $15 per week feminine workers, $6.67; this sum to include lunches. Clothing is placed at $4.60, with $3.60 left for all other and miscellaneous expenditures, such as car fare, dentist and doctor bills, laundry, all purchases not actually clothing, an occasional picnic or movie, and so on. The unreckoned weekly balance of 8 cents may account for postage, but otherwise it will not go far.

War, it is to be hoped, is over forever, but changing economic conditions at any time may work hardship, to poorly or even well-paid workers. The part of wisdom, therefore, is to make some sort of provision, however slender, however arduously accomplished, for such possibility. The sligher the regular financial margin, the sterner the necessity. For such necessities and emergencies Thrift and War Savings Stamps most admirably suffice.

Purchase Stamp Weekly. The purchase of even a single Thrift Stamp weekly, means $1 a month put into the safest of all investments, government securities. Four months will represent the sixteen Thrift Stamps, with a few pennies added, means later realization of $5. And even if a War Savings Stamp can be purchased but three times yearly, the future situation will be brighter by a regularly increasing contingent of income-bearing investments.

It is fun to save as a future-profit-making game!

NEED $3,000,000,000 FOR EXPORT TRADE

"In entering the battle for world trade supremacy, the United States must rely upon the American people as a whole to furnish the silver bullets. The Federal Reserve Board states that $3,000,000,000 of new funds must be provided in the next few months if the United States maintains its present position in export trade. This sum must come from the children's banks, from the egg money of the farmer's wives, and from the surplus created by the people's savings."

Fight Shyster Brokers. So said William Mather Lewis, Vice-director of the Savings Division, Treasury Department, in an address delivered before the National Retail Hardware Association at Pittsburg, Pennsylvania recently.

Continuing, Mr. Lewis said: "If the American people can be taught to give one-tenth the thought they devote to making money to the problem of spending and investing it wisely, the financial stability of the country is assured. Furthermore, the gold-brick man and the shyster broker and banker, who are not plying their unduly traffic in separating the ignorant from their Government Bonds and War Savings Stamps will go out of business."

JOLT FORS ALEM

A rude jolt is in the offing for Mayor Sullivan of Salem and his officials, who are due to confer with Peabody regarding the cost of handling Peabody's sewerage. Salem is contemplating charging Peabody much more money. Peabody officials are from he State famous for its Champ Clarks.

Samuel H. Robie, publisher of the Chelsea Daily Record, was among the hundreds of visitors to Peabody yesterday to see the "Made in Peabody" exhibits. He called at the enterprise office and complimented the Chamber of Commerce and business men on the fine showing. Mr. Robie played a prominent part in the upbuilding of Chelsea following the disastrous fire of 1908, which razed hundreds of homes in his city.

The local boys are brim full of confidence, and promise to come across with the necessary runs to give the quietus to Salem's championship aspirations. Fitzpatrick, the big south-paw twirler of the tanners, will be opposed by Somerville, the lad who held Grad's Marbleheaders to two hits last Saturday. Fizzle is out to beat his strikeout record of 14, made last week.

Peabody fans will have the opportunity of welcoming the new A. C. L. second sacker, Russell Murphy, who makes his initial appearance in an A. C. L. uniform tomorrow. Murphy

MAYOR DONNELL.

"I'm going to win this fight," declared Mayor Donnell and Essex county will know it had a campaign for the office of District Attorney. I will carry Lynn and the whole Cape district. I shall have support also in Lawrence and Haverhill.

"I am not afraid of the so-called machine which is said to be behind my opponent. I have gone over the district for the past two months and I am confident that I can land the nomination.

"My duties as Mayor in seeing to the carrying out of present improvements for the city, will virtually be concluded by the first of the year. I have been urged to make the contest by friends in every part of the county and I am determined to give old Essex a campaign they will not soon forget."

Announcement of his candidacy was carried in every Essex county newspaper yesterday together with his latest picture.

Atty. Elmer Foley Out
For Representative

Attorney Elmer J. Foley, war veteran and nephew of Thomas H. O'Shea, Peabody's largest individual taxpayer, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative. His candidacy is formally announced today, the first of his party to essay the contest against Rep. James E. McVann, the Republican incumbent.

Atty. Foley is a graduate of Peabody High, class of 1913 and of Boston University Law School in 1916. He first took up practice of law in the office of Judge Hall, later in the office of Sullivan and Devine of Salem and for a time was in the office of prominent Boston lawyers. He relinquished his law business to enlist. He served in the naval reserves during the war and gave important services to the government.

His candidacy is sure to make the contest one of real action, for with the nomination Atty. Foley is bound

$18. TAX RATE ANNOUNCED AT MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL

Mayor Donnell tentatively announced an $18 tax rate for Peabody last night when he appeared before the City Council to speak on several communications he had sent that body of solons. In this he confirms the exclusive announcement made in the Enterprise some weeks ago that this amount was most likely to be decided on.

His Honor urged the Council to take speedy action looking to the purchase of a new Allis-Chalmers pump for the pumping station at an approximate cost of $40,000. Through the city engineer he showed that Peabody had no cause for alarm as to a water famine and that the city had ample supply to last until next November. The proposed new pump recommended by Engineer Barbour will yield 7½ million gallons in 16 hours. Peabody's daily consumption is about 5,000,000 gallons. The Council took the Mayor's

CITY HALL

So a new mayor for Peabody is likely to be elected next December, for the supporters of S. Howard Donnell, now holding the job at City Hall, are confident that he will be the next duly elected district attorney or dear old Essex. It ought to be one of the best campaigns for the county berth recorded in a number of years, for the Peabody mayor is bound to put a lot of pepper into the contest.

West Peabody has reason to be glad Mayor Donnell got into office for Lowell st. from the turnpike is to be rebuilt as far as the schoolhouse, as he promised Councilor Brown it would be. Oil, too, is an added benefit in West Peabody this year, and the fluid is to be laid in front of the homes where practical and all at the expense of the taxpayers rather than the abutters. According to Mayor Donnell, the city has expended more money in West Peabody improvements, including the water pipe line connection on Lowell st., which ultimately will get to West Peabody, than the city gets in return from the assessed valuation in the district. If this isn't so we shall expect Arthur or Elmer Durkee to come down with a defl.

Deputy Chief Callahan and Inspector Stacey Burkes of the Lynn police department were "sleuthing it" in Peabody last Monday afternoon. Both have a reputation for getting what they go after.

Superintendent Sexton of the municipal garage frowns on the suggestion of having two men work in the garage at night. His reason is that he gets all the work needed from the three men day times, and there is not any too much work for the night man, he avers.

Councillor Brown, who is secretary of the Essex Agricultural Society, is in favor of the society holding its annual cattle show at Rockdale Park, this city, this fall, instead of in Topsfield. If crowds mean anything and the educational benefits are considered, these two objects should overshadow the sentimental one of holding it on the tract near the turnpike. It is understood several of the directors support the Peabody councillor.

Garage men win $4.25 a day and eight hours. It is planned to have the men put in such extra time as will give them one day off in seven, which ought to be a happy arrangement.

Assistant City Engineer Roger MacDonald has gotten back into harness and is finding plenty of work. He enlisted in the Engineers and saw service in France covering nearly 14 months overseas.

City Collector Earl A. Hershenson and father, Frank Hershenson, left Wednesday for Atlantic City, going over the road in a touring car. They will be away a week.

Supt. of Schools Albert Robinson and wife will spend the month of August in Warren, this state.

"No Parking Here" sign made its appearance yesterday on the sidewalk in front of the entrance to the police station. A long line of autos has seriously interfered with the handling of prisoners.

Robert Pendleton, repair man at municipal garage, secured the enviable mark of 92 per cent in his examination before the civil service commission.

Councillor Ryan got through a resolve last night to have the Board of Health get busy and clean out the mill brooks.

The honor of having paid the first poll tax bill for 1919 goes to Dr. John Shanahan.

Miss Alice Chamberlain, secretary to the Mayor, starts on her vacation Monday.

Friend's Baked Beans are actually baked in earthen way — the good old New England fashion.

Friend's Baked Beans are the only canned beans that are really baked in brick ovens. They don't need any extras to make them appetizing, for they are appetizers in themselves.
Besides — they're the real California Pea Beans and — oh, is one of the fastest infielders playing semi-pro baseball, and will be a permanent fixture on the A. C. L. lineup.

The Chi-Sox want Murphy.

There are no weak spots on the tanners' batting order this week, and some heavy hitting should feature the game. "Texas" Dempsey, who has gone hitless for two games, is out for blood tomorrow. Emie Gourley is counted on by the Peabody rooters for at least one hit when it is needed, and the other teammates are all anxious to land in the baselhit column.

Further improvements have been made at Emerson Park this week.
Right field, which has been the one bad feature of an otherwise excellent playing field, has been greatly improved by the removal of a bothersome ledge. This makes Emerson Park the possessor of the finest ball field hereabouts.

Manager Quinlan has made a shift in his outfield which should work out well. He has moved Dempsey up to center. Coffey will care for the left garden. In the last three games all balls going to the outfield have landed either in right or center.

"Bill" Joyce is favored for umpire on balls and strikes tomorrow. His work at the Salem-Marblehead game was very satisfactory to both sides.
Joyce is popular with the fans, having been in baseball locally for a number of years.

Senator Kenneth Nash will play third for Salem. This announcement was made by Manager Donovan yesterday, and goes to prove that he is out to beat A. C. L. if such a thing is possible. With R. S. Murphy on second for the tanners and Nash playing his favorite position for Salem, there should be a number of Marbleheaders over to the game.

The game will start promptly at 3.15.

Colored shoes have had a big run this season. One seldom sees a black shoe worn today. The dark shades, mahogany for one, appeals to many as being the real color. I am told that there is a tendency at present for lighter shades which seems wrong, as the public continues fickle under the League of Nations before the deluge.

Scarcity of factories and houses in Peabody is serious as affecting the city's welfare. There is no question but what under ordinary conditions the population of our city could be increased 5000 souls. But how can anyone afford to build houses today with the present rents? I would much rather put the same money into factory buildings, when ordinarily they would not be worth the powder to blow them away. So this is another problem which some bright fellow can solve at his leisure.

* * *

This is bad weather to manufacture leather. Years ago before the new processes of drying were installed, factories would shut down because of no drying. Some kinds of finishes need open air drying today, and such stock must wait these days. But I can imagine that the demand for leather is so great that hot air will suffice, even if the stock is not as good. This process is one of the advances in the manufacture of leather, but there is room for further improvement, as evidenced by new ways being tried. The fact of the case is that nature can do a better job. Some of us try to beat nature in our modes of living, but I never heard of anyone who succeeded.

* * *

I note many canvas shoes in the windows of the retail stores. Garnished with pieces of leather, they appear like a real shoe, even if it is not the case. Canvas waterproofed is a staple article. And the thought comes to me, why not give canvas the dope, as leather now receives? It will not work, you say. I will not predict it will, but as sure as shooting if leather keeps up at present prices a substitute will appear that does the trick. It took many years to manufacture a sole that substituted for sole leather. But such a sole is worn and does the business in many places.

* * *

So when the League of Nations is a fact, and we are impregnated with all of European ideas, including the corn borer, we can have our choice of the wooden shoes of Belgium, the dreamy high heels of gay Paris, or the square toes of John Bull. When we have cultivated ideas let us hie to Asia, bandage our feet a-la-Chinese, and walk on our hands and knees, if we have to walk. The real fellow will have his auto.

ACTION ON HOUSING

The best piece of news of the week is that preliminary steps have been taken towards a solution of Peabody's housing problem. The demand for tenements by workers in the local industries has been growing steadily for a long time, with no response in the shape of new building. Home-seekers here have been unable to find anything approaching their needs and have been compelled to find accommodations in the neighboring cities and towns, where apparently the demand for tenements is not so pressing as it is here.

This situation, as almost everybody knows, is due to the steadily mounting costs of building material of all kinds and of labor in practically all the building trades. With the rents at their present stage, prospective builders are unable to figure where they can secure anything like a normal return in the shape of interest on the money invested.

Individual action therefore being out of the question, the only other possible means of attaining the desired end is through a combination of capital strong enough to undertake a building program at the present rates and on a scale sufficient to bring construction costs down to a minimum.

It is the preliminary steps in this direction that have been taken by the Chamber of Commerce. A committee of men able to grasp the fundamentals of a plan of extensive building of homes, all of whom are interested in the project, has been named to formulate something tangible to be presented in the near future to a gathering of manufacturers and public-spirited citizens for action.

Tentatively, it is proposed to form an organization with sufficient capital to undertake the building of homes on a wholesale scale, either for rent or to be sold to those desiring to own their own homes on terms that will enable them to do so. It is the only possible solution of the problem, and it is extremely gratifying to know that a start has been made in the right direction. There is ample capital in Peabody to finance such an undertaking, and some of the larger manufacturing interests have already expressed a willingness to co-operate on such a plan or even go further and inaugurate operations of their own. The results to be obtained by a combination of interests is admittedly so much more promising that it is reasonably certain that it will take this form.

The project is so big and of such vast importance to the welfare of the community that it will take time, but there is cause for rejoicing that a start has been made. When it is considered that a large percentage of the purchasing power of the wage-earners is expended in the community in which they reside, the far-reaching result of the addition of new homes by the score and possibly by the hundred can readily be seen. It means a great deal to the future development of Peabody and the project is one in which every Peabodyite should display the keenest interest and foster to the extent of his resources.

TIME FOR ACTION

It is high time for action of some sort to prevent the existing menace to human life at the railroad grade crossing on the turnpike in West Peabody, following the latest instance of an automobile and a train coming together on one of the crossings. It was only a few weeks ago that a distressing fatality occurred there, and in this week's accident it was nothing short of a miracle that there was no loss of life. There is a warning bell at each of the two crossings, but the whirring of most of the automobile motors make it impossible for the operators of the cars to hear it. At this time of the year the foliage obscures the view of the track in one direction at least and every time a train passes there is a menace to the safety of passing motor cars. If the railroad is in such an impoverished condition that it is unable to pay a flagman's wages at these dangerous spots, would it be unreasonable to compel all trains to come to a full stop just before reaching the crossings? This, if it did not eliminate all danger, would greatly minimize it.

NEXT WEEK'S EXHIBIT

The novel "Made in Peabody" exhibit in the store windows of the business section of the city, under the auspices of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce, which opens next Thursday, will be an important event in the history of the city. The wide publicity given this unique demonstration of the varied industries of the city is certain to prove of inestimable value, while as a local attraction it is bound to have an educational result that is immeasurable. The idea was well conceived and carried out by the Chamber of Commerce, and with the hearty co-operation of the merchants and manufacturers, the exhibit gives promise of reflecting credit upon everyone concerned in it.

Gluten. Gluten is the main nutritive element in all flour made from grain, though it exists in larger proportion in some varieties of wheat than in others, and in hard wheat more than in soft. Gluten flour is flour from which the starch element has been wholly or partly removed, thereby bettering it for the use of diabetic patients.

ROUND ABOUT

Never in the history of Essex county has there been such an abundance of blueberries as this year, and the berry pickers have been reaping a rich harvest in the past couple of weeks. Every berry pasture has yielded profusely and it has been no uncommon thing for pickers to gather all the way from 20 to 40 quarts of the palatable berries in a day. A record was established at South Middleton Sunday when one man, on two trips to the same field, picked 60 quarts of berries. At the prevailing retail price of blueberries, 30 cents, this man may be said to have earned a fair day's pay.

An interesting find was reported this week by a party of berry pickers who visited Boxford. They ran across a bush which yielded "white blueberries." The freak berries were of a normal size and the fruit just as luscious and palatable as the common blue variety. Nobody appears to know the cause of the peculiar freak of nature, and an explanation from one of the scientific gentlemen who are supposed to know all about such things would be generally appreciated.

Miss Jennie Midgeley, graduate nurse of the J. B. Thomas Hospital, a veteran of overseas duty, was in Peabody this week wearing two gold stripes on her sleeve, indicating her service in France. She called at the hospital and renewed a wide circle of acquaintances. She returned home in excellent health and with a fund of interesting stories.

It was inadvertently stated in last week's Enterprise that Milford Risteen, returned war veteran in the Aviation Corps, had been overseas 18 months, when it should have been stated 23 months. He is one of the few Peabody boys who have returned with four stripes, indicating two years abroad in the war service. He hopes to remain in Peabody. He enlisted while working in Holyoke and went overseas in August, 1917.

Building new highways brings the beach to the door of certain Young Americas who have real fun playing in the piles of sand ready for use on the new Hassam pavement. I observed some boys on Aborn st. this week engaged in building underground trenches that in model and workmanship would have done credit to Uncle Sam's engineering corps in France.

Where Edgar McKee foreman of the Electric Light Plant is building his new home on Mt. Pleasant, history records once was the rendezvous of Indians when they herded wild deer from all parts of the domain now known as Peabody. For years there was a sign setting forth the scene as the deer yard of the old Indian tribes.

Crossing tender Joseph Martin who guards the highway on upper Lowell st. near Needham's corner is receiving many kind words on his flower garden activity which is making the railroad grounds over which he holds sway a pleasing sight to behold. He has a variety of flowers in bloom.

The parking of heavy trucks near the monument, which is a daily occurrence during the noon hour is going to be responsible largely for some fatal accident near the big soldiers' memorial shaft.

Police Inspector Pierce is off on a new scent this coming week. He's going to Rangeley Lakes to take up the trail of fish that make that sheet of water famous.

Spectacles.
The word is derived from the Latin "spectaculum," which means show, exhibition, display for the gratification of the eye, etc. The word easily accommodated itself to describe the glasses invented in the thirteenth century, some say by a Florentine monk named Alessandro di Spina, and others by Roger Bacon. They surely created a spectacle for persons long afflicted with defective sight.

Peabody Boy Nearly Won Escort Duty To President

Sergt. Everett Wilson, a Peabody boy, in the U. S. Cavalry, is speeding westward to the Presidio in California, where he has been assigned for new duty. He enlisted for the war service among the first Peabody boys in March, 1917, before President Wilson formally declared war, and was eager to get to the trenches.

He joined in the Field Artillery in Salem, but feared that that organization might not be sent overseas prompted him and some others to enlist in the Regular Army, and he picked the cavalry.

It was his unhappy fate not to see France, a grief shared by thousands of other war veterans, because the War Department had other plans in store, and his service was in southern camps and for a time at Fort Riley, where he soldiered under General Wood.

When President Wilson first started for France, Sergeant Wilson was stationed at Fort Myers, Va., just over the Potomac from Washington, and he and another cavalryman were picked one day to appear before their commanding officer. One was to be chosen to go with the personal escort to the President. Wilson was asked how long he had been in the service and, of course, could only say 18 months. His rival had been in the service of Uncle Sam for seven long years. The latter man was picked as one of the escort to the President on his trip to France and the Peabody man had to be content with other laurels.

These he won while in Washington, frequently doing escort duty to ambassadors, generals and other dignitaries. Sergeant Wilson possesses a fine physique and his soldierly bearing attracted much favorable attention. He became an expert horseman early in his war service and his feats on horseback have heralded him one of the cleverest riders in the employ of Uncle Sam.

Instead of leaving the service now, hopes to see more of the country.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Wilson. His brother, Eldon Wilson, now employed at the municipal garage, enlisted in the Engineers and served in the famous "gas" regiment overseas that figured prominently in the winning of the war.

Not All There.
Delbrook was the proud possessor of a brand-new suit of clothes with a small wooden whistle attached to it. Soon after getting the suit, and while the family was dining away from home, his father asked him why he did not wear his new suit that evening. "I can't, daddy," he answered, "cause the whistle's broke."

Peabody Call Firemen Sure To Get Raise By Ryan's Act

COUNCILLOR RYAN.

Councillor Joseph A. Ryan fathered a motion before the City Council last night which bids fair to raise the pay of the 80 call firemen to $200 a year. He introduced the motion asking Mayor Donnell to include in his supplementary budget sufficient appropriation to increase the present pay of the call men, which is now $150 per annum, to $200.

The herculean councillor declares he has not been approached by any firemen to boost their pay, and that his resolution laid before the City Council last night was done purely in the interests of a body of men to whom, he feels, the city owes a debt of gratitude and whose services entitle them to a slight increase in pay.

He cites the example of call firemen who, summoned to fight fires on Sunday, don't go home, as do Havana firemen, and dress up in flamboyant costumes with leather hats, and then meander on to the scene of the blaze, but who jump into the breach in whatever Sunday clothes they are wearing.

Frequently the new Sunday suit is damaged, but the fireman doesn't get any recompense.

Councillor Ryan says that Peabody cannot afford to pay its well organized call firemen less pay than call firemen get in other municipalities, and he's been looking around the country and finds the pay is greater than here in Peabody.

Some time ago when the firemen petitioned for an increase in pay, they hoped to get $200. They accepted a compromise of $150 and were happy. But the price of clothing and uniforms in particular have gone up since they got their last raise.

Ask any call fireman what he thinks of Councillor Ryan today and you'll get the desired information in a twinkling of an eye. They are a unit for Ryan and they may start something which will eventually get him into the mayor's chair. Who knows?

Activities of the CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

As a fitting windup of its "Made in Peabody" exhibit, the Chamber of Commerce will hold its first outing on the closing day of the exhibit, Wednesday, Aug. 6. The affair will be held at "Hap" Ward's new inn, Wardhurst, located on the turnpike in Lynnfield.

The committee of arrangements, which consists of Henry L. Hayes, Joel Ballentine, William A. Shea, Dr. J. W. P. Murphy and P. J. Woods, chairman, has arranged an especially attractive program for the day, including a variety of sporting events, special outdoor feature exhibitions, to precede the dinner, which will be served at 2:30 o'clock, following which there will be an address by a speaker yet to be announced.

Tickets for the affair are already out and are meeting with a ready sale. Wardhurst is an excellent place for an outing of this kind, and as it is the first affair of the kind under the auspices of the live new Chamber of Commerce, an attendance of several hundred is expected.

"Woman Thou Gavest Me" At Strand Today

"The Woman Thou Gavest Me" is generally regarded as Hall Caine's greatest work. Without question it is his most sensational. In bringing this picture to Peabody the Strand has gone to considerable expense, but in keeping with their policy no increases will be made in the regular price of admission. The picture has created a profound sensation, not only in the literary world, but among thinkers, lawyers, students of social conditions and the public in general. Mary McNeil, the heroine of the picture was a real woman—a pure and noble being who suffered from the cruel shackles that law and convention have placed her sex—and she passed through the fiercest tests which marriage brings into human life. Here is the story of a great love, frowned upon by the world, yet revealing a typical woman's soul in its most intimate and poignant phrases. Her heart is the heart of every woman since Eve. Her story is one for every woman with a heart to love and for every man who respects a woman. Jack Holt, Katharine MacDonald, Fritz Brunetti, Theodore Roberts and Milton Sills have the leading parts, and each gives a striking performance. "Fatty" Arbuckle in his latest comedy, "A Desert Hero," and Marie Walcamp in "The Red Glove" will be the other attractions for today. Manager Chet Bent comes out with the strong statement that "no better program of pictures has ever been given in any theatre, at any price."

Tom Moore and Madge Kennedy in the Goldwyn production, "The Kingdom of Youth," will top the bill for Sunday evening. Gladys Leslie in "The Mating" will also be shown Sunday.

Monday and Tuesday will bring Peabody's old favorite, William S. Hart, in "Square Deal Sanderson." Mr. Hart is known as the star who never disappoints, and his many admirers will find him the same old Bill in this offering. The picture is as thrilling as any in which he has ever appeared. There is plenty of hard riding, fighting and gun play. And there is romance, too. In fact, the whole story fairly pulses with big, stirring moments, and in the last reel when Bill lassoes the villain, hauls him to the ceiling, we'll say it sure will make the most hardened movie fan sit up and take notice. Ann Little plays opposite Mr. Hart. One of the in his famous picture, "The Brand," new Cristie comedies, "Sadie's Blighted Career," will be the other feature for Monday and Tuesday.

The genius of Rex Beach was never more compellingly demonstrated than which will be presented Wednesday net of love, hate, passion and rebellion and Thursday. The story is one of great power and appeal. It grips and thrills the moment the four principal characters make their appearance on the screen and begin to weave their lion, and does not end until the very last scene, when a climax occurs of terrific power. It is in seven parts, with magnificent scenes of Alaska as a background.

Charlie Chaplin in "Sunnyside" will be shown at the Strand week after next.

MADE IN PEABODY EXHIBITS WILL GIVE CITY BIG BOOST

With a concert by the Salem Cadet Band in front of City Hall and accompanied by open street dancing in the immediate vicinity as a special feature in the evening, the "Made in Peabody" exhibit under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce will be inaugurated in the store windows of Main and Lowell streets next Thursday.

While the general public will be interested in the 40 odd displays of Peabody's manufactured products in the store windows, the manufacturers themselves will open their doors to the leather buyers during the week, special invitations being extended to the shoe and other leather-using industries of New England to come to Peabody and inspect the plants where the principal industry of the city is carried on.

Wide publicity has been given the affair by newspapers in general and the trade papers in particular, and one of the representative leather publications is preparing a special edition which will carry several pages devoted to the exhibit. The displays of goods will embrace practically everything in the leather line manufactured in the city, together with the allied industries and a great variety of manufacturer products that have no relation whatever to the leather trade. The latter include woolen and cotton cloths, hair and felt goods, fancy papers, marine hardware and equipment of all kinds, brass novelties, glue and gelatine, factory, building and household necessities, shoes, cigarettes and other novelties.

Arrangements have been made by the Chamber of Commerce to photograph the various windows containing the exhibits, and this collection of photographs will be framed and placed on exhibition in the rooms of the Chamber on Lowell street for permanent reference.

suggestion to read over the recommendation of the expert and will probably authorize him to make a contract. It will cost $20,000 to repair the old Worthington pump, now idle.

Street and water employees were voted $4 a day and teamsters $4.25 with an amended ordinance giving them Saturday afternoons off the year around with pay. This amendment was offered by Councillor Duggan as one of the surprises of the evening for the Mayor had announced an agreement with the employees effected not to insist on the Saturday afternoons off until after Jan. 1. Garage employees were also given $4.25 a day with eight hours.

Further time was asked on the pay of police and firemen.

Failure of acting city clerk John J. Costello, Jr., to record a vote of the City Council last October, giving the Mayor authority to enter in a contract with the American Glue Co. was another mild sensation of the evening. The Council voted the measure as about every citizen knows, dealing with water supply in Cedar Pond basin, whereby the city is to get surplus water from the land owned by the corporation. The Council will authorize the contract probably at the next meeting. Councillor Duggan objecting to action last night.

By a vote of 7 to 3 the Council appropriated $350 with which to have the Mayor issue a financial report of the years 1917-18. Councillor Sullivan is to confer with the Mayor to have the report give a detailed account of finances. Some comment is heard that Councillor Duggan who lambasted the Mayor some months ago because this report was not forthcoming, last night was one of the three to oppose the appropriation. Duggan was on his feet several times putting "sticks in the Mayor's sedan" despite the fact he is frequently seen in hostilities with city officials of Peabody.

The Council voted the transfer of $5000 from water pipe line to West Peabody to street work so that West st. may be rebuilt with bituminous paving. The work of laying the pipe line will be continued this year so that the efforts of Councillor Brown really give West Peabody something more and robs the district of nothing.

Peabody-Lynn jitney owners want the Council to refuse to issue any more licenses to operators between the two cities and their request is likely to be complied with. The men claim any more competition will injure the service.

Pony express licenses were voted for 2 1/2 per cent beer to run one and two months.

Objection by the Board of Health to a slaughtering house permit being issued for the rear of 14 Walnut st. to Rabbi Gladstein caused the Council to vote leave to withdraw on the petition.

After a strong address by Councillor Ryan in an effort to get the Council to allow Victor Thatchuk to build a garage on his land at 65 Endicott st., the Council granted the permit. Giles casting the deciding vote. Councillor Ryan charged the opposition was actuated by racial influences.

Councillor Hogan charged that Little Nemo, erstwhile police chief's Ford was now a joy riding vehicle frequently seen at the beach resorts evenings. He got through a motion to have the machine painted "City of Peabody."

Bushby's court will henceforth be known as Andover terrace, by vote of the Council last night.

Peabody named its first park for a war veteran last night when the City Council voted to call the Eastend playground Connolly Park, in honor of Eugene Connolly, who was the first Eastend boy to give his life in the world war. To Councillor Hogan goes the credit of being sponsor for the motion which was unanimously carried. Connolly enlisted some months before President Wilson declared war with Germany and went overseas with the 109th Infantry, which saw terrific fighting in the Argonne district where it is presumed Connolly received wounds from which he died in a hospital in France. He was 36 years old. He leaves a brother John, and sister Nellie, both of this city. He was a brother-in-law of Reserve Police Officer James Lillis.

MADE IN PEABODY SHOW JULY 31

The week of July 31-August 6 has been decided upon for the coming "Made in Peabody" exhibit under the auspices of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce. In some 40 odd store windows in the business section of Main st. will be shown an elaborate series of displays of the products of Peabody's diversified industries.

Those who expect to see a great variety of leather displays will not be disappointed. There will be plenty of them and they will be something worth bragging about. But that isn't all, by any means.

They will see real Turkish cigarettes made from genuine imported Turkish tobacco by Ismael Mulla, a Walnut st. manufacturer.

An exhibit of woolen cloths and yarns, something which not one per cent of the people of the city knew was being made here, will be made by the Tanners' Products company.

One of the big novelties will be a display of fancy papers of beautiful design, such as are used in the making of expensive candy boxes and for decorative work, by the Fancy Paper Works, a Pierpont st. concern whose existence has been known to but few.

The Densten Hair Co. will show a variety of felt goods and novelties made from hair, cotton and wool. Sand and cement material obtained in West Peabody by a hydraulic process and shipped in carload lots all over New England will call attention

LEOMINSTER ASSESSORS CLAIM PEABODY 'SOAKS' FACTORIES IN VALUATION

Peabody's plan of raising valuation cannot be emulated by the city of Leominster, as advocated by Mayor Donnell in a recent speech made in that city, according to a correspondent of the Fitchburg Sentinel. The Leominster newspaperman hints that Peabody has carried out a policy of "soaking the manufacturers" and gives a few figures to bolster his article which is reprinted from last week's Sentinel as follows:

The Leominster assessors are in receipt of a letter from the assessors of Peabody setting forth the methods adopted in that city to increase the valuation $10,000,000 within three years, and the information the letter contains shows clearly that the course pursued by Peabody would be impossible in this city. Peabody, a city of 20,000, now has a valuation of over $24,000,000. Leominster's valuation is about $14,000,000.

Peabody has a number of large foreign corporations with big plants in that city, and the bulk of the increased valuation was secured on these concerns. Among these were the National Calfskin company whose plant was increased in value over $1,000,000; Turner Tanning Machine company, whose valuation was increased $250,000; A. C. Lawrence Leather company and Swift and company, paid taxes on $1,517,000 are now paying taxes on $6,000,000, and the American Glue Co. whose property increased $250,000.

Comb City Ducks Duty Says Mayor

Mayor Donnell takes exceptions to the article printed in the Fitchburg Sentinel recently, purporting to have come from the Leominster assessors in which they are quoted as saying that the course pursued by the City of Peabody with reference to assessing the manufacturers would be impossible in Leominster.

"As a matter of fact," declared Mayor Donnell to a reporter for the Enterprise yesterday "Peabody manufacturing plants are not assessed for anything like a fair market value. The statement of the Leominster assessors that to assess Leominster factories on the same basis as Peabody would paralyze the industries of Leominster, is simply a move on the part of the Leominster assessors to avoid doing their duty, if they have been quoted rightly in this article in the Fitchburg newspaper."

CITY HALL GOSSIP

The assessors have made up the valuation for 1919 which will be some over $21,000,000. The budget has not been settled but something is liable to happen soon. It looks like an $18 tax rate, for it costs money in heaps to make improvements these days. But Peabody is on the map now, and it sticks out so far beyond our neighbors as to streets and sidewalks, as to be impressive.

That automobile of Frank Emerson's, or we should say the city's, is a hooch and no mistake. Frank is considerably lamed up by the accident, but like all city officials, the sympathy received would not fill a tumbler.

When the Council granted a license to a lunch cart on Peabody Square and the cart appeared Wednesday night, it threw a German bomb in the ranks of some who had been figuring on the same proposition. But the public want a place to get a night lunch, and the restaurants closed their places early in the evening.

It takes a long while to build furniture for the new court room. But those fellows in the Concord Reformatory have all the time there is on their hands and feet, and don't need the money. Will they eventually place the cellroom in the same building? If so, the present cellroom could be fitted up for the police as a gymnasium. Perhaps some of the clerks upstairs could use it also.

Sealer of Weights and Measures T. Hadley Sawyer is putting some of the icemen on ice so to speak. Cases of short weight are appearing frequently. With the present price of this commodity, full weight is needed to keep the milk sweet, even if it does not the housekeeper. Go to it Had, we are with you in spirit.

If one thinks that Peabody is not cosmopolitan, look over the committee in the movies who looked after the parade. All sorts and conditions of men, working for the same cause. A good omen.

The police are to get a raise, we wonder if others will get one also. It does not require yeast to get a raise now-a-days. Only push.

Judge Fay as City Solicitor, is kept busy. There is a steady call for his services in the many departments. His opinions as to legality are taken as final by the departments, and if in error he must wear the hide.

Vacations are now in order among employees of city hall. The only trouble appears to be that summer resorts cost a dollar a moment, and the help cannot hope to keep pace with the millionaires who infest the hotels, golf courses and boulevards. They get in the way of us common folks.

It is hard to understand what the Mayor will do when he retires. If he becomes district attorney he cannot build streets and sidewalks. Well Mr. Mayor, you have left your mark that cannot be erased during your life, which must be a supreme satisfaction.

The Mayor's agreement to raise the pay of the highway employees to $4 and the teamsters to $4.25 will go far to solve the question of an increase in pay for these men filed last week with the Mayor and Council. The present wage is $3.50 a day. The increase will probably date from July 1.

Norman V. Crane who has been acting assistant city engineer for the past 16 months is enjoying a well deserved two weeks' vacation and on his return to Peabody will enter the employ of the Danvers Bleachery. Assistant City Engineer Roger Macdonald is already back on his old job after war service in France.

"Little Nemo" once the proud Ford of the police head, is now a runabout. From a five-passenger car it went to a truck and from that stage is now whisking about the streets as a runabout.

Mrs. Jessie Newhall, assistant city clerk, is on her annual two weeks' vacation.

Some comment has been expressed that the pile of soft coal stored in the rear of the city hall is still allowed to remain. The front of the municipal home is spic and span but the rear view is not so serene. This is not the fault of the janitor but the inevitable as a result of saving the city money in the price of soft coal last winter.

Think it's all fun being sergeant-at-arms at city hall? Well, ask John Russell who holds the berth corresponding to that high office and he'll tell you that it has its ups and downs. For instance societies borrow the chairs in city hall and then fail to return them promptly. The result is that other applicants for the use of the chairs are sometimes hard to serve. The committee on public property may take a hand in the matter.

William Higgins of Perkins Park has entered the employ of the city engineer's office as rodman.

July 1 which date becomes indelibly inscribed in the minds of many citizens will also linger in the mind of Probation Officer Arthur Sim. Now lest some of our readers take a wrong inference, the aforesaid officer of the law who is assigned to the district court of Peabody is a veteran disciple of the white ribbon adherents who put prohibition over and the reason why July 1 will linger long in his memory is because John Barleycorn has been practically defaulted in Judge Hall's court. Result, little or no business for the probation officer, in fact the hardest thing about his job now is signing the payroll for the so much a month.

Councillors Brown and Ryan got their abs's from the same teachers up in Danvers, but that shouldn't be used against them, opines the sage of city hall. Their English is perfection whenever they essay the speaker's role. Both can put over the punch when necessary.

Guild Lawn Party Success

The garden party given by the Leo Guild on D. J. Donovan's lawn Wednesday evening was a huge success. The lawn was handsomely decorated with colored electric lights. Whist was played from 8 to 10, the prizes being won by Messrs. Barry and O'Keefe, Mrs. John Doody, Miss Alice Barry, Miss Mary Bresnahan, Miss Ethel Grady and Mrs. John Dubie. The Waverly orchestra furnished the music for dancing, and Miss Alice Duffy, the accomplished young dancer of Salem, impressed the gathering very much with her acrobatic stunts. This lawn party brought a very neat sum to further the good work done by this society.

These Days of Hysteria.
It is claimed that chess playing is dying out. In the old days, when hysteria did not have possession of the land and the inhabitants thereof, chess playing was quite popular. Now we are a steam-heated civilization, with no time for study for the mere delight of learning. Remember when Paul Murphy of New Orleans was the chess wizard of the world?—Los Angeles Times.

By Products.

By-products are substances or results obtained collaterally or incidentally in the operation of a specific process or manufacture of something else. In hunting game for food the hides and feathers are by-products; in manufacturing lumber sawdust and shavings are by-products; in the manufacture of gas, coke is a by-product, though not the only one evolved in the process.

WILL TALK ON POULTRY CARE

Persons interested in poultry will have an opportunity to learn and see something about making young male birds worth more money. The school is maintained for the furtherance and betterment of agriculture in Essex county and everybody should avail themselves of the opportunity to learn more about poultry and other agricultural subjects through this institution.

At 2.30 p. m. (Wednesday) a demonstration will be given at the home of Frank Berryman, 17 Stevens st. At 3.30 p. m. Prof. Carver will be at Archie L. Twiss, 194 Lynn st. to demonstrate and answer questions.

Activities of the CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The first annual outing of the reorganized Chamber of Commerce will be held at Wardhurst, Lynnfield, on Wednesday, August 6. The committee in charge, P. J. Woods, W. A.
Shea, H. L. Hayes, Joel Ballentine, Dr. J. W. P. Murphy, is arranging to make this the biggest event of Essex county both in the way of sports and entertaining and interesting speakers.
The athletic events will start at 1 p.m.
under the supervision of Henry L.
Hayes, and the favorite indoor pastime will start with a grand rush for the dining room at 2.30 p. m. The speaker of the day will be one who is prominent in national affairs.

Additional pamphlets regarding the corn borer have been received and those who are interested are asked to call at the office to secure copies.

The membership card has been delivered to all members and the effects of same have been very prominent on account of the number of solicitors calling at the office for letters of endorsement of their project, and in most of the cases, the investigation committee has not seen fit to instruct the Secretary to issue this endorsement. Letters of endorsement are not necessary on bona-fide publications, such as the newspapers and trade journals, as these papers have a bona-fide circulation.

The need of both tenements and factory buildings has been very evident to the Chamber in the last few weeks on account of the number of requests the Secretary has received for both kinds of buildings.

Employers will soon be able to obtain strike insurance policies, to be issued by a large corporation that has been organized on the mutual plan.
The company's rates are based upon accurate strike data covering the period from 1881 to 1919; they have been developed from ascertained facts and upon a sound actuarial basis. By a combination of every element which enters into loss cost equitable rates have been calculated for the principal industries in the United States, as well as for similar industries in different localities. The company will operate under a charter granted by the State of Maryland.

'MADE IN PEABODY' EXHIBITS

to that little known industry.

The proper application of leather finishes will be demonstrated by the Morse Stain and Blacking company.
Samples of grease extracted from leather by the American Degreasing Co., another West Peabody concern, will be shown. Anti-Dust, a sweeping compound made here and sold extensively all over the United States, will be among the exhibits.

The Danvers Bleachery and the Marine Hardware Co. will both have fine exhibits. The former will show cloth in the bleached and unbleached state and finished cotton goods in the shape of the famous Pequot and other brands of sheetings, pillow slips and other white goods, while the Marine Hardware Co. will display an infinite variety of ornamental as well as useful boat equipment.

These are among the many exhibits outside of the leather display, which will of itself be an eye-opener.
Geo. C. Vaughan's white leather, the Woelfel Embossing and Decorating
Co.'s novelties and the B. N. Moore be features, and all of Peabody's big leather producers will have distinctive exhibits.

$10,000 LOSS IN WAGES RESULTED TO WORKMEN IN RECENT TACKERS' STRIKE

By "ENERGY"

Labor troubles have been settled in the factories, at least for the present.
The tackers received practically what they demanded, and some are wondering if other branches will want more pay. The loss of wages during this strike has amounted to $10,000, not to mention what the manufacturers have lost by closing their factories.
It is useless for me to keep harping on what should be done or what the future will bring forth, but with wages as high as at present, prosperity is the workmen's middle name and I hope he can save money even with the high cost of commodities.

Prices of all kinds of leather are still climbing. Harness leather at 30 cents a pound, high grade goat and calf leather at $1.50 a foot, sheepskins 40 cents a foot, and sole leather in the same proportion. Here is a case as to how the situation is drifting. A certain manufacturer who takes in work for other parties, notified them that he would have to charge one cent a foot more for finishing the stock. It was accepted with good grace, and three cents a foot was added to the leather. In normal times a quarter of a cent on a foot of leather was thought to be a fair raise. It meant hundreds of dollars added to the bill. Now jumps of five cents are usual, and all of us accept it as a matter of course. Ordinarily the poor man counts his money by dollars. Now it is reckoned by hundreds, and the big business man does business by millions when before it was thousands. We are sure traveling at airplane speed, and if we steer clear of chimneys and other obstacles that are apt to be in the way we will arrive at our destination.
But let us not try to think what would happen if we run into a comet.

There is considerable talk and articles are appearing in the papers about the trusts keeping up prices on commodities. It is insisted that foodstuffs are sold cheaper in England than here. This refers to the goods originally coming from America and shipped to England. If such is the case, and I have no way of knowing it to be true, why does not the Republicans who have control of the Senate and House of Representatives, get busy? Let us forget what has happened, for nothing can come from
it. But what is going to happen, can be heaps. Politics has brought this state of affairs, and politics can remedy them. They tell me the high cost of leather and shoes is due to an actual scarcity. Such may be the case, but as I cited above, when the middle man raises his leather two cents a foot just because the manufacturer has added one cent, is a good illustration of what is going on in all kinds of business. Our systems make it legal to take money away from the public, but when the public wakes up to the fact they are being buncoed, and large bodies move slowly, something will drop and it will be prices.
The Pepper building on Central st.

will soon be busy with leather, the big noise. Joseph Jacobs occupied this property in the 70's as a currying shop. After his retirement, others carried on the leather business there, including Otis Brown. A fire removed much of the grease which always goes with a currying shop, and the Pepper company moved there from the factory on Elm st. Now history repeats itself, and leather is the boss again.

The C. P. Osborne Co. are adding a storehouse to their plant on Foster st.
Calvin P. Osborne is the pioneer leather man of Peabody. Louis P. P.
Osborne, his son, is the manager of the business today. Formerly a split finisher, they have changed to specialties. The best sign of success is additions, and this concern has more than doubled their capacity in a few years.

The Essex Tanning Co. has added an up-to-date office to their equipment. William T. Langmaid, the head of this company, learned his lesson by being foreman for Newman Perkins & Son. They finished splits in quantity. Retiring, Mr. Langmaid started something. It was chromed tanned patent leather. It takes more than courage to make patent leather.
Of all the troubles in making leather, patent leather is the most heart-rending. But the Essex Tanning Co. has manufactured as many as 1000 sides daily for years. They continue to make it which is a sure bet the business is healthy. I never visited a factory where so little was apparently doing, and yet so much produced.

Well, the A. C. L. ball team is winning consistently. It costs money to run a ball team of their calibre, but it looks as though they were here to stay. I hope to witness a series between this team and Marblehead.
With Chic Davies pitching for Marblehead, an added local interest would draw the fans. I understand some 3000 employees of the company have subscribed to carry along the team.
The proper spirit.

I cannot end my letter without mentioning the late George H. Jacobs.
Those of us who knew him for years, feel his loss keenly, and realize his type was the kind that makes life a real life, and his loss a real loss that cannot be replaced.

THE NEED OF THE HOUR

Building, and then more building, is the crying need of the hour in Peabody. First and foremost comes the growing demand for suitable tenements for the small army of workers in the local manufacturing establishments who are forced to find homes out of town, and upon whom the constantly rising car fares are becoming a serious burden. The purchasing power of this body of workers and their families is a great one, and now the places where they are obliged to reside are receiving all the benefit from it. That the tenement problem is an all-important one for Peabody is apparent to even a casual observer of local conditions, and the worst of the situation is that there is no sign of relief in sight.

But the housing problem is not all. Factory space is also at a premium, and this was brought home forcibly this week when an out-of-town concern employing 150 hands, mostly girls, combed the city for a place suitable to its needs, but without success. This concern, which manufactures a staple article for which there is a steady demand year in and year out, requires from 8000 to 10,000 feet of floor space, but it was not to be had. It wants to come to Peabody and it would add another to the variety of industries carried on here, but is prevented by lack of accommodations.

This concern would take a long time lease and it is to be regretted that there is not some sort of a building association here that would handle the project of erecting a modern factory building.

PUBLICITY FOR PEABODY

Considerable interest is being manifested, not only in Peabody, but in leather centres in general, in the coming "Made in Peabody" exhibit under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce. The idea of making the exhibit in the store windows of the city, thus affording a free show to the general public, is something new and novel and will doubtless be appreciated by Peabodyites young and old. Constituting as it will some 40 odd of the principal industries of the city, the exhibit should prove highly educational as well as interesting. The date has been set for the opening on Thursday, July 31, and the exhibit will be continued for a full week, so that there will be ample opportunity for everyone to see it. Wide publicity is being given the event by the Chamber of Commerce and visitors will be attracted from all over New England.

Far-reaching results are certain to be attained by an event of this kind. Publicity is one of the greatest agents for the welfare of any community, and from the liberal space given by the newspapers in general to the exhibit the fame of Peabody as a manufacturing centre is bound to be widely circulated. The manufactured products will be discussed and elaborated upon, and they are of such a nature that this publicity will prove of inestimable benefit to the manufacturers. As the exhibit will of necessity bring visitors right to the store windows, it cannot help proving advantageous to the merchants, who will make special displays of their wares for the occasion.

All in all it is a capital idea and the Chamber of Commerce is to be commended for its enterprise in staging such an event here. It involves a great deal of work, but the expenditure of time and money will be more than repaid in results attained.

THE WATER QUESTION

During the past few weeks the water question, for obvious reasons, has been the subject upon which to base the full fifty-seven varieties of humorous comment, but just at present the water question in Peabody is anything but a joke. In the minds of men qualified to know what they are talking about, and they are not alarmists, it is a serious question. At the present writing there is water enough in sight to meet the city's demands until the first of September, and unless there is a liberal addition to the stock on hand provided by nature in the shape of a series of copious rainfalls between now and September the city is liable to be up against it, as the saying goes, good and hard.

Nature has been a good provider heretofore and probably will be again, but the day is coming when there will be a slip. A long period of drouth, especially at this season of the year, is always a possibility, and one of those periods coming just now would be little short of a local calamity. Peabody has two excellent storage basins and while they are not now at an unusually low level, as those things are measured, they are by no means inexhaustible, considering the large amount of water that is being used. There is no great wastage of water here at present. The water used by about 80 per cent of the consumers is metered, and this effectually prevents any great wastage. The meter service is slowly, but steadily, being extended and thus the consumption is kept down to a minimum.

In the event of a drouth there will be a shortage, and it is well to keep this in mind. Recent events abroad as well as at home have demonstrated the worth of the old saying "In times of peace prepare for war" and this applies to the local water situation as well. An additional supply is not a thing that can be secured at short notice, and it is such an expensive proposition that it warrants mature deliberation. The subject has been gone into thoroughly by experts and their reports agree in the main. The Ipswich river offers the best solution of the problem and the city has already been given certain rights in that direction. Considering the certainty that the time will come when the present supply will become inadequate, would it not be well to inaugurate preliminary steps looking towards guarding against this contingency?

One Advantage of Education.
We have always believed in the high possibilities of the movies, and more particularly since a charming girl told us she had found you could hold hands just as well at an educational film as any other. —Grand Rapids Press.

ROUND ABOUT

Now and then my attention is called to the fact that a Peabody farmer is having luck in raising tobacco for his own use. The latest advent in this reduction is on Farm Ave., where Emil Savageau can point out a patch of worth while weed which, somewhat strong, is nevertheless a first cousin of Connecticut river tobacco.

Judge Benjamin G. Hall of the district court is authority for the fact that the corn borer has made its unwelcome appearance in many gardens and is wrothtling havoc. The borer has visited the judge's corn patch. The pest starts on the spindle and works down and leaves a murderous trail with much of the precision perpetrated by the Huns through northern France.

So bounteous have been crops so far in West Peabody this season that I observe a number of the homesteaders who have harvested well are offering home made preserves for sale to the passing autoists and finding a good sale. One or two West Peabody residents have entered in this business on a large scale with remunerative results that bid fair to give that end of the city an industry of dimension.

* * *

Trailing a five-seater auto out of Holly st. onto Margin early last Monday morning, I was amazed to see the tire of one of the wheels come off, roll alongside of the car for about 20 feet and then land on the sidewalk. The auto went happily on its way on the rim of the wheel as if nothing had happened.

* * *

Travelers by Proctor's Crossing are remarking on the improved condition of the triangular green near the railroad tracks. The grass has been cut and the square is in keeping with civic improvements. I am told that Chairman Angus MacDonald of the Park Commission is responsible for the improvement. The new park commissioner manages to show his hand on everything he has a say in, and those who know his work are generous in their praise for him. He sat as arbiter on the cut price war between tonic vendors at Emerson Park recently and his ruling caused the tonic men to settle on the price of seven cents for their wares. One man was getting six cents and the other ten until "Mac" took a hand in the rate war here at home.

* * *

Peabody housewives were tipped off this week that sugar was going to be scarce, and I am told that some of the small dealers had a hand in spreading the word to buy now. Monday came the official word from Washington that there was no danger of a shortage, so the dealers must fall back on prunes or caraway seed.

I have figured that Major would come to an untimely end through his insistence in giving welcome home celebrations to passing autoists on Sutton st. Wednesday it seemed as if the call for a stretcher bearer was at hand, for the front wheel of a Ford went over his back and I fancied "taps" were on call for a dog I like. But instead of laying prostrate, Major bounced onto his feet and gave another bark at the auto and romped into his yard apparently none the worse for the close call. I am hoping the incident will prove the right kind of a lesson and that my good friend will have a care in the future for his personal comfort when vehicles pass by. I'm glad it was a Ford.

"Biff-bang" is the name tacked on to a new drink concocted by local tipsters since the nation-wide prohibition edict went into effect July 1, so I am informed. From all accounts it bears out its name, and then some. According to one of the participants in a recent "biff-bang" soiree or jamboree, the concoction was prepared as follows: Into a gallon of genuine hard cider, hard enough to deliver a Jack Dempsey knockout blow, was added the contents of eight or nine bottles of Jamaica ginger, consisting of 99 per cent alcohol and one per cent Jamaica extract. The combination of "Jakey" and country knockout fluid was not considered sufficient, so a couple of handfuls of snuff was added to give it "pep." As the cook book says, after that all that was necessary was to "stir well and serve." Whether they liked it or not, or even pretended to, the informant neglected to state, but the fact that it had "pep" and "kick" was demonstrated by "laying the gang away." Of course some liquid dynamite, vitrol, kerosene and 2 1/2 per cent beer could have been added to give additional zest to the tippie, but why suggest these; somebody will try them all sooner or later.

I am hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Newburyport in said County, on the twenty-eighth day of July A. D. 1919, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause if any you have why the same should not be granted.
And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper published in Peabody, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.
Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eighth day of July in the year one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.
HORACE H. ATHERTON, Jr., (J11-18-25) Register.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Essex:

RESPECTFULLY I submit and represents John Buttmer, of Salem, in said County, that he was lawfully married to Nellie M. Buttmer, now of parts unknown, at Peabody, in said County, on the thirteenth day of September, A. D. 1909, and thereafter afterwards your libellant and the said Nellie M. Buttmer lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth, to wit, at said Salem and at said Peabody; that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations, but the said Nellie M. Buttmer being wholly regardless of the same, at said Peabody on the seventh day of August, A. D. 1910, utterly and wilfully deserted your libellant which desertion has continued for three consecutive years next prior to filing of this libel.

WHEN PATRIOT SPOKE

Ringling Words of Patrick Henry Are Enshrined in Hearts of All Free Men.

"I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

THESE were the ringing, closing words of Patrick Henry on March 23, 1775, as he delivered his immortal and eloquent address in support of the resolutions passed by the second revolutionary convention of Virginia, of which he was an honored delegate.

For six months the various colonies had been making military preparations. Lord Dunmore in Virginia wrote in December, 1774, to the earl of Dartmouth:

"Every county is now arming a company of men, whom they call an independent company for the avowed purpose of protecting their committees and to be employed against the government if occasion require."

When the movement for a well-regulated militia, referred to above, was introduced in the revolutionary congress in Virginia, it met some opposition, not because it was premature, but because Patrick Henry came out more boldly for war than anyone in the colonies had done before that time.

Patrick Henry.

Nearly fifty years later Thomas Jefferson said: "After all, it must be allowed that Patrick Henry was our leader in the measures of the resolutions in Virginia, and in that respect more is due to him than to any other person. . . . He left us all behind."

John Roane, who heard Patrick Henry's famous speech described it to Edward Fontaine in 1834, and this manuscript is in the library of Cornell university:

"You remember, sir, the conclusion of the speech, so often declaimed in various ways by schoolboys—'Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty, or give me death!' He gave each of mous Address.

these words a meaning which is not conveyed by the reading or delivery of them in the ordinary way.

"After a solemn pause, he raised his eyes and chained hands toward heaven, and prayed, in words and tones which thrilled every heart, 'Forbid it, Almighty God!' He then turned toward the timid loyalists of the house, who were quaking with terror at the idea of the consequences of participating in proceedings which would be visited with the penalties of treason by the British crown; and he slowly bent his form yet nearer to the earth, and said: 'I know not what course others may take,' and he accompanied the words with his hands still crossed, while he seemed to be weighted down with his emotion.

"Continuing, he lifted one hand firmly, as if holding a dagger with the point aimed at his breast. He stood like a Roman senator defying Caesar, while the unconquerable spirit of Cato of Utica flashed from every feature; and he closed the grand appeal with the solemn words, 'or give me death!' which sounded with the awful cadence of a hero's dirge, fearless of death, and victorious in death; and he suited the action to the word by a blow upon the left breast with the right hand, which seemed to drive the dagger to the patriot's heart."

MARGARET MAY (ARMSTRONG) BROWN

The tidings of the passing away from this community by death last Sunday morning of Mrs. Margaret May (Armstrong) Brown causes a sense of loss as ever when one universally beloved meets the final summons which awaits all alike, but is most painful when it takes from us one whose long life has been filled with good deeds done unselfishly for all.
Possessing a markedly strong Christian character, she won many friends by whom she will be sadly missed but kindly remembered.

Funeral services were held Tuesday p.m. at the Second Congregational Church. Rev. Herbert Walker of Holbrook spoke with deep appreciation of the character and musical power of the deceased and the Women's Relief Corps constituted the guard of honor, reciting their impressive ritual for the dead. The casket was laden with beautiful flowers, sending out in fragrance their message of love. The Weber Quartet of Boston sang. Her three sons and nephew acted as pallbearers. Besides a husband she leaves three sons and one daughter, several grandchildren and three great-grandchildren to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Brown was a great lover of music. It was always her keynote.
She possessed a beautiful voice and was a member of inspired choruses, a soloist at the South Church at one time, and for about 25 years was organist at the Second Congregational Church, of which she was a member for many years and was an untiring worker as long as her health permitted. In her younger days she was a teacher in the Rockville School and later at Abbott Female Seminary, Andover.

In 1861 she married John Brown and to them four children were born, three sons and a daughter. Their golden wedding anniversary was celebrated at their home on County st.
She was 84 years old, 1 month, 26 days.

Rep. McVann on Job

Several hundred applications for the $100 bonus were filled out at Rep.
James E. McVann's office in the Allen block the past week. One hundred were distributed to the representatives Tuesday. McVann's office was open evenings for the benefit of the returned soldiers and sailors who wished to apply for the gratuity. The applicants have until Nov. 30, this year, in which to file their applications with their discharge paper. Discharged men, men in active service, and dependents or heirs-at-law are entitled to this $100, which is being paid by the state.

LITTLE HOSTESS

Little Arvilla Barnes, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Barnes, made a charming hostess to nearly 30 of her young friends last Saturday afternoon at her home on School street. The occasion was her natal day anniversary and it was a happy gathering. Games were played and a buffet lunch was served the young folks. Little Miss Barnes was the recipient of many presents.

tions of looking over the A. C. L. team Saturday. The attendance should go well over the 2000 mark at this game.

Fitzpatrick and Urban, who are making themselves solid with their followers, will be opposed by Fullerton and O'Regan, with Carney as a possibility as pitcher in place of Fullerton. In O'Regan the Navy has a catcher who is touted as a wonder, and it will be interesting to compare his work with that of Louie Urban, the A. C. L. star. Casey at first is another lad who has done much to make the five wins of the Navy certain and his playing will be closely watched tomorrow.

The A. C. L. sluggers, Dempsey, Gourley, McLaughlin and Urban, are all out to fatten their batting averages at the expense of the Navy pitchers.

Beginning with this game, A. C. L. has a strong list of opponents signed up, including Salem, Cornets and United Shoe.

Mabel Normand Venus of Water Tops the Strand

Mabel Normand in "A Perfect 36," in which this comely little star plays the part of a diving "venus," will head the Strand's program for today and Saturday. During the course of the story Miss Normand gives a wonderful diving and swimming exhibition, which was watched by hundreds of society folks at Sea Cliff, L. I., where many of the scenes were taken. Marie Walcamp in "The Red Glove" is the second big attraction. Miss Walcamp continues her daredevil stunts in this episode and in each succeeding chapter this startling serial improves, both in story and action. Mack Sennett's funmakers, headed by Ben Turpin, the man with the foolish eyes, will be presented in the roaring farce, "No Mother to Guide Him," as the comedy feature. All three numbers are above the average in quality and make up a very pleasing program.

Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge in "The Cabaret" will top the bill for Sunday evening. Both Mr. Blackwell and Miss Elvidge are stars of international repute and they make a happy combination in this story of big city life. Gladys Leslie in "The Mating" will be the other feature for Sunday evening.

On Monday and Tuesday the Strand will offer to the picture lovers of Peabody a new star in the person of Harry Carey. During the past year Mr. Carey has leaped from obscurity to one of the screen's leading lights. His specialty is virile out-of-doors roles and the trade papers compare him favorably to William S. Hart. Mr. Carey will be presented in "A Fight for Love," and, believe us, he can fight, as all who see the picture will testify. The beautiful scenery shown in this picture is alone worth the price of admission. Tom Moore in a comedy-drama, entitled "A Man and His Money," will be an added attraction for Monday and Tuesday. "A Man and His Money" has a novel theme and is the type of picture that pleases all classes of theatregoers.

Charles Ray in "Hay Foot, Straw Foot" will be offered as the headline attraction on Wednesday and Thursday. This is Mr. Ray's latest starring vehicle and presents him as a rookie at one of Uncle Sam's training camps. He receives fine support from Doris Lee, who is to co-star next season with Douglas MacLean. Ruth Roland in "The Tiger's Trail" and the Pathe News will be the other features on the mid-week change.

Hall Caine's great special, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," Rex Beach's story of Alaskan life, "The Brand," William S. Hart in "Wagon Tracks" and Charlie Chaplin in "Sunnyside," his latest comedy success, are four of the big attractions the Strand will offer during the next few weeks.

How the Months Were Named.

January gets its name from Janus; February from Februa—purification—a Sabine word; March from Mars; April from aperlo—open; May from Maia, goddess of growth; June from Junius; July from Julius; August from Augustus; September from septem—seven; October from octo—eight; November from novem—nine; December from decem—ten.

Storms Carry Birds to Far North.

Certain instances of birds found singly far to the north of their usual range are possibly to be explained by the whirl of our cyclonic storms. The wind, turning counter-clockwise, blows off shore in the south and carries the bird out to sea. But sooner or later, if the bird has the good fortune to last out the experience, the farther spin of the storm tends to bring him ashore again.

LEAGUE COVENANT IS SAFEGUARDED

The Massachusetts Joint Committee for a League of Free Nations, which has its headquarters at 40 Mt. Vernon street, Boston, has taken a stand on the Peace Treaty by passing the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, we believe that the United States should now enter the League of Nations in order to promote international co-operation and to achieve international peace and security; and

"WHEREAS, the Peace Conference at Paris, at its first session, recognized the necessity of making the League of Nations the basis of the treaty of peace, and has shaped the whole treaty on the assumption that this League of Nations will be formed; and

"WHEREAS, the first draft of the Covenant of the League of Nations was submitted for world-wide discussion and, in the light of such discussion, has been largely amended to meet suggestions made by American statesmen; and

"WHEREAS, ample provision is made in the present Covenant for such future amendments as prove desirable; and

"WHEREAS, a nation which fails to secure satisfactory conditions is at liberty at any time to give two years' notice of withdrawal; and

"WHEREAS, the perfected Covenant has already become an essential part of the peace treaty with Germany, and cannot be further amended at this time without jeopardizing the whole peace treaty, and inviting the spread of international anarchy,

"NOW, THEREFORE, we earnestly urge that the United States Senate, without unreasonable delay, ratify the treaty of peace when it shall be submitted for ratification, and thereby secure the maintenance of world peace, which is the great end for which we fought the war, and without the attainment of which all our sacrifices of blood and treasure will have been in vain."

This committee was formed within a month after the signing of the armistice in order to pool the resources of the Massachusetts organizations which were working for an organized peace to prevent a repetition of this world war. The organizations co-operating are the Massachusetts League of Free Nations Association, the Massachusetts Branch of the League to Enforce Peace and the World Peace Foundation. The members of this committee are men of wide reputation well known for their unbiased interest in public welfare. They are Edward Cummings, Chairman; J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., H. M. Kallen, John F. Moors, A. Lawrence Lowell, J. Mott Hallowell, Joseph Walker and Courtenay Crocker.

These men believe that in this great crisis of national and international history, the League of Nations presents the greatest opportunity which the world has ever had for the realization of political, moral and spiritual ideals. In view of the possibility of amendment and withdrawal, they deem it unwise to prolong the state of war and thus jeopardize the whole plan of international organization.

Will Not Endure International Anarchy

I am utterly in favor of a League of Nations as the only possible means of developing and enforcing a public opinion of the world.

It is only under such a world organization that the several nations can reach their full development, as the states have done under our national Constitution.

The alternative, international anarchy tempered by a balance of power that has repeatedly proved itself unstable, will no longer be endured by the people of the world's democracy.

A school in Italy uses stamp albums to teach geography and history. Each student has his own collection, while the school owns a larger and more complete one. The boys and girls are a great deal more devoted to their studies with such novel text books to attract and interest them than they would be with just common pink and blue maps.

Thrift and Opportunity

MRS. L. A. RHEAUME AND CHILDREN

Mrs. L. A. Rheume, of 43 Lyman street, Holyoke, Massachusetts, has been buying War Savings Stamps for a year. Early in March she applied at the postoffice to cash what she had—$850. She told the postmaster that her husband, who sells bread, was buying a motor truck for $825 and they needed the money. The postmaster advised her to hold the stamps until April first, and explained the increase in value (about $2). She was very glad to take advantage of the suggestion.

Mrs. Rheume is of French descent, and a very capable woman, mother of three little children. She and Mr. Rheume own a small apartment in which they live. She said that because a payment of $850 was due April first, she had to use her stamps for the truck.

She writes, "I am still buying War Savings Stamps to my utmost because it is a sure and correct investment and while buying the stamps I am lending my money to the Government with good interest."

"ONE-PIECE" COOKERY.

Food, Time, Fuel and Labor May be Conserved by This Method.

"One-piece" dishes, which were brought into favor by war-time conditions and economics, remain popular with thoughtful and progressive housewives, as a well-balanced meal may be quickly and easily prepared in this manner. Rice, for example, lends itself admirably to combination.

Of several ways of cooking rice, the best, perhaps, is to add to a given quantity of rice about twice as much water, and cook over a very low fire in a covered kettle. Carefully cooked in this way the grains will "stand apart" as well as by boiling the rice in a lot of water, rinsing with cold water, then drying in the oven.

Using plain boiled rice for a basis, many balancing articles of food—cheese, meat, eggs, nuts, fats, etc.—combine with it harmoniously. A cooking expert so uses up the coarser leaves of lettuce, romaine, endive, etc., that may have been left over from a salad. To these she adds a sliced onion, about two tablespoons of bacon fat, butter or butter substitute, and three-quarters of a cup of cold water for every half cup of well-washed rice—which, for this particular recipe, has not been previously cooked. When the water boils in the covered kettle, she turns the fire low and allows the whole to cook for twenty minutes.

Other combinations will produce results equally "tasty." The point is to conserve food, time, fuel, labor, thus increasing the working capital of the housewife. Every penny saved increases her ability to purchase Thrift and War Savings Stamps regularly, and thus make provision for the future.

KEEP YOUR LIBERTY BOND INTEREST BUSY.

Are you keeping the interest on Your Liberty Bonds busy?

By taking the coupons to the post-office as they come due, and reinvesting them in War Savings Stamps, they will continue to work for you, and at the end of five years there will be a substantial amount to invest in something worth while.

Watch out for these dates of Liberty Bond interest payments for the remainder of this year: June 15, No. 1; September 15, No. 3; October 15, No. 2; November 15, No. 4; December 15, No. 1, also first interest payment on Victory Loan, No. 5.

WHAT IS A BILLION, ANYWAY?

How the American and British Billions Vary.

By James H. Collins.

"One billion dollars," dictated the boss to Tillie.

"Do you want that in figures?" she asked.

"Yes."

But Tillie hit the cipher key too many times and wrote:

$1,000,000,000,000

It looked large, even for a war figure!

And it was both wrong and right as you will see a little later.

What is a billion, anyway?

Last year, the people of this country did something which gives a very good illustration of $1,000,000,000. The Treasury Department received a billion dollars from War Savings Stamps bought by the people. Just who bought them does not matter. Every man, woman and child in the United States buying a 25-cent Thrift Stamp weekly for forty weeks would have done it—not much of a drain upon anybody's income, even that of an office boy.

Now, it would be impossible for the people in Great Britain to duplicate the performance, even if they had a population as large as our own. There is not enough wealth in the United Kingdom to make a billion dollars by English standards. The term billions never crept into John Bull's war figures.

We use the French billion, which is 1,000,000,000, whereas the British use a standard of their own, and their billion is 1,000,000,000,000.

So that is why Tillie was both wrong and right.

A billion of anything is a whole lot, whether one measures it by the British or American standard. But as war taught us to think in terms of this big unit, so it has taught us to produce in terms of billions, and one of the most interesting measures of our production and thinking is the comparative ease with which we as a nation may save up a billion dollars by the purchase of a little green slip of paper, the Thrift Stamp, once a week for something less than ten months.

The holes in a sieve are small but water runs out mighty fast. Does your money dribble away? Save it in Thrift Stamps.

CORN BORER HITS PEABODY

(By Ernest W. Thompson, Field Agent, Mass. State Board of Agriculture. (Reprinted from A. C. L., July 15.)

The corn borer, which has hit Peabody hard, winters over as a caterpillar in the corn stalks and larger weeds—such as pig weed, burdock, and some of the barnyard grasses. About the middle of May the insect pupates and emerges as a moth, which lays a large number of eggs (around 100.) These eggs occur in masses of 50 or 100 greenish-white eggs, usually laid on the under surface of the leaves. In a short time, small caterpillars—white in color with two black spots on each segment, hatch from the egg, and commence their destructive work upon the tissue of the leaves.

In its early stages, the larva is not perforated, but rather skeletonized. As soon as the larva grows a little larger, it penetrates the stem, leaving a round hole about the size of an ordinary shot. It lives within the stem and from the hole made in entering, it ejects dung and chips. Here it lives until the last of July, and early in August another generation of moths emerges, which lays the eggs from which hatches a second generation of caterpillars. This time each moth lays about 900 eggs. These winter over in the corn stalks and weed stalks until the following May. Therefore, one caterpillar which is present in the stalk in the spring may be responsible for 315,000 borers, before fall.

For the reasons above given, all corn stalks, weeds, and garden refuse should be burned to ashes in the fall. At the present time it would be advisable for everyone growing corn to carefully go over his plants and, if any of them appear to manifest any of the symptoms above described, they should be immediately pulled up, taken into the house, and burned in the stove in order that the destruction of all contained larva may be accomplished beyond the possibility of a doubt.

The accompanying cut will give some idea of the appearance of the corn borer and his work.

Gardeners Go To Arlington

Arlington is the scene tomorrow of a field day for market gardeners at the field station. This is an experimental unit, under the general direction of Prof. H. F. Tompson, head of the vegetable gardening department of the Massachusetts Agricultural College and is maintained for the purpose of working out practical problems in market gardening for the market gardeners of the state.

A large number of market gardeners will visit the station to inspect some of the practical problems that are being worked out there. Tests to determine the most economical methods of fertilizing land for vegetables are showing marked results. Variety tests, rotation schemes and many other practical points of interest will claim the attention of the market gardeners on that day. The superintendent of the station will be on the grounds from nine in the morning until evening to greet all visitors and to explain the work.

POLICE AND FIREMEN GET $4.50 A DAY--8 HOURS FOR COPS

Peabody police and firemen were voted an increase in pay to $4.50 a day at the meeting of the Council last night without opposition. The Council also voted to make eight hours the working day for the police beginning August 1. Ordinances to cover both votes will be introduced at the next meeting of the Council.

A petition for increase of pay to teamsters and city laborers was presented the Council through the Teamsters' Union of Salem last night calling for $27 for teamsters and $24 for laborers with Saturday afternoons off the year round and time and a half for all over time. The petition was referred to the committee on streets.

Alfred A. Hall was named dog constable by Mayor Donnell in a special communication to the Council.

Without dissent the Council voted to authorize the Mayor to expend $4500 to lay a concrete pavement on Perry st. if he can find the money. This street was favored by one of the Council who some weeks ago opposed rebuilding streets which would benefit the A. C. Lawrence Co.

Councillor McKeen went on record last night as opposed to appropriating another cent for permanent highways this year, but a motion to have Tremont st. rebuilt to the Salem line was put up to the Mayor. Councillor Brown said $10,000 had been promised for upper Lowell st. from the turnpike to West school and that the money had been spent on other streets. Councillor Cotton got in a word to have Aborn st. rebuilt to the Salem line.

Councillor McKeen started a debate on the proposed stadium last night when he introduced a motion that no more money be expended on the project this year. His motion was lost 6 to 5, President Gies casting the deciding vote.

On motion of Councillor Cotton the Council suspended rules and granted an auctioneer's license to Jere J. Quirk. A claim for damages for in-

CITY NEEDS NEW PUMP

With Peabody's pumping station being able to keep about 400,000 gallons of water ahead of the daily demand and depending on one pump to furnish this commodity to the factories, Mayor Donnell's next move in governmental purchase is a new pump. The consumption of water in Peabody averages 4,300,000 five days in the week. The Allis-Chalmers pump which has been doing the brunt of the work at the station for the past 19 months is able to average 4,500,000 gallons for these days. The worthington pump has an efficiency of 40.7 per cent when it is put into play. It has been dead for several months.

Chief Engineer Patrick F. Conroy and his crew are doing their best to meet the daily demands and the only thing that saves the water situation is the fact Sunday is resorted to to fill the big reservoir with the necessary supply for the factories when they open up Monday mornings. Bids for a new pump which will cost somewhere around $40,000 have already been received by the city but no award has yet been made and a hint is said to have gone forth that none may be purchased this year. It will take six months to have a new pump installed at the pumping station. If the purchase was made now the chances are that the city will not have to pay for the new pump until 1920 which ought to help some with the way appropriations have been announced so far in 1919.

Engineer Conroy is proving an efficient man at the pumping station. He is a native of Peabody, having

HINT PLOT TO KILL NEW HIGH SCHOOL

State and County politics are said to be back of a "deal" in the making to swing the contract for the proposed half million dollar Junior High school to a certain architect among the competitors who have submitted plans and ugly stories are afloat in Peabody.

So acute has become the tension in certain official circles that an expose is said to be ready to be launched which is sure to cause some uneasiness in certain quarters. It is openly charged that the "plot" is to eliminate all but one of the architects and the story going the rounds is to the effect that someone purporting to be a member of the City Council has made the threat that unless the school committee employ this certain architect that the Council will refuse to appropriate a single cent for the badly needed school.

The threat, if any has been made, would appear ridiculous were it not for the fact that a certain Boston man with a statewide reputation for having a money hand in various past political plums is known to have injected himself into the Peabody school project in favor of one of the architects. The story going the rounds lets it be understood that if a certain architect is employed in Peabody

Pay Tribute To Geo. H. Jacobs

Peabody business men and many citizens, including city officials, attended the funeral of the late George H. Jacobs, Peabody's leading merchant yesterday at his home on Lowell st. The services were simple in accordance with the expressed wishes of the deceased. Rev. William Partridge, formerly rector of the Episcopal church here and Chaplain in the Navy for the past two years, officiated. He paid a fine tribute to the honor and integrity of the dead man. There was no singing. Many handsome floral pieces were sent from Boston merchants and Peabody citizens. Burial was in Harmony Grove, following cremation of the body. Mr. Jacobs was a member of Golden Rule lodge of Odd Fellows of Lewiston, Me. which he joined over 40 years ago when in business in that city.

WAS HIGHEST CITIZEN.

The George H. Jacobs Co. store opened its doors today and the business will be conducted by the junior partners Lucien G. Lewis and John F. Duffy, who have long been identified with the deceased merchant. The

TACKERS' STRIKE ENDED

As agreed in last week's Enterprise, a compromise was reached yesterday ending the strike of the tackers in the sheepskin plants of Peabody, and many of the shops are back on full time today as a result. Under the agreement the tackers will get 22 cents a dozen from July 1 and 21 cents from May 1 to July 1. The manufacturers had offered to meet the demand for 22 cents with a counter proposition for the tackers to accept the retroactive pay at the rate of 20 cents. Up to yesterday the strikers had stood pat. The old price was 18 cents.

The manufacturers claim they opposed the tackers on the ground of principle in that they believed the strikers should be willing to compromise. The strike has been in progress four weeks and some 1500 men were thrown out of work two weeks ago. The tackers represent about eight per cent of the working force involved. It is known that some of the tackers believed the offer of the plant owners fair as first made and were willing to accept it but the majority of the strikers held out firm for the flat 22 cents from May 1.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Peabody's municipal garage is top heavy with labor day times and below par after nightfall in that three men are doing the day stunt and but one man the night vigil and work. Supt. Sexton has a chance, it would seem, with the Mayor's approval of course, of evening up the snits and making it a squarer proposition for both the employees and the city. An urgent night call comes in at the same time for both the police patrol and the ambulance, there is only one driver to take the wheel. This is surely not sufficient, and the wonder is that the system has been allowed to exist so long. It is interesting to make the above comment with the petition this week of the employees for an increase in wages to $4.50 a day and eight hours. An increase in pay is certain and it ought to be in keeping with that granted the police.

It appears that the night man has to do most of the washing of two odd machines which shelter within the garage at night. Garage employees work seven days a week and would eight perhaps if the calendar was made over. The day's pay for the chauffeur is $26.25 and for the night driver only $25. All are supposed to be working 12 hours a day. It is argued that more honest repair work could be done during the night watch than is done daytimes, a rule adhered to in successful garages of public hire. If two men, instead of one, were employed at night the city would be given more efficient service. Fortunately, a call for the ambulance and the Black Maria has not come in often together at night but there is nothing short of Providence to prevent just such an emergency and why not have this sort of protection while the city is paying for it? That question is asked by taxpayers. Properly run there is wisdom in a municipal garage. It is difficult to believe there is any alibi to offset the suggestion for two-man service nights.

Peabody police volunteered their services at the welcome home celebration parade. The committee on the ball believed the police who worked that night should be given $4 and Mayor Donnell Oked the voucher.

When is that traffic cop to be placed in Peabody Square, Mr. Mayor? There is plenty of traffic to warrant his being employed and he is sure to bring about an improvement.

After being out of commission for some weeks due to the new construction on Railroad ave. the city scales are opened again for business with plenty of it being recorded each day by city weigher Bolster. The City of Peabody has come to the aid of the bankrupt Boston & Maine by extending the new Hassam pavement on Railroad ave. to the land of the railroad so that trucks employed to unload freight cars can be backed to the cars without injuring the street pavement. Coal dealers who unload coal mugged up the street badly this week by the stray coal that covered the new street construction. City Engineer Emerson will ask the coal dealers to caution their men not to stray the coal all over the street.

Motorists desiring to hit the turnpike by going through Andover st. are obliged to make a detour now by way of Danvers owing to the new road construction under way by the state highway commission.

It is understood that the Eastend Bonfire Committee will take care of the damages caused when Miss Louise King driving the "P. E. D." car last Friday figured in an accident. Miss King had obligingly driven the car to Salem to secure supplies for the Eastend midway. Special Officer John Kane failed to state the nature of Miss King's errand when he made his report of the accident. But of course officer Keane didn't know.

Edward Vincent Dullea, night chauffeur at the municipal garage completes his annual two weeks' vacation tomorrow and will resume his labors Sunday. Dullea earns his money.

Getting back to the petition of the garage employees for more pay and shorter hours the Enterprise hopes to see an eight hour day inaugurated at the city garage and an increase of pay to men who are doing a man's work awarded the employees. It is said that Mayor Donnell looks with favor upon the petition, a copy of which was presented him some days ago.

Another item of interest concerning the garage is the fact that the civil service commission has just certified to examinations passed by Robert Pendleton and Eldon Wilson, two of the day men on the staff of Supt. Sexton.

The Mark E. Kelley Co. began this week the work of relaying about 75 yards of granolithic sidewalk on Central st. between Endicott and Bowditch sts.

Apropos of good streets, I wonder why Mayor Donnell doesn't persuade his friend, Mayor Creamer of Lynn, to rebuild Broadway from Wyoma Sq. to the Peabody line. With this patch of poor Lynn roadway in first class shape, motorists would have a delightful road from Peabody Sq. to Central St., Lynn. Lynn evidently is not seriously concerned with travel from approaching cities and towns.

Geo. H. Jacobs Rare Citizen

partners were admitted to the firm in 1911.

By the death of George H. Jacobs, Peabody has lost a man whose life has been an asset to the community. Known by people in all spheres of life, his reputation for doing as he wished to be done by, will long linger in the minds of his army of friends. He was indeed a veteran clothing man. Practically his whole life was passed in this business and during this time he had managed 30 stores. His home store has been a landmark for a generation, and to visit it meant a hearty greeting by the proprietor. There are many men in every community who are respected by the big majority.

But George H. Jacobs has left his mark which time will not erase. His extreme sympathy for his fellow man, for everyone in trouble, was one of his prominent characteristics. Perhaps few knew how far he carried that sympathy, but could all of us follow his way, the world would be better, far better. But we must remember he reached the allotted time—three score years and ten—and we should be thankful that such a man was in or midst as an example of what a living father, a successful business man, and a good fellow should be to make life worth living.

"MADE IN PEABODY" EXHIBITS SURE TO INTEREST CITIZENS

Some surprises are in store for the public of Peabody when the "Made in Peabody" exhibit under the auspices of the Chamber of commerce opens the latter part of this month. Among the exhibits to be made in the store windows during the week beginning July 31 or shortly thereafter will be products of industries that very few persons in the city had any idea were established here.

Even some of the larger manufacturers, when approached by the Chamber representatives on the subject of the exhibit, said "Why, you can't show anything but leather and one or two other things" and were amazed when the great variety of the local industries was made known to them.

The form of the exhibit itself will be somewhat of a novelty, as the store windows will be used for the purpose. The merchants along Main street, from Wallis street to the railroad track on both sides, have contributed windows to the number of about 40, and in these the display of Peabody-made products will be given. The manufacturers are entering into the spirit behind the exhibit enthusiastically and thus far not one who could make a display has refused.

The leather industry, of course, will predominate, although shop conditions may prevent one or two from turning out the exhibit they would otherwise make. Industries allied to the leather trade will come next, but there will be enough novelties to surprise everyone.

As an educational feature it will rank as one of the best things ever presented in Peabody, and it is cer-

MANUFACTURERS AND WORKERS NEED WAGE AGREEMENT

By "ENERGY"

The labor situation remains the same. The manufacturers conferred with the officials of the labor union Wednesday and nothing appears to have come out of it. From all I can glean, many of the men would be pleased to return to work, for most of them admit the wages are satisfactory. The closed shop is one of the big points to be settled, and both sides are firm, pro and con. Not being near the throne, I am not qualified to predict the outcome, but I believe that if a schedule of prices was drawn up, signed by the manufacturers and the labor leaders, that all difficulties would be adjusted for the time specified in the agreement. When McMahon told the officials of the street car union that an agreement made by any union must be lived up to, and that he would fight to have unions 100 per cent American, I believe he struck the keynote of a real labor union. I have seen it in print that unions have repudiated agreements in the past, but it seems to me such work will not be allowed to any extent in the future.

The leather workers of Peabody are reaping a rich harvest today and have been for many moons. The manufacturers have advanced their wages many times, in some cases without solicitation. As business is commencing to settle back to normal conditions, which must come about slowly to be healthy, so must wages settle, instead of increasing. There is nothing in a community that keeps a city healthy more than good business and good wages.

I am free to insist that the wages of today are not divided equitably. When foreigners who cannot speak the English language, can earn more money than a clerk who has been trained by training for his position, the wage situation is top heavy. There are thousands of men today whose pay envelope is but little larger than it ever was. The high cost of living has hit such people hard, and as one of them told me, he is far worse off than he was before the war. But such facts do not change the situation, and it remains true that the leather workers are being paid wages never dreamed of in the past, and much more in proportion than in most other trades, excepting perhaps skilled mechanics whose work requires years of experience. So I say, the leather workers should look the situation squarely in the face, and decide the best thing to do. To my way of thinking, they should return to work, conserve their interests, for that rainy day stuff is liable, yes will come sooner or later, when an umbrella will be needed.

I am not egotistical, I am not pleading the cause of either side to the controversy, but I am placing myself in the laborers column, and am voicing my sentiments as such. Any man who can reason, knows that no one need worry about the manufacturers. If so inclined they could close their factories for weeks, yes months, and weather the storm. Only under such rosy conditions as the leather worker is facing today would I attempt to write on this subject. By so doing, I am confident I am doing no harm to anybody, and there is a remote possibility good may come from it. If so, I feel I am well paid for my efforts.

I have been trying to obtain ideas as to what leather is popular today. As near as I can find out, any old leather is popular enough to bring more money than eggs, and those of us who are foreign to the leather game know about eggs. Scarcity of raw material is the answer to these prices, and it is possible there may be a manipulation in hides as there was in fish. What happened to the fish manipulators is a matter of history. If applied in other directions it might help to solve other high costs, and the man with brains and push who would fight these profiteers in the open, show up the methods which have been employed to keep up prices, would become the next candidate for President and be elected by the vote of 100 per cent Americans. Meanwhile we must give our good money for shoes, three times at least more than before the war.

Perhaps these after war times are no different than in previous wars. It may be I am not big enough to correctly dope out the true situation. If so, apologies are in order. But I must first be shown, even if I do not live in Missouri. All of us have laid these things to the administration. Now that the Republicans have a finger in the pie, let us see what will happen. The League of Nations has the floor at present, even if most of us figure that charity begins at home. If it is the best policy to settle world troubles before those of our own, fine. I am not big enough to grasp that idea, even if the President says so.

So let us keep on making leather, let the manufacturer recognize that the laboring man is a part and parcel of his business, and let the leather worker recognize that without the man of brains and ability his chances of getting a living would indeed be slim, and thus we all would swing into prosperity with moving pictures and serf bathing ours to command.

Live Day by Day.

THE LABOR SITUATION

If the question should be asked: "What one thing would promote the welfare of Peabody more than any other?" there could be but one answer and that would be "A permanent, equitable and satisfactory adjustment of the differences between capital and labor."

Just at present the labor situation in Peabody is extremely critical, and it is unfortunate, but nevertheless true, that there is no satisfactory solution of the problem in sight. The same thing applies to the labor situation of the entire country. It is not a question of the settlement of impending disputes between capital and labor. Many of those are in process of adjustment and settlements are certain, but it is the conditions existing which pretend a recurrence of the difficulties that give cause for anxiety.

The working man finds that his income is insufficient to provide for the needs of his family, so steadily upward is the cost of living advancing, and naturally he turns to his job as the natural source of increased income. He asks for more pay. If his particular trade is strongly enough organized it demands and gets an increase. To meet the increased wage the manufacturer must increase his prices, and in due course of time this hits the consumer. The cost of living advances again and this brings another demand for more pay. And so it might go on indefinitely were it not for the unfortunate individuals who constitute 90 per cent. of the people working for a living who are not in a position to enforce demands for increases in pay. It is this 90 per cent. which is hit the hardest in the merry-go-round of income and expense.

The need of the hour is a satisfactory solution of this grave problem. It is a matter that demands and should be given the most serious consideration, both by the manufacturers and employees. It cannot go on forever. A crash is inevitable eventually and when it does come a whole lot of people are certain to suffer. It can be forestalled only by permanent, equitable and satisfactory agreement between capital and labor, and this, unfortunately, is not discernible on the horizon.

THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER

The importance of the local newspaper is gradually but steadily being realized by the American public, and way up in the front rank of those acknowledging this fact are the men representing big business. All newspapers have a common purpose—the dissemination of news of especial interest to their respective class of readers. Some specialize on one kind of news and some on another, but it is only the home paper that covers the little items of especial interest only to the community in which it circulates. It is the only one which tells its readers what the local stores are carrying and the only one which goes into the details of matters of strictly local interest. In the furtherance of local projects, its support can always be counted upon because it is interested. In fact, if it does not make the suggestion itself, it is invariably the medium through which most of the ideas for public improvements are made public. The local newspaper is a distinctly American institution; it is a help to the community and it deserves the support of every citizen who has the interest of his city or town at heart.

A MEMORIAL SUGGESTION

The suggestion of the planting of memorial trees in commemoration of the soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice in answering their country's call for service has been so generally commended that it deserves more than passing notice. Briefly, the suggestion is to plant a tree, preferably an oak, for each soldier who died in the service. Twenty-five of Peabody's sons gave their lives and there is ample room in the parks or playgrounds for a row or group of this size, which would make a lasting memorial and at the same time serve their natural purposes of collecting moisture and affording shade. It is proposed to mark each tree with a metal plate bearing the name of one of the honored soldiers. This is a matter which eventually, at least, rests with the park commissioners, but it is up to some member of the city council to place the matter before the council for discussion, and if favorably received, to make provision for the small sum of money required to carry out the suggestion.

THE COAL QUESTION

From the repeated warnings by government officials, trade organizations and representatives of the coal industry, the fact is pretty well established that a shortage of coal is certain the coming winter. The average person doesn't think of next summer's ice in the winter or next winter's coal in the summer, but with the experience of the past two winters in mind the probable coal shortage is something which should not be ignored. The price of coal is high, unreasonably high in the opinion of most of us, but so are prices of every other necessity. That does not alter the situation any and it is the duty of every house holder, to ensure anything like a fair distribution of the supply that will partly fill the wants of this community, to make a start at once on making provision for the winter. The dealers have coal now and deliveries are easier than in the winter, and it is up to the consumer to take advantage of this condition.

As to prices, there is much to be said. The excuse has been that the lack of ships compelled the transportation of most of the coal by rail at a much higher cost, but with new ships coming from the yards in a steady stream and countless others steadily being released from war transportation service, there certainly is some justice in the claim that transportation costs should be lowered.

ROUND ABOUT

Last Saturday a well known resident of State street was eating his dinner. His wife happened to look out of the window and saw a brisk fire burning in the next neighbor's yard. The grass was all afire and was fast approaching some very fine rose bushes. She called to her husband and told him. Did he respond, well, I should say he did. He didn't wait to put on rubber boots or coat, but rushed out and procured a pail of water and an old broom and the way he tackled that fire, he being an old fireman, was a surprise to all the neighbors. He saved three rose bushes out of four and it was a wonderful stop as the fire was just catching onto the concrete sidewalk. They are giving medals to soldiers who did good service over there, why not give a medal to this man who did a brave act over here.

We are unwilling to believe that any color line will be drawn by the American Legion. Our colored troops gave too fine an exhibition of their loyalty and courage to make that possible. Our white soldiers are far above so unworthy an act.—Our Dumb Animals.

I observe that the Shoe and Leather Reporter carried a story of the 10th outing of the leather manufacturers and salesmen in its issue of July 3. Accompanying the article is a picture of William Armstrong who was "chief marshal." Due mention was made of the singing of the celebrated "Clam Song" in which Billie Beggs led the choristers.

Thomas H. O'Shea, the well-known leather manufacturer, is winning laurels among the fishermen on the Danvers river, so I am told, and some of his daily catches rival those of veterans of the line and sinkers. He is enjoying a real vacation at Rial Side and getting a much deserved benefit.

Five less Turks live in Peabody as a result of the 230 train which departed for Boston last Tuesday afternoon. The Kurds were en route to their harems in Asia Minor where they may elect to remain. A gathering of over 50 of their countrymen saw them off at the depot, and I observed several of the men left behind using handkerchiefs to dry their eyes.

I am told that hay is going to waste up in West Peabody with little or no effort being made to harvest the standing crop. My informant advances no reason for the apparent neglect to reap a golden harvest.

One of the Peabody men who make the Homestead Golf Club the success it is, is Herbert V. Hunt, senior member of the firm Hunt-Rankin leather manufacturers. He is wont to traverse the links at least once most every afternoon and his scores, I am told, prove his ability to wield the sticks that drive the guttapercha pills.

It is not generally known that Councillor John Joyce of Lynn is a summer and week-end resident of Peabody where he owns a pleasing country home at the corner of Lake and Winona sts. near the Devil's Dishful. His home is the scene frequently of dinners to the city solons and officials and Mine Host Joyce makes it so pleasant for his guests that they like to come again. He is a booster for West Peabody.

Anyhow, Peabody came within less than 10 per cent of winning a German howitzer as a prize for its generous response to the Victory Liberty Loan. Portsmouth, N. H. takes the prize was a percentage of 46.6. Watertown came in second. These figures were given out yesterday by Lyman P. Osborn, chairman of the Liberty Loan drives in this city and who had reason to hope that Peabody might capture one of the Hun cannon. Perhaps Congressman Phelan can exercise a little pull over in Washington and get Peabody some kind of a German gun. Peabody's scored 36.8 per cent on per capita.

Peabody's concrete streets are proving perhaps even greater source of pleasure to Young Americas than to the adults for the hard surface makes coasting a source of amusement to the kiddies. Quite occasionally I am amused to see a cart being steered by a 10-year-old boy coasting down through Peabody Sq. in deep appreciation of the concrete. Chestnut st. sidewalks near City Hall is popular demand as a coasting place on wheels for the boys and even girls.

URGES RESUMING ROAD WORK

President Favors Earliest Possible Resumption of Highway Construction—His Letter.

(Prepared by United States Department of Agriculture.)

President Wilson favors the earliest possible resumption and extension of highway construction under the federal aid road act, and to do so as speedily as possible. I understand the necessity which existed for their contraction during the stress through which we have been passing, but that obstacle is now removed. I believe that it would be highly desirable to have an additional appropriation made available to the department of agriculture, to be used in conjunction, if possible, with any surplus state and community funds, in order that these operations may be extended. It is important not only to develop good highways throughout the country as quickly as possible, but it is also at this time especially advisable to resume and extend all such essential public works, with a view to furnishing employment for laborers who may be seeking new tasks during the period of readjustment. Knowing that the department of agriculture and the state highway authorities in each state have been carefully working out road systems and developing plans and specifications, I have no doubt that all activities in this field can be vigorously conducted through these two sets of existing agencies, acting in full accord.

The president's letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Secretary:

"I heartily agree with you that it would be in the public interest to resume in full measure the highway construction operations under the federal aid road act, and to do so as speedily as possible. I understand the necessity which existed for their contraction during the stress through which we have been passing, but that obstacle is now removed. I believe that it would be highly desirable to have an additional appropriation made available to the department of agriculture, to be used in conjunction, if possible, with any surplus state and community funds, in order that these operations may be extended. "Faithfully yours,
"WOODROW WILSON."

The following letter has been received from Secretary of War Baker: "My Dear Mr. Secretary:

"I am in full agreement with your view that there should not only be a prompt resumption of road construction under the federal aid road act, and under such further authority as may exist for separate state action, but also that additional funds should be made available to your department for the extension of such work. The war department, as you know, detailed one of its officers to serve your bureau of public roads in its consideration of highways which might have a value for military purposes, and I shall be glad to have the closest possible cooperation continue as the work enlarges.

"Cordially yours,
"NEWTON D. BAKER,
"Secretary of War."

PREPARE ROADS FOR WINTER

Ditches Along Highways Should Be Opened Before Ground Freezes—Then Use Drag.

See that all drain ditches along the road are opened before the ground freezes; then smooth, drag and pack the center of the road, and you will have provided for the essential drainage, without which we cannot expect to have good highways. All rocks should be picked out of the track before they freeze to the ground, harassing both man and beast when they pass over them during the winter months. Low places at bridges and culverts should be filled and leveled up to make winter travel more endurable. Repair holes in bridges, to guard against serious accidents by some horse getting his foot fast—perhaps breaking his leg.

BIG CARNIVAL OPENS MONDAY AT EAST END GROUNDS

Peabody's ball of fast and furious fun will be started rolling next Monday night at the World War Veterans' carnival on the East End Playgrounds and will continue until Saturday night. The California Exposition shows heralded as the cleanest carnival organization entourage, are to furnish the attractions — bands, free act, shows, riding devices, novelty booths and concessions, which go to make up a high class amusement enterprise. The men responsible for the California Exposition shows boast that they do not carry or tolerate an attraction to which the most critical could not place his stamp of approval.

This claim is verified by the members of the committee who inspected the show at Salem last week before contracting to bring them to Peabody. The entire collection of amusements combined of the California Exposition shows Midway are absolutely clean and unobjectionable in character, according to the World War Veterans' committee. Since being engaged to visit Peabody, Sam Anderson, manager of the carnival has increased the numbers of his attraction by adding a circus side-show to present which requires a tent 140 feet in length, so that the local folks are to be favored by more than was bargained for. There are ten feature attractions and rides, beside the ride of death by "Wild Bill" Tannebrink and Russell Boardman who ride faster than a mile a minute in the Devil's saucer. Prof. Fruigali's all American brass band and a free act that is proving a sensation wherever presented. Special provision have been made to brightly illuminate the grounds each evening and they are bound to have fascinating power next week, if never before. The proceeds will be used for the Soldiers' and Sailors' Fund of returned World War Veterans of Peabody.

This is one of the problems in every parish. The Rector is most glad to say that it has been a happy problem this year. Full ranks at both Sunday services and all Lenten services. An evident desire to co-operate with our choir master in raising the musical parts of the service to a high grade, to study to render the music with good expression and sweetness. LABOR ENDORSES LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Takes Its Stand in Favor of the Treaty of Peace With Germany

The Massachusetts Labor Committee for a League of Nations, which was recently organized by the State Director of the United States Employment Service, has taken its stand in favor of the treaty of peace with Germany by the unanimous passage of the following resolution:

WHEREAS, the League of Nations provides all the necessary machinery to prevent future wars—which will eliminate the awful human suffering, physical and mental agony, and the appalling loss and waste of human life, and

WHEREAS, the League of Nations provides for the establishment of an International Labor Bureau to maintain the principles of the "Magna Charta of Labor," namely: the right of all workers to organize—a living wage scale—the eight-hour day—one day of rest in seven—no child labor—equal pay for equal work for men and women—international inspection of labor conditions, etc., and

WHEREAS, we know this to be the greatest step ever taken for the health, happiness, and prosperity of the peoples of the world,

THEREFORE, be it Resolved that we endorse and earnestly urge the United States Senate to adopt the League of Nations as a part of the Treaty of Peace.

The members of this Committee are:

Edward F. McGrady, Chairman, Director of the U. S. Employment Service; Charles E. Sands, Vice-President of the Springfield C. L. U.; John P. O'Connell, Mrs. Lois B. Rantoul, Legislative Agent of Women's Trade Union League; Dennis D. Driscoll, James J. Hamilton, James Duncan, Vice-President of the A. F. of L.; Anna Weinstock, Vice-President of the Woman's Trade Union League.

When interviewed Chairman McGrady said:

"Organized Labor and the people want the League of Nations adopted, and the reactionary interests who always fought Labor are against the League. One hundred and thirty-five Central Labor Unions and about one thousand local unions have already endorsed the League of Nations and telegrams are being sent daily to Senator Lodge and Senator Walsh telling them that Labor stands squarely in favor of the League, because success of the League means success of this great international labor movement, which has had its start in the Commission on International Labor Legislation which has been sitting in connection with the Peace Conference at Paris. Failure of the League means irreparable loss for Labor and we intend to do our part to see that the Senate ratifies this Treaty with the League of Nations in it."

The Commission on International Labor Legislation represents the greatest step ever taken on behalf of the working people of the world. This commission was composed of French, British, Italian and American Labor leaders with Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, acting as chairman.

Believing that the future peace of the world demands the physical, moral and intellectual well-being of industrial wage-earners, they have framed a permanent machinery associated with that of the LEAGUE OF NATIONS to further this great end, they have provided that an International Labor Conference shall meet at least once every year. Through this conference, they will seek to make uniform among the nations of the world the legislation and the executive methods of dealing with the problems of labor.

A governing body will have its headquarters at the seat of the LEAGUE OF NATIONS, where it will serve as a clearing house for information on all subjects relating to labor, make special investigations as ordered by the conference and insure the carrying out of the terms of agreements entered into. Publicity, with a possibility of economic pressure in the background, will be used to insure the enforcement of the law.

This is the first treaty that has ever provided for a League of Nations and a Commission on International Labor Legislation.

Labor's Nine Points.

The Magna Charta of Labor, established for the world by the Peace Conference in connection with the League of Nations, is given below:

"The members of the League of Nations declare their acceptance of the following principles and engage to take all necessary steps to secure their realization in accordance with the recommendations to be made by the International Labor Conference as to their practical application:

"1. In right and in fact the labor of a human being should not be treated as merchandise or an article of commerce.

"2. Guarantee of the right of the workers to organize: Employers and workers should be allowed the right of association for all lawful purposes.

"3. A living wage: Every worker has a right to a wage adequate to maintain a reasonable standard of life having regard to the civilization of his time and country.

"4. The eight-hour day: Limitation of the hours of work in industry on the basis of eight hours a day or forty-eight hours a week, subject to an exception for countries in which climatic conditions, the imperfect development of industrial organization or other special circumstances render the industrial efficiency of the workers substantially different. The International Labor Conference will recommend a basis approximately equivalent to the above for adoption in such countries.

"5. One day of rest in every seven: A weekly rest comprising Sunday or its equivalent for all workers.

"6. No child labor: No child should be permitted to be employed in industry or commerce before the age of fourteen years in order that every child may be insured reasonable opportunities for mental and physical education. Between the years of fourteen and eighteen young persons of either sex may only be employed on work which is not harmful to their physical development and on condition that the continuation of their technical or general education is insured.

"7. Equal pay for men and women for equal work: Equal pay should be given to women and to men for work of equal value in quantity and quality.

"8. Equality of treatment for foreign workers in the lands to which they emigrate: In all matters concerning their status as workers and as members of society foreign workers lawfully admitted to any country, and their families, should be insured the same treatment as the nationals of that country.

"9. Inspection, participated in by women, of labor conditions: All countries should institute a system of inspection, in which women should take part, in order to insure the enforcement of the laws and regulations for the protection of the workers."

PEABODY NEEDS NEW PUMP

first seen the light of day over in the Eastend. He was secured for his present position from Lynn where he was in the employ of the Thomas-Tarr shoe concern. He has been on the job nearly two years now and getting results. He and Ex-Mayor Connerly of Lynn (who left City Hall a poor man) are taken for each other, although its pretty certain that the modest Ex-Mayor of Lynn would affirm his double had the shade when it comes to good looks.

Conroy is getting enough water for the daily consumption only by using the Allis-Chalmers pump 19 to 20 hours out of the 24 and if this special pet should balk or go on strike, they have had strikes at the pumping station, it is going to be a serious thing for Peabody and her manufacturing plants.

Mayor Donnell must act quickly in the matter of a pump. What the city needs installed is a pump giving a daily yield of seven to nine millions.

PATRICK F. CONROY, Engineer at Pumping Station.

PEABODY PICTURES AT STRAND

Into the rural village for the setting, and into a woman's soul for the theme, D. W. Griffith has gone for the materials of his latest picture "True Heart Susie," which will be presented at the Strand today and Saturday. He has chosen three characters, typical of domestic life in America, and familiar to the residents of every small place. One is that of a lovable, loyal girl who sacrificed herself that the man she loved might be happy. Another is a young man who goes to college, returns with comical conceit, as serious to himself as the measles. And the third is a girl who considers marriage a joke. With these persons, Mr. Griffith has arranged a story of wonderful charm, a warm, wholesome story of love won and love denied. Marie Walcamp in "The Red Glove" is another attraction for today. For sheer thrills and hair-raising stunts, this serial beats anything ever attempted. A big V comedy, "Harem and Hokus" rounds out this bill of quality and quantity.

Alice Joyce in "Find The Woman," an adaptation of one of O. Henry's famous stories will top the bill for Sunday evening. It is a captivating story and Miss Joyce does some of her finest work in the title role. Mae Marsh in "The Hidden Fires" will be the second feature for Sunday. Beginning Monday the Strand will present the pictures taken of Peabody's Welcome Home Celebration. These views are 1000 feet in length and show everything that took place on that never-to-be-forgotten day. Those who know have pronounced it one of the best pictures of its kind ever filmed, the photography being splendid, every face standing out perfectly. Particularly good are the scenes of the parade and the Grand Army men. This picture will be shown for four days in order that all may have an opportunity to see themselves as others see them.

Henry Walthall in "False Faces" will be the special dramatic attraction for Monday and Tuesday. This is an adaption of Louis Joseph Vance's story that ran serially in the Saturday Evening Post. It concerns the further adventures of the master-crackman known as the Lone Wolf. In speaking of this picture the New York Sun, one of the most conservative newspapers in the country, has this to say, "A rattling thriller, it fulfills all the promise in its mysterious title and for sensational fights, feats and escapes has never been equalled." A Fox-Sunshine comedy, "The Lady Bellhop's Secret" will also be shown Monday and Tuesday.

Wallace Reid in "You're Fired" will be the feature Wednesday and Thursday in addition to pictures of the Welcome Home Celebration.

Activities of the CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Plans are being made to hold an outing of the Chamber at an early date. A committee will be appointed to arrange for the outing, and this should be one of the biggest events of the year.

A committee of merchants, consisting of William A. Shea, James Bresnahan, James Lawrence, Harry Whidden, and Roger Smith, was appointed to formulate plans for increased activities in retail line. The first act of this committee was to ask all stores to close one hour Thursday, July 10, during George H. Jacobs' funeral, and practically every store was closed to pay respect to one of the first merchants in Peabody. Appropriate cards were furnished the merchants by the Chamber, stating reason store was closed. The merchants committee will meet Friday at 4.30 to discuss various questions pertaining to retail trade. This meeting is open to all merchants of Peabody.

A civic improvement committee, consisting of Louis P. P. Osborne, C. C. Hills, and P. H. O'Connor, was appointed to assist the city administration in planning for the improvement of the city.

Judge William H. Fay and the Secretary attended a hearing of the Bay State Railway Co. regarding an extension of service on the South Peabody line to Lynnfield. This hearing was held at the request of the citizens of Lynnfield, who had several representatives present. No action was taken by the trustees, but they promised to make investigation and see if service could be extended as requested.

On Referendum No. 28, submitted by the Chamber of Commerce, U. S. A., a vote was cast in favor of the following questions:

1. The committee recommends adherence to the policy of corporate ownership and operation, with comprehensive regulation.

2. The committee recommends return of roads to corporate operation as soon as remedial legislation can be enacted.

3. The committee recommends adherence to the period of federal control as now fixed unless and until impossibility of remedial legislation in this period clearly appears.

4. The committee recommends permission for consolidation in the public interest, with prior approval by government authority, in a limited number of strong competing systems.

5. The committee recommends a requirement that railroad companies engaging in interstate commerce become federal corporations, with rights of taxation and police regulation reserved for states.

6. The committee recommends federal regulation of capital expenditures and security issues of railroads engaged in interstate commerce, with provision for notice and hearing for state authorities.

7. The committee recommends federal regulation of interstate rates affecting interstate commerce.

And opposed to the following:

8. The committee recommends a statutory rule providing that rates in each tariff section shall yield an adequate return on a fair value of the property as determined by public authority.

9. The committee recommends payment into a fund of a share of the excess earned by any railroad system under application of the above statutory rule over an equitable minimum return upon fair value of property, this fund to be used as Congress directs for strengthening general railroad credit and increasing general railroad efficiency.

10. The committee recommends a federal transportation board to promote development of a national system of rail, water, and highway transportation and articulation of all transportation facilities.

The Chamber has a small pamphlet illustrating the corn-bore. Any persons interested can secure copies by calling at the Chamber offices.

The Transportation Committee of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce announces that it is in receipt of definite information to the effect that the Interstate Commerce Commission has postponed the effective date of its order in the Bill of Lading case (Docket 4844) from August 8 to September 8.

juries caused by alleged defect in Carlton st. was filed by Alfred C. Somes and referred to the claims committee.

The Council on motion of Councilor Ryan voted to have the street oiling and sprinkling taken from the general tax levy.

Councillor Hogan took a fling at the Mayor last night when he declared that not $200 had been spent on streets in the Eastend since Peabody became a city. This was his lead in argument for having Tremont st. rebuilt to the Salem line. One of the Councillors was for "grabbing" all of the income tax return money for Tremont st. Councilor Sullivan also slapped the Mayor for building streets he had not planned to this year. The latter Solon also got in a motion to have the Mayor present the Council data on the water situation up to and including July 17.

Another resolve from Councilor Sullivan was for memorial trees for Peabody's dead soldiers.

A.C.L. Plays G. E.'s Here Saturday

Another big game is assured the Peabody baseball fans tomorrow at Emerson Park when the A. C. L. takes on the General Electric of Lynn, one of the fastest semi-pro teams in the state. Manager Jack Quinlan of the A. C. L. will make one change in his lineup, playing Drummond at the third sack. This boy is a second Harry Lord at the hot corner and his hitting is sure to be a feature of the big game.

Defeating the smart United Shoe team last Saturday gave the A. C. L. just the impetus it needed to gain recognition in county championship ball and the fans who want to see a live ball club in Peabody should come out strong tomorrow to pull for the home team.

Fitzpatrick, with all of the kinks out of his thousand dollar arm, promises to deliver a brand of slabwork tomorrow that will be pleasing to behold and Capt. Urban may be depended on behind the platter to get the best that Fitz has for the big fight. The G. E. team is touted as county champions already and certain it is they must be reckoned with according to their lineup.

The game gets away sharp at 3.15.

Hint Plot To Kill New High School

through influence that a political reward will be handed out.

One of the architects with an enviable reputation who has submitted plans to the school committee was in this city this week anxious to know exactly if there was an truth in the story told him that only one architect had any chance to get recognition in Peabody.

From some of the members of the school committee to whom he told his story he learned that no one architect was picked nor would any be, if at all, until after the meeting tonight when the school committee confers with Expert Kingsley of the State Board of Education who is to give advice on the needs of Peabody's high school question.

Members of the City Council, interviewed by the Enterprise, declare they know nothing of any threat to force the hand of the school committee. Mayor Donnell, chairman ex officio of the school board, likewise declared to the Enterprise that he knew of no "plot" to steal the contract for any one architect. He thinks the architects having a chance now are two in number and he admits that he prefers the plans submitted by a certain architect of whom Peabody has heard before.

Salem and Marblehead citizens are said to be anxious to line up Peabody support for this particular architect. Mayor Donnell was called on some days ago by the son of a former Somerville Mayor seeking to get the Donnell endorsement for a certain Boston architect who is associated with a Salem bidder. Mayor Donnell frankly told his caller that his architect had no chance to get recognition

The terms of the city charter give an of the power to the school committee, which body must by a majority vote approve of the hiring of an architect and awarding of a contract to a builder.

Mayor Donnell says he doesn't propose to go before the Council and ask for an appropriation for the proposed school unless he is satisfied the city is going to get the most for the money and that the plans are the best submitted.

Meanwhile Philip Bushby declares he'll never surrender his Central st. property to the city to make room for the school.

Peabody Has Spent $500,000 In Improvements Since Jan. 1917

The city of Peabody, during the past three years, has expended over half a million dollars in permanent public improvements, exclusive of the $225,000 which has been appropriated and bonded for the construction of additional new street surfacing.

The bulk of this expenditure has gone into the building of roads and granolithic sidewalks which will last for years to come, and which will require very little outlay in the shape of upkeep.

That all this could be done out of the current tax levy is something that amazes the officials of other cities, with the maintenance of an extremely low tax rate taken into consideration. It seems incredible to them that upwards of $500,000 could thus be expended in this comparatively short space of time without interfering with the ordinary departmental work or cutting down on current running expenses.

But the fact remains that it has been done, and without affecting the conduct of the city's business. What is more, the results speak for themselves. The good roads are here, together with the walks, and more are coming and they are proving one of the best advertisements of Peabody's progressiveness that the most loyal citizen could wish for. To Mayor Donnell more than any other man is due the credit for this remarkable achievement, and it will be a lasting tribute to his efficiency as a chief executive.

BONFIRE STACK WAITS TORCH

Peabody's celebration of Independence Day will be ushered in at midnight by the Night Before bonfire in the Eastend when a stack nearly 100 feet high will be licked up by the flames while thousands swarm the area to behold the spectacle.

A band concert will precede the bonfire and a midway gayly illuminated will attract the crowds to the Eastend playground. It's going to be a big time over in the Eastend and the celebration will not be concluded until well into the evening of the national holiday.

Councillor Dennis P. Hogan, the man who has done yeoman work to secure the boxes and barrels for the big stack, will push the electrical button to ignite the flames. Some of the Councillors will attend the bonfire. Mayor Donnell is to spend the week-end in Maine.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Report has it that the assessors have a few trump cards to play in the final decision as to the tax rate. By this it is not intended to give the impression that there is any friction between their office and that of the mayor. That the tax rate will be under $17 is the word of one prominent official in city hall.

City Librarian John E. Keefe attended the recent convention of librarians held at Southboro, Mass.

Mayor Donnell has decided that it is a tough game being the head of the municipal garage, but that fact doesn't do away with the chronic smile which Supt. Sexton wears daily. He didn't lose the smile through the thick of the recent battle.

Financial reward for the hire of firemen and policemen go hand in hand, so affirms the Mayor, whose statement last week showed him in favor of granting the same kind of an increase to each department.

Mayor Donnell's friends advised him to fix a tax rate of $18 the first year of his office. He felt, however, that a big reduction from the town tax of 1916 was in order and give the city new streets as well. It's a fact that the big things Mayor Donnell has done outshines the failures.

Assistant city engineer Roger MacDonald will resume his former labors on July 15. Engineer Norman V. Crane, who is now holding the position, may be retained in the employ of the city. With so much street work under contract it is felt that his services can well be used.

With little or no money available for needed supplies, the Park Commission having in charge the playgrounds throughout the city are in anything but a happy frame of mind. Anxious to make improvements and lend an impetus to the playground tracts this summer, the commission had hopes of securing money with which to buy new apparatus. Lloyd G. Davies who is the supervisor hopes, however, to meet with the hearty support of the instructors and a worth while summer is anticipated in this important work.

Work of scarifying Aborn st. from Washington started yesterday by Simpson Bros. who will lay a concrete pavement from Washington st.

Jockey Races For Fourth At Rockdale Park

July Fourth will be a big day at Rockdale Park with jockey racing on the cards as one of the new features. Some excellent running races are thus assured and the holiday crowd is sure to find an attractive program of entries. The jockey races will be interspersed with the regular trotting exhibition races.

The great Chevalo, the man who dares death by his looping the loop on a bicycle after a descent of 40 feet, will also thrill the crowd again.

Manager Cann has left nothing undone to insure a big holiday bill for the day's celebration. To take care of the devotees of the roped arena contest at Toledo, he has arranged for a special wire service to give the fight returns to the spectators at the park. Over $200 in prizes is up for the horse racing.

Peabody Club

Sunday at Ipswich Bluffs was some success as the 80 members who attended enjoyed every minute of the day.

A baseball game was held in the morning between teams selected by Chester Bent and T. Hadley Sawyer, the latter winning by 21 to 8, according to the score keepers and the umpiring of Walter Williams and His Honor Mayor Donnell, was of high order, not withstanding the several arguments that took place.

"Bunny" Knapp made a home run for the first time in his baseball experience. T. Hadley hit the ball so hard that the game was held up several minutes each time before the

to St. John's Square. A break will come in the work then and the contractors return to Crowninshield st. to complete that contract.

The man who will be the next Mayor of Peabody hasn't yet announced his hat in the ring and the would-be pols are doing their best to keep his name in the background. This man will announce himself at the right time and he is sure to have the support of citizens who put self honor and loyalty above the petty jealousies of corrupt politicians. There may be interesting reading for the public when the next Mayoralty contest gets into swing for it is amusing to hear some aspirants' names whispered. The city will need a man of depth, and above all, character, to steer Peabody's ship of state on the retirement of the present Mayor.

City Hall will be closed all day Saturday.

Chief Grady is making the junkies toe the mark. He insists on all getting their new number plates promptly and his policemen are making them live up to their license.

NO CONTEST FOR McVANN.

Representative James E. McVann will doubtless be unopposed for the Republican nomination for representative, and it is understood that Thomas J. Lyons is not averse to becoming the Democratic standard bearer.

As It Seemed to Her.

A small daughter who appeared in the upper hall on the night her mother was giving a dinner party happened in time to catch a glimpse of a handsome woman in a décolleté gown. The next morning the first question she asked was: "Who was the pretty lady in the skirt?"

Activities of the CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The "Made in Peabody" demonstration, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, a brief mention of which was made last week, is rapidly assuming shape and an exhibit of local manufactured products that is bound to attract wide-spread attention in certain to result.

Briefly, the idea is to place before the citizens of Peabody, through the medium of the store windows, a series of practical illustrations of the variety of products manufactured within the city limits. The merchants have displayed a commendable spirit of cooperation and the promise of the use of some 40 odd store windows in which to display the exhibits has already been secured. Some of the more enthusiastic merchants offered the use of both their show windows, but the original idea of one window each was adhered to. In addition, a general exhibit is planned at the Chamber headquarters in the new court building and the vacant store adjoining.

The exact date of the demonstration has not yet been fixed, but it will be either the last week in July or the first week in August. It is probable that it will be inaugurated on Thursday, July 30, and run through until the following Thursday.

Manufacturers to whom the idea has been broached looked upon it with favor, and there will be no lack of co-operation on their part. It is a fact not generally known that in the city of Peabody there are some 70 different industries. Some of these are of a type that precludes their being included in this particular exhibit, confined as it is to the limitations of the store windows, but there are a sufficient number to assure a most interesting and convincing display.

The predominating feature, of course, will be the leather and allied interests, representing the principal industry of the city, but some surprises are in store for the people in the nature of certain exhibits with which they are less familiar.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce at a recent meeting endorsed the plan of re-organization of the Department of Agriculture as adopted at Worcester, Mass., June 4. This plan had been referred to a special committee and they had recommended the endorsement of this plan. Under this plan the Department of Agriculture should administer all the laws relating to agriculture and related activities. This should include the work now done by the State Department of Agriculture, the State Forester, the State Forest Commission, Department of Animal Industry, and the administration of the feed and fertilizer laws, with the exception of the analytical work which should continue to be performed by the Agricultural College.

The head of the department should be a commissioner appointed by the Governor. There should also be an advisory board of six members, also appointed by the Governor, and the principal vocation of at least three should be agriculture.

The number of divisions to be created should be specified in the law.

"Doug" spent two and a half days making every minute of amusement that you get from this picture!

He's made you wait a long time for one of his pictures but now it's here!

"Doug" thought out a lot of new stunts during those six months. For instance:

He leaves the window of a flying train, climbs over the car's side to the roof, runs along the roof to the mail-coach, is swung from that car to the station by the mail conveyor like a sack of fourth-class mail, dropping onto the back of a horse that gallops madly off.

LYNN LAWYERS SAID TO FAVOR DONNELL FOR DIST. ATTORNEY

The big outstanding figure in Essex county politics just at present is Mayor S. Howard Donnell of this city, who will be called upon within a short time to make up his mind whether he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for district attorney, which is equivalent to election, this fall, or a candidate for the Republican congressional nomination in the Seventh district a year hence.

Both propositions have been put up to the mayor by influential Republican leaders and he is giving the matter careful consideration. Personally Mayor Donnell, it may be authoritatively stated, would be content to retire from politics at the end of his present term as mayor, and resume his law practice, which his official duties has seriously interfered with, but from all quarters of the county have come insistent calls that he allow his name to be used as a candidate for the district attorneyship this fall. The leaders who are urging him to make the run for this office emphasize his recognized ability in the legal profession and his general qualifications for the position, and in the knowledge of the fact that he is an energetic and forceful campaigner see in him a winner almost before he starts.

The present incumbent, District Attorney Henry G. Wells, is a resident of Haverhill, and may be presumed to be able to win the support of the northern end of the county for renomination. The backing of the southern end of the county, however, of which Lynn is the great factor, and of the Cape district, would completely overwhelm the other end of the county, and it is this backing that is being assured by the promoters of the Peabody man's candidacy.

Two other factors would have to be considered in this survey of the situation in the persons of Assistants Daniel C. Manning of this city and Frank C. Hathaway of Lynn. In the event of Mr. Donnell winning he would be unable to reappoint Mr. Manning as first assistant, which the latter now holds, and the friends of Mr. Hathaway would be likely to demand some assurance that he would be taken care of. Mr. Manning has many friends who would be sorry to see him dropped for reasons not of his own making, and just what their attitude would be is uncertain.

But that's all in the air at present, as Mayor Donnell has been too busy to give the matter sufficient consideration for him to give an answer to the men who are urging him to consent to be a candidate.

EXPECT COMPROMISE WILL ADJUST LOCAL LABOR DISPUTES

By "ENERGY"

The all absorbing topic in the leather business today is labor conditions. With the exception of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Company, the other shops are closed until after the 4th of July, and what will happen then seems uncertain. Because the tanners are on a strike, it necessitates all others to be idle, for there is no work. There are persistent rumors that a compromise will be effected, but the whole situation hinges as to whether a closed shop will be or not to be. The Turner Tanning Machinery Company are shut down because of a strike, so in Peabody today there are several thousand workmen idle. A condition of this kind lasting for weeks would mean a big loss of wages, and the manufacturers are being called on to deliver leather and send when they are unable to do. As but one branch of the trade is affecting the whole situation, it would seem that a compromise of some kind should take place. The whole situation was summed up by one of the manufacturers when he said it mattered not what the wages were, or the hours of labor, so long as it was uniform the country over. But it is not, therefore the action that pays high wages and has short hours cannot compete with the other fellow who is able to get his manufacturing done at a lower cost.

Leather of all kinds is climbing in price. There has been so many jumps, no one dares to predict any more. Dope is a back number these times and everybody is on the sea of suspense with no rudder. Some of the wise ones predict higher prices for months to come and are playing the game accordingly. If they are in the minority their leather will be worth more than satin. The war is over apparently, a League of Nations for the peace of the world is organized, so why not get back to old conditions, at least as what is going to happen by war, and it seems to me the optimists should drive the pessimists, with the permission of the League of Nations, from the map. July first has arrived and we have entered on a new era. John Barleycorn has taken the count, but that is no reason the rest of us should follow. It would be out of place to discuss which is the better of the two, whiskey or Jamaica ginger. My experience in New York, Newark and Philadelphia would lead me to think there must be a decided change among the leather merchants of these places, for they are in the habit of combining business with pleasure.

On Saturday we are to have a real baseball game in Peabody. The United Shoe team, whose reputation is wide spread, will appear at the park. With such calibre as is behind the A. C. Lawrence team, there can be no doubt but what Peabody will be treated to first class baseball. It would be too much to expect that the first few games will be conclusive of the best results, for men no matter how high class must play together to get the inside stuff. Here's hoping the team will win, for it means much to the fans who journey to other places to get their fill of the national game. No team ever started with better backing, and it can be depended upon that Mr. Kelley will do things in baseball as he does in making leather,—the punch.

New ideas in labor saving machinery are fast taking root. When a concern who employs 250 can produce as much leather with 60 less men and women it means a big saving, and goes a long way toward solving the labor situation. The beam house has seen the first place to get busy. The days of hauling skins from soaks and dimes are about over. One operation is now taking the place of many, and in my humble opinion it is only the beginning of a new era. I have many times in this column predicted that such would be the case, and labor conditions have brought it on. Scarcity of labor has compelled the tanner to give his attention to these matters which would not have been under ordinary conditions. When the idea of liming in paddle wheels was first undertaken, most tanners prophesied it could not be done. When first tried, as in all new ideas, the skins came hard, or in other words they did not have that mellow feeling they should have. This was soon overcome and now you could not pry paddle wheel soaking and liming away with a crowbar. Later you will hear of changes in shaving and tacking. They tell you skins must be tacked to get the measurement. I believe there are other ways that will produce results. The system of drying skins from the seasoning table by means of fans has come to stay, and it is a labor saver. And so on through the list. I wish the laboring man could see what is bound to happen by these labor-saving devices being adopted. It means that 25 percent of the amount of labor is being cut, and that 25 percent of the men who work in tanneries elsewhere. And with no interest whatever pro and con, labor is gradually bringing on a condition which must react later seriously against it.

The Norwood factory of which the Morrill Leather Company is a branch, have a strike, so all the factories of this company are idle.

The approaches to the Lawrence company will soon be completed, and it will add to the efficiency of this plant. They have ploughed through mud for many moons.

"MADE IN PEABODY"

The coming store window exhibit of "Made in Peabody" products gives promise of being one of the greatest educational features ever presented in Peabody. The average citizen, asked to enumerate the local industries, would start off strong on leather, follow up with glue, tanning machinery and the bleaching of cotton cloth and then have to scratch his head and think to name a few more. It is the general practice to think of Peabody as a "tannery town" and let it go at that, but as a matter of fact there are in the vicinity of 70 separate and distinct industries carried on here, and it is primarily for the purpose of bringing this knowledge home to the citizens that the exhibit is to be held. It is easy to forget what one is told, so on this occasion the public will actually be shown, perhaps not all of the 70 varieties, but enough to carry out the purposes of the demonstration.

This is a Chamber of Commerce idea, backed up by the merchants and manufacturers, most of whom are included in its membership. The manufacturers provide the exhibits, the merchants furnish the show windows and the Chamber of Commerce undertakes the task of attending to the hundred and one details necessary to make the affair a success. The tender of at least one window in 40 odd stores has already been secured and the "big show" will be staged either the last week in July or the first week in August. Practically every merchant possessing windows available for use in giving the exhibit willingly and cheerfully tendered them for the proposed week and enthused over the idea, and if the manufacturers follow suit, as it may rightfully be assumed they will do, the success of the exhibit is assured. It will benefit the merchants and manufacturers alike, give Peabodyites something more to take pride in and enthuse over, and incidentally demonstrate that the Chamber of Commerce, which assumes the expense of carrying out the work, is a "live" organization.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

The Fourth of July this year should mean more than it ever did before to every American citizen. It not only marks the anniversary of the Independence Day of the American nation, but coming within a few days of the signing of the peace treaty, it marks a new era in the world's affairs. Freed from autocratic rule, which in some instances kept them in a state bordering upon serfdom, millions of fellow human beings are having on this Fourth their first taste of real liberty of thought and action. Many of them doubtless feel exactly as did our forefathers on that famous day when the historic Liberty bell pealed forth the news that America had thrown off the yoke of tyranny and was henceforth to be a free nation. Order cannot come out of chaos at a moment's notice, and therefore it is going to take time before those liberated peoples of Europe can feel the satisfaction that we here feel at the development of what our forefathers handed down to us. To those of other nationalities here, particularly of those who have felt the heel of oppression, let us continually show the true significance of the meaning of our Glorious Fourth.

AMERICANIZATION

There is no more important subject before the public today than that of the Americanization of the foreign born residents. This applies as much to Peabody as most places, and possibly more so than to many other municipalities, where the percentage of foreign born residents is much less. Americanization is the antidote for Bolshevism, and Bolshevism is, in the minds of many profound students of national questions, the worse menace the country has faced in recent years.

The keynote of Americanism is liberty in its broadest sense—the right to worship according to the dictates of one's conscience being one of its fundamental principles. Freedom of speech and support of a recognized government of law and order are other cardinal points of Americanism.

Americanization teaches the foreigner the duty of maintaining and fostering American institutions, than which there are none better on the face of the earth. Americanization leads to the attainment of citizenship, and citizenship gives the foreign born resident the right to participate in the selection of and be a part of the governmental machinery.
